To the Grand Trunk Railway Company it gives exclusive control of, and direct access to, a very large and important section of Ontario, abounding in agricultural, forest and mineral resources, more susceptible of and more rapidly developing than, perhaps, any other portion of Canada, and thus affords one of the most important feeders to the main line of the Grand Trunk system between Chicago and Portland.

The Midland system (by the completion of the Omemee and Peterborough line) also affords to the Grand Trunk Company, without exception, the shortest and best route between the Georgian Bay and the Atlantic coast.

To the proprietors of the Midland Railway it at once affords to their securities the safety and protection from competition that could only be secured by casting in their lot with a large and wealthy corporation like the Grand Trunk Company, and must of necessity result in largely increased earnings, more economy in working, and more efficient maintenance of the property.

The grain dealer, lumber merchant, manufacturer, and other shipper, whose success so largely depends on having cheap and efficient means of transport, is by this agreement relieved from the disadvantages incident to being located on a branch line, and practically placed on the main line of one of the most extensive and most ably managed railway systems on this continent, through which access is had to every important business centre in the country.

The favour by which the agreement was received by the investing public was evidenced by the prompt purchase of the consolidated bonds of the Company, that were placed on the market to retire the preference bonds of the Midland Division, and to discharge the floating liabilities of the Company.

There have been sold during the year £421,600 of consolidated mortgage bonds, £71,600 of which were in respect of $320,000 Nipissing bonds, £150,000 in respect of preference bonds of the Midland section, and £200,000 for general purposes. The total issued of the bonds of the consolidated Company is now £1,123,600. The result of this sale has been to free the Company from floating debt, carried in some cases at high rates of interest, and to establish a market for its securities.

The Directors have much satisfaction in reporting that during the past year the respective heads of departments, officers, agents and employees have discharged the duties entrusted to them in an efficient and highly satisfactory manner.

On behalf of the board,

GEO. A. COX,
President.

Mr. Cox, in moving the adoption of the report, said that the report that had just been read, with the annexed statements, auditors' certificates, etc., so fully explained the operations of the year that any lengthened remarks would necessarily be but a repetition of what the report itself contained. There was one subject, however, of special interest to the proprietors, which he desired briefly to refer to, and that was the agreement entered into during the past year with the Grand Trunk Railway Company. It was not only an agreement was consummated so unmistakably in the interest of all the contracting parties. He congratulated the Grand Trunk Company on the acquisition of a property that added so much to the importance and value of their system, and congratulated the proprietors of the Midland Company on the very satisfactory position in which the property and securities of the Company were placed by the arrangement that had been made. He congratulated the various shippers along the line on the more advantageous and satisfactory position in which they would be placed by being in direct connection with such an important and extensive system as the Grand Trunk Railway, and in retiring from the presidency and general management of the line, he was very much gratified to know that the position he had occupied for the last six years would be filled by Mr. Hickson, the General Manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, a gentleman in whose hands the interests of the Company would be so ably and honorably protected. In conclusion he begged to move the adoption of the report.

Mr. Wm. Gooderham, Vice-President, in seconding the adoption of the report, said it was a document of which they had reason to be proud. The interests of all had been looked after, especially those of the holders of securities. He was glad to have been associated with Mr. Cox and his fellow-directors. He fully endorsed Mr. Cox's praise of the efficiency of the staff of officials, who were to be complimented on handing over the road in such good shape. He bespoke for the consolidated Midland a grand future.

The report was adopted.

THANKS.

Mr. Bell, Q. C., moved, seconded by Mr. Clarkton, That the thanks of the shareholders be given the President and executive officers for the efficient and skillful manner in which they had severally discharged their duties. Carried unanimously.

Mr. Bell moved, seconded by Mr. Clarkton, That this meeting desires to express its sincere thanks to the directors for the skill, labour and attention which they have given in the past to the business of the company.

Mr. F. W. Henshaw thought a gentleman of Mr. Bell's legal erudition and abilities might have put the matter more strongly in praise of the directors, especially the President, whose services it did not fully enough recognize. The present high position of the Midland was largely due to his personal efforts.

Mr. Bell said to praise Mr. Cox in this connection, in detail, would be only to repeat what everybody knew. He fully endorsed all Mr. Henshaw had said.

Mr. R. Jaffray as one of the oldest directors, desired to say, on Mr. Cox,s retirement from the active management of the road, that, his constant and untiring labours were worthy of all praise. The chief point in his management was the popularity he had acquired in dealing with the interests of the railway and the general public. He had successfully conciliated the latter on a most complicated and difficult line to manage. There were few men besides him, who would at the same time have pleased the public and promoted the interests of the railway. It could not have been done better by any body else than Mr. Cox.

Mr. A. White, Traffic Manager desired also to thank Mr. Cox for the consideration with which he had treated officials. In a railway experience of 27 years he had served 12 managers, and he had never experienced and witnessed more courteous kindness and consideration than he and his brother officials had received at the hands of Mr. Cox. The directions the officials had received from him were that it was their first duty to please the public, the next to secure dividends for the company, and he hoped they had been successful in executing these instructions. His bearing towards officers and subordinates was most friendly and they all felt in the retirement of Mr. Cox they were losing a great friend.

Mr. Cox said it was a satisfaction to hear such kind and complimentary remarks from Mr. White, speaking for himself and the officials.

NEW BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Mr. Cox said it was his unpleasant duty to announce the decision of Messrs. Kelso and Vinden, not to be candidates for re-election as directors.

The ballot then proceeded, Mr. White and Macklin acting as scrutineers. They reported the following unaninously chosen:—Messrs. Joseph Hickson, (vice Mr. Kelso,) Geo. A. Cox, W. Gooderham, J. R. Dundas, R. Jaffray, J. D. Edgar, J. M. Ferris, F. W. Henshaw, H. P. Dwight, and Col. A. T. H. Williams, (vice Mr. Vinden.) Mr. Hugh O'Leary, Lindsay, and Ald. Steiner, Toronto, are the municipal representatives on the Board.

OFFICERS.

At a meeting of the Directors the following officers were elected:—Mr. Joseph Hickson, President and General Manager, Messrs. Geo. A. Cox and Wm. Gooderham, vice presidents.

The following is the TRAFFIC REPORT.

TRAFFIC MANAGER'S OFFICE
Peterborough, March 17th, 1884.

To the President and Directors of the Midland Railway of Canada:—

GENTLEMEN,—Herewith I beg to hand you classified statement of earnings for the Midland Railway for the year ending December 31st, 1883, shewing gross earnings of $1,108,729.92 as compared with $1,067,485.43 for the corresponding period of 1882, being an increase of $39,244.49.

For the first three months of the year the line suffered very severely from snow storms, which it is estimated curtailed its earnings fully $60,000.00.

During 1883 a portion of the Locomotive power and cars of the Company were occupied in the construction of the Wick Line, the Omemee and Peterborough Link, together with the extension at Lindsay, in consequence of which it was unable to fully meet the traffic requirements of its customers which further diminished the traffic.

The lumber trade of the country was more or less depressed, throughout the year. There was also a large shortage in the quantity of cereals harvested in 1883 as compared with 1882.

Iron ore business was very seriously depressed, so much so that shipments ceased altogether towards the end of the year, but there are very large quantities of this commodity on the line waiting a revival in trade.

The through Grain trade shews a falling off of about $4,000.00 which is explained by the fact that arrangements were made under which the through trade of the Northern Railway which had hitherto been shipped by water from Toronto should be sent via the rails of the Grand Trunk Railway from Toronto to points of destination, and that the entire through rail and water grain trade of the three companies, viz., the Grand Trunk via Sarnia, the Northern via Collingwood, and the Midland via Midland, should be divided up equally. This practically threw upon the G. T. R. system an additional two million bushels of grain, for which vessels and the other facilities necessary to handle such a large increase in one year could not be obtained to an extent that would have afforded the M. R. an increase over 1882, but the G. T. R. have now got this business organized, and better results can be expected in the future.

There are prospects for the development of an extensive trade in marble at Bridgewater, which will give a prosperous business to that section of the line.

Passenger earnings show an increase of $31,781.29 which was largely derived from the new portions of the road opened for travel, but sufficient time has not yet elapsed to enable the company to fully develop the resources of these new sections.

I remain, Gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant,
A. WHITE,
Traffic Manager.

ANOTHER SUSCEPTIBLE FEMALE SWINDLED—THE BOGUS BARONET BETRAYS AN HEIRESS—THE GAY DECEIVER'S CONQUESTS AND CROOKEDNESS.

Last March a "reduced English nobleman," Sir Charles Everard Neiveille, engaged as coachman with Mr. C. J. Whitney, a wealthy Detroit gentleman. The latter had a charming daughter, Lilian, who seems to have been more susceptible-hearted than sound-headed, for she fell in love with her father's aristocratic whip, and the result was an elopement and a marriage on the second of May last, at Toledo. On learning of his daughter's flight the father chartered a special train, and the coming couple were overtaken at Wyandotte, where the baronet was arrested and the daughter rescued. In the search for evidence to prosecute the abductor of Miss Whitney, it speedily transpired that the British "baronet" and well known in Peterborough, were the same person. For ten years this gentleman has made this town his head-quarters. His first appearance here was about ten years ago, when with a great flourish he leased the Dr. Bell farm, North Monaghan, with the intention of astonishing the natives in the matter of agriculture. His household, consisted of himself, his wife Jerusha, two children, and his father and mother. It is needless to say that he did nothing at farming, but contrived to and before long the Sheriff converted the horses, buggies, furniture, etc., he had bought on time, into the little cash they then represented. After that he and his wife went to peddling books, and for a long time the place knew them no more. Since that time he has made brief returns to town, which he made his home, his father and mother still living here. About four years ago Newbold returned to town in a new role, that of theatrical manager, organizing a company called "Proctor's Revellers," and put on the boards a play entitled,

GEORGE NEWBOLD,

GET DEEPLY IN DEBT,

"CONVICT LIFE IN CANADA,"

the plot probably founded on personal experience. He paid for his printing, because payment in advance was insisted on, but the bill-poster, Mr. E. C. Hill, still mourns an unpaid bill of $4. The troupe went on a tour in the rural districts, and soon went to pieces; but Newbold still kept up the the play, appearing in the cast as a six-monther in Belleville jail, for obtaining goods under false pretenses. In this interval he had so won the heart of the jailor's wife that she eloped with him, and the pair fled to the States. Newbold still went on marrying, first a Schenectady girl, and shortly afterwards a Miss Rolle, of Newark, New Jersey. Not long afterward he returned to Peterborough, bringing with him another "wife." In spite of this fact, the wife then living here with her husband's parents, took George again to her heart, and the two women amicably pooled their interest in him, forming a joint-stock company, with shares of about 120 pounds each in George Newbold. The then went peddling jewelry, or something similar, using in his business livery horses, for the hire of which a local dealer was let in for something like $85. The two women and their husband shortly left town and went west. The wife who lived in Peterborough longest, and who calls herself Mrs. Stewart or Smith, is now in Detroit. She has, since the arrest of Newbold, the British baronet, concluded to tell all she knows about him. She says his real name is George Robert Newbold, son of a retired British army officer now living in Peterborough. From early years he has been inclined to be fast. In 1862, at the age of 19, he married Miss Jerusha Wood, at Kingston, Ont., under the name of Charles K. Stewart. Tiring of her soon, he went to the States and got a divorce. Between that time and 1875 she doesn't know what his movements were, but November 27th of that year he married her, and up to this time she has called herself Mrs. Smith. Newbold still styled himself Stewart, and claimed to have been legally divorced. After the second marriage the parties lived together happily until June, 1876, when Newbold went to Campbellford, where he married Mary Adelaide Nicholls, a maiden lady aged 35, the only daughter of a wealthy farmer. These facts were unknown to his second wife for some time, but when the discovery was made Miss Nicholls became a raving maniac and died in an insane asylum. Newbold was tried and convicted of bigamy, and sentenced to Kingston penitentiary. During that time Mrs. "Smith," who declines to give her maiden name, claims to have frequently visited him and ministered to his wants. At the expiration of his sentence he returned to his father's house, Peterborough, where his second wife had been living, and they resumed conjugal relations. After living there six months he went to Belleville, and was arrested for personating a Government officer. For that he was sent to prison six months. While there he won the affections of Mrs. Myers, the jailer's wife, and at the expiration of his sentence, they went to Brockville and registered at the St. Lawrence Hall as Hon. Geo Percy and wife. Them they remained six weeks, until the woman's daughter found out where she was. She had passed her 45th year, but declared she would not leave her new hope. They then went to Morristown, N.Y., where Mrs. Smith found them. Mrs. Myers returned to her husband, and Mrs. Smith went back to Peterborough.

NOMADIC BRIGHAM YOUNG

ALL TRACE IS LOST,

she says, of Newbold for the next two years; then he wrote from Schenectady, N.Y., begging his second wife's forgiveness, expressing deep contrition for the wrong he had done. At that time he was living with Miss Anna Henry, whom he had married, and went under the name of John H. Percy. Mrs. Smith was still as trusting as ever, and told her recreant lord to return. He did. In a short time he went to Toronto and picked up a girl named Nellie ——, the other name his wife doesn't remember. Before he had time to marry her, Mrs. Smith heard of it, and went to Toronto in time to prevent it. Newbold then went back to Schenectady and stayed there till last July, when he returned to Peterborough, and in November went to Detroit. The name Neveille was assumed in Detroit. Mrs. Smith says she knew nothing of it until her arrival. He said if his real name were known it would injure him, and he wanted Mrs. Smith to take the same name and pass as his sister. The Newark marriage Mrs. Smith never heard of until she saw mention made of it in the papers. She thinks while he was in Schenectady he may have married several women, as he seemed to be "possessed" on the subject of marriage, and had a way about him that attracted women. In concluding, Mrs. Smith solemnly declared that she was the lawful wife of George Robert Newbold, and was never divorced. Jerusha Wood, Mary Adelaide Nichols, Mrs. Myers, Anna Henry, Nellie ——, Selina Row, Miss Whitney and herself, have all felt the wicked power possessed by Newbold, and for society's sake his legal wife wishes he may be placed where he can no longer dupe innocent women.

Death by Accident.

Sudden Death of an Ennismore Young Man.

On Monday a very large number of the late neighbors and friends of Michael Crough, jr., assembled at the Midland Station here to meet his body which came in by the noon express. Deceased was killed suddenly at Otsego Lake, Otsego county, Michigan, at 7 o'clock on Thursday morning, May 8th. He was engaged with others in loading sawlogs on a railway car. Tackle operated by a horse was used for raising the log. It had been raised by this means as far as the tackle would reach, when poor Michael Crough and others attempted to finish the work with their cant hooks. But before they could turn their hooks, the log rolled back and falling on the young man, killed him. Michael Carew a companion, also of Ennismore, who was near at hand says that the unfortunate young man did not live half a minute after the log fell on him. Messrs. Michael Carew and John Stockdale accompanied the body home. The scene at the station on the arrival of the corpse was very affecting. The agonizing grief of the sister, was heartrending and beyond control. She uttered piercing cries and kept calling on her "dead darling," while the hundreds of her neighbours who stood by were melted to sympathic tears. The body was placed in Mr. M. McFadden's hearse and taken to St. Peter's cathedral, where the funeral rites of the church were administered and the body afterwards taken for burial in Ennismore. The deceased young man was 22 years of age, a son of Mr. Michael Crough, sr., and a nephew of Patrick Crough, Esq., reeve of Ennismore. The high respect in which he was held and the neighbourly sympathy elicted by the awfully sudden nature of his death, were shown by the very large number of his former neighbors who came so far to pay the last tribute of respect to his remains.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 15, 1884.

Life of Chinese Gordon.

Last week we sketched the life of this famous soldier up to the period when he was requested to undertake the administration of the Soudan, and to carry out the work so successfuly inaugurated by his predecessor Sir Samuel Baker. This was in Feb. 1874.

In this portion of Africa the slave trade had assumed gigantic proportions and it was owing to the lively interest taken in the matter by the Prince of Wales, who visited Egypt in 1869, that Baker was appointed by the Khedive to suppress the slave trade, if possible, and to introduce a regular system of commerce.

Soudan is best known to us by its former name, Nigritia, or the country of the Blacks. The Egyptian Soudan with which Gordon had first to deal, is not less than seventeen hundred miles in length by about seven hundred in width, embracing a territory as large as Europe, excluding Russia, and extending from the Mediterranean to the Equator.

In the Soudan proper, Gordon's duty was to establish military posts along the Nile from Khartoum to the Lakes; to put together a steamer on Lake Nyanza, and to do all in his power to quell the slave trade. The first two projects he carried out fully, and he at least did something to lessen the terrible evils of slavery.

For three years he laboured energetically in an extremely unhealthy climate, having all the time to encounter terrible opposition from the slave dealers. Nearly all his European followers were ill, died, or were sent home invalided, while he alone seemed to brave all vicissitudes and dangers. But even in this country his rule was greatly extended, due to the estimate which had been formed of his zeal and integrity.

He had scarcely reached England, when the Khedive, Ismail Pasha, strove to secure his assistance again, this time as governor-general of the Soudan, Dartour, and the provinces of the Equator, with full civil and military powers.

His duties were to rule the country, to suppress slavery and to improve the means of communication. Greatly thwarted at head-quarters and oppressed by the difficulties which beset him, continually opposed by rebels, and obliged to journey thousands of miles on camels over dreary deserts, while he was subjected to constant attacks, the governor's position was no enviable one.

He found out too that to crush the slave trade was well nigh impossible. One-third of the population of Darfour had been carried into slavery. He had himself caught over 2,000 in nine months and he estimates that not more than one-fifth of the caravans had been overhauled. He made a calculation of the loss of life in Darfour for four years ending in 1879. He says "it comes to 16,000 Egyptians, and some 50,000 Natives. Add to this the loss of life on the Bahr Gazelle, some 15,000 and you will have a grand total of 81,000; and this exclusive of the slave trade, which one may put down for these years at from 80,000 to 100,000."

Notwithstanding the splendid efforts of Sir Samuel Baker and the heroic struggles of Colonel Gordon for five long years, the Augean stable, it must be confessed, still remained uncleansed. Though Gordon checked and supressed it when there, he felt assured the desolating scourge would break out with even greater force on his withdrawal. And his prediction was fully verified. After the deposition of the Khedive Ismail, in 1879, Gordon left the Soudan. His work against the slave-traders was subsequently carried on by his deputies and a fair measure of success obtained. On the death of the most active of these officers, Gessi Pasha, in 1881, the slave-traders unfortunately had it all their own way. The result we all know is the revolt headed by the false prophet, El Mahdi.

We trust the opportune despatch of General Gordon to the country where he is both revered and feared will yet bring about a more healthy state of affairs in the Soudan. The British Government deserve credit for so quickly securing the services of the best available man. The country is watching with feelings of intense interest, the career of this simple-hearted soldier who goes forth armed only with the prestige of his former beneficent rule and strong in the strength of the righteous cause to which he has bestowed his best powers of simple honesty, disinterestedness, unswerving faith, energy and the greatest love of humanity.

Some Eloquent Figures.

We extract from the Chicago Tribune, an article dealing with some figures eloquently showing the injurious effect of a protection tariff upon the masses, while it may be of benefit to the favored few—the pampered monopolists—and "bloated capitalists."—:

"Some protectionists have gone so far as to claim that Bismarck's high tariff, which took effect at the end of 1880, had added greatly to the prosperity of the German people, by increasing the cost of goods to consumers. The test of the truth of this assertion that high-tariff taxes improve the material condition of the masses is found in the emigration tables. When times are good and people prosperous in Germany they are content to stay at home. When times are bad and laboring men find it difficult to make a living or "get on in the world" they invariably seek relief by immigration to some country where the prospect of making a living is better.

"The new policy, as we said, was adopted in 1880. One year later the German Chambers of Commerce reported as follows on the results of a year's experience (Economist Dec. 10, 1881):

"'The high duties have greatly enhanced the cost of the necessaries of life, while instead of wages raising, as was predicted, they have either remained stationary or declined, and the condition of the German workman has consequently materially deteriorated. Nor has the trade of Germany benefited any more than the workman by the new policy. A small number of large industries and joint-stock companies may have derived some advantage from the new duties, but in the great majority of trades the tariff has proved not a protection but a burden; the Germans have found that import duties fall upon the consumers and not upon the foreign sellers.'

"Now let us see what the emigration tables show: We give the emigration from Germany into the United States just as it stands in the Statistical Abstract for 1883 (page 131). Here are the figures from 1874 to 1883, inclusive:

1874	87,291	Old low tariff.
1875	47,769
1876	31,937
1877	29,398
1878	29,315
1879	34,922
1880	84,536
1881	210,485	New high tariff.
1883	194,786

"Now observe that up to the time Germany adopted her new high tariff her emigration to the United States never once, in these last twelve years, exceeded 90,000. But the very first year of higher protection sent her emigration to us above 200,000, and it still remains about the same.

"Somehow the Germans themselves fail to appreciate the wonderful prosperity which looks so grand when seen from this distance through protectionist glasses, and the deluded creatures are packing up their duds as fast as they can and running away from it. The only other country from which there is such an unusual exodus is Canada, and, strange to say, it began at the same time and in the same suspicious coincidence with a great increase in the protective tariff. In the twelve years under consideration Canada never lost over 40,000 emigrants to the United States until she adopted a high tariff in 1879, and the very next year the migration jumped from 31,000 to 99,000, the next year to 125,000, and then fell to 98,000, and then to 70,000. More than one-third of the Canadians—yes, 40 per cent. of the Canadians now living in the United States—came since the Dominion Government adopted our protection folly in 1879. Here is a "group of facts" worth considering."

The Weak and the Impure

The merry little mountain brook, as it lightly dances over the rocks and sparkles in the sunshine on its way down to the river, is pure and clean, It is active; therefore, it is healthy. It is vigorous; therefore, it resists impurity.

But the sluggish pool, where the current is not strong enough to keep the water in motion, is stagnant and foul. Dirt and rubbish are thrown into it, and stay there. Impurities and vile odors make it a breeder of disease and an object to be avoided.

When the blood is strong and rich and red, and vigorously courses its accustomed rounds through arteries and veins, the system is hearty and healthy.

When the blood is thin and poor and weak, impurities and defilements creep into it, and it has no strength to cast them out. Then the system runs down.

Shaker Blood Syrup purifies and enriches the Blood; curing Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood diseases of every description.

VAGARIES OF A DESCEASED MILLIONAIRE.

The will of the late William King was offered for probate last Saturday and affords another instance of the vagaries of millionaire testators. Mr. King was for years the proprietor of London's most unique and extensive curiosity shop. He entered the shop a penniless lad, and retired an exceedingly rich man. His largest bequest was a cumulative gift to his medical attendant, which began with a sum of less than $1,000 eleven years ago, with the proviso that the sum should be doubled every year that the testator should be kept alive. The lucky practitioner now comes in for a bequest of over $750,000. Another large bequest consists of $500,000 given to St. George's hospital in the East Inds, immense establishment in the poorest and most thickly populated part of London.

A NOBLE BRUTE.

LORD ST. LEONARDS JAILED FOR COMMITTING AN OUTRAGEOUS ASSAULT ON A PRETTY SERVANT GIRL.

A London cablegram says: Another lordly libertine has come to grief. Edward Bartemshaw Sugden, Lord St. Leonards, of Stanham Hall, Sussex county, was arrested Thursday at Brentford for committing a rape upon one Miss Emma Cotes, a pretty young domestic in the service of a family friend of His Lordship, whom he was visiting. The circumstances of the assault were outrageously brutal, and the Brentford gentleman whose hospitality had been so shamefully abused was foremost in bringing the titled scamp to justice. The preliminary examination was conducted at Brentford on Friday before two magistrates, who were so horrified at the details that were proved against Lord St. Leonards, with hardly an effort on his part to deny them, that they instantly ordered him to be fully committed for trial at the next assizes and firmly refused all offers of bail. Lord St. Leonards' two solicitors, who had been brought down from London, offered any amount of bail and protested in horrified tones against the enormity of sending a baron of England to the common jail, but the magistrates were immovable, and His Lordship now languishes in Brentford prison. His lawyers propose to apply for a writ of habeas corpus and a change of venue to London, but it is very doubtful if either effort will succeed. Lord St. Leonard has been notorious as a drunken libertine ever since his accession to the baronetcy in 1875, despite that he has a young and lovely wife, nee Marianne Caroline Dashwood, to whom he was married in 1876, and a beautiful daughter now six years old. He is the direct successor in the baronetcy of the first Lord St. Leonards, who was one of the most eminent of English lawyers and legal authors, and was twice Lord Chancellor of Ireland and once Lord High Chancellor of England.

ADVICE TO A YOUNG FARMER.

A young man, married and with small means wants to know how to start right in farming. This is imposing on us rather a serious task. We, of course, know nothing of his habits of industry, his love of labor and his qualifications for the business he seeks. Above all, we do not know what kind of a wife he has selected, and very, very much depends upon this, for if he has chosen unwisely he has made an almost irreparable mis-step. We will, however, lay down some general principles which may do others, if not him, some good:—

First—Buy none but the best land. Ten acres of the best is better than a whole section of poor land.

Second—Keep it clear of weeds.

Third—Do nothing slipshod. Plow and cultivate thoroughly.

Fourth—Do everything in the right season.

Fifth—Procure good implements and take good care of them.

Sixth—Raise none but good animals.

Seventh—Keep strict account of income and expenses.

Eighth—Keep out of debt and clear of security notes.

Ninth—Rise early and quit work early in the evening, so that you may have the chores done before the shades of night.

Tenth—Have nothing to do with travelling agents and strolling peddlers. Deal with those who have a habitation and a name.

Eleventh—Live peaceably with your wife. If you cannot, coax her to go to Kamschatka and you go to Australia until you ventilate your affections.

Twelfth—Live at peace with all your neighbors, even if you have to make all the concessions and submit to all the wrong.

Thirteenth—Take good papers and keep yourself posted as to markets, news, literature and politics.

Fourteenth—Study to know your whole duty to yourself, your family, your country and your God.

Follow these things and they will naturally lead you into all the duties of a good farmer, a good citizen and a prosperous and happy man.

Delicate and Feeble Ladies.

Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvellous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain is permanently removed. None receive so much benefit, and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull heavy, inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, in Providence.

BRADFORD, PA., May 8, 1885.

It has cured me of several diseases, such as nervousness, sickness at the stomach, monthly troubles, etc. I have not seen a sick day in a year, since I took Hop Bitters. All my neighbors use them.

MRS. FANNIE GREEN.

$3,000 LOST.—"A tour of Europe that cost me "$3,000, done me less good than one bottle of Hop Bitters; they also cured my "wife of fifteen years" nervous weakness, "sleeplessness and dyspepsia.

R. M., Auburn, N. Y.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold for use except to persons desirous of obtaining a medicinal bitters.

SIRS—I have been suffering ten years and I tried your Hop Bitters and it done me more good than all the doctors. MISS S.S. BOONE Baby Saved.

We are so thankful to say that our nursing baby was permanently cured of a dangerous and protracted constipation and irregularity of the bowels by the use of Hop Bitters by its mother, which at same time restored her to perfect health and strength. —The Parents, Rochester, N. Y.

A Bad Infirmity.

The loss of the sense of hearing is both annoying and dangerous. Those suffering from deafness should try Hagyard's Yellow Oil according to directions. This invaluable household remedy cured John Clark, of Millbridge, Ontario, restoring his hearing in one week. 19-2t

TOWN COUNCIL.

Special Meeting for General Business.

Council met on Monday evening May 12th.

Present: His Worship Mayor Cox in the chair, and Messrs Cahill, Davidson, Allin, Rutherford, Green, Yelland, Hartley and Millar.

After routine

COMMUNICATIONS

were received and read:

From the Town Treasurer submitting statement of the receipts and expenditures of the town from January 1st 1884 to May 12th, inclusive. Receipts $16,179.17. Expenditure, $25,267.69. Received.

From Messrs. Poussette & Roger, asking permission on behalf of the Peterborough Electric Light Company, to erect posts in various parts of the town to support the wires necessary in the completion of of their Electric light system. Posts to be 20 feet high.—Granted.

From Charles Billings, jr. proposing to lay pavement for gutter on George street, for ten cents per square foot, the town to find all the materials, or 40 cents per square yard and find his own materials.—Referred to Street and Bridge Committee.

From J. Z. Rogers asking permission to remove the site of the Royal Oak Hotel buildings, twenty-five feet further east.—Referred to Building and Health Committee

From Porter Bros., and others asking Alymer street to be watered from Charlotte to King, inclusive.—Referred to Fire, Water and Gas Committee, with power to act.

From Geo. Gladman asking street improvements—Referred to Street and Bridge Committee.

From J. Whyte & Co. in reference to placing the foundation of the extension of their warerooms westward, in the vicinity of the creek.—Referred to the Street Committee.

From Mr. Derry, asking street improvements.—Granted.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were paid, A. Morris, $8.25; John Cronin, planting trees around "Old Burying Ground," $23.00. Firemen, filling tank, $6.00. Account of Times Printing Co., $24.24 was referred to the Finance Committee.

HOLIDAY.

The Mayor explained that he had a petition asking that the 24th be declared a holiday, but as a proclamation had been issued in answer to a petition largely signed by merchants making the 26th the civic holiday, it would perhaps be unwise to make a change. The council concurred.

FINANCE.

Mr. Davidson, chairman, presented the report of the Finance Committee recommending the payment of the following accounts: J. E. Belcher, balance re Wilson's hotel, $17.51; Geo. Johnson, meals for tramps, $15.00; J. R. Stratton, printing, $18.00; Lockhart & Chowen, $14.20. Fire Brigade Band, $100.00. City Band, $50.00.

The Committee further reported that they had examined the Auditors' report and found the same correct.

The Committee strongly urged the Town Commissioners to press the G.T.R. Company for payment of the over-due interest on the Midland Railway Company's bonds, as the Auditors' report that no part of the principal money has ever been paid for eleven years, which now amounts to $13,000 over-due principal and interest, and $4,623.84 over-due interest.

HEALTH COMMITTEE.

Mr. Allin, Chairman, brought in the report of the Health Committee, recommending that the Board of Health comist of His Worship the Mayor, Geo. A. Cox, Chairman, and Councillors Allin, Rutherford, Green and Hartley, and Messrs. Chas. Stapleton, Richard Hall, A. McNiel and Walter Paterson; and Messrs. Richard Pidgeon and Robert H. Adams, Health Inspectors.—Adopted.

MR YELLAND'S SIDING.

A by-law was introduced to give permission to the Grand Trunk Railway to run a siding into Mr. Yelland's premises, between Brock and Murray streets.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading, Mr. Menzies in the chair.

Mr. Douglass moved, seconded by Mr. Cahill, that such permission be not granted till Mr. Yelland had made arrangements to compensate property owners, whose property may be damaged by such siding.

A rather ardent personal controversy, took place between Messrs. Douglass and Yelland, in which the question of the veracity of either was discussed with monosyllabic Anglo-Saxon vigor, and spicy election recollections revived, and it was finally decided to add a clause to the by-law embodying the principle of the above resolution, with the addition that the damage be decided by arbitration within one month from the passing of the by-law or in any other manner as may be agreed upon.

The by-law passed its third reading and was duly signed and sealed.

LITERATURE FOR RATEPAYERS.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that the clerk be instructed to have 200 copies of the Auditors' Report printed for distribution among the ratepayers. The matter of cost arising, the motion was let stand as notice of motion.

WATER STREET.

Mr. Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. Allin, that the street surveyer be instructed to survey the continuation of Water street from Sherbrooke to Wolfe street and to strike the grade on Dalhousie street from George street to the river.—Carried.

A MATTER OF DAMAGES.

Mr. Kingan was heard in reference to the serious damage caused to his property by putting in the V in connecting the Missing Link with the Midland main line on Bethune street. An arbitration had been agreed upon, consisting of Judge Dean, Lindsay, Edg. Pearse and John Bertram. Mr. Kingan complained that the costs were increased on account of the frequent meetings caused by the delays asked by the Railway Company. After a time a decision was arrived at, but Mr. Bell, solicitor for the G.T.R., had written, repudiating the agreement to arbitrate. When he showed this letter to Mr. Cox. that gentleman was greatly surprised at the letter, and stated that he (Mr. Kingan) should get justice.

Mr. Cox explained that Mr. Bell had written the letter on the grounds that his request for a postponement of the meeting of the arbitrators, on account of illness had been disregarded.

Mr. Kingan appealed to the Council to extend their protection to himself, and insist on the carrying out of the award, or tell Mr. Bell that otherwise the rails must be taken up.

Several Councillors submitted that Mr. Kingan's course was to "take up" the award and sue for the amount assessed.

Mr. Douglass differed. He said the town should protect Mr. Kingan.

Mr. Cox said that Mr. Bell had practically offered to pay Mr. Kingan $1,000 for passing his place with the line. Mr. Connal had had half his lot taken and only got $1,200, while Mr. Kingan refused $1,000 for merely having his property passed.

GRAVEL.

Mr. Hartley moved, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, that the proposition of Mr. Gamble, to give a bonus of $40 to the town for taking the gravel from a cellar he is excavating for Mr. Lech on Chambers street be accepted.—Referred to the Street Committee.

Council adjourned till the second of June.

WOMAN'S CAPABILITIES.

She can say "no" in such a low soft voice that it means "yes."

She can sharpen a lead pencil, if you give her plenty of time and plenty of pencils.

She can dance all night in a pair of shoes two sizes too small for her, and enjoy every minute of the time.

She can pass a display window of a dry goods store without stopping—if she is running to catch a train.

She can go to church and afterwards tell you what every woman in the congregation had on, and in some rare instances can give you a faint idea of what the text was.

She can walk half the night with a colicky baby in her arms, without once expressing a desire to murder the infant.

She can suffer abuse and neglect for years which one touch of kindness or consideration would drive from her recollection.

She can go to the theatre every evening and the matinee on Wednesday and Saturday, and still possess sufficient strength to attend a Sunday night sacred concert.

She can—but what's the use? A woman can do anything or everything, and do it well. She can do more in a minute than a man can do in an hour, and do it better. She can make the alleged lords of creation bow down to her own sweet will, and they never know it.

If you are bilious or have indigestion, sick headache or dizziness, try Baxter's Mandrake Bitters, used instead of pills; they cure constipation. Price 25c. per bottle. For sale by all druggists, 2-tf

A GRAND CRASH.

GRANT & WARD GO FROM BAD TO WORSE UNTIL A GRAND SMASH COMES—AN ASSIGNMENT.

Messrs. Grant & Ward, of New York, brokers, have made an assignment. They seem to have become embarrassed three years ago. U. S. Grant, jr., and Ferdinand Ward had been in busines about a year and used up $200,000 of special capital, provided by Gen. Grant and J. D. Fish, as well as the capital furnished by themselves. To keep the firm upon its feet the special partners aided them in procuring $300,000.

The firm issued receipts and notes in connection with various schemes to the amount of $5,000,000. One capitalist invested nearly $1,000,000, another $750,000. Final efforts to raise the money were made within the week, when they negotiated sterling exchange for $500,000.

All of the younger members of the firm have lived extravagently and invested largely in real estate. The agreement of the partners was that each should draw out $3,000 a month for living. The expenses of the four partners accordingly drew out nearly $150,000 yearly. Gen. Grant has standing to his credit upon the books a profit to the amount of nearly $500,000, which must be purely fictitious.

There is no doubt that Gen. Grant was ignorant of the real situation. On Sunday last, at Ward's suggestion, he went to Wm. H. Vanderbilt and got a check for $150,000 promising to return the loan on Monday which he attempted to do by sending up Grant and Ward's check upon the Marine National Bank with a request that it should not be used until the next day. That day the bank suspended. Grant has assured Vanderbilt that the check will be made good. Mrs. Grant has placed her private fortune at the General's disposal. This financial reverse will injure Grant's prospects for the presidency.

A complete revolution in the state of stomach harrassed by Dyspepsia is caused by using Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, or great blood purifier, a medicine specially adapted to renew healthful activity in that organ and in those which most closely co-operate with it, the bowels and the liver. Easy digestion, an increase of appetite and a free secretion of bile, mark the radical change which it produces.

CHIEF CHARM OF THE CIRCUS.

"I think I shall go to the circus this year when it comes round," said the minister to his wife.

"Why, my dear," she exclaimed, shocked at the idea, "You surely will not act so inconsistently. You have always been opposed to theatres, circuses and things of that kind."

"That is true, but the circus this year has a sacred elephant, and, of course, there can't be any harm in going to see that."

"Certainly not, my dear; we will go together."

A Victim of Misplaced Confidence.

The individual who places trust in many of the claims of advertised remedies is often sadly disappointed, but the array of facts regarding the honest virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters are indisputable. It positively cures diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys. Investigate the proofs and testimonials. 19-2t

COURT IN COLORADO.

They are not very rigid in court formalities in Colorado, so to speak.

"I don't see the prisoner anywhere," said the Judge at the Bone Valley session, as he braced up from a little judicial nap preparatory to sentencing a horse thief to death. "Where is he Mr. Sheriff?"

"I'm blessed if I know," said that functionary, who had been absorbed in collecting a horse race bet from the clerk.

"Was he a big red-headed man, with a scar on his cheek?" asked the foreman of the jury, who was shuffling the cards for another deal.

"That's him," said the Sheriff, who had been looking around under the benches without success.

"Why, then," continued the foreman, "about half an-hour ago he—cards, gentlemen—he asked me to step out and take a drink, and—I see your raise—and when I told him I held a flush he said, S'mother time, then', and walked out."

"The deuce you say!" thundered his Honor. "However, he'll probably be in town again next week to see the circus, and some of you fellows must remind the Sheriff to shoot him offhand—save lots of trouble. This court will adjourn for McGuthen's chicken fight."

Spring Cleaning.

Every good housewife will renovate the entire house at least every Spring and Fall. Our systems often need renovating also, and there is nothing better to make pure blood and cleanse and regulate all the secretions than Burdock Blood Bitters, preventing diseases incidental to the season's changes. 19-2t

On Wednesday night burglars entered Rev. Mr. Cartwright's house, Kingston, and taking his clothes from his bed-room to the yard rifled them, only obtaining 50 cents.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 15, 1884.

Sir Charles Tupper's Exit.

Last issue we merely mentioned that Sir Charles Tupper had stepped down and out of the Dominion Cabinet. It appears that the Minister of Railways and Canals has such delicate health that he is not equal to the onerous duties of his position, but he thinks that he can manage to earn a salary of $10,000 a year, and live in a $42,000 residence in London, as Canadian High Commissioner. In view of the fact of Sir Tupper's immense ambition, it is probable that his retirement from the Cabinet is actuated by the principle on which rats gauge the time of their departure from a sinking ship. He has not left public life a poorer man, by any means, than he entered it; he sees that the capacity of Canada to furnish spoil to political adventurers is becoming exhausted; he sees that the Tory party, held together by the personal cohesive power of Sir John Macdonald, must, in the course of events, ere long be, a thing of shreds and patches; he sees in the Cabinet dissensions, the struggles of the Tory leaders for power and spoil, the falling out of that class, which results in honest men getting their due; he sees that the day of reckoning, consequent on the extravagant, corrupt and wasteful policy pursued by the Tory party, cannot long be delayed. Seeing all this, Sir Charles wisely places himself in the snug sinecureship of High Commissioner, whose duties he would have retained without interruption, had not Sir John required in Parliament an unscrupulous advocate to push through Parliament the Syndicate grab.

The Bribery Conspiracy.

A council of the Ontario Cabinet was held on Wednesday at which the Commission, to investigate the Bribery Plot was named. It consists of Mr. Justice Proudfoot, Judge Senkler of St. Catharines and Judge Scott of Brampton. Mr. Justice Proudfoot will be president of this Royal Commission, which will probably meet early in July, to avoid interference with ordinary judicial work. In appointing these gentlemen, Hon. Mr. Mowat shows that he wishes to avoid the very appearance of evil and not afford the slightest ground for an accusation of partizanship. Two of these Judges are Conservatives and the third a Reformer. The investigation of so important a matter can be safely left in their hands. The judiciary of this country is one of the few things that Tory corruption in high places has failed to taint. It would be many a long day before Sir John would allow a desire for impartial investigation into political matters to influence him in appointing a commission on similar lines.

The Scott Act boom continues. There will be a big social commotion in Ontario next summer. Twenty-one counties have decided to submit the Act simultaneously some time next summer. The fight, meteorologically as well as morally, will be a hot one. The local prohibitionists are carrying the war into Africa, while the liquor interests will make a desperate struggle for the retention of their traffic.

Another Device Defeated.

The feeling aroused by the unearthing of the hideous Toronto Bribery Plot, has, on the part of the Tories been directed, not against the criminals but against the gentlemen who contributed chiefly to the exposure of the conspiracy to bring the conservative party into power. With a view of discrediting these witnesses, the Tory journals have slandered, maligned and lied about in every way, Messrs. Balfour, Dowling and McKim. The latter especially, has been subjected to the vilest abuse and slander, which has been capped by the bringing of a charge of forgery as implied in the altering of the date of a note to extend the period of its maturity. It is hardly necessary to say that the charge, on being heard before magistrates, was dismissed. It will be interesting to watch for the next form of persecution which malignant disappointment will devise.

Editorial Notes.

Goldwin Smith in the Week says:—Even to Sir John Macdonald it must sometimes occur in the pensive hour of moral reflection, that government by intrigue, corruption and gerrymandering, though it may be a sad necessity in his case, as it was in that of Walpole, cannot elevate a nation.

Hon. Alex. Mackenzie does not believe in doing evil that good may come. At the meeting of the Toronto Reform Association, in the course of his speech, this honest statesman said:

"It had been repeatedly said that if the Reformers had bowed a little more to public opinion in 1878 they might be in office to-day. When the Reformers were prepared to ask the people to submit to evil principles in order that they might retain power, he would be unable to work with them. (Cheers.) If they believed in the goodness of God and in His superintendance of the universe, if they believed in the preponderance of good over evil they must believe that uprightness and honesty were right for a political party as for an individual, wherever it might lead."

At the request of the Ontario Government, says the Mercury, Mr. John McMillan, ex-M. P, for South Huron, has consented to give lectures to the students of the Agricultural College, Guelph, on Practical Agriculture during the absence of Prof. Brown in England, purchasing stock for the Experimental Farm. Mr. McMillan is one of the most advanced and intelligent farmers in Ontario, and is well qualified to give a course of lectures on this subject. The Government could not have selected a better man to fill Mr. Brown's place temporarily.

The Montreal Witness says: 'Sir John Macdonald might well say, Apres moi le deluge. He is holding together by consummate finesse a string of provinces each of which is now in more or less violent opposition to the Federal government of which he is the head. He has scattered largess among his unwilling vassals and they have scrambled for it and will soon spend it. When the bag is empty that resource will be gone. Some reorganization of our whole system is necessary. For the present system seems to be a system of mutual repulsion.'

Mr. Gladstone is determined to extend the same electoral privileges to Ireland as to the rest of the kingdom and he is meeting with determined opposition in his efforts to do so. In the debate on the Franchise bill a motion was made by Mr. Chaplin setting forth that the extension of the franchise in Ireland at the present time would be detrimental to the welfare of the State. Mr. Gladstone in reply maintained that it was impossible to uphold the union except by extending equal rights to all. Mr. Chaplin's motion was not pressed to a division.

The monopolizing tendencies of a protective tariff are patent to the most careless observer, as also its tendency to crowd out the smaller manufacturer. This is especially true of the cotton industry. According to statistics given by the New York Commercial Bulletin, in 1880 the value of manufactured cotton in the United States was $192,000,000, and the industry employed one-tenth of the steam and water power in the country. The number of manufacturing establishments was 801 in 1831, 1,094 in 1851, 1,091 in 1860, 950 in 1870 and 756 in 1880. In 1881 the value of the mills was $40,000,000; in 1870 it was $141,000,000 and in 1880, $208,225,000.

Out of 615 representative men in the State of Minnesota 162 declare for a tariff for revenue only; 342 favor a tariff that will give reasonable protection but not a Chinese wall; and only 111 believe in the high duties now levied. A poll in Manitoba and the Territories, says the Winnipeg Sun, would give even more emphatic results: "Protection to home industry" was a good phrase to conjure with some years ago, but the settler up here now thoroughly understands it. It means that the Eastern manufacturer, finding that he was losing money, got Parliament to pass an Act enabling him to levy a tax upon the people in order to keep his business going. That is the plain English of it."

Nobody will deny that labor produces wealth—that it is the sole creative power—speculative gain-getting being merely development of existing wealth. Yet the protectionists have a new theory, namely, that idleness produces wealth. This is illustrated by the Quebec tanners, who have agreed to stop production, to let their works stand idle, to keep prices up. Thus their wealth will be added to by idleness, but the poor workman and the wearer of shoe leather will come out at the taper end of the horn. What a blessed boon and source of wealth—to the monopolists—is the National Policy! All wealth amassed without the creative help of labor is simply robbery from the store of wealth in the world—simply taking from one and giving to another.

Wilkinson's Watery Ways.

HIS TRACKS ON THE TRENT VALLEY ROUTE.

The Big Push Briber at Work Officially—He Places the People's Money Where it Will Do Most Good to His Party—Tory Territory Much More Valuable than Liberal Lands—"Sarah" "Escapes In" a Considerable Slice—Two Thousand Per Cent. Profit Pocketed by the Member for West Peterborough.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

After the arrest of the four conspirators in Toronto during last session of the Ontario Legislature, some person in the Dominion Parliament inquired if J. A. Wilkinson was in the Dominion employment, and, if so, what was that employment? To this question the Hon. Minister of Railways and Canals replied that he was engaged to buy the right of way for the Trent Valley Canal and other services, and, and in his reply he said his pay was $2,500 per year.

This information awakened in my mind a desire to know how this very important work was progressing, on which so important an individual was employed. If some unknown person had been named, or some local person had been employed to do this work the same kind of suspicion would not have been awakened.

With this end in view, I inquired at the Registry Office at Peterborough what lands or right of lands had been acquired by the Dominion Government for the use of the Trent Valley Canal?

FROM WHOM, AND AT WHAT PRICES.

As this money comes out of the public purse, it is interesting to those who contribute to it to know who gets it, and what for.

The reply to my application to the Registrar at Peterborough gave account of a number of purchases, a few of which I submit:

Rowland C. Strickland and George W. R. Strickland get for dam, slide, peirs, booms, &c., at Lakefield, $5,000.

It will be borne in mind that the Messrs. Strickland repeatedly applied to the Ontario Government to take this dam off their hands and that the local Government declined to take charge of it. This was not unreasonable on the part of Ontario, because the Ottawa Government had objected to give their control of the other Government works on the Trent waters and they had as many other applications for money as their revenue would meet. The dam is represented as being old and damaged by the water, and there is need for building a new one. Any ordinary observer would look upon it as to the Messrs. Strickland to have the Government take charge of the dam. They do not sell their land nor surrender their water privilege. The Government will build a new dam. If it is damaged by ice, flood or other causes, the Government will have to repair or rebuild, as may be necessary. Repairs are often necessary on all such dams. I think it is a clear gain of more than $5,000 to Messrs. Strickland to have the Government re-build and keep up the dam for them.

George J. Chalmers, at Young's Point, receives $5,500 for allowing the Government the privilege of re-building and keeping up his dam. Like the Lakefield dam, there is no sale of land or surrender of water privilege. Henceforth, when this dam needs repair, Mr. Chalmers will report it to the Department of Railways and Canals; they will send on a surveyor to make estimates, and the work will be promptly done at public expense. Here, again, to the owner of the water privilege of more than the amount of money paid, to have the re-building and keeping up of the dam taken off his hands.

It appears to be the plan to raise the Lakefield dam forty-three inches. As a matter of course that would cause some lands to be over-flowed by water. Hence it is right for the Government to acquire the right to do so from the owners of the land. Of those owning land along the river, a number have sold to the Government the right to raise the water the necessary height. From among these we select a few to illustrate how Mr. Wilkinson knows how to buy right of way

IN THE INTEREST OF HIS PARTY.

For damage done to lot 27, in 8th con. of Smith, also lot 4, east of Clementi street, Lakefield, Mr. Isaac Garbutt receives $2,000.

For damage to lot 27, in 9th con. Smith, Henry C. Garbutt receives $300.

For damage to lot 28, in 9th concession, Matthew Bell receives $600.

For damage to a broken lot, being part of lot 4, in 1st con. of Harvey, John Carnegie received $250. This broken lot is said to contain thirty-two acres, and was bought for $13.00, and we are informed by a good valuator that that was more money than it was worth. In these transactions the land or timber is not sold, only the privilege of raising the water granted.

Directly across the river from the last named lot lies lot 44, in the 16th con. of Smith, in which J. B. McWilliams has an interest, and he sells his right to damage for $1.00. The last named individual is called a Grit; all the others named are Conservatives.

These and other purchases are no doubt legal transactions, but looking at them from a political view, it looks very much like so much MONEY PLACED FOR POLITICAL PARTY PURPOSES.

Some of the payments do look like compensation for damage, but with many there is no fair proportion between the money paid and the possible damage.

When we read the editorials in the Review and the extracts published about the conspirators who are awaiting trial and about the witnesses on whose testimony they are held for trial, we can better understand the animus of the editor, when we remember he has in his pocket $250.00 that was got there

BY THE MANAGEMENT OF J. A. WILKINSON.

Remember this $250,00 was paid to Mr. Carnegie for prospective damage to $13.00 worth of property that will be worth quite as much when the dam is raised as it is now.

There is another thought suggested here. There are a number of questions of right in dispute between the Dominion and Provincial Governments. As a matter of principle we, and the people in general, are equally loyal to each Government when acting within its constitutional limits. But to some minds what is within these limit is not clearly defined. When things are in this condition the people elect Mr. John Carnegie to represent them on the Provincial side of these claims. He accepts the situation and with it the responsible duty of sustaining the rights and claims of the Province in the matters in dispute. He also accepts the retaining fee, that is, the indemnity of a member. But while thus retained and professing to act for the Province and drawing his pay from her coffers, he takes money from the other party to these disputes, through J. A. Wilkinson's plan of buying right of way. If a lawyer is retained by a client and is acting for him and when the case is in court, he takes money privately from the other party to the contention, how is such a man looked upon by his client or by the court? The present position of the member for West Peterborough in the Provincial Legislature is analagous to this.

NOT PUBLICLY BUT PRIVATELY,

Another thing is illustrated by this plan of buying right of way. In the conversation reported to have taken place between Mr. Bunting and Dr. Dowling in the Mail office, the former is reported to have said, "The Grits have not used you well. They have left you to bear your own costs in this election matter. We do not use our men that way." True, Mr. Bunting! The Hon. Minister of Railways and Canals sends his trusty man J. A. Wilkinson back to Peterborough, Victoria, &c., to buy right of way for the Trent Valley Canal and he has placed the funds so that the conservative candidate to the Provincial Legislature is safe against election costs. To the ordinary observer this looks more like carrying out the proclamation than opening navigation between the Georgian Bay and the Bay of Quinte.

"MOWAT MUST GO"

I may have something more to say on this subject another time.

Yours truly,
ALEXANDER.

The trial of the prisoners for the Laxier murder was continued at Picton, and the case for the prosecution closed. There being no evidence inculpating David Lowder, he was set at liberty by order of the judge.

Wrightman and Graham were on Thursday arraigned at London on the charge of the murder of Grant Silcox at Middlemiss, but on application of counsel the commencement of the trial was postponed. The court room was packed by a dense crowd.

The committee, consisting of Messrs. Thomas C. Mewburn, of Hamilton; James F. Wolff, of Montreal, and W. G. Rumelee, of Ottawa, appointed to inspect the Custom-houses of the Province, have arrived in Windsor, and were on Thursday looking into the working of the local Custom-house.

A 15-months-old child of Thos. McKee, of Sandwich east, was drowned in a tub standing on the floor. Mrs. McKee was engaged in washing windows, and on hearing a noise looked around and perceived her child struggling in the tub. Every effort was made to save the child, but in vain.

Mr. Robert Robertson, grain merchant, of Flesherton, was found drowned in a well behind the grain storehouse there on Thursday morning. The water in this well comes to the surface, and it is supposed he went for a drink and accidentally slipped in. When found his head and about half of his body were under water.

While going from his office in the brewery to the Bank of British North America on Wednesday, Mr. George Macbeth, manager of the Carling Brewing & Malting Company, London, lost from his coat pocket a roll of bills and cheques, principally the latter, amounting in all to some $600. He rode down in a buggy, and the presumption is that the roll worked upward till it fell out and dropped on the street.

The body of the young woman Lynes, who disappeared so mysteriously at Fergus a week ago, was recovered in the mill dam, a short distance below the bridge, where her hat and waterproof were found. In her pocket was found a letter, stating what she intended to do, showing clearly that she died by her own hands, and removing all doubt of foul play in the matter.

We learn from the Winnipeg Sun that Mr. James Trow, M. P., is making the necessary arrangements for the visit of Hon. Edward Blake to the Northwest, and it is expected that the trip will occupy some six weeks, the start being made early in August. In addition to going to the end of the track and returning by way of Edmonton to Winnipeg, the party will take in Southern Matitoba, and will probably make the trip both ways by the lake route. A number of leading Reformers have expressed a desire to join in the trip.

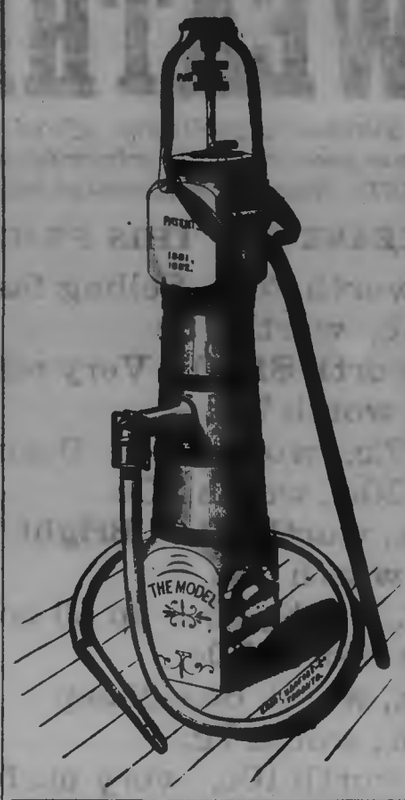
Particular Notice to the Public

REGARDING PUMPS!



Over seventeen years ago I commenced the Manufacture of Pumps in Peterborough, and I take this opportunity of thanking the inhabitants of the town and surrounding country for the very liberal patronage they have accorded me during that time. It has always been my aim to produce and introduce all good improvements in Pumps, and I now desire to call attention to my NEW which this cut represents. I believe it to be the BEST COMBINED PUMP IN THE WORLD. It differs from all others in having the sectional stock or head, with its many advantages, and its firm and durable means of holding the attachments. The intermittent or detachable packing is only used in actual forcing, and it is at all other times (say 95 per cent. of the service of the pump,) unfreezable and unwearable.

THE HOSE COUPLING

is very convenient and effective. It can be adjusted in a few seconds, thus quickly changing an ordinary service Pump into a Force Pump.

The great advantage to the purchaser is that he possesses in one Pump, the Easiest Lift Pump made, as well as the Best Force Pump, for the same price as is often asked for an ordinary Pump. It throws water easier and farther than any other Pump manufactured. For deep wells it has no equal.

All orders promptly attended to, by mail or otherwise, and repairing done on the shortest notice.

We, the undersigned, having examined Mr. H. Owens' New Model Force Pump, take pleasure in stating that we consider it a great improvement on pumps formerly in use. In our opinion it is one of the best pumps ever introduced to the public, being quickly turned into a pump for fire protection. It is powerful, durable, convenient and easy to work, and gives us pleasure to recommend it as a first-class article in every way.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A meeting was held in the council chamber, last week to consider the advisability of having a regatta and field sports on the 1st July. Dr. Caldwell was appointed chairman and G. A. Strickland Secretary.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Geo. Cochrane, T. Bird, Clarin, Wright, R. C. Strickland, Wm. Eastland, Sheldrake, Dr. Bell, Berubee, M. Strickland, R. Graham, were appointed to collect funds, and arrange a programme for a grand regatta to be held on the 1st July. The Reeve and Mr. Graham, were appointed a committee to try and arrange for special trains.

TEA MEETING.

A tea meeting is to be held on the 24th inst., the Queen's birthday, under the auspices of the Ladies Foreign Missionary Society, in connection with the C. P. church. Tea is to be given from 5 to 7 o'clock p. m., at the P. C. A., Hall.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The Council met on Monday evening, the 12th inst. Present,—R. C. Strickland, Reeve, and Councillors McWilliams, Cox, Urquhart and Moore.

Minutes of last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was received from the Indian Department, re islands which the village wishes to purchase, offering them to the municipality for the sum of fifty dollars.

The Clerk was instructed to write to the Department and ascertain the acreage and price per acre.

A deputation from the committee on amusements for 1st of July, asked for an appropriation to assist.

On motion, ten dollars were granted, to be paid to the Treasurer of the Committee.

The following accounts were presented, and ordered to be paid:—Isaac Watson, wages, $18.77; Isaac Watson, repairs on wagon, $8.50; Wm. Smith, wages, 50 cents.

The report of the surveyor, and a bill for over $70 were received.

Mr. Rogers thoughts he had completed the survey of Water street satisfactorily, but was in doubt about Concession street. He wished for further evidence. He recommended that a plan of the survey he made, etc., etc.

Considerable discussion took place with regard to this survey.

The Reeve drew attention to the fact that as matters now stood they were no better off than before; that the surveyor himself said he required further evidence. He objected to the item of $3.00 for legal advice, which had not been authorized by the Council, and to the hiring of men, which, also, had been done without the authority of the Council. He did not see why this matter was taken out of the hands of the Council.

Councillor Urquhart said that by a resolution on the minutes the Clerk had been authorised to engage a surveyor, &c.

The Reeve asked for the minute.

The resolution in the minutes read that the survey was to be done under the direction of the Council.

Councillor Urquhart said that formerly the Clerk was in the habit of doing those things without written instructions. He would move that Water street be opened up, as there seemed to be no doubt about it.

The Reeve inquired why one street should be opened and not the others? Why should we pay for a survey and make no use of it? He did not wish to be misunderstood; he did not object to the survey, but he objected to the haste in which this was done; and, also, to paying the public money for a survey which was to be of no use.

Councillor McWilliams thought it would be better to have it complete.

Councillor Cox said he strongly objected to throwing the public money away, and would vote against doing so. The survey should be complete and correct.

Councillor Urquhart had no objection to having the whole survey opened up, and moved, seconded by Councillor McWilliams, that a by-law be prepared for opening the streets lately surveyed; that Mr. Rogers be instructed to draw a plan of said survey; that it be registered, and by-law submitted to Council at its next regular meeting.—Carried.

Prices have been down, on account of a fatness in the English and European markets. Muskrats brought 16c., and Mink 50c.

COBOURG.

Capt. and Mrs. Detlor, of the Saved Army, are removing from Cobourg.

The first train on the C. P. & M. R., went out Thursday. There is a large amount of lumber awaiting shipment at Harwood.

On Tuesday afternoon a large crowd gathered at the old wharf to witness the launch of the champion yacht Cygnet. She went into the water without a hitch, and is now being prepared to go forth and conquer. We wish her owner, Mr. Deshis, every success.

About twelve o'clock Thursday night a fire broke out in the rear of the cottage owned by Mr. Charles Gifford on College street, which was totally destroyed. This is the third fire within a week, and now the citizens are beginning to enquire who are the fire bugs. It certainly looks suspicious.

HAMILTON TOWNSHIP.

The youngest son and daughter of Mr. Armstrong, Hamilton township, were driving to Bewdly, a short time since, and when at the bridge on the gravel road near the village, the horse shied at an object, backed up, turned around and started to run away. The boy was thrown out, but held on to the lines until they broke. The girl in trying to get out, fell, and one of her legs got caught on the step. In this perilious condition she was dragged half a mile, until rescued by Mr. John Benson. Strange to say she was not much hurt as she had presence of mind to keep her head from striking the ground by great exertion.

HARWOOD.

About 10 o'clock on Sunday morning fire was discovered breaking through the roof of Mr. John Hogg's house. The alarm soon brought the neighbors to the scene, but their attempt at saving the building were useless, there being a stiff breeze blowing at the time. Their attention was next turned to Mr. J. Freeman's house, which was about 20 feet distant. They were unsuccessful at this also, owning to the scarcity of water. Most of the furniture was saved, but a sum of money which was upstairs was lost. Both families were attending church and knew nothing of their misfortune till they returned. Loss about $1000.

MILLBROOK.

Saturday afternoon, 3rd March, two stables, one belonging to Mr. Cathcart, the other to Mr. Thos. Eakins, were burned to the ground. The horses, harness, buggies, &c., were all got out. Cause of fire thought to be sparks from a passing engine, as it is near the railway track.

The horse show for this district was held here on Tuesday, 7th, when there was a large collection of horses, and very fine ones too. The farming community turned out in large numbers, and showed a lively interest in the show. A great many pronounced it the best show of the kind they have ever seen here.

Millbrook has two fire companies, "Active" No. 1, and "Protection," No. 2. The former is to have charge of the steam fire engine—when it comes—and the others the hand engine.

OTONABEE.

THE LATE WM. HANBIDGE.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Wm. Hanbidge, of Otonabee, which took place on Wednesday morning. The deceased gentleman's age was 71 years, and his last illness lasted two months. He was a native of county Wexford, Ireland, and came to Canada and settled in Dummer fifty years ago. Here he lived twenty years, and then removed to Otonabee, where he spent the last twenty-seven years of his life. His wife died 23 one years ago. He leaves two sons and two daughters, all married. Deceased was a Bible Christian, both in name and life, and a warm supporter of Liberal principles.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Wm. Redpath, on Saturday last, died very suddenly of heart disease, in the first year of her married life. She fell dead at her husband's feet as she was assisting him on with his coat, preparatory to going to Keene.

On Sunday one of the oldest settlers in Otonabee, Mrs. Hattrick, dropped dead in her house, while she was there alone. She was over eighty years of age.

How would it do?

This bad weather requires a remedy. It seems as if the whole responsibility should rest on Vennor and Wiggins, for we had some kind of weather before they appeared upon the scene. How would it do to string them up? Would it make things better? Another hint of importance—don't hang on to your corns as weather indicators. Better string them out root and branch. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will do it quickly, painlessly, and will certainly. Don't buy dangerous fleseating substitutes. Get Putnam's, and no other.

The Remnants which FAIR VANEVERY & Co., advertise so cheap are selling very fast. Some choice patterns, in good lengths have recenly been added to that wonderful remnant counter. Ask to see their special value in Shirtings and Factory Cotton.

BIBLE STORIES.

(From the Guelph Herald, April 16, 1884.)

All who have the care or training of children know how fond they are of pictures and how pleased with stories when adapted to their understanding, and there are no stories that charm them more than the wonderful ones of the Bible. The stories of Joseph, Moses, David, Daniel and Josiah, the Boy King, and the best of all of Jesus and his disciples, properly illustrated with suitable engravings are the delight of childhood. Never before have these stories been told in such a simple, connected and excellent way as Charles Foster's Bible Stories now being published by the World Publishing Co. of Guelph, Ontario. The book contains every story from Genesis to Revelations, illustrated by over 130 engravings so arranded that the story comes on a page opposite the picture illustrating it, thus making it an object teaching work and the many maps are an additional help. No mother with a family of children can afford to be without this book; to her it is of more value than a whole library of other books; it meets and answers the thousand and one questions the children ask her, and teaches them the best of knowledge.

The following speaks for itself: The publishers are authorised to use the names of the following clergymen who cordially recommend the work by those who desire their families to get a clear knowledge of the Sacred Scriptures:

Right Rev. Arthur Sweatman, D. D., Lord Bishop of Toronto.

Very Rev. H. J. Grasett, D. D., late Dean of Toronto.

Rev. W. S. Rainsford, B A., New York, late of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto.

Rev. Alex. Sanson, Rector Trinity Church, Toronto.

Rev. W. Cavan, D. D., Principal Knox College, Toronto.

Rev. W. Gregg, D. D., Professor Church History, Knox College.

Rev. H. M. Parsons, Pastor Knox Church, Toronto.

Rev. A. Sutherland, D. D., Secretary of the Methodist Missionary Society.

Rev. John Potts, D. D., Canada Methodist Church, Montreal.

Rev. J. H. Castle, D. D., Principal Baptist College, Toronto.

Rev. H. D. Powis, Pastor Zion Congregational Church, Toronto.

The book is sold by subscription. Those wishing an agency should apply to the publishers, the World Publishing Co., (J. W. Lyon) Guelph.

SENSATIONAL COURT SCENE.

TWO CHILDREN RESOLUTELY REFUSE TO TESTIFY AGAINST THEIR MOTHER.

A sensational scene of an unusual kind even in Irish murder trials occurred at Carrick-on-Suir, County Tipperary. The victim of the supposed murder was Michael Blaney, of Kilcash, whose body was recently exhumed and found to show traces of arsenic in sufficient quantity to cause death. Suspicion rested upon the widow, and she was arrested and placed on trial at Carrick-on-Suir. Her two children of tender years were produced as witnesses, but on being placed upon the witness table they stubbornly refused to utter a word. They were threatened with imprisonment, and were evidently much frightened, but threats and persuasion alike failed to elicit from them a single morsel of evidence. There were therefore committed for contempt of Court, and ordered to be kept in confinement separate from their mother until they purge themselves of contempt by giving their testimony in open Court. The severity of the judge's action under the peculiar circumstances has caused a great sensation in the neighborhood, and has turned the sympathies of the people in favor of the widow, who has hitherto been regarded by most of the neighbours as guilty.

A Canso telegram says early on Friday the steamer Faraday commenced landing the shore end of the Mackay-Bennett cable, and before noon was steaming out of Dover Bay, paying out cable, towards Ireland. After laying some seventy miles the end was buried and the ship returned. In less than six hours the shore end of the Cape Ann cable had been landed and the ship sailed for Cape Ann. They expect to commence laying the cable from Dover Bay to Rockport, Mass., in less than a week and return to Halifax for coal.

Pure Bred Poultry!

The subscriber is now prepared to dispose of SITTINGS OF EGGS from the following varieties of Poultry:—Plymouth Rocks, Houdans, Black Spanish, White Leghorns, Buff Cochin, Silver Grey Dorkings, Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Pekin Ducks and Bronze Turkeys.

All the above varieties were either first or second prize birds at the fall and winter exhibitions. I have also added since the exhibitions some very fine birds of different varieties to my stock. Having bred the greater part of the varieties for three years, I think I know what suits the country.

Every pains has been taken to keep the stock pure, by keeping the birds in different yards, therefore the public can rely on a good article, either in Eggs or Chicks, second to none but in price, any and all of the above varieties being offered at $1.50 per 13, or 26 for $2.50, excepting the Ducks or Turkeys.

Any orders for eggs must be accompanied with the price. I would be glad to fill a large order, if required, with different kinds.

"POOR MAN!"

An unhappy husband declares that when a man sitting is still, steadfastly gazing at nothing, his wife has not a word to say to him; but as soon as he picks up a newspaper or book to read she takes a long breath and almost drowns him with an avalanche of questions.

A Wide Range Of Usefulness.

The great household remedy so popular among the people—Hagyard's Yellow Oil—is alike valuable for external and internal use, curing rheumatism, colds, sore throat, croup, frostbites, burns, bruises, and all lameness and soreness of the flesh. 2t

IDLENESS IN THE HEN-COOP.

A firm in Newark, N. J., manufactures artificial eggs with plaster-paris shells. It's getting so that a hen in this country has nothing to do but fly on a fence and cackle and squawk like a boiler factory when you are trying to put the baby to sleep.

THE MIDGET BORN IN JAIL.

A female child was born in a county jail in New York one day last week, which is among the smallest bits of humanity ever seen. She measures thirteen inches from her crown to the sole of her foot, tipping the scale at two pounds. Her hands are about an inch in length, and can be completely covered out of sight with a 50-cent coin.

Address, at once. 12-26t

THE HOUSEWIFE, ROCHESTER. N.Y.

THE FARE IS TOO EXPENSIVE.

Prof. Young, of Princeton college, says: "Take a railroad from the earth to the sun, with a train running forty miles an hour without stops, and it would take about 265 years and a little over to make the journey." He estimates the fare, at a cent a mile, to be $930,000. These figures kill the project.

Very Remarkable Recovery.

Mr. Geo. V. Willing, of Manchester, Mich., writes: "My wife was almost helpless for five years, so helpless that she could not turn over in her bed alone. She used two bottles of Electric Bitters, and is so much improved, that she is able now to do her own work." Electric Bitters will do all that is claimed for them. Hundreds of testimonials attest their great curative powers. Only fifty cents a bottle at Taylor & Macdonald's.

HE FEARED A DREADFUL FATE,

A very little boy was called as a witness yesterday in the Quarter Sessions. He was all over trembling. "My boy," said Assistant District Attorney Kinsey, smiling like a good father, "do you know the nature of an oath?"

"Ho, y-yes, sir," answered the boy.

"Well, if you should tell a lie and die, what would become of you?",

"I should become a mummy, sir."

Dairymen Getting Rich.

Progressive dairymen who are only satisfied with the best results, are adding to their wealth and conferring a benefit on society, by the rapid improvements they are making in the art of butter making. This class use Wells, Richardson & Co's. Improved Butter Color, and know by actual test that it fills every claim made for it.

STANDS IN HIS OWN LIGHT.

"There is a fine specimen of a bull-dog" remarked Smith to Jones at the dog show.

"Yes, he is a beauty."

"You ought to have a dog like that, Jones. Living in the suburbs, as you do, a watchdog is almost a necessity."

"No, it isn't," replied Jones, wearily. "A man who has seven daughters all over 22 and unmarried, stands in his own light if he keeps a dog."

A Reliable Witness.

R. N. Wheeler, of Everton, speaks highly of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, having seen its effects in his own case, a severe inflammation of the lungs and distressing cough, was quickly and perfectly cured, which had resisted other treatment. 19-2t

Unparalleled Success has followed a new method of treatment, which, though simple, is so efficacious as to render

Catarrh of 10 Years Standing

as curable as the simplest disease of the human body. The assertion that every case so far has been cured permanently in a few weeks is made without fear of contradiction.

SEE WHAT A SUFFERER OF TEN YEARS' SAYS:

BUTTONVILLE, CO. OF YORK, Jan. 1, 1880.

DEAR SIR,—In regard to my catarrh, I can say after about FOUR weeks treatment that I am entirely cured, after being troubled for more than ten years with all the worst symptoms of catarrh of the head, such as spitting of blood and matter, which dropped from my nose into my mouth—snuffling with closing of nostrils, loss of smell, which has now returned, pain in my head, rendering me almost stupid, which disappeared in two weeks after commencing your treatment. Hacking cough, etc. From my experience of catarrh, I consider your mode of treatment the best in existence. Hoping that all may receive the same benefit, I remain, yours, SARAH DUNN.

FREE AND PAINLESS EXAMINATIONS of the inner portions of the nose by the most improved instruments of the age.

A few extracts from the numerous endorsements by the leading artists of the World as to their Superiority:—

The pianoforte of your make used at my last concert is the most admirable instrument I have ever seen. Please send to my address in London one of your Upright Pianos. This, I think, is the best endorsement of your instrument I can give you.—CHRISTINE NILSSON.

Neither in Europe or America have I seen an Upright to equal yours.—ELILNE GERSTER GARDINI.

In all the qualities an artist can require your Upright Pianos surpass anything I have ever seen.—SOFIA SCALCHI.

It is superior in quality of tone and evenness of action to any instrument I know of.—CLARA LOUISE KELLOGG.

Having had an opportunity of using your New Concert Upright Piano at the concerts given by Her Majesty's Opera Company, we beg to compliment you upon your great success. You can justly claim a superiority over any piano we have hitherto seen, for concert purposes and accompanying the voice.—ITALO CAMPANINI, ANTONIO GALASSI, ANNA DE PROLOGA, EMIL AMBRA.

The successful manner in which your Upright Piano has stood the severest tests, is such as heretofore has been applied to the Grand Piano only, and it commands our unqualified endorsement.—OLE BULL, EMMA THURSBY, ALFRED H. PEASE, MAURICE STRAKOSCH.

WOMAN'S LOVE.

Can you look in my eyes and say you forget
That I loved thee, adored thee, the moment We met!
When the eyes of thy soul looked love into mine,
How my heart from that moment was thine, only thine!
Or, hast thou forgotten that moment of bliss
When you stole from my lips that first innocent kiss!
How thy spotless young soul felt a quivering thrill,
And my heart a sweet rapture that bent to thy will.

Does the rose love the soft showers that bring it to view,
Or the air that incrusts it with diamonds or dew,
The east wind that breathes in it fragrant perfume,
Or the warm sun that paints it with velvety bloom?
See the tall sturdy oak, and the soft clinging vine,
How lovingly green leaves and branches entwine!
I would be like the ivy which clings thro' the storm,
Or the red rose with love in its heart glowing warm!

You say that you love me, but your love to mine
Is like snow before fire, or water to wine;
I knew but the pleasure, I felt not the pain,
I looked on the surface and saw not the stain.
Our meetings are stolen, our love is called crime,
Thou art bound to another, thy name is not mine;

I have given thee rosebuds of beauty and youth,
The blossoms of purity, honor and truth!
How you trod on those flowrets record in your heart,
Yet I love thee, I love thee, whatever thou art!
And when thou art dead and cold in the tomb,
My spirit will glide thro' the grave's silent gloom;
Ordained for each other, in death we'll not part,
But, united forever, sleep heart unto heart.

CALAMITY AT SEA.

THE STATE OF FLORIDA COLIDES WITH A BARQUE ON THE ATLANTIC.

The steamship Titania, from Glasgow, entered the St. Lawrence Thursday morning. She had twenty-four of the crew of the steamship State of Florida on board, said steamer having gone to the bottom through a collision with a barque in mid-ocean. Out of 167 persons only forty-four were saved, and of the barque's crew only the captain and two men. One hundred and twenty-three persons went down with the steamer and twelve with the barque, making a total loss of life of 135. The survivors were landed at Quebec.

DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL LICENSES.

At an early day there will be submitted to the Supreme Court and ultimately to the Privy Council a test case to decide the true position and legality of the Ontario and McCarthy License Acts. This being the case the Ontario Government have instructed their Inspectors to accept when tendered the same fee for Dominion licenses as is payable in respect of a Provincial license. It is not the intention of the Provincial Government while the case is before the courts to prosecute persons who hold a Dominion license and have paid the proper duties in respect thereof, municipal and provincial. Should, however, Dominion licenses be issued without the payment of those duties, any person selling under such a license will be rigorously prosecuted.

SHE PERSPIRED.

A fat, buxom young woman went to have her photograph taken the other day at the establishment of a well-known city photographer. She sat through the process very patiently and after it was completed asked if she could see a specimen of herself on paper. She was told she could not as the paper was still wet. "Wet, is it?" she answered. "I knew the paper would be wet, Mr. Photographer, for I was perspiring like a dog in hot weather the whole time you were fixing me."

SHE KNEW HOW TO MANAGE HIM.

There is a neat story told of a lady whose husband had a very small foot, of which he was extremely proud. She flattered him and encouraged his vanity, so that ever time he bought tighter and tighter shoes. It was excruciating pain to go about in them, but he would not confess it. However, when he reached home in the evening his slippers were such welcome relief that it was a difficult matter to induce him to go out after dinner. From a great club man he became noted for his domestic habits. Madam smiled to herself, but said nothing.

THE INTRODUCTION of Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya constitutes a new era in popular medicine, as it is seldom that a purely scientific preparation, compounded on physiological principles, is offered to the public. Being composed only of ingredients that enter into the formation of the system it is perfectly safe under all circumstances, and may be taken with benefit wherever there is nervous prostration and general debility from whatever cause. It immediately augments and sustains the vital forces, imparting vigor to all the organs of the body. It is especially adapted to women prostrate with family cares, and delicate children, being as agreeable to take as the finest liqueur. Sold by all druggists at $1.

A country parson lately went to preach in an old and remote parish in England one Sunday. The old sexton, in taking him to the chapel, deprecatingly said, "I hope your reverence won't mind preachin' from the chancel. Better Than Diamonds.

and of greater value than fine gold is a great tonic and renovator like Kidney Wort. It expels all poisonous humors from the blood, tones up the system and by acting directly on the most important organs of the body stimulates them to healthy action and restores health. It has effected many marvelous cures and for all Kidney diseases and other kindred troubles it is an invaluable remedy.

An undertaker in Newcastle-on-Tyne, in the north of England, inserted, recently, in a local newspaper the following advertisement:—"Why live and be miserable when you can be buried in comfort for three pounds ten."

By land or at sea, out on the prairie, or in the crowded city, Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the best for purgative purposes, everywhere alike convenient, efficacious and safe. For sluggish bowels, torpid liver, indigestion, bad breath, flatulency, and sick headache, they are a sure remedy.

A very old sermon has just been preached in Helmsley Church, Yorkshire, England. The vicar discovered one preached to the people of Helmsley from the lips of St. Alfred 750 years ago, and this he preached to his parishioners.

Notwithstanding much has been said about the importance of a blood-purifying medicine, it may be possible that the matter has never seriously claimed your attention. Think of it now! If by the use of a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla you avoid the evils of scrofula, and transmit a healthy constitution to your offspring, thank us for the suggestion.

A Chicago paper enumerates these things which every man can do better than any one else:—Poke a fire, put on his own hat, edit a newspaper, tell a story—after another man has commenced it—and examine a railway time table.

M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Manitoba, writes: Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day. Can be relied upon to remove pain, heal sores of various kinds, and benefit any inflamed portion of the body to which it is applied.

Charles Reade wrote his own epitaph. He describes himself as a "dramatist, novelist, journalist," thus marking in which branch of letters his preferences, if not his great successes, lay. His creed he thus confesses:—"I hope for a resurrection, not from any power in nature, but from the will of the Lord God Omnipotent, who made nature and me."

Mr. R. C. Winlow, Toronto, writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is a valuable medicine to all who are troubled with Indigestion. I tried a bottle of of it after suffering for some ten years, and the results are certainly beyond my expectations. It assists digestion wonderfully. I digest my food with no apparent effort, and am now entirely free from that sensation, which every dyspeptic well knows, of unpleasant fulness after each meal."

A young Mormon convert who was recently asked if he was happy in his new religious and social relations replied: "I'm enjoying a perfect embarrassment of happiness. Why, I have eight mothers-in-law." Such bliss is incomparable.

"Lost the cough I long did know,
Many years I felt its blow,
Without the use of pills or blister,
I cured the same with Downs' Elixir.
Thousands of affidavits prove,
That it doth man's ills remove,
Coughs and colds, and whooping cough
By its power soon are off." 2-tf

Raise chickens. If you have a nice little garden by all means raise chickens. Your neighbor's hens are the best ones to raise. You will find them from 5:30 a.m. until 6:20 p.m. on your lettuce, onion, radish and flower beds. You can raise them higher with a shot gun than any thing else. N. B.—Always eat the hen you raise.

John R. Vert, Hamilton, says: "Mc Gregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia and Indigestion is cheap at fifty times the price asked for it. I am a commercial man, and travel continually, and would no more think of leaving home without a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure in my valise than I would of leaving my team at home and going on foot." Free trial bottles at J. McKee's Drug Store. Regular Size, 50 cents and one dollar. 19-2t

London has probably the worst fire service of any great city in the world. At the burning of the Bell Tavern, in the Old Bailey, situated in the heart of the city, where three women were burned to death, the one available ladder was chained to the wall, and the only available fire escape was wheeled to the house by a stranger. Yet the coroner's jury "exonerated all persons from blame."

—The reason why "Nasmith Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First; It is perfectly harmless. Second; It saves more than half the labour. Third; It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 49-52t

Truth is a little indignant because 500 persons sent crosses or wreaths to the funeral of Prince Leopold. "I wonder," says the editor, "how many of those benevolent donors had ever even spoken to the late Duke, and how many among those who did enjoy his acquaintance would have taken the trouble to send a floral offering had he not been a member of the Royal Family?"

Why suffer with weak nerves, want of appetite, and general debility? letting the loss of sleep and rest impoverish the system and thin the blood, when such a really meritorious remedy as Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine may be had at any drug store. This article is recommended by the highest members of the medical faculty in cases of indigestion, general debility, loss of appetite, and nervous affections of all kinds. It is also specially beneficial to children and delicate females, and to business men, students, and those who have much brain work. We would say, Never be without it. It will strengthen you, keep your system in regular order, and enable you to successfully grapple with the work you have to do. It is pleasant to the taste, and contains nothing injurious to the most delicate constitutions. Remember to ask for the Quinine Wine, prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and we are sure you will be satisfied that you have full value for your money. Druggists sell it.

At a Royal marriage in England a few years ago the bridegroom was a German Prince whose high serenity was only equalled by his impecuniosity, and when the words of the service "With all my goods I thee endow" were repeated the absent-minded old Duke of Cambridge was heard by all the company to blurt out indignantly:—"Good gracious the very shoes the fellow wears are not paid for!"

The late H. J. Byron had a horror of funerals, but was once prevailed upon to attend that of a fellow-Bohemian. After waiting long at the cemetery entrance he and his companions followed a funeral into the chapel, and when the services were half over discovered that it was that of a stranger. Their friend's funeral had not come yet. "Ah," said Byron, "just like poor Bill; never in time!"

Dear Sirs,—For over twenty years I have suffered greatly from Nasal Catarrh sometimes being unable to smell or taste properly. The disease caused a severe pain over the eyes, and frequently stopped my writing on account of dizziness. The phlegm in my throat gave me much annoyance, especially in company, balls of which would occasionally fall down into my throat, and I could seldom breathe through my nose. I have taken quarts of various medicines without any apparent benefit, until I was induced, by your agent of 69 Muter street, to try your Fountain of Health. After using five bottles I am prepared to give it as my honest opinion that for the cure of Catarrh it a grand success. I have recommended it to many of my friends, one of whom encloses his testimonial with mine.

Wishing you deserved success,
I am gratefully yours,
JOSEPH BROWN,
Bookkeeper, 25, Sherborne street,

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
☞ Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

CONFIDENTIAL.
Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUBEBE COMBINATION REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.
Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $2 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.

Peterborough Boating Club.

At the sale of racks on Monday night a very successful disposal was made. Five new members were added to the roll and several others proposed. Apropos of the assertion made by the Montreal Witness that Toronto has the only canoe club in Canada, we may explain that the home club, though nominally a Boating Club, is in effect a very strong canoe club embracing nearly a hundred canoes. In Peterborough we are not ostentatious in canoeing matters, but we are always on hand and well up in front too.

Sudden Death.

On Thursday last Mr. F. Lewis, a resident of this town, died in Toronto, with a suddenness hard to realize by his many friends in Peterborough. He was staying at the Walker House, Toronto. Not coming down to breakfast, repeated, but vain, attempts were made to arouse him, until noon, when the door of his room was broken open, and the unfortunate gentleman was found reclining on a sofa, in the placid repose of death. The suddenness of his death led to a coroner's inquest being held, when a verdict was returned of death from natural causes—apoplexy. On Friday night the body was brought home, and on Saturday the remains were laid in Little Lake Cemetery. The son of the deceased, Mr. J. F. Lewis, the popular manager of the Bank of Montreal here, has the warmest sympathy of our foremost citizens, as well as of the general public in the distressing affliction that has so suddenly come upon him.

The Big 24th.

Prof. E. W. Johnson has completed all arrangements for making the 24th in Peterborough a memorable day for sport. In addition to the other attractions already noted in these columns, Duncan C. Ross and combination, including Marvin Thompson, the giant, W. Lang, and Mons. Joseph, will arrive in town on May 23rd, to take part in the great games in the Agricultural Grounds. Ross will be master of ceremonies, and will give an exhibition during the day. Mons. Joseph will compete against any farmers' team of horses, and give $100 to the team which will pull him off a ladder. Thompson will referee the Lynch-Moriarty glove contest. Lang offers Harrison, Bain, Pop, Stewart or any other man in Canada, $100 to stand before him for four rounds. This combination will add great attractiveness to one of the grandest athletic celebrations of the Queen's Birthday ever held in Canada. Read the programme and then stay away—if you can.

The Electric Light.

Peterborough is always abreast of the progress of the age—far ahead, in some respects, of the puling infancy of some nominal cities. The latest evidence of her enterprise is the organization of a strong Electric Light Company. It is not merely a parchment corporation, but a live concern which has already taken steps to implement the terms of its charter. Four days after receiving their charter they completed a contract—on Saturday—with the Royal Electric Light Company, of Montreal, for the supply and erection of apparatus to light the town by electricity, represented by Mr. W. H Boisfeuillet, as agent. For the present, and pending the erection of permanent premises on Dickson's Race, near Hunter street, the generating machinery will be placed in Hazlitt's mills. The contract calls for the supply of seventy-five lights, which will require five miles of copper wire. Already about twenty-five of our business men have agreed to take lights, and the work of preparation has been begun, with a view of having the electric light aglow in our streets and business palaces on May 24th. On Monday night the Town Council granted permission to the Company to place their poles in the streets where required. The poles will be 20 feet in height, and of a style to make them rather an ornament than otherwise. The following names of the Directors of the Company are a guarantee that no lack of energy or enterprise shall mar the great success which we wish the corporation:—Messrs. A. P. Poussette, T. G. Haslitt, Richard Hall, Wm. Davidson, Wm. Walsh, and H. E. Irvine, of the Electric Lighting Company, Montreal.

Farmers and Horse-Owners, Attention.

Wanton Mischief.

A better exhibition of "pure cussedness" was never witnessed than the wanton mischief wrought on some half-a-dozen plate glasses on George street on last Wednesday night. Some idiotic malefactor, armed with a diamond or some other sharp tool, deeply scratched the windows. In addition to marring the appearance, these plates are thereby liable to crack in frosty weather. The act is worthy of the severest punishment. On the following night the offence was repeated to a lesser extent.

A Duplex Tricycle.

Mr. W. F. Kingan, Secretary of the Bicycle Club, last Thursday received direct from Coventry a beautiful tricycle, with two seats, which will admit of a lady sharing this exhilarating mode of locomotion. The cranks on the lady's side of the vehicle are so arranged that she can help in the propulsion of the machine, or, so to speak, rest on her oars, and leave her at liberty to engross the attention of her escort, so that he may run over a boy or baby cab, or accomplish some other calamitous collision.

A Splendid Chance.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that Mr. D. W Dumble offers for sale a number of Building Lots in various parts of the town on ten years credit. No money down, interest only to be paid for first five years, and thereafter yearly instalments with the right to pay at any time as may suit the convenience of the purchaser. This offer enables a poor man to use his money in erecting a building, and so he gets rid of rent, and secures a home for himself. Building will be cheap this year and no doubt many will take advantage of this very liberal offer. Besides lots in town, Mr. Dumble offers a number of lots in Ashburnham, and several park lots on the same terms. Call at his office and see plans, &c. 12-tf

Pre-historic Man.

In making the excavations near the O. & Q. railway bridge, the workmen unearthed the skull of an aboriginal Yorick. This osseous receptacle of some savage sensorium was secured by Mr. J. H. Burnham, B.A., to be presented to the museum of University College, Toronto. The skull in its conformation appears to confirm the evolution theory, for, paradoxical as it may seem, the "angle of intelligence" is exceedingly acute, the deceased gentleman's mental powers, therefore, being in inverse ratio to the breadth of the facial angle. The workmen discovered several other skulls, arrow heads, etc. There has evidently been a warm ruction amongst the aborigines on the site of Peterborough, or it was the site of a cemetery. The remains found here and elsewhere in town show that a genuine Golgotha underlies our streets.

The building mania seems to have taken strong hold of our citizens.

Work has been begun by the contractor Mr. James McNamara, on the restoration of St. Peter's Cathedral.

So far this year the expenditures on town account have exceeded the receipts, $9,088.22.

At its last meeting the Town Council donated $100 to the Fire Brigade Band, and $50 to the City Band.

Peterborough streets will reveal their beauty by the electric light on the evening of May 24th.

The drill shed grounds will be illuminated by the electric light on the evening of the 24th.

The civic edition of the Queen's birthday will be celebrated in Peterborough on May 24th.

Mr. W. Wood, of Montreal, has secured the contract for erecting the C. & Q. Station buildings and Freight Sheds, for Peterborough. Work has been begun.

There is $13,000 due the town from the Midland Railway company on account of bonds, and over $4,000 on account of interest overdue.

Those fond of witnessing athletic sports at practice may see a fine display by calling at the Drill Shed any afternoon at three o'clock.

Work on the contract for lighting the town by electricity was begun on Tuesday morning. Everything will be ready for the grand illumination, May 24th.

Mr. A. Elliott offers a silver cup for single scull competition on Little Lake on the 26th, open to town and county of Peterborough. Intending competitors will kindly notify Mr. Elliott at once.

The City Band will don their handsome new uniform on the 24th. Mills Bros. have supplied the caps, surmounted with crimson plumes, and sartorial scissors are being plied on the uniforms.

The Fire Brigade had a wet practice on Thursday evening. Both hydrants and steamer were engaged. "Jim" made the steamer hop, and she never, since she entered the town, did better work.

Brodie's woollen mills being exceedingly busy on orders, considerable inconvenience was caused by a mishap to the water wheel, causing a stoppage of the machinery. Everything all right again, however.

The town has expended $625.27 on charity, up to May 12th. This is at the rate of about $2500 a year. Would the amount be so large if the town joined the county in the establishment of a House of Refuge?

On Saturday evening a buggy, containing a gentleman and two ladies, was capsized by the dirt heaps on Hunter street, and one of the ladies had her wrist badly sprained. The heaps are dangerous, but they were not dry enough to remove sooner.

Boyd, who extended his lease of Mr. Enos Dunsford's livery horse, buggy and buffalo robe, beyond legal limits, was on Saturday last sentenced by Judge Dennistoun to six months—a light sentence on account of his previous good character.

INQUIRIES.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE INQUEST.

Mr. Dumble, chairman, presented the report of the Special Committee appointed to investigate and suggest improvements in the working of the Collegiate Institute.

The report substantially recommended:

That notice be given all the teachers in the Collegiate Institute that at the end of the present term ending midsummer, their services will be dispensed with—such teachers, however, to have the right to apply for reappointment.

That the staff of the Collegiate Institute consist of four teachers.

That the secretary advertise at once for principal and teachers for the new staff.

That pupils in the Collegiate Institute taking Latin, Greek and German be charged one dollar per month, this charge to take effect September 1st.

And with reference to the public schools, that Mr. Stratton be requested to give more time to the inspection of the school, and that his salary be at the rate of $200, and that Mr. Coleman be not required to supervise the ward schools.

In answer to Mr. Weir, the chairman said that the Committee was fully represented at its meetings.

On the clause relating to Inspection Mr. Stratton was asked in regard to the time, he could give to the work of inspection, and he replied that he had heretofore given more time than he had been remunerated for. As to the time he was able to give to the work of instruction in the school in future, that would depend on what the board required of him; the present year he had visited the whole schools monthly. As to qualifications he had legal qualifications as good as any Inspector in the province.

Mr. Dumble stated that Mr. Stratton had been actively engaged in current school work for over 30 years, and the Department of Education showed their confidence in his qualifications by invariably appointing him an Examiner. If he were not fully qualified this would not be done. The chairman also spoke confidently in regard to the Inspector's qualifications and fitness for the work.

The report was adopted only Messrs. Kendry and Rutherford voting nay.

The board adjourned.

For a good plain Silk or Satin parasol, the correct style this season go to Turnbull's.

FASHIONABLE WOMEN.

Fashion kills more women than toil and sorrow. Obedience to fashion is a greater transgression of the laws of woman's nature, a greater injury to her physical and mental constitution than poverty and neglect. The slave woman at her tasks will live and grow old and see two or three generations of her mistresses fade away. The washerwoman, with scarce a ray of hope to cheer her in her toil, will live to see her fashionable sisters die all around her. The kitchen maid is hearty and strong, when her lady has to be nursed like a sick baby. It is a sad truth that fashion pampered women are almost worthless, for the ends of human life; they have still less power of mental will, and quite as little physical energy. They live for no great purpose in life; they accomplish no worthy ends. They are only doll forms in the hands of milliners and servants, to be dressed and fed to order. They write no books; they set no rich examples of virtues and womanly life. If they rear children, servants and nurses do all save give them birth, and when reared, what are they? What do they ever amount to but weak scions of the old stock? Who ever heard of a fashionable woman a child exhibiting any virtue or power of mind from which it became eminent? Read the biographies of our great and good men and women. Not one of them had a fashionable mother. They nearly all sprang from a strong minded woman, who had about as little to do with fashion as with the changing clouds. The trite saying, "A man may say too much even on the best of subjects," will answer here. "If I had not lifted up the stone you had not found the jewel."

At a crowded influential meeting of patriotic associations in London Thursday evening to protest against the abandonment of Gen. Gordon, the conduct of the Government was denounced as devoid of principle, moral courage and statesmanship, and that it would bring down the indignation and reprobation of the whole country. Mr. Henry Chaplin, M.P., described the members of the Government as a cowardly caitiff crew, and offered a resolution declaring that the abandonment of General Gordon would dishonor the Government and bring discredit upon the country. Mr. Edward Clarke, M.P., moved that the sacrifice of life in Egypt was due to the want of resolute policy on the part of the English Government. The motion was unanimously carried.

A PITHY EPISTLE!

We have received the following letter which we take pleasure in publishing:—

T. DOLAN & Co.

Dear Sirs,—A week or two since I purchased one of your spring suits, and thought I was doing the proper thing. I regret to say that the suit has turned out a failure—a deplorable failure. You warranted it as strong and serviceable and not to lose its shape soon. Well sirs, last night as I was getting home from the lodge about—well about—well I should say a trifle after ten, a friend whom I met near Mason's grocery, said I looked as if I was a trifle under the weather. This morning I examined my suit, and blessed if I'd know myself rigged out in it. The thing's collapsed, I call on you to make good the damage to my character and appearance, or I shall publish you.

Yours expectantly,

JOHN PLUNDERSKOFF.

To which we reply:—

OUR DEAR JOHN,—Yours to hand and contents noted—with grief, mortification and abashment of spirit. Also with a certain amount of commiseration. Your letter, John, dear boy, does not give us all the facts—you're keeping something back.

Always be honest John. What lodge were you at? Did you take an active part in the exercises? Were you "riding the goat," John, and did that mythical animal subject you to much diversion? Are you quite sure that you did not linger anywhere on the way home after adjournment? Things often look different after lodge night, and this may be one of the occasions. Was there any mud on your suit this morning? Have you a vivid recollection of trying to unlock your front door with a suspender buckle? You haven't!

Take it all back John. Don't let your letter go to protest. You have allowed your imagination to wander, and you've been in a burst of philanthropy, trying to wipe the sidewalk clean with your coat.

In the meantime, undeterred by the melancholy fate of your suit, John, we shall sell others—but won't guarantee them for "lodge" nights.

Confines itself to Legitimate Life Insurance. Affords Security to its Policy-Holders Unsurpassed by any other Company.

The system of distribution of surplus employed by this Association secures, with other advantages, the following:
1st.—It avoids the weakening effect of paying too large profits in the early years of the policy, and the consequent inability to do justice, as the policy becomes older.
2nd.—It strengthens the position of the Association, and consequently the security to the policy-holders.
3rd.—It secures an increase in profits from year to year, and equitable share to each kind of policy.
4th.—It does away with the objection, "that endowment and limited payment policies are taxed for the special benefit of ordinary life policies."

Policies Non-Forfeitable after Two Years, and Indisputable after Three Years.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE

Sixteenth Annual Meeting.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the Peterborough Mechanic's Institute was held in the reading room, Institute buildings, Water street, on Monday evening May 19th.

There were

Messrs. A. P. Poussette, president in the chair, John Corkery, Secretary-treasurer, E. J. Toker, Wm. Smith, A. McFarlane, Wm. English, James English, Robert Robertson, D. Clarke, R. Courtney, Peters, Robert Hamilton, Sheriff Hall, James Edmison and others.

Mr. Poussette read, as follows:

THE REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS.

The Directors have pleasure in reporting that during the year the Institute's efficiency has been fully maintained and that there has been a considerable addition to the Library, of books, both useful and entertaining, the expenditure in that direction having been $215.55.

At the usual session classes were formed for instruction in Mechanical Drawing, Shorthand and Bookkeeping, but the attendance was not such as to be considered satisfactory. It is earnestly hoped that in the future young men will more largely avail themselves of this means of acquiring useful knowledge of a strictly practical nature. John Carnegie, Esq., M.P.P., kindly offered to contribute the sum of $25 for prizes, but as there could be little competition, it was not desirable to take advantage of the offer; but, as no doubt Mr. Carnegie will allow his offer to remain open for another year, it is suggested that the new board shall take steps to distribute this sum amongst the next winter's classes.

The statement of receipts and expenditures has been duly audited and is herewith submitted.

For the Board,
A. P. POUSSETTE,
Peterborough, President.
May 19th 1884.

INCOME AND OUTGO.

Expenditure Increase While the Revenues Decline.

The following statement shows the revenue and expenditure for the month of April, as well as for the first ten months of the current fiscal year, compared with the returns for the same period last year:

Customs	$1,323,143	$1,766,395
Excise	363,061	391,630
Postoffice	177,003	143,347
Public Works, including Railways	225,364	325,701
Miscellaneous	38,456	214,778
Total revenue for April	$2,147,036	$2,841,845
Revenue to 31. M'ch.	23,455,220	26,381,085
Total revenue for ten months	$25,602,257	$29,223,630
Expenditure	$2,006,321	$2,600,739
Expenditure to 31st March 1884	20,691,771	18,902,149
Total for ten months	$22,698,593	$21,062,899

It will be observed that while the revenue for the first ten months of the current fiscal year has declined to the extent of $3,621,273 as compared with the returns for the same period last year, the expenditure has increased $1,635,706. The decline of over $110,000 in the receipts from railway and other public works in the month of April indicates that notwithstanding Sir Charles Tupper's system of charging running expenses to capital and Sir L. Tilley's high tariff, the traffic on the Intercolonial Railway is rapidly falling off.

LILY LAKE.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—Would you be kind enough to allow me space in the columns of your valuable paper to correct an error. Some time in March the patrons of the cheese factory, 4th line of Smith, better known as Margaret Moore's old Tavern Stand, held their first meeting of the season for general business. Amongst other things spoken of, the salesman's salary was discussed, when some person was good enough to state that the president of Lily Lake factory had too much salary for his work; that he had equal to four dollars per day. "Well, but" says a voice from the other side of the room, "does he not spend a good deal of time retailing for the local trade." "Oh! but," says the first party, "he puts that profit in his own pocket and only gives the patrons the wholesale price." Now, sir, this is an untruth, and were it not for ignorance, would look very much like a lie. I also understand that some time previous to this our cheese maker, Mr. Myers Sine, was accused of the same crime. Now, sir, any person that saw our statement in THE EXAMINER, of Lily Lake factory for the season of 1883, must surely have known better. I would just give our friends north a kindly word of advice to mind their own factory, and look after their own business and never mind how the Officers of Lily Lake Cheese Factory earn their salary. Yours,

A PATRON.

A DIAMOND-EDGED "SEND OFF."

The Pleasant Proximity of Popularity.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Thomas Dolan of T. Dolan & Co., started for a two months combined pleasure and business trip to the "old country." On Tuesday evening a number of his many friends, wishing to give him a God-speed on his journey, assembled at his home and presented him with a beautiful diamond pin and the following

ADDRESS.

MR. THOS. DOLAN.—During the course of [illegible] we have always been pleased to meet you here in this our own home and [illegible] glad to know that the feelings we have [illegible] of you have been reciprocated. To [illegible] reference is generally a pleasant one, [illegible] flattering and I feel myself not deserving such. The regret that I would feel at a permanent parting is tendered more pleasing when I know that my absence is only temporary—and I trust to return [illegible] again after a short time. Against [illegible] express my feelings at the kind mention of me contained in your address and for the magnificent souvenir which you have kindly given me—and which I shall treasure among my dearest possessions. I have to thank you again for all your kind wishes for my trip, and hope to greet you all again by the hand when I return.

Complimentary remarks, as to Mr. Dolan's many excellent business and social qualities, were made by several gentlemen, and after a most pleasant time, spent in enjoying the hospitalities of their host and in social intercourse and enjoyment, the company separated.

Turnbull's customers that want a particular shade in Dress Goods, will do well to call early, as they are selling rapidly and he finds it hard to replace the new shades this season.

Oddfellows Demonstration.

A Big Chain of Triple Links at Brockville.

We have received a circular in reference to the coming Oddfellows International Demonstration in Brockville July 9th to the 11th inclusive. The programme will not admit of summary, therefore we give below the circular in extenso:

It has been decided to hold an Oddfellows International Demonstration, at Brockville, Ontario, on July 9th, 10th and 11th, which gives promise of being the greatest gathering of the kind ever held in Eastern Ontario. The Executive Committee—at an expense of over $3,000—are perfecting an elaborate programme for the entertainment of Oddfellows and other guests. The following is a brief synopsis:

FIRST DAY—JULY 9TH.

The morning will be devoted to the reception of Lodges and Encampments arriving.

Afternoon—Parade of Lodges and Encampments, Lacrosse Matches, Bicycle Races, Caledonian Games, etc.

Evening—A Promenade Concert will be given in the park by a number of fine Bands; the ground will be lighted by Electric Light; the evening programme will be brought to a close with a Brilliant pyrotechnic display, under the direction of Prof. Hand of Hamilton.

SECOND DAY—JULY 10th.

Forenoon—Parade of Uniformed Patriarchs, Encampments and Lodges. Expected to be the largest parade of the kind ever witnessed in Canada.

Afternoon—Competitive Drill of Uniformed Patriarchs, for a prize of $800, divided into three parts. Oration by Past Grand Sire, J. H. Nicholson, of Philadelphia, Pa., the silver-tongued orator of the order is expected. To close with an elaborate programme of Athletic Sports.

Evening—All the Lodges and Encampments will make an excursion to the beautiful city of Ogdensburg, N. Y., by a flotilla of steamers brilliantly decorated with Chinese Lanterns, colored lights, etc. During the progress of the excursion a pyrotechnic display will be made, the whole forming the most brilliant sight ever witnessed on the far-famed St. Lawrence River.

THIRD DAY—JULY 11TH.

The citizens of Brockville will entertain visiting Lodges and Encampments at a picnic, held at one of the many beautiful parks in the vicinity of the town, and will arrange a programme for the entertainment of their guests.

The Committee hope to see the Press largely represented at this gathering. A Bureau of information, with telephone connections, has been opened, where press representatives may make their headquarters, and where information may be had.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Myrtle Cheese Factory is again in full blast, Mr. Cribbins having commenced operations on the 12th inst. and as there is a considerable number more delivering milk this year who did not do so formerly, besides the old patrons, consequently we have every prospect of a busy season.

THE WEATHER.

During most of May so far we have had cold, windy weather with frost on the mornings of the 15th and 16th with a nice little snow storm on the latter morning. We hope and believe it has now paid its last lingering far-e-well till fall.

OBITUARY.

The Late Henry Collins.

He came to this [illegible] in 1854, and [illegible] the neighborhood of [illegible]; here he [illegible] with the handling of [illegible] that place and here, he found his way to Peterborough, from which place, after a residence of four or five years, he removed to North Monaghan, where he lived about thirty years. There can be little doubt as to the means of his death. When brought to the surface, the body was found to have a stone weighing not less than fifty pounds fastened to the neck by a rope. The rope was tied to the stone by three turns, and was passed four times around the neck of the unfortunate man. Appearances indicate that McAuliffe placed the stone close to the edge of the steep bank, and stooping close to it, had fastened the rope, and then by placing both hands under the boulder had lifted it and made the fatal plunge.

The deceased had been in ill health for some time, and his reason [illegible] impaired. On Monday morning he had left home with the expressed intention of taking a walk. The rope he used was a portion of line used for drawing water from the well. The body was removed to his late home, and coroner Fife notified, but an inquest was considered unnecessary.

CAVAN.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Monday 12th May 1884, Mrs. Joseph Armstrong, of Cavan, died very suddenly at the age of 66 years. Mrs. Armstrong had been ill about a week previously, but had quite recovered, apparently, and on the day she died expressed herself as feeling better than usual. She and her daughter were passing from one room to another talking over various matters when momentarily she exclaimed "Oh, Millie!" Her daughter caught her, just in time to save her from falling. Other members of the family hurried to her assistance, and laid her on a sofa, but she never after appeared to recognize any of those around her and passed away to her reward in about 20 minutes afterwards. Mrs. Armstrong was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. John Doyell, who was about the first settler in the township of Cavan, having moved into that township in 1818 and resided on the same lot till his decease a few years ago. Her funeral took place on Wednesday and was largely attended.

Obituary.

We are pained to note the death of Mr. Horatio Canning, a highly respected townsman, who died at Ashburnham on Tuesday morning. He was a member of St. Luke's congregation and one of the first members of the C. E. T. Society. The following resolution adopted at a meeting of the society on Tuesday evening shows in what esteem he was held:

Moved, seconded and resolved, That this Society having heard of the demise of Mr. H. O. Canning, the Treasurer of St. Luke's Temperance Guild, desires to put on record their high appreciation of the late Mr. Canning's estimable qualities. He was indeed universally esteemed and respected, and in every position of life faithfully tried to fulfil his duties: That he has left behind him the odour of a good name is known to every member of this society, and we most earnestly sympathize with his sorrowing widow and afflicted family. May the God of the fatherless sustain and comfort them: That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary to Mrs. Canning.

MR. GLADSTONE.

A Republican's Estimate of the Grand Old Man.

Mr. Gladstone, at the age of seventy-five, Prime Minister of England, and the chief of English statesmen—no less eminent for weight of personal character and accomplished scholarship than for his extraordinary mastery of public affairs and his Parliamentary eloquence—is a fine illustration of the English genius in its most characteristic form. There is a certain sturdiness in Mr. Gladstone's nature showing itself in every way, except his reputed sensitiveness to personal criticism, which is in singular contrast with the Oriental character of Lord Beaconsfield, so long his chief opponent. It was the want of this quality quite as much as an alien genius which made the late minister so apparently un-English. No one, indeed, cultivated English ways more assiduously, or celebrated with more gusto the distinctive English life, than Lord Beaconsfield, and he identified himself with the bucolic party—the squire, the country gentleman—and he seemed in every manner resolved, if resolution would accomplish it, to be an Englishman.

But the contrast between him and Mr. Gladstone was as apparent in every aspect as it is in the remarkable caricatures of Punch, in which, if Gladstone has sometimes the air of Cagliostro. When Disraeli was at the head of the ministry, the feeling was unavoidable that it was an accomplished foreign talent that was governing England. But with Gladstone, it is England governing herself. Much more than in any chief minister the English conscience is felt in Gladstone. In Lord Sidmouth and Mr. Percival, the two most ordinary and common-place of Prime Ministers, there was the conventional English respectability and morality. But in Gladstone it is the power of rectitude which is remarkable. He believes in honest dealing, and in subordinating public policy to the moral law. He may not like to be personally criticised, but he is not ashamed to be called sentimental in his regard for the moral honor as well as for the "interest" of England.

Nothing could be more distasteful to Mr. Gladstone than the Egyptian complication. Nothing could have been more delightful to Lord Beaconsfield. The vagueness of the object to be attained by warlike operations, the difficulty of a possible protectorate of the country, the desire to respect the rights of a people so remote from English sympathy and habits, naturally oppress Mr. Gladstone, thus necessarily engaged in transactions in which his country should never have been involved. But they would have been exciting chapters of romance to Lord Beaconsfield, and he would have endeavored to turn the situation to the most dazzling account.

Coping at once with the elusive situation in Egypt, with the franchise in England, and with the discontent of Ireland, and goaded by a Tory party not greatly led, but officered by a brilliant cynic, a worthy squire, and a nondescript madcap, only a chief of the sturdiest moral and mental quality could hold at seventy-five a position which no one else could fill. It is, as we have said, his character no less than his genius which will give him a great place in English history. With the conquering Chatham and the accomplished Canning, with William Pitt and Sir Robert Peel, Gladstone must always be mentioned as an English statesman and minister who showed in his public and private life, in his high moral tone and his immense accomplishments, the power which any intelligent and progressive country would wish to see conducting its affairs.

This is the year in which the other great English-speaking nation calls one of its citizens to the Chief Executive Magistracy. Happy that country if it summon to that office a statesman so commanding, conscientious, and courageous, and a man so spotless as the English Prime Minister! Looking at Gladstone, and then across the sea at our Presidential contest, the Englishman may be pardoned if he is not quite ready to abandon a political system which brings so great a man as Gladstone into the direction of the government, and even the American may wonder whether his system of selecting the Chief Magistrate is surer than the English method to bring the real chief of a party to the executive chair.—George William Curtis, in Harper's Magazine for June.

BENJAMIN'S NEWEST.

How He Came to be Whitney's Cousin-in-law.

"Neveille," the bigamist, told a Toledo Commercial Telegram reporter that he and Miss Lillian Whitney, of Detroit, were married some time ago. The Telegram says:

"Neveille admitted that they had known each other long before she went to work for Mr. Whitney in March last; that they both planned a long time for him to secure the position, so they could be together; that he offered Whitney's previous hostler $20 to throw up his job so he could secure it, but he would not take it; that finally he was discharged, and the moment his wife knew it she hastened up town, unknown to her parents, to let him know of it, so he could obtain the place. She told him an 'ad.' would appear in the Detroit Evening News, and he waited near Mr. Whitney's music store until he heard the first boy cry 'Evening News,' and went in at once, applying for the position, made a favorable impression, and was told to call at 9 a.m. the next day, which he did, was taken to the house for the ladies to talk with him, but, says he, 'of course my wife did not recognize me, nor I her. I was told I could have the place at once, by hitching up the team and taking Mr. and Mrs. Whitney out for a drive; was gone a couple of hours; returning, let them out at the front door, drove to the barn, and my wife was there and kissed me, and we were happy then.'"

The Christian Advocate, the organ of the M. E. Church in Canada, says of George R. Newbold, the man of many aliases and wives:—"He has the winsomeness of an angel of light, and the perseverance and impudence of the devil. He is able to deceive the very elect. In 1866 he ingratiated himself into the favor of some of our church authorities in the city of Hamilton, claiming to be a local preacher, and for a short time was allowed to exercise his gifts in this way in both the city and on some of the country circuits. But he never entered the regular ministry of our church, and his name is not found in our minutes. He was expelled from the church after a formal trial, conducted by the late Rev. John McLean, who was at that time presiding elder of the district."

NEW YORK'S FINANCIAL PANIC.

Twenty Millions of Liabilities.

A panic, similar to that which swept over financial circles in New York on the Black Friday in 1873, but not so disastrous in its influence, again visited that city on Wednesday. Clearly it had its beginning in the collapse of the Marine Bank and consequent failure of the Grant & Ward firm, whose wild speculations are now so well known. But other causes were at work, and it only required the match to be applied to precipitate the explosion. The nearly total suspension of the export trade in breadstuffs affected the earnings of the trunk lines, and the demand for manufactures has been small. To sustain speculative prices, while the people's earnings were growing less day by day, was a herculean task, and when the break came it came like an avalanche, shaking the whole fabric of credit. The Stock Exchange did not close its doors on Wednesday as in 1873, but the Metropolitan Bank stopped payment and a run was made on the Phœnix and Second National Banks. There was a complete disruption in the value of stocks, and extreme stringency in money. Thus the day closed. Financial circles in other cities were to some extent affected, and quite a panic took place in the oil market, followed by several failures in New York, principally among bankers and brokers. The liabilities of the failed firms amounts to something like seven millions, but including Grant & Ward's failure of a few days previous the amount will be about twenty millions.

GRANT AND WARD'S FAILURE.

THEIR LIABILITIES PLACED AT OVER FOURTEEN MILLION DOLLARS.

J. T. Davis, receiver for Grant and Ward, New York, testified before the referee that he believed General Grant and his sons were ruined and that they had no part of the firm's property in their possession. He believed the firm owed about $12,449,000 borrowed on collaterals; $1,290,000 borrowed money due depositors: $227,000 in balances of financial stock transactions, and $534,000 due its general creditors, including the Marine Bank, making a total of $14,502,000. The unsecured debts were between two and three millions, he thought. He knew nothing in regard to the assets. He further said that Vanderbilt's check to Gen. Grant appeared in the books of the Marine Bank as one of Ward's deposits.

Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvellous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain is permanently removed. None receive so much benefit, and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women.

We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, in Providence.

LOVE'S RESURRECTION DAY.

Round among the quiet graves,
When the sun was low,
Love went grieving—Love who saves—
Did the sleepers know?

At his touch the flowers awoke,
At his tender call
Birds into sweet singing broke,
And it did befall

From the blooming, bursting sod
All Love's dead arose,
And went flying up to God
By a way Love knows.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Results of Notable Experiments.

The following has been evolved from 1882-83 experiments made at the Model Farm, Guelph:

That in competition with Swede turnips, ensilaged corn fodder gave 15 per cent. less milk, 30 per cent. less butter, and a poorer marketable butter in color.

That damaged wheat can be very economically used in the fattening of cattle—9 lbs. per head per day gave a daily increase of 2 lbs. per head per day, at a cost of 4½ cents per pound to the live weight.

That ricemeal, in the fattening of cattle, gave a daily increase of 1.81 lbs. per head per day, by the use of 6 pounds per head per day, at a cost of about 7 cents per lb.

That barley meal, in cattle fattening, requires a large amount of other foods in association, and 11½ pounds per head per day gave a daily increase of 2.14 pounds per head per day, at a cost of 7 cents per pound live weight.

That cornmeal took the highest place in a daily rate of increase in the fattening of cattle; 9½ pounds per head daily gave 2.31 pounds per head per day, at a cost of 5½ cents per pound of the added animal weight.

That peameal gave the second best daily rate of increase at the least cost of all the regular cattle feeding grains. Eight and one-half pounds per head daily gave a rate of 2.38 pounds, at a cost of 5 cents per pound of the weight added to the animal.

That a pure bred Shorthorn steer can be brought to a weight of 1,700 pounds when one month under two years old, or a daily rate of increase equal to 2½ pounds per day.

That Hereford grade steer calves can be made to average 611 pounds in 238 days, or a rate of 2⅝ pounds per day.

That Aberdeen Poll grade steer calves can be made to average 730 pounds in 273 days, or a rate of 2⅔ pounds per day.

That during winter a 1,000 pound steer will consume daily ten pounds of hay, thirty-nine pounds turnips, four pounds bran and nine pounds of a mixture of grain, upon which it will add 2-11 pounds to its live weight.

That one pound of added weight to a 1,000 pound steer can be obtained from the use of various materials that contain eleven pounds of dry substances, chemically.

That by a larger variety of experiments with several classes of cattle, and many kinds of food, we find the actual cost of adding one pound to the live weight of a 1,000 pound animal is six cents to the feeder who grows his own materials, and nearly twelve cents when the food is bought in the regular market—manure and management not considered.

That sugar beet, weight for weight with mangolds and turnips, and in association with equal kinds and quantities of other foods, gave the highest returns in feeding cattle, or 2.70 pounds per head per day.

That there is a remarkable uniformity in the annual value of wool and mutton from grades of Cotswolds, Leicester, Merino, Oxford Down and South Down, resulting from differences in weight and value of both products.

That from nearly 5,000 observations, the following notes have been obtained as evidence of peculiarities, characteristics, or other indications of breeds of cattle:

That there is no such class as a "general purpose" breed—one to do the best for the dairyman and the butcher.

That an average cow for dairy purposes should give 20 lbs. of milk per day during 200 days of every year; 8 lbs. of cream for every 100 lbs. of milk; 45 lbs. of butter from every 100 lbs. of cream, and fully 10 lbs. of cheese for every 100 lbs. of milk.

That bulk, volume or per cent. of cream is no safe criterion of the quantity of butter in that cream; weight alone is the proper mode of judging.

That breed as much, if not more than food, affects the quantity and quality of milk, cream, butter and cheese.

That in Ontario Experimental Farm experience the Shorthorn is an average milker, short in duration per season, low in specific gravity, high in per cent. of cream, proportionately high in butter, and also high in cheese production. The grade of this breed approaches the nearest of any others to what is called a "general purpose cow."

That the Aberdeen Poll is low in quantity of milk and the second highest of any in specific gravity. The grade of this breed is much improved in milking properties, giving a greater weight of cream, though a lower per cent. of it.

That the Hereford is not more prominent than the Shorthorn and Aberdeen Poll in regard to milk, except in proportion of butter from cream, in which it is highest. The grade is very prominently in advance, particularly in proportion of cream, but one of the lowest in cheese.

That the Devon is most distinct in highest specific gravity of milk, and the weight of cheese from milk. We have no experience with the grade of this breed.

That the Galloway milk appears to be of a peculiar texture—rich, or so small in butter globules as to rise very slowly and very indistinct in the test tubes.

That the Ayrshire is a particularly heavy, long milker, giving five times her own weight per season. The milk is somewhat low in specific gravity and per cent. of cream, but it is over the average in cheese production. The Ayrshire grade is not improved in any respect except in duration of milking season

That the Jersey is remarkable for proportion of cream, averaging thirty-seven per cent. and giving a value of dairy products incomparable to any other breed in our experience.

That the native, or common cow of Ontario, not Canada properly, because Quebec in particular stands distinct in her class of dairy cows, takes a high place in value of annual produce for ordinary dairy purposes, and, along with the Shorthorn grade, is peculiarly the dairy cow of the country.

HINTS ON TREE-PLANTING.

TIMELY DIRECTIONS TO PROSPECTIVE CELEBRANTS OF AN ARBOR DAY.

The Quebec Government has issued a small phamphlet, or tract, containing valuable suggestions for Arbor Day work, from which we make a few extracts for the information of intending tree-planters:

All trees do not suit all soils; when restricted to a particular soil we must plant those trees which suit it. The following trees and soils are suited to each other:

Sugar Maple—Gravelly, light, mountainous, stony, rich, dry soils.
Silver Maple—Alluvium, damp, flat.
Birches—Cool, sandy, shallow.
Beech—Cool, gravel, mountainous, shallow.
White Ash—Cool, deep, rich.
Black Ash—Low, damp, marshy.
Elm—Alluvium, damp, flat, rich.
White Oak—Clay, deep, dry.
Pine—Sandy, light.
Fir—Low, damp, marshy.
Spruce—Cool, gravel, shallow.
White Cedar—Low, marshy.

Small trees are much easier transplanted than larger ones, as they can be taken up without great injury done to the roots. The more roots and earth the better the tree will start in its new location. Great care must be taken to prevent the roots, especially the roots of conifers, from drying before planting; if they come by mail or by express, prepare beforehand a thick mess of cow dung, clay and water, and as soon as the plants arrive dip the roots in this, and a layer of mud, impervious to air, will be deposited on them. If a large number of trees are to be planted on a moderate sized piece of land, it should be ploughed and harrowed carefully, but if only a few trees are to be set out, the spot where each is to be set may be treated with spade and hoe. In dry or moderately damp soils a trench should be made, just deep enough to receive the plant to the same depth at which it stood in the forest, but in low damp soils, no trenches are required, but they should be set on the surface of the ground and their roots covered with mould and pieces of turf taken from the adjacent soil.

Two planters are better than one. While one selects the plants and trims the roots and branches, the other makes a little mound at the bottom of the trench with fine mould taken from its side. He who holds the plant spreads its roots on the mound, and the assistant covers them with earth, carefully filling up the interstices between the rootlets. When the roots are well covered the trench is filled, and the whole trodden down. If the soil is dry the earth should be watered before the trench is completely filled, and then carefully trodden after the job is finished. A stake to tie the plant with a straw band completes the operation. If the season be dry the trees should be mulched—a layer of straw, sawdust and tanbark spread around it—thus preserving the moisture.

F. Burrows, of Wilkesport, writes that he was cured of a very dangerous case of inflammation of the lungs, solely by the use of five bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Feels great pleasure in recommending it to the public, as he had proved it (for many of the diseases it mentions to cure) through his friends, and in nearly every instance it was effectual. Do not be deceived by any imitations of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Be sure you get the genuine.

The Reciprocity Question.

There is evidently a growing feeling among the Americans in favor of reciprocity. The question is shortly to be brought up in the Washington House of Representatives in the form of a resolution favoring a commercial agreement with Canada without specifying its scope, in place of one calling for a renewal of the former treaty. The Americans are not prepared to accept reciprocity in natural productions merely, but are disposed to prefer a more comprehensive treaty. The broader the better for both parties. The Canadian people want no more one-sided free trade, but agreement by which the Americans would take down their tariff barrier in consideration of our doing the same thing, would give an immense impetus to Canadian industry. Our farmers would reap the principal benefit, and there is no reason to suppose that our manufacturers would not be able to hold their own against United States competition, with a fair field and no favor. If in some lines they were subjected to sharp rivalry in our market, in other branches Canadians would be able to send their goods into the neighboring States.

When the National Policy was being agitated one of the principal arguments for its adoption was that it would help to bring about reciprocity by making it an object for the United States to gain admission to the Canadian market. For, the supporters of the N.P. to oppose reciprocity, in case it is offered, and belittle it as not worth having, display the grossest inconsistency.

In case the United States re-open the question they should be met half way by our own Government, and no class interests should be permitted to stand in the way of closer commercial relations.

Shaker Blood Syrup

Is designed to meet the wants of a large portion of our people who are either too poor to employ a physician, or are too far removed to easily call one, and a still larger class who are not sick enough to require medical advice, and yet are out of sorts and need a medicine to build them up, give them at appetite, purify their blood, and oil up the machinery of their bodies so it will do its duty willingly. No other article takes hold of the system and hits exactly the spot like Shaker Blood Syrup. It works like magic, reaching every part of the human body through the blood, giving to all renewed life and energy.

My friend, you need not take our word. Ask your neighbor, who has just taken one bottle. He will tell you that "It's the best dollar I ever invested."

Shaker Syrup Company: Dear Sirs—Although greatly prejudiced against patent medicines in general, I was induced from the excellent reports I had heard of your Blood Syrup, to try a bottle, last December, for Dyspepsia and general prostration, and I have received very gratifying results from its use. I am now using the second bottle, and consider it a very valuable remedy for indigestion and its attendant troubles.

Yours truly, O. F. TWITCHELL,
Gorham, N. H.

UNITED STATES NEWS NOTES.

The remains of Prof. Samuel D. Gross were cremated Thursday at Washington, Pa.

In the New York Assembly the Bill granting the right of suffrage to women was lost by 57 to 62.

Mrs. Armstrong, of Sparta, Wis., died after having been without food for fifty-four days. She had been ill for some time.

At Grand Marais, Mich., John Foey was shot and killed by his wife. The woman is under arrest and admits she did the shooting, but claims it was done in self-defence. Her story is not generally believed, as she has shot at other men.

On Wednesday Libbie Morgan requested A. F. McMillan, head clerk of the Union foundry works at Pullman, Ill., to call at her house. While sitting there Miss Morgan's sister, Mrs. Atwood, and her husband entered. The latter, without warning, discharged a gun at McMillan, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Atwood has been arrested. He lives in Buffalo. He claims McMillan insulted Miss Morgan.

At least 250 citizens gathered about the jail at Winston, N.C., for the purpose of lynching Henry Swaim, for the murder of Mrs. Harrison last Monday. The Mayor tried to dissuade them from their purpose. They listened respectfully to him, then broke in the jail and hanged the murderer near the scene of his crime. He confessed, saying his object was robbery.

GIVE A CANADIAN A CHANCE.

It is reported that a difficulty has arisen respecting the appointment of a successor to Major General Luard as commander of the Canadian militia. It seems that some time ago Mr. Caron opened negotiations with Colonel Middleton with a view to having him appointed to the position. Both were willing, but they reckoned without the commander-in-chief. It is said that the Duke of Cambridge, who occupies that distinguished position, was so displeased at the contemptible manner in which General Luard was treated that he doesn't want to allow another imperial officer to be appointed to the position. This has almost frightened Mr. Caron into a fit. He doesn't see how the militia can worry along without an imported officer at its head, and he is at his little wits end to know what to do. We will make a suggestion to help him out of his difficulty. Why should we have an imported general at the head of our militia at all? Why cannot he give a Canadian a chance? Let him appoint one of our officers to the command of the militia. There is no reason why such a commander might not be just as competent as the imported article, while he would better understand the nature and character of the people with whom he would have to deal, and would in every way give better satisfaction. We have in Canada no lack of officers who are well qualified for the position. The woods are full of them. Let us have a Canadian Commander by all means. —Ottawa Free Press.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 22, 1884.

The Same Spirit Everywhere.

The chief end and aim of your true Tory is to get and enjoy power and the sweets of spoil that usually accompany such a possession. This disposition, it is needless to inform any Canadian, is so rampant in this country that no subterfuge, no course of action, however unfair or dishonest, is neglected, which will lead to the goal of office. And in far-away England the same spirit is manifested. The Conservatives there have been shivering in the cold shades of opposition for a long time, and now they are becoming impatient for a restoration of their—to them—legitimate rights, the spoils of office. Though the Tory party is guilty of originating the Egyptian trouble, they are now seeking to overthrow the Gladstone Government on its Egyptian policy. To secure their defeat the Conservatives are not defending or substituting a better policy of their own, but are seeking by intrigue to break up Mr. Gladstone's following. They have tampered with the Parnell party, which on account of Mr. Gladstone's liberal policy towards Ireland has hitherto supported the "grand old man." No doubt the Conservatives have made some specific pledge to the Irish members. The Tories have shown a hereditary hostility to liberty in any form, but especially to Ireland. But they are unscrupulous enough, for the sake of obtaining office, to bury the feuds of the past and unite with a party whom they have always despised, and whose claims they now regard with respect only as the possible stepping stones to power. This is Toryism all over. It is the same in Canada. Whatever really good legislation the Conservatives have given the country is stolen from the policy of the Reform party. The latter has agitated and struggled for reform in face of the bitter hostility of the Tory party, and when the country would no longer be denied, it has been the mode of our Conservative friends to adroitly step in, steal Reform thunder and measures, and pass and claim credit for legislation which they had always opposed from principle and only adopted from policy.

Hamilton's Creek.

This stream passing through the most thickly built portion of the town for a short distance is destined to be a perpetual source of trouble and loss until some intelligent and practicable plan shall have been adopted, to prevent damage by flood and thus protect the interests of property owners, whose buildings adjoin or are adjacent to it. That this course comes within the scope of the duty of the town to the citizens is plain. The civic treasury furnishes funds for the maintenance of a steamer and fire brigade for the purpose of portecting property from the effects of fire, although there is available the other protection implied by the possibility of insuring against loss by fire. But against water damage there is no insurance except in the prompt action of the town authorities to take such measures with the creek as will prevent a continual recurrence of the annoyance to which property owners are subjected every spring. There is no economy in burking the matter. It is largely due to the unwillingness of entering upon litigation that the town is not now defending suits for damages arising from the effects of the floods last spring. But it is the desire of no citizen to exact the town in damages. They would far rather be protected from liability to loss and damage. This can be done by taking steps to keep open the stream and remove the possibility of damage being wrought. Every one, moreover, is familiar with the fact that the town is hampered by the uncertainty they feel in respect of their right of taking action in the face of the right of individuals. But all this uncertainty could be removed by proper and prompt action. The present condition of affairs is a bar to progress. The Messrs Whyte & Co., Hunter street, contemplate extensions and improvements of their premises and one can sympathise with their hesitation in proceeding so long as they are in doubt where in or near the bed of the creek they may safely place foundation walls. The entire length of the creek through the more thickly built portion of the town is the proper subject of careful consideration and rational action on the part of the town authorities. The longer the delay the more complicated the situation.

Bogus Promises.

The workingmen of the Dominion are becoming so fully alive to the swindling nature of the promises made to them by the Tory party at election times, that it is hardly probable that they will be fooled much longer. A few days ago a mass meeting was held in Toronto, and the question of assisted immigration considered. The following resolution, which was unanimously adopted, shows that the workingman is waking up to the manner in which he has been and is being gulled:

"Resolved, that this meeting declare the present system of immigration a triple injustice- first to the immigrant, who is led here by false and fraudulent representations made by agents of the Canadian Government in England; secondly, that immigration is an injury to the workingman of Canada, as the labour market here is already overcrowded; and thirdly, that it is an injustice to the people of Canada to overcrowd the country with indigent immigrants, who have to be supported by the charity of the city during a long, severe winter, and this meeting calls upon the Government to abandon the system of assisted passages, feeling them to be a mockery, a delusion and a snare."

The Trades and Labour Council expressed a similar feeling on the subject. Still the Dominion Government, which poses as the special friend of the workingman, gives assistance to pauper emigrants from the Old Country, to compete with Canadian mechanics and labourers, who have hard enough work to find remunerative employment. Not only is this done, but Hon. Mr. Pope actually insulted the workingmen's deputation that interviewed him at Ottawa on the subject. The advocates of the N. P. pretend that their chief object is to give the workingman high wages. But it would seem that their real object is to reduce the price of wages as much as possible, in the interest of their friends, the monopolists and contractors. The Heathen Chinee is allowed to compete at starvation wages with civilized labor in British Columbia, and the other day nearly 300 Italian laborers arrived at Toronto to take the place of striking laborers. The Government that will allow Chinese to flood the country, and tax the labourers for funds to import paupers from Great Britain to compete with him—to take the bread out of his children's mouths—is perpetrating outrages on the workingmen of the country, whose friends they falsely profess to be.

Straining the Bond.

Every day develops new phrases of the centralization policy of the present Dominion government—new exhibitions of hostility to the provinces. Recently a portion of money belonging to the province of Nova Scotia was appropriated by the centralizing power without the consent of the local legislature. A couple of years ago a Mr. Dustan removed his sugar refinery from St. John to Halifax, and the Novia Scotia government permitted him to bring his machinery in free of duty. Lately he has built a great refinery at Halifax, and claimed the right to import his machinery free of duty owing to this old anti-Confereration concession. The Dominion government recognized the claim, and passed an order-in-council admitting the machinery free of duty, and charging to the Nova Scotia government the amount of duty remitted. The latter, of course, dispute the right of the Dominion government to grant the exemption at the expense of the province, and will use every endeavor to defeat this contemptible piece of sharp practice. Sir John keeps and has kept in power by adroit and unscrupulous use of the patronage and resources of the Dominion. Having exhausted pretty well both the resources of the patronage at his disposal and those of the Dominion, he fears a decline of his influence and being, as he always has been, jealous of the patronage and power of the provinces, he studiedly attempts to clip their powers and subjects them to annoyance by every means in his power. He expects, doubtless, to make the bonds of Confederation so irksome and galling that the provinces will throw them off, and then will result what he longs for, legislative union. Thus a better field for the exercise of his peculiar talents will be presented.

The Petrolia Advertiser practically asserts that McKim, whom the Tory Bribery Quartette attempted to buy, got more than the $1,000 he turned over to the speaker of the Legislature. To which the Welland Tribune retorts very appositely:

If Mr. McKim got more than the $1,000 he placed in the Speaker's hands, one would naturally judge that he found it in the same nest. We always suspected there was some occult reason why Bunting & Co. fought so hard against the production of those telegrams.

Editorial Notes.

The Bribery Plot case was up for argument in the Queen's Bench Divisional Court on Monday, and was further enlarged till Friday.

Mr. G. W. Stephens has a bill before the Quebec Legislature making it illegal to issue watered stock. The bill is an excellent one, and a similar measure should be enacted to apply to the whole Dominion.

Sir Richard Cartwright addressed, in his usual masterly manner, an immense assemblage in the Grand Opera House, Toronto, on Monday night. His address was an able and comprehensive review of the political questions of the day.

The Ottawa Free Press is now clothed upon with an entire new dress. This brisk journal is full of news and literary life, and has fully earned the popularity it enjoys and the prominent place it occupies amongst live newspapers. May its shadow never grow less.

Sir Charles Tupper is a most patriotic man. He is willing to make great sacrifices. Though he has ceased to be a member of the Cabinet, he sacrifices honor and morality by drawing his salary of minister up to May 24th. Sir Charles was always Sir Charles' best friend.

It is reported that the Minister of Education intends at the next meeting of the Ontario Legislature to introduce a bill, changing the time of electing school trustees to that of the ordinary municipal elections. This will at least save expense, and can do no harm, as under the present system in nineteen cases out of twenty absolutely no interest whatever is taken in trustee elections.

Sir John is crafty enough to get out of the tightest political place. The Ottawa postmastership has kept him in lively pickle for some time, and it was a serious matter to get rid of or ignore the claims of the numerous office-seekers. But the wily premier has triumphed. The salary attached to the office has been reduced and now the most influential and consequently most troublesome applicants have dropped out and the situation is greatly simplified.

The N. P. is hard on the ungrateful wretches of laborers who have the assurance to demand enough of wages to keep their families from starvation. The other day the lumbermen at the Chaudiere, near Ottawa, suffered a reduction of wages and a strike ensued. The strikers were left out in the cold, for the employers had no trouble in filling the places of strikers as there were any number of laborers looking for work. Workingmen, remember, the N. P. is not for you but for the capitalist.

To quote the Tory organ against itself may not furnish the most reliable testimony, but it is, perhaps, worth submitting. The Tories have always wildly declaimed and written against the reality of an exodus of Canadians, expratiated by Tory misrule, to the United States. Read what the Mail itself says:

"The exodus of French Canadians across the line, which has assumed larger proportions from here (Montreal) and Quebec this spring than for some years past, is causing more discussion than formerly, as people were looking more for the repatriation of those who had gone before, instead of the large emigration of 100 or 150 per day, composed chiefly of families, now in progress from Montreal alone."

A veteran of Canadian politics died at Quebec on Friday in the person of Hon. Louis Panet, at an advanced age of over 90 years. The deceased belonged to a family famous in Canadian history, and was a member of the Legislative Council of United Canada up to Confederation, when he became a Legislative Councillor of Quebec. Though the old veteran had almost passed out of recollection, he suddenly centered a good deal of grateful public interest in himself a few years ago by having himself carried from his sick-bed in a litter to his seat in the Council, to vote against the sale of the North Shore Railway when Mr. Chapleau was engineering that precious scheme through the Quebec Legislature.

The Minister of Agriculture cannot bear to have the faults of the Government pointed out. His administration of the Department has been one continued bungle, and his management of immigration affairs directed solely to aiding the monopolists who desire to have the market flooded with hands, and thus keep in subjection their workmen. Mr. Thomas Moore, ex-President of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council, asserts that Mr. Pope actually insulted the workingmen's deputation that visited him in Ottawa recently to protest against assisted immigration to laborers and mechanics, while there are so many workingmen idle in Canada. What cares Pope for workingmen, except when he needs their votes?

The Mail is a queer mixture of acuteness and obtuseness. The evidence offered before the magistrates to prove that Mr. McKim was guilty of post-dating a note, even with the worst and most prejudiced construction placed upon it, left the question of guilt so exceedingly doubtful that the magistrates concurred in dismissing the charge, yet the Mail has no doubt of his guilt. Several witnesses on the other hand swore most positively to Mr. Bunting's guilt in the Bribery Plot case. Yet the Mail holds him completely innocent and will hear nothing of his guilt. The police magistrate of Toronto committed him for trial on the charge upon which he was arraigned. Yet he is innocent. The magistrates dismissed the charge against Mr. McKim, yet he is guilty, according to the Tory organ. Such partizan twaddle will deceive no one.

It is singular says a contemporary, how prompt Mr. Geo. Stephen is in London to say that no portion of the subsidies voted by Parliament for the Pacific railway, had been used to build or purchase other railways for the company, and how slow he was to give such information in Canada, when it was called for by a vote of the House of Commons. But if it is true, as Mr. Stephen now says, that the total of the proceeds of land sales and of the cash advanced by the Government was expended on the main line, it cannot be denied that the railway company has been recklessly extravagant in the contracts given by it to the construction company. If similar extravagance is to mark their conduct throughout, the Canadian people need not be at all surprised if they should be called upon to vote a subsidy of $50,000,000 more before the road is finished.

The Governor-General has received the following telegram:—

"It is Her Majesty's wish that the celebration of her Birthday should be deferred for one month at least. Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint the 26th June for Her United Kingdom.

"I am, my dear sir, yours faithfully,
"MELGUND, G. G. Sec'y."

We fear it is rather late in the day to admit of the loyal attention being paid to Her Majesty's wish which would have obtained had that wish been expressed earlier. "Britishers," unacquainted with the active loyality of the Canadians, cannot conceive a proper idea of the enthusiasm with which we enter into a celebration of the Queen's Birthday. In all parts of the Province already, costly and extensive preparations have been made for the fete, and it would be regarded as a great waste of funds, as well as disappointment to the public, were a lengthened postponement to take place. It would be about as easy to postpone a Queen's Birthday celebration till the end of June, as to bring about a general observation of Christmas on Dominion Day.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Thos. Munro formerly of Munro & Alexander, paid a visit to town on Wednesday.

Capt. Willis of the Saved Army was made a member of the Sons of England at the last meeting.

Rev. Mr. Jones of Minden preached the sermon in St. John's church on Sunday evening.

Mr. O. G. Langford, having disposed of his grocery business, has gone to attend the Baptist College at Woodstock.

Messrs. Robert Shaw and Mr. Irwin of Harvey have been appointed Justices of the Peace for the county of Peterborough.

Rev. Messrs. Shaw and Manning, and Messrs. Dumble and Morrow attended the Methodist district meeting at Millbrook on Tuesday.

According to the Toronto World, Mr. F. R. Jennings has been appointed Ontario and Quebec station agent for Peterborough.

Mr. A. D. Faucher was fortunate enough to win £20 at the recent Art Union drawing, London, England.

Rev. Mr. Fielder, of London, England, preached an excellent and practical sermon in the Charlotte street Methodist Church last Sunday morning.

M. W. Bro. D. Spry, Grand Master of the Masonic Lodge of Canada, will be received by the Masonic fraternity in the Masonic Hall here on Friday evening next. He will stop in town en route to Keene, where he lays the corner stone of the new Presbyterian Church, on Saturday.

The result of the Easter examinations of University College Toronto, have been made known. We are glad to observe that Mr. Joseph L. Gilmour, of this town, stood in the first class in Classics for the Third Year. He has taken a most creditable stand at all his examinations and his marked success, not only speaks well for his abilities, but for the thoroughness of the instruction imparted at the Collegiate Institute, where he received his preparatory education.

Mr. J. T. Emerson, who has for some time performed the duties of secretary of the Peterborough council of the Royal Templars of Temperance, was presented with an address of regret on the occasion of his departure for Muskegon, Michigan. The address, which was signed on behalf of the members of the council, by Bro. J. Stratton and Dr. Fife, spoke highly of Mr. Emerson's qualities as a citizen and a Templar.

KEENE.

The corner stone of the new Presbyterian church here, will be laid with Masonic ceremonies on Saturday next. Speaking in reference to this event the Mail says:

"It is probable that a number of Toronto brethren will attend the special meeting of the Grand Lodge on May 26th, for the purpose of laying the corner stone of a new Presbyterian church at Keene, Peterborough County. Arrangements have been made with the C. and P. railway to have a train in waiting at Cobourg, on arrival of the morning express from Toronto, which will convey the brethren to Harwood, where the steamer Dora will be in readiness to complete the trip to Keene. Returning, the brethren will reach Cobourg in time to connect with G. T. R. evening express trains, east and west. Excursions will also be run from Eastern Ontario so that there will probably be a large attendance of the craft of the Province. Keene is beautifully situated on the north shore of Rice Lake, and the sail from Harwood is a pleasant one."

It is probable that the Order will be well represented from Peterborough.

A SEASONABLE SONG.

"The boy stood on the backyard fence, whence all but he had fled. The flames that lit his father's barn shone just above the shed. One bunch of crackers in his hand, two others in his hat: with piteous accents loud he cried: "I never thought of that." A bunch of crackers to the tail of one small dog he tied; the sparks flew wide and red and hot: They lit upon the brat; they fired the crackers in his hand and lit those in his hat. There came a burst of rattling sound—the boy! where was he gone? Ask the wind that far around strewed bits of meat and bone, and scraps of clothes, and balls and tops, and nails and hooks, and yarn; the relics of that dreadful boy that burned his father's barn.

Only a Second Mortgage.

A new complication has arisen which is likely to depreciate the value of the Government security for the Canadian Pacific Railway loan. It is believed that even if the Government should be compelled to foreclose the mortgage upon the property of the Canadian Pacific Company, such property would still remain pledged to secure payment of the interest upon the bonds of the Credit Valley, Ontario & Quebec, Toronto, Grey & Bruce, and other roads which have been guaranteed by the Syndicate. The arrangement between the Syndicate and these railways was entered into before the $30,000,000 loan was obtained from the Government so that the security held by the latter is little better than a second mortgage. It would be very awkward if the Government by taking over the Canadian Pacific road should become liable for the Syndicate's engagements. Those interested in the Ontario & Quebec road state that the Canadian Pacific Company has not guaranteed the bonds of that road, but has agreed to pay to the bondholders an annual rental equal to the interest on such bonds. If this be true these bondholders now hold very flimsy security for such rental, considering that all the assets of the Canadian Pacific have been mortgaged to the Government.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. A SHORT SERMON BY A COMMON LAYMAN.

How few there are who fully realize the loss, to others, of a very dear and near friend. None but mourners can tell. Strangers do not, and cannot appreciate the sorrow of the bereaved ones. The outside world, with its busy cares, hurries on its way, paying no heed to those whose only consolation, in their trouble, lies in looking to their one only kind and sympathizing Friend, who alone can, and does, comfort those whose earthly joys are now, for a time, at an end. Troubles may come, dark clouds may hover, all others may forsake, but He alone brings us comfort and hope.

In sailing along the river of life.
Over its waters wide,
We shall have to battle with trouble and strife,
And wait for the time and the tide.

Men, of each other, are prone to be jealous; Hopes are illusions and not what they seem;
Life and its pleasures, philosophers tell us, Go floating away like a leaf on the stream.

The world, to many, is full of trouble and pain. The sun shines down bright and warm, but the weary soul feels it not. The night wind blows loud and cold, the dark, fierce storm is nigh, but the weary mourner heeds them not. He is, perchance, thinking of the happy days that are past and gone, and then he looks in vain into the dark future for some ray of hope and comfort. Thus the days and nights pass away, and the heart grows fainter and soon hope dies within him. But a voice comes from Heaven, telling him to be of good cheer, for he has a Friend who comforts the weary mourner and fills his soul with gladness and hope. It tells him:

There's a land that is fairer than day,
And by faith we shall see it afar,
For the Father waits over the way,
To prepare us a resting place there.
In the sweet bye and bye, we shall meet on that beautiful shore.

We shall sing on that beautiful shore
The melodious songs of the blest,
And our spirits shall sorrow no more
Not a sigh for the blessing of rest.
In the sweet bye and bye, we shall meet on that beautiful shore.

To our bountiful Father above
We will offer the tribute of praise,
For the glorious gift of His love,
And the blessings that hallow our days.
In the sweet bye and bye, we shall meet on that beautiful shore.

Every one starts out in this life with high hopes and expectations. He looks forward to the time when his dreams of riches and happiness are to be realized. He launches his bark upon the waters, hopeful and gay, imagining that the coming days are to be full of entertainment and fun. But soon he begins to find out that this world is not just what he thought it. Difficulties begin to rise up before him. Dark clouds obstruct the sunshine, and he begins to hear the faint sound of a coming storm. He looks around and wonders at the change. His high hopes begin to grow dim. By and bye false friends begin to obstruct his way, and although he may still struggle on, his heart begins to feel faint and weary, and his mind returns to the happy days now past and gone; perhaps, gone for ever. But still there is no rest. The busy cares of the world press upon him, and he soon finds that life's duties must be fulfilled and that he must press on, notwithstanding all his discouragements and disappointments, for there is to be no haltings by the way. Still all is not lost. There are good things on before. The world is not a dreary wilderness, and it is yet full of hope and joy to those who press on, determined to win, although beset by discouragements and difficulties, for hope springs eternal in the human breast. When there is honesty of purpose and patience and perseverance there is pretty sure to be success. Industry and a never yielding will must in the end bring forth prosperity and happiness.

One great difficulty and discouragement which besets the path of most people is the want of sympathy and charity in times of trouble. Exhibitions of this want occur daily, and the man whose character for uprightness and goodness stands above reproach in life, on a mere rumour of dishonor, to be shunned and passed by as unworthy of respect. People are so ready to think evil of one another that they are ready, on the merest pretense, without authority or right, to believe accusations against their most trusted friends. There seems to be a base principle in human nature which loves to hear and to glout over charges of dishonesty and fraud, and it would appear as if men were waiting for something which might give them an opportunity for the exhibition of their ferocious passions in order that they may see some poor, suspicious, though innocent person, hounded to his death, because the sight of it seems to gratify their unholy and devilish nature. Many people under such false accusations, and knowing the tendency of human nature, give themselves up to despair, and in some cases end their existence, disheartened and broken down in spirit. Seeing the cold looks and feeling the want of sympathy in their misfortunes, many a poor creature, destitute and struggling for existence, has lost his last friend simply through uncharitable and unchristian insinuations against him, without foundation or truth, and cold and starvation have had to be endured through this false and uncharitable conduct. Professing christians make a great display of their religion and talk as if they would never refuse consolation in time of need, but we too often find them only too ready to turn away and to refuse either comfort or help. And then, when the victim is no more, they hold up their hands in holy horror and wonder how such a thing could happen. Undoubtedly there are many good people in the world who are ready and willing to help in time of need. But they are the exceptions and not the rule. Like the city which was to be spared if ten good men could be found in it, one only could be found. So it is with the friends of the sorrowful and the poor. There is but little alleviation of those who are in trouble or distress, and only a few can be found to give either sympathy or assistance in times of need. The comforter is hard to find. And so the sorrowful and poor must go on their way feeling that they have but the one Comforter who is always ready to help those who call upon Him. He tells them to come to Him, to cast their troubles on Him, and that those who come to Him He will in no wise cast out. He says, He has prepared a place for them, a place where there is no sorrow, no weeping and where all is happiness and joy. And so, when the dear friend is taken away and those left behind are sad and sorrowful, and the world looks dark and cold, they know that they have a Friend, who sticketh closer than a brother, and who is able and willing to lead them through the deep waters and across upon the other shore, where there is peace and happiness forever.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Council met at Warsaw on May 10th, all the members being present, the Reeve in the chair.

Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Moved by Richard Crowe, seconded by George Kirk, that, whereas a dispute has arisen with regard to the right of Robert Wigmore to occupy the original allowance of road between the 11th and 12th concessions of Dummer, opposite lot 1, this Council usually allows the original road to be occupied by parties through whose lands forced roads are run, when no compensation has been made for the same; and this Council are of opinion that Mr. Robert Wigmore is, under the circumstances, fully entitled to the original allowance in question.—Carried.

A by-law to appoint a local Board of Health, filled in with names of A. R. Kidd, Reeve, W. Darling, Clerk, George Kirk, A. F. Choate and J. White, passed.

The Clerk was instructed, on certificate of the Treasurer that the Collector's Roll of 1883 was settled, to give up the bonds of the Collector and his sureties.

The Clerk was appointed to make regulations with Henry Tamblin, respecting his interest in certain lands.

Orders granted:

John Hunter, salary as Collector of Roll for 1883	$64 00
John Hunter, abatement of N. Robinson's taxes, paid by him	70
Hugh Dodds, keep, doctor's bill, etc., for H. Tamblin	24 85
Robert Tully, keep of A. Slavin	3 00
S. Hamblin, repair of Warsaw bridge	1 50
Chris. Andrews, keep of A. Slavin	12 50

Council adjourned to 31st May next, to meet in Warsaw as a Court of Revision.

THE SCOTT ACT CYCLONE.

DUNNVILLE.

Dunnville, May 14.—There have been over 50 converts, and the opera house, which seats over 800, is crowded to overflowing each night at the Salvation Army services. Captain Atherton arrived to-night, and hundreds have been turned away unable to gain admission. They are doing much to strengthen the already strong feeling here in favor of the Scott Act, which it is hoped will be voted on here this fall.

WATFORD.

Watford, May 14.—Hon. J. B. Finch, lectured here last evening in the Baptist Chapel, which was packed, on the prohibition of the liquor traffic. The eloquent speaker dealt with his subject in his usual masterly way. The Scott Act campaign is being vigorously pushed forward in some municipalities. Two-thirds of the electors have signed the petition.

PERTH.

Stratford, May 15.—The Temperance Convention of the county of Perth was held here to-day, Mr. Flagg, of Mitchell, in the chair. Some 130 delegates from all parts of the country were present. The meeting was unanimously in favor of taking steps for the immediate submission of the Scott Act to the electors, and an association was formed for that purpose.

Jas. Shannon, Leaskdale, writes: For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago: she was then not able to walk, and the pain was then so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when in a few days, the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and buises I have ever used.

THE PROPER CHANNEL for the escape from the system of impurities which would, if they remained, poison the blood, is through the bowels. When this outlet is obstructed it may be disencumbered with Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, a remedy which regulates the system, invigorates digestion, and is pure and safe as well as effective. It cures all diseases arising from Impure Blood.

For Deep Seated Colds and Coughs, Allen's Lung Balsam cures when all other remedies fail. See Adv.

Particular Notice to the Public

REGARDING PUMPS!

Over seventeen years ago I commenced the Manufacture of Pumps in Peterborough, and I take this opportunity of thanking the inhabitants of the town and surrounding country for the very liberal patronage they have accorded me during that time. It has always been my aim to produce and introduce all good improvements in Pumps, and I now desire to call attention to my NEW which this cut represents. I believe it to be the BEST COMBINED PUMP IN THE WORLD. It differs from all others in having the sectional stock or head, with its many advantages, and its firm and durable means of holding the attachments. The intermittent or detachable packing is only used in actual forcing, and it is at all other times (say 95 per cent. of the service of the pump,) unfreezable and unwearable.

THE HOSE COUPLING

is very convenient and effective. It can be adjusted in a few seconds, thus quickly changing an ordinary service Pump into a Force Pump.

The great advantage to the purchaser is that he possesses in one Pump, the Easiest Lift Pump made, as well as the Best Force Pump, for the same price as is often asked for an ordinary Pump. It throws water easier and further than any other Pump manufactured. For deep wells it has no equal.

All orders promptly attended to, by mail or otherwise, and repairing done on the shortest notice.

We, the undersigned, having examined Mr. H. Owens' New Model Force Pump, take pleasure in stating that we consider it a great improvement on pumps formerly in use. In our opinion it is one of the best pumps ever introduced to the public, being quickly turned into a pump for fire protection. It is powerful, durable, convenient and easy to work, and gives us pleasure to recommend it as a first-class article in every way.

WM. H. LAW, RICHARD HALL, WM. BRADBURN,
T. BRADBURN, WILLIAM LOGAN, GEORGE HILLIARD,
WM. HAMILTON, J. STEVENSON, WILLIAM MORGAN.

P.S.—Mr. Bradburn liked the Pumps so well that he ordered three to replace the cone pump now in use.

Pure Bred Poultry!

The subscriber is now prepared to dispose of SITTINGS OF EGGS from the following varieties of Poultry: Plymouth Rocks, Houdans, Black Spanish, White Leghorns, Buff Cochin, Silver Grey Dorkings, Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Pekin Ducks and Bronze Turkeys.

All the above varieties were either first or second prize birds at the fall and winter exhibitions. I have also added since the exhibitions some very fine birds of different varieties to my stock. Having bred the greater part of the varieties for three years, I think I know what suits the country.

Every pains has been taken to keep the stock pure, by keeping the birds in different yards, therefore the public can rely on a good article, either in Eggs or Chicks, second to none but in price, any and all of the above varieties being offered at $1.50 per 13, or $2 for $2.50, excepting the Ducks or Turkeys.

Any orders for eggs must be accompanied with the price. I would be glad to fill a large order, if required, with different kinds.

FLOWING UNDER THE FLOWERS.

Ploughing under the flowers,
Wet by the midnight showers,
Turning them over and under;
My beautiful, beautiful flowers.

Every bright face turned ever,
Smiling down in the clover;
Feet of the heavy and clumsiest
First crushing and trampling them over.

Cream and crimson and yellow,
Into the furrow shallow,
Covered with clods damp and broken,
Sweet crimson and purple and yellow.

Witness the depth of the flowers,
Giving the earth new powers:
Sacrificed, slain for their country,
My beautiful, beautiful flowers.

HE NEEDS IT MORE.

Leaving home the other morning for his office a man kissed his little four-year-old good-bye, saying to him:—"Be a good boy to-day." He somewhat surprised the father by saying, "I will. Be a good man, papa." Sure enough, the man needs the exhortation more than the boy.

SEVENTY YEARS MARRIED.

Conductor Flint, says the St. Albans (Vt.) Messenger, recently had a very venerable married couple among his passengers on the fast express. The gentleman was ninety-three years old and the lady ninety, and they had been married seventy years—a very unusual thing. The aged couple took the train at Essex and were going to Northampton, Mass. People of that age and relation are not often found among the busy travelling public.

Go to J. McKee's Drug Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar. 21-2t

A FAMILY DUEL.

A number of intoxicated men on Tuesday night entered a hall near Madison county, Tennesse, where several hundred people were holding a social gathering, and created a disturbance. An old man named Atchley struck a youth named Tuckett. Atchley had several sons present, and Tuckett several brothers. The two families arranged themselves in line and began firing. One of the Tuckett's was killed and another fatally wounded. Atcheley was mortally wounded, and one son dangerously hurt.

It is no Wonder that so many people sink into untimely graves when we consider how they neglect their health. They have a disordered Liver, deranged Bowels, Constipation, Piles or diseased Kidneys, but they let it go and and think they "will get over it." It grows worse, other and more serious complications follow and soon it is too late to save them. If such people would take Kidney-Wort it would preserve their lives. It acts upon the most important orgrns purifying the blood and cleansing the system, removes and prevents these disorders and promotes health.

ROCHESTER'S MEAN MAN.

The Rochester Herald claims for that city the meanest man. He bought a pound of beef the other day, and on the strength of the purchase induced the butcher to give him a generous supply of "dog meat." He directed his wife to prepare a part of the "dog meat" for dinner, save the remainder for the next day, and carry the pound of meat back to the butcher, with the explanation that she herself had bought at another place all the meat the family could use. The dutiful wife did as she was commanded, and the meanest man got his money back.

as curable as the simplest disease of the human body. The assertion that every case so far has been cured permanently in a few weeks is made without fear of contradiction.

SEE WHAT A SUFFERER OF TEN YEARS' SAYS:

BUTTONVILLE, Co. OF YORK, Jan. 1, 1883.

DEAR SIR,—In regard to my catarrh, I can say after about FOUR weeks treatment that I am entirely cured, after being troubled for more than ten years with all the worst symptoms of catarrh of the head, such as spitting of blood and matter, which dropped from my nose into my mouth—snuffling with closing of nostrils, loss of smell, which has now returned, pain in my head, rendering me almost stupid, which disappeared in two weeks after commencing your treatment. Hacking cough, etc. From my experience of catarrh, I consider your mode of treatment the best in existence. Hoping that all may receive the same benefit, I remain, yours, SARAH DUNN.

FREE AND PAINLESS EXAMINATIONS of the inner portions of the nose by the most improved instruments of the age.

"Upright Pianos."

A few extracts from the numerous endorsements by the leading artists of the World as to their Superiority:—

The pianoforte of your make used at my last concert is the most admirable instrument I have ever seen. Please send to my address in London one of your Upright Pianos. This, I think, is the best endorsement of your instrument I can give you.—CHRISTINE NILSSON.

Neither in Europe or America have I seen an Upright to equal yours.—ELILKE GERSIER GARDINI.

In all the qualities an artist can require your Upright Pianos surpass anything I have ever seen.—SOFIA SCALCHI.

It is superior in quality of tone and evenness of action to any instrument I know of. CLARA LOUISE KELLOGG.

Having had an opportunity of using your New Concert Upright Piano at the concerts given by Her Majesty's Opera Company, we beg to compliment you upon your great success. You can justly claim a superiority over any piano we have hitherto seen, for concert purposes and accompanying the voice.—ITALO CAMPANINI, ANTONIO GALASSI, ANNA DE PELOCCA, EMIL AMBRA.

The successful manner in which your Upright Piano has stood the severest tests, is such as heretofore has been applied to the Grand Piano only, and it commands our unqualified endorsement.—OLE BULL, EMMA THURSBY, ALFRED H. PEASE, MAURICE STRAKOSCH.

LITTLE ELSIE.

Ah, don't come a-wooing with your long, long face,
And your longer purse behind:
I'm a bright young girl, and I know my place,
And I think I know my mind.
I like to laugh, and to dance and sing,
And to tease my parents dear.
My brothers call me a "dreadful thing;"
But they wouldn't miss me here.

O 'tis I am my mother's heart's delight,
And my father's right hand brave.
Would I leave my home so free and bright
To be a rich man's slave?
Would I buy myself a gown of silk
In a grand dull house to pine,
When I've boys to play with and cows to milk,
And the whole fair world is mine?

Ah, don't come talking of the cares of life
My head is gold, not gray;
And it's my desire to be no man's wife—
At least, not just to-day.
But I've a heart, and it's warm and true,
And I'll keep it safe, at ease;
And if one I love should come to woo,
I'll give it - when I please!

A BAD FAILURE.

TWO LUMBER COMPANIES COLLAPSE—SOME OF THE LARGE CREDITORS.

Smith and Carnegie, accountants from Scotland, have been in Toronto recently examining the affairs of the British Canadian Lumbering and Timber Company, on behalf of Scotch capitalists, the result being that the company has assigned to a representative of these capitalists. The liabilities are placed at $3,000,000. The assets are trifling. The failure of the American Lumber Company injured the other company otherwise the assets would have been much greater. Among the creditors are the Bank of Commerce, $350,000; Toronto, $150,000, partly secured.

RAILWAY MASSACRE.

FIFTEEN PERSONS MANGLED AND BURNED TO DEATH.

The west-bound freight and gravel trains were in collision near Connellsville, Pennsylvania, Wednesday morning, meeting each other as a sharp curve. The freight train was laden with ore, and had about fifty men aboard. Six men were killed outright, and four others fastened down by the broken timbers and roasted to death, the car taking fire from the overturned stove. Officials decline to say who is to blame, but opinion puts it on the train-runners. When the wreck was cleared away it was ascertained that twelve persons were injured and fourteen missing. The bodies of ten of the latter have been recovered; others are supposed to be entirely consumed. Of those recovered only two are positively identified. One of the injured died on the way to the hospital, making fifteen deaths, one being the fireman of the freight train and the others labourers.

DYNAMITERS IN CANADA.

A SCHEME TO KILL THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

Information has been obtained from reliable sources that ever since the threatened attempt to blow up Rideau Hall both the Dominion and Provincial authorities have been in possession of facts regarding the movement of supposed dynamiters whose operations are alleged to have been carried on under direction from headquarters in New York, where $2,500 was voted from the "Emergency Fund" for work in Canada. Three men Nesbitt, O'Hare and Mullane, undertook the work of destroying Canadian public buildings, and last year two men went to Ottawa to kill the Governor-General. It was their intention also to throw vitriol in the Princess Louise's face when in Toronto last September. These plots failed or were frustrated. On several occasions luggage containing dynamite and "infernal" machines has been seized by the Secret Service officers. Canadians have had good reasons for feeling alarmed at these operations.

THE GREELY EXPEDITION.

Some people labor under erroneous impressions in regard to the object of the Greely expedition. Five years ago, at an international conference at Berne, Switzerland, it was determined to establish scientific stations at various places. The work was apportioned and the United States was chosen to locate the northernmost of the posts. Greely and his party, entrusted with the mission, were left at Lady Franklyn's Bay on the 18th August, 1881. They have not been heard of since. It is not positively known whether they are dead or alive, but they are thought to be living, and to have accomplished their delegated task. A meeting with them is expected in the neighborhood of Upernavik or Disco in June; and the search is made the more interesting by the fact that the whalers have joined in it, desiring to win the reward of $65,000 offered for the rescue of Greely, or for evidence of his fate. It is hoped that the expedition will be a success, at all events it will embrace the last attempt at solving Polar mysteries The world at large cannot care very much about the condition of a region which is impenetrable and certainly beyond the bounds of habitation.

WOULD BE FAIRER TO THE WIFE.

A Georgia man has been fined $1,000 and sent to prison for one year for branding his wife with a red-hot iron. He should have been fined one dollar and sent down for one thousand years. This would have been fairer to his wife.

How to Cure a Cold.

Take some gentle opening medicine, bathe the feet in warm water, adding a spoonful of mustard; remain indoors; equalize the circulation with warm bath and friction; drink warm ginger tea, and take Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, the most perfect and the safest cough cure that can be produced. 21-2t

"Is this a singing doll?" asked she of the clerk. "Yes, mademoiselle." "How do you make it sing?" "Just as you would any other young lady." "How is that?" "By pressing it." "Oh!"

A Fact.

There are oils white, and oils black,
Put in bottles short and tall,
But Hagyard's Yellow Oil, for pain,
Is the very best oil of all.

It cures rheumatism, neuralgia, deafness, sprains, bruises, contracted cords, sore throat, frost bites, burns and all soreness of the flesh. It is for external and internal use. 21-2t

The engine which plunged into the Santa Anna river some weeks ago by the given way of the bridge has been successfully raised. It was found necessary to construct a dam of sand bags completely around the engine, after which a considerable excavation was made before a solid foundation could be secured for the temporary track built under it.

A Celebrated Case.

The remarkable case of W. A. Edgars, of Frankville, who suffered from disease of the liver and kidneys so badly that all hope of recovery was abandoned. He remained ten and thirteen days without action of the bowels. Four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters restored him perfect health, which he had not known for twenty years before. 21-2t

"My son," remarked a father, "what do you pay for those cigars?" "Twelve dollars a box," replied the young man, "and they are cheap at that. Try one." "No," said the old man, "I am compelled to get along on two-for-fivers." "I am sorry, father," the young hopeful responded, with some compassion; "but you see you have mother and me to support."

Danger in The Air.

The recent strange planetary movements and electrical phenomena have developed the fact that the earth is passing through a dangerous period when atmospheric influence will seriously affect human health. Fortify the weakened system with that grand tonic regulator, Burdock Blood Bitters, and avoid malarial blood poisons. 21-2t

Mabel—"Do you try to observe the golden rule, Mr. Nicefellow?" Nicefellow—"Yes, indeed. Do you?" Mabel—"Yes, I always try to do as I would be done by." Nicefellow—"That is the right spirit." Mabel—"But I sometimes fail. If I were to try I should fail now." Nicefellow—"Indeed. Why?" Mabel—"I am not tall enough to reach." No cards.

Saved From the Scalpel.

A Toronto lady, Mrs. Berkenshaw, contracted a disease of the knee joint and was advised to submit it to a surgical operation by the best physicians attending; all other treatment having failed, when Hagyard's Yellow Oil was tried and speedily effected a cure. It is the unfailing remedy for accidents and emergencies, and is for external and internal use. 21-2t

"Pa," asked Walter, "what is a Buddhist?" "A Buddhist, my son," replied pa, "is a—well—a sort of horticultural chap—you've heard of budding fruits, you know."

Remarkable Restoration.

Mrs. A. O'Brien, 372 Exchange Street, Buffalo, was supposed to be dying with consumption and abandoned by her physician. She suffered terribly and was reduced in flesh to ninety pounds. In this condition she resorted to Burdock Blood Bitters, and now enjoys perfect health and weighs one hundred and forty-six. She will gladly answer enquiring sufferers on receipt of U. S., postage stamp. 21-2t

SHEFFIELD MANUFACTURES.

We question if there is a savage so benighted who, however ignorant he may be of its import, can not use Sheffield deeply branded on his knife, and it is quite possible at this very moment, while the ink is drying on this very manuscript, that with a Sheffield blade of one kind or another some fugitive Bannocks are hiding in the fastnesses of Montana, with view to anatomic experiments upon the "whites;" that many a Jack Tar, perched in the foretop, surveying the gray uncertainty of antipodal seas, is shaving his "plug" for a fresh "quid;" that princes are sitting down to dinner; that some convicts are scraping the cement out of the walls of their cells; and that the readers of THE EXAMINER are cutting the leaves of the last number. Scarcely any limitation can be set to the variety of purposes served by Sheffield manufactures. Travellers in Russia and Austria are whirled over Sheffield rails; the twenty-four inch armour plates of England's newest iron-clads were rolled in Sheffield; the scissors that myriads of pale seamstresses are plying bear the Sheffield brand; the velocipedes upon which numerous young athletes are flying between the bloom of English lanes have come from under the big Sheffield chimneys; the scythes that are levelling fields of ripe grain in Iowa and Minnesota were ground on Sheffield stones; the rotary saws that are busing in lumbering settlements among the California sierras were cut by Sheffield hands; the mortars and cannons that bristle along many a fortress, with the pyramids of shot and shell for their consumption beside them, represent an extensive part of Sheffield's industry: the superb repousse work of silver epergnes that adorn banquet tables was hammered out by Sheffield artisans; and every variety of electro-plate and silver-ware, beautiful in design and enormous in price, is wought under Sheffield roofs. We have not nearly exhausted a catalogue which includes many other products, such as railway tires, axles springs, buffers, and engines, all sorts of tools, sewing-machines, fire-irons, and stoves; but we have mentioned enough to indicate where Sheffield is to be found, if its interest is invisible in the places to which a tourist usually looks for a city's attractions.

THE OUTRAGER TO BE REINSTATED.

It is announced in the Mail's special cable that a monster petition for the restoration of Valentine Baker to his colonelcy in the Hussars is in preparation. Nothing Hunts out Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply them to a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Frauds, cheap, poisonous and dangerous substitutes are in the market. Beware of them. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

MANHOOD
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

CONFIDENTIAL.
Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUBEBINE COMBINATION REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.
Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $2 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.
M. FINDLAY & CO. Sole Agent.

Don't pay a high price for American. Try this oil once; you will like it just as well. The very best brands of American oils also in stock. 12-tf

Purifying Cisterns.

In every town the necessarily stagnant nature of the water in cisterns results in the water becoming foul and of an offensive odour. The result is evidently due to a want of oxygen in the water, and as a remedy a medical man suggests that such oxidizing agents as chloride of soda or chlorinated soda will fully serve the purpose. To get the best results the material should be poured into the cistern, using for this purpose a gas pipe reaching to the bottom. Two quart bottles will clean an ordinary cistern.

Vitreous Viciousness.

Mr. J. Irving, who keeps a watch repairing shop on Simcoe street, formerly worked with Mr. Hughan, who keeps an opposing establishment on the opposite side of the street. On Thursday afternoon Mr. Irving, being filled with the spirit of controversy and rye, entered Mr. Hughan's shop, and a dispute arising, was ejected. He then deliberately smashed several panes of glass in the window, and cut his knuckles badly. The next morning he was arraigned before the Police Magistrate and awarded a month in jail.

Not a Bank Holiday.

We are requested to state that Saturday next, May 24th, will not be a bank holiday, the Governor-General having, in compliance with her Majesty's wish, proclaimed June 28th (also a Saturday) as the day for the observance of the Queen's Birthday. This may be a disappointment to the man who expected that he could enjoy, without financial anxiety, the athletic sports on Saturday, and not have to brisk about to provide funds till Tuesday following. He will have to present himself at the bank counter on Saturday.

Elegant Gratitude.

Mr. W. A. Sanderson has materialized the motto, "speech is silver," by expressing his gratitude to the Fire Brigade for their services at the late fire in his premises, by presenting the boys with an elegant silver tilting pitcher, bearing the inscription, "Presented to the Peterborough Fire Brigade by W. A. Sanderson." The Brigade is delighted with the gift, and will, doubtless, when the hot weather comes, often de-claret delicious, especially when quaffed from the fine pair of silver goblets, that accompanied the pitcher. The brigade thinks more of the gift than they would of $100 in cash.

Special Services.

Special services will be held in the Methodist churches in town next Sunday, in connection with the now practically accomplished union of the different Methodist bodies. A collection will be taken to defray the expenses consequent on giving effect to the union.

Money.

Mr. John A Bennett, of Otonabee, is prepared to make loans on real estate and to purchase mortgages. Loans will be made at the lowest rates of interest, payable when the borrower deems the most convenient time, the principal, being payable at such times as may be agreed upon. Expenses are very light. 12-tf

The Cast Iron Rule.

The Secretary of the Crotes lacrosse club has favored us with the following excerpt from the minutes of proceedings, to wit:

"The rules for our club is the nature of a club; any one interrupting a meeting, when they have no right to speak, will be jumpt (sic) according to the rules of our club."

Such summary means of keeping order might, with advantage, be applied to more pretentious deliberative bodies, that could be named.

Y.M.C.A. Meetings.

The attention of the public is directed to the following meetings held every week in the Young Men's Christian Association Rooms:

SUNDAY, 9 a. m. Young men's prayer meeting.
" 2. p. m. Secretary's Bible Class.
" 8:30 p.m. Evangelistic meeting.
MONDAY, 8 p. m. Young men's Bible Class led by Rev. A. H. Munro.
SATURDAY, 8 p.m. Young men's meeting.

All young men are specially invited to the two last mentioned. They are very interesting and profitable.

A Boon to the Babies.

We call attention to the advertisement in another column of "Gardner's $2 Baby Jumper"—an ingenious device, invented by Mr. Charles T. Gardner of Napanee. It acts as a kind of mechanical mother to the child, relieving the real mother of a great deal of care. A baby, just beginning to move about, on being placed in one of these jumpers, will, instead of tumbling into the fire or mischief, at once "tumble to" the idea and begin the use of its legs which will thereby be put in active training for walking. It will also be greatly amused. Later on the jumper will serve as an excellent swing. It is something no mother or child should be without. It has only to be used to be appreciated and voted indispensable.

Baseball.

Another live and active organization has been added to the sporting clubs of the town. On Monday evening a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting was held at Faucher's Restaurant and a promising baseball club organized under the title of the "Silver Stars," with a "paid up" membership of about forty. The officers elected were:

PRESIDENT—Mr. A. McNeil.
VICE-PRESIDENT Mr. Ed. Salisbury.
CAPTAIN—Mr. W. H. Dayman.
SECRETARY-TREAS'—Mr. W. T. Spencer.
COMMITTEE Messrs. J. Armstrong, F. Mercer, J. Menzies, J. McKay, and J. Fairweather.

The committee is actively engaged in securing grounds. We hope the "Silver Stars" will be of the first magnitude, every point tipped with victory in their matches.

A Fortunate Disappointment.

Peterborough has had a narrow escape from a bigamist sensation, and a Peterborough girl has had a most blessed escape from becoming the bride of a bigamist—and wife-beater, to boot. The local Brigham had served a course of time in jail, in default of sureties to keep the peace, on account of beating his wife. After his release from jail he stayed in town and won the heart of a Peterborough damsel; an engagement was entered into and a date fixed for the wedding. A friend of the lady had his suspicions of the bridegroom's social status, and investigation showed that the prospective husband was already a benedict. After a good deal of trouble the girl was induced to believe the fact, and, of course, no wedding took place. She is very fortunate. She had better spend a few vexatious tears over being an unwedded widow, than pass years of misery with a bigamous brute.

Tree Planting.

Mr. H. Nesbitt, Jailer, has done a wise and commendable thing in turning the muscle of his family of boarders to account, by planting shade trees around the park and in the Court House grounds. This action will tend to improve the beauty of both. This year there has been a large amount of tree-planting done by our citizens, but not nearly so much as would have been done had our city fathers officially taken the lead in the matter. In this respect they are far behind the wide-awake little village over the Otonabee. This year the Council of Ashburnham purchased a large number of shade trees and presented them to the property holders on the condition, only, that the trees should be planted and protected. The villagers generously availed themselves of the offer. The result will, in a few years, be a source of pride to the villagers, and there is no danger of any councillor, who voted for the appropriation, being called to hostile account on election day. A rate of one-tenth of a mill on the dollar on the taxable property of Peterborough town, would yield enough to buy trees to plant three or four miles of streets on both sides.

Fall in Fares for the 26th.

The Grand Trunk cheap excursion train for Toronto on May 26th will leave Peterborough at 7.30 a.m., and, proceeding via Port Hope, will arrive in Toronto at 11.30. Excursionists will have six clear hours to do the city, as the train does not start on return till 6 o'clock p. m. The round fare is only $1.50.

Where was the Golden Lion?

Visitors to the great athletic sports on the Queen's Birthday, will please note that FAIR, VANEVERY & Co., at the Golden Lion, are shewing unequalled value in Millinery, Mantles, Dress Goods, Prints, Lawn Muslins, Parasols, Hosiery, Gloves, in short one of the most extensive stocks in above lines on George street. See our advertisement on programme, it is very interesting.

Nobby New Uniforms.

The first twelve of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club has placed orders for a new uniform throughout. It will consist, beginning at the head, of a white dimity hat of the "Irving" shape, fine navy blue cashmere guernseys, made to order in New York, trunks of white cricketting flannel, for which Mr. A. McNeil has the order, navy blue stockings, and belts displaying the colors of the club. This beautiful uniform will first encircle the boys and carry them to victory in their match game with Barrie, here, on the afternoon of the 26th.

A Splendid Chance.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that Mr. D. W Dumble offers for sale a number of Building Lots in various parts of the town on ten years credit. No money down, interest only to be paid for first five years, and thereafter yearly instalments with the right to pay at any time as may suit the convenience of the purchaser. This offer enables a poor man to use his money in erecting a building, and so he gets rid of rent, and secures a home for himself. Building will be cheap this year and no doubt many will take advantage of this very liberal offer. Besides lots in town, Mr. Dumble offers a number of lots in Ashburnham, and several park lots on the same terms. Call at his office and see plans, &c. 12-tf

A Hint to our Charity Committee.

The report of the county authorities shows that the stone yard maintained in Trenton, New Jersey, last winter, in which able-bodied tramps were compelled to work for their living, besides practically abolishing the tramp nuisance, has turned $300 into the county treasury, while the prison wood-sawing yard, maintained for petty offenders who are not tramps, has made a further profit for the county of $252. Therein is a hint which might profitably, for the town, hit the fancy of our city fathers. The tramp, like the poor, we will always have with us, and humanity will not allow us to turn them from the doors of the town unfed. But if a stone heap were provided and the tramp were confronted with a hammer and made to break a certain amount of street metal in payment for his food, the town would have some return for the large amount of money spent, as at present, without any prospect of a return. Besides the practice would create a spirit of independence in the tramp and unpauperize him. Its the only way a tramp can be elevated, for he is such a spiritless scamp that he won't commit a crime serious enough to hang him.

Reading Room.

Many of the young men of our town are not aware of the good supply of reading matter there is on file at the reading room of the Young Men's Christian Association. We give below a list of periodicals which may be found there. The Secretary is always in attendance and will be glad to welcome any who call. Besides the general reading matter there is a table reserved for the boys on which are to be found the best boys' papers. Boys are requested to come in during the day time and not in the evening. The reading room is open to young men from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Hold Your Orders.

We understand that a large stock of furniture, will be opened out at the skating rink, about the middle of May. Persons contemplating purchasing will do well to postpone buying till that time, as the stock to be then offered will be new, fashionable, and well-made, and great bargains may expected.

The Post-Office Site.

It is understood, on good authority, that the Dominion government have at last, made a selection of a site for the new Post-Office and Customs buildings. The lot chosen is the one known as the "Sawers site," corner of Hunter and Water streets, opposite Cavanagh's hotel. And now there is gnashing of teeth amongst the other half score of disappointed wirepullers who expected to get a corner in corner lots.

Promenade Concert.

The following is the programme of the Fire Brigade Band at the promenade concert, preceding the grand display of firework on Saturday night:

Quick Step.....Triumphant.....W. V. Scholes
Selection.....Il Trovatore.....Verdi
Valse.....The Harvest Moon.....W. H. Birch
Quadrille.....Shamrock Leaves.....T. W. Wright
Fantasia.....The Royal Musketeers.....E. Mollet
Valse.....Dream Faces.....Joseph Meissler
Galop.....Always Jolly.....Lyons
God Save the Queen.

The Drill Shed will be brilliantly illuminated by electric light.

Sent up for Trial.

Sir Everard Neiveille, Baronet, supposed to be George Newbold, who eloped with and married, Miss Whitney of Detroit, has had his hearing before the justices in Toledo and has been committed for trial, for bigamy or to be literally correct, polygamy. He has been unable to find bail though the amount has been fixed at the low figure, for a live baronet, of $1,500. "Sir Charles" should apply to the editor of the Mail, who has so warmly championed that noble beast and outrager of female virtue, Lord St. Leonard—he will certainly not allow a noble lord like Newbold, to languish in prison among "greasy Republicans" for the bagatelle of $1,500.

The Big 24th.

"Lay down the shovel and the hoe," and come to town on the twenty-fourth and enjoy the biggest day's fun and amusement ever presented in this or any other town. You can kill two birds, or a whole flock for that matter, with one stone. In the morning you can do your shopping, for the shops will be open, and in the afternoon you can go to the Agricultural Grounds and see the athletic sports, the boxing bouts, the wrestling, the struggle of the champion athletes of America. See the giant O'Donnell pull against a team of horses (the Oriental bus team will try to win $100 by pulling him off a ladder), and see everything advertised in the bills you have all read. In the evening you will see the gorgeous display of artificial lightning—the town as bright as day with the electric light, the grand promenade concert in the grounds, and the grand blaze of fireworks and the immense torchlight procession, to close with. Dont fail to come and enjoy yourselves.

New Lacrosse Competition Cup.

Mr. Ed. Brown, of the Little Windsor, has decided to offer a beautiful silver cup for competition by Eastern Ontario lacrosse clubs. The cup will be similar to the "Gildersleeve Cup," now held by the champions of Central Ontario, the Peterborough club; and it is probable that the conditions will be also similar, with a decided variation as to time, the donor stipulating that, if possible, the cup be definitely won the present season. It is also probable that the district, to make the contest more interesting, will be the country between Toronto and Montreal, excluding these cities. Mr. Brown has left the general matter of conditions in the hands of the local club, and they will be arranged as soon as a meeting can be held. Whatever conditions may be decided on, it is certain that every club in the district designated will have a fair and equal chance to secure the cup. We are greatly obliged to Mr. Brown for his generosity; the Peterborough club musters a strong team at the "face" this year, and the "Ed. Brown Cup" will look well along side the "Gildersleeve."

Shipment of Superb Stock.

There was weighed on the Market on Tuesday, by Mr. John Doherty, as fine a lot of cattle as ever came to town. They belonged to Mr. George Webber, and had been purchased by him for shipment to the Old Country. They were bought as follows:—From Mr. Charles Moore, Smith, fed especially for export, 40 head of beautiful beef animals, weighing in the aggregate 55,000 lbs.; D. Armstrong, Otonabee, nine, weighing 11,200 lbs.; James Blackwell, Douro, two at 2,360 lbs.; D. Henderson, Otonabee, two at 2,820 lbs.; C. Armstrong, Otonabee, two at 2,270 lbs.; Wm. Miller, Otonabee, six at 8,340 lbs.; Wm. Shearer, Otonabee, four at 5,820 lbs.; Mr. — Elmhirst, Otonabee, one at 1,470 lbs.; Robert Carter, Otonabee, one at 1,395. The average weight of the cattle purchased from Mr. Moore was about 1,400 lbs., and of the others, about 1,300 lbs. Mr. Doherty says it's a long time since his scales have been "bothered" with so beautiful a lot of stock as the above. He doesn't grumble at it by any means—its only a weigh he has. Mr. Webber has bought other cattle to be included in the shipment, which were not weighed at the time the others were.

Lacrosse Club Concert.

Don't forget the grand concert in the Opera House on Friday night, 23rd inst. The best local musical talent will be represented, as well as first-class vocalists from Toronto and Montreal. It is sure to be a great musical success. Mr. Ewing is musical director.

After Another Trophy.

The Lacrosse Club has accepted an invitation from the Committee of the Oddfellows' International Demonstration, Brockville, to play, on July 9th, a lacrosse match with the Metropolitans, of Ottawa. The prize will be a magnificent trophy worth about $100, and a medal to each player in the victorious team, of the value of $5.

The Electric Light.

Lightning speed has been made with the preparations for lighting Peterborough by electricity. The posts are all planted, the copper wire placed, and the shades for the street lights in position. The dynamo machine will arrive to-day (Thursday), and, as everything is ready for its reception, and connection with power at Hazlitt's shingle and timber mill, there will be no delay. Everything will be ready by the 24th, and artificial daylight will make the night streets as bright as noonday. The sight will be worth coming miles to see.

Barnardo's Homes.

The opening of the Barnardo Home at Hazel Brae in June has aroused considerable charitable sentiment, whose sincerity is practically evidenced by liberal contributions in money and kind for the purpose of furnishing the Home. But there is still help needed. Those disposed to aid so worthy a charitable institution, which will not only help to make useful citizens of the paupers from London, but will afford a home when our own destitute orphans may be trained, educated and rescued from a probable life of crime, may send their contributions to Mrs. Geo. A. Cox.

The system of distribution of surplus employed by this Association secures, with other advantages, the following:

1st.—It avoids the weakening effect of paying too large profits in the early years of the policy, and the consequent inability to do justice, as the policy becomes older.

2nd.—It strengthens the position of the Association, and consequently the security to the policy-holders.

3rd.—It secures an increase in profits from year to year, and equitable share to each kind of policy.

4th.—It does away with the objection, "that endowment and limited payment policies are taxed for the special benefit of ordinary life policies."

MISS JENKINS

OUR CIVIC CELEBRATION.

Fun on Flood and Field.

The Boating Club Regatta—Some Spanking Sport—The Lacrosse Match—First Blood for the Boys—The same old Monotony.—Three Straight Games—The Sprinters' Spurt for the Silver Cup—A Delightful Day's Enjoyment—The City Band's Spring Opening.

The civic celebration of Her Majesty's sixty-fifth birthday, in Peterborough, though not marked by any startling features, was of a most sensible, successful and enjoyable character. Business, out of respect for the Mayor's request, was entirely suspended, and everybody seemed to manifest an inclination to take a share in the enjoyment the day afforded. The streets were full of brisk but orderly stir, the explosive small boy having apparently squandered on Saturday, the full tale of his bank account, for the noise of the festive squib was scarcely heard in the land.

In the morning Little Lake, was the scene of

THE BOATING CLUB REGATTA.

The course was in the usual place, the Ashburnham shore was lined with spectators, the water "broke out" with a lively rash of small boats, canoes, punts, etc., etc., while the "Golden Eye," officered by the courteous and considerate Captain Dion, was well loaded down with spectators of the races, having also on board Mr. Alex. Elliott, referee, Messrs. Harry Strickland and Melville Millar, who officiated as judge and starter respectively, acting from the shore. The first event was for the Alex. Elliott silver cup, for which there were three entries, Messrs. Jack Mercer, George Stevenson and Walter Drury. The struggle between the first two was a tidy bit of sport, the daylight, within a hundred yards of the finish, being only about half a length, but Stevenson whose steering on the home stretch owing to the strong current was a little wavering, in attempting to sharply bring his shell into line, lost grip of his left oar, which had done the most work and capsized, while Mercer crossed the line winner of the cup. Stevenson pulled a game race and his unpleasant tip-over at the finish which did'nt seem to hurt him, however, brought him much sympathy. Drury good-naturedly pulled in a very deliberate third. Mercer sat in his new Wharin scull, presented him by his admirers after his success on Chemung Lake last fall.

THE SINGLE SCULL RACE

DOUBLE SCULL RACE.

There being several entries for this race it was rowed in heats. For the first heat F. G. Cox and W. Rutherford disputed the right of F. Karch and W. H. Dayman to first place, successfully. In the second heat, J. Fanning and W. Kent crossed the line ahead of M. Cottingham and J. E. Hawkins. The saw-off between the successful crews will take place on Friday next at 7 o'clock.

THE DOUBLE CANOE RACE

brought out A. Stratton and M. Cottingham; Frank Adams and J. L. Weller; J. Sherlock and W. Matthews. W. Rudkins and S. Wright. Sherlock and Matthews captured the honors, the others coming in in the order above written. It is fair to state that Adams and Weller were heavily handicapped—about 200 lbs—first class paddling material but contributing little to the speed in a race when used as ballast. Since the above was put in type we learn that they did not enter for keeps but merely started con amore.

THE FOUR OARED RACE

brought to the scratch two crews; J. Fanning, W. Kent G. Stevenson and J. Mercer—stroke; F. G. Cox, M. Cottingham, J. Fanning and J. E. Hawkins—stroke. The first named crew collared this race after an exciting struggle.

THE SINGLE CANOE RACE

between A. Stratton and J. Sherlock was a close and gamey race, but Stratton stayed the best and won with a good lead.

This ended a very interesting and well managed regatta, which would hardly have taken place had not Mr. Alex. Elliott, generously offered the cup for single scull competition, and thus stirred up boating spirit.

The Lacrosse Match.

In the afternoon the struggle between the Barrie boys and the home club took place on the Ashburnham grounds.

The teams mustered for the face as follows:

THE VISITORS.

Goal, B. Nicholson, point, W. Butterfield; cover point, A. Lee; defence field, R. D. Gunn, T. F. Moore and F. Hill; centre field, E. McIntyre; home field, A. Burns, R. Cuthbert, J. F. Lannox; home, W. Hartley, F. Hornsby; field captain, E. W. Johnson.

THE HOME DOZEN.

Goal, J. Giroux; point, P. Myles; cover point, J. Reynolds; defence, M. Tierney, W. J. Scott and R. H. Fortye; centre, J. Sheebey; home field, J. Howden, C. Rutherford, R. Kelly; home, W. Radkins, G. Giroux; field captain, W. A. Sanderson.

Mr. H. P. Eckardt, Toronto, acted as referee. A. Elliott umpired the Peterboroughs, and T. Haslitt the Barries.

At 3-10 Sheehey and McIntyre knelt for the face, and, as usual, Sheehey got the ball and made trouble around the visitors goal. The rubber had only been rolling a few minutes when Barrie turned their attention almost exclusively to defending their goal. This, of course, prolonged the game, and before the sixty-two minutes the first game lasted were over, they had their hands full of defending. Time after time the visitors' goal, around which the thickest of the fight raged, was in danger, which was averted by the solid wall of humanity the visitors built between the stakes. The ball would occasionally get down the other end of the field, but it soon travelled back, and the fight waxed warm at the Barrie end. At length, after an hour and two minutes hard play, Geo. Giroux consigned the sphere to Radkins, who forwarded it between the flags, scoring first blood.

AN INTERLUDE.

Between the first and second heats, a mile running race between W. Haslitt, of Barrie, and Thos. Kindred, town, was run for the silver cup offered for competition by the local lacrosse club. Mr. P. Miles, who acted as referee, started the runners. Kindred pushed the pace and led the first lap. The next Haslitt forged ahead and won in a canter, Kindred "quitting" on the fourth of the five laps that made the mile. In this race Kindred must have been in very poor condition, for he beat Haslitt badly in a mile race in the Drill Shed here last fall.

The cup having been presented the winner by Mr. J. Hackett, the field was cleared for the SECOND GAME.

This was a repetition, except as to time, of the first. At the end of six minutes Giroux and Rudkins manipulated the rubber as before and rustled it through the flags.

THE THIRD GAME

was longer. Barrie played a strong defence and worked hard to stave off the record of three straights. But in eighteen minutes Peterborough won the third game, and to Rudkins or Kelly (which, is undecided) belongs the glory of giving their club the third of three straight games.

Though the match was thus won, it must not be concluded that it was a walk-over. Barrie puts a strong twelve in the field. All are active men and hard workers, and examples of individual good play were frequent, but there was a lack of concerted action and of the little strokes of science that have so great an effect on the result of a game.

Of the playing of the home team too much in praise cannot be said. In their first match every man did splendidly, not a single muff play was made in the ninety minutes playing. Their team play was capital and exceedingly effective, both as discouraging their opponents and putting the ball where it was wanted. George Giroux and Billy Rudkins worked like heroes, the former doing some excellent dodging and making some dandy drop shots, while Billy, to the consternation of his opponents, was, like a bad penny, constantly turning up, and always ready for the ball, putting it through the flags twice, if not thrice, in succession. Reynolds was a bad man to meet, and he circled round so promiscuously that he was met pretty often. Kit Rutherford never played better, and that is saying a great deal; his quick recovery of the rubber and his swift, low, straight shots having had a telling effect. R. Kelly, a new man, made some brilliant play. Light of foot as a panther, and cunning as a fox, he used his stick with good judgment and skill. Billy Scott, another new man, did yeoman service; he was generally found where the fight was the fiercest, and generally came out of it with his ball. He is plucky, quick and skillful, and on Monday covered himself with glory and bruises. "Dod" Fortye played at his best and did some exceedingly effective running and checking, which was loudly cheered. Tierney never played better. He was quick at capturing the ball, and his long straight throws made his work count. When his blood is up he don't seem to know what fatigue is. Jimmy Sheehey is getting better every day. He never lost a ball on a face, and very seldom in a scrimmage, and his dodging is something wonderful. The temperature is very low when Jimmy gets left in centre field. Howden is a strong man on the home field; his playing on Monday was very fine and telling. P. Myles, another new man, is a decided acquisition to the club. He is a swift runner, handles his stick skillfully, makes good throws, and makes it particularly melancholy for the opponent that tries on the body check with him. Joe Giroux fills the goal as though he were six feet wide—he makes a most excellent defence. On Monday he had a great deal of nothing to do, but when, on some stray occasion, the ball came near his poles its visit was short—it went spinning down towards the enemy's goal. The local team is a strong one this season, and when the boys get fairly into practice, they will make a live team and one that won't give a walk-over to its opponents.

The attendance of spectators was extremely large, the ladies forming a great proportion of them, and our best citizens were well represented.

THE CITY BAND.

The "City" Band turned out sixteen strong under the leadership of Mr. A. Freeman, appearing for the first time in their new uniforms, in which they presented a very attractive appearance. The uniform consists of a suit of artillery blue broadcloth, the tunic with gold lace frogs, and the caps with gold lace band and white and crimson plume. Their music, furnished at the regatta, lacrosse match and during the day, was much admired.

The day passed off peacefully and enjoyably, not an accident marring its pleasure.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Wednesday, May 21st, at three o'clock in the afternoon, the thermometer stood 93 degrees in the shade, and on Friday, May 23, at three o'clock in the afternoon, it rose to 90 degrees in the shade.

Snoops was a young man who had been married a year, and he was telling a friend how diffident he was when single. "Were you much embarrassed when you popped the question?" asked the friend. "Embarrassed? Well, I should say I was. I owed $15 for board and clothes and one thing or other, and I didn't have a darned cent to pay it with."

METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING.

The annual district meeting of the Peterborough district of the Methodist Church in Canada, met in Millbrook Methodist Church at two o'clock on Tuesday.

All the ministers were present.

The Rev. J. Shaw, Chairman, presided, and the Rev. D. N. McNamara was elected secretary.

The usual disciplinary questions were asked concerning each minister's moral character and doctrine, and satisfactorily answered.

Chas. Desprose, of Lakefield, having travelled two years, and H.V. Mountorr, of Bethany, having travelled one year, were recommended to the conference to be continued on trial. During the examination of the [illegible] children on doctrinal questions [illegible] joined in an animated discussion of some of the questions. What if often been said was clearly brought out by this discussion viz:—that there is no departure by the ministers from standards of Methodist doctrine. It was the unanimous opinion that the doctrine of repentance and a present conscious and full salvation should be preached constantly, strongly and boldly.

The district meeting was resumed at ten a. m, on Wednesday. Laymen from each district present.

The number of members, the amount raised for ministerial supports and for all other purposes on each circuit were reported. There is an increase in the membership and in the amounts raised for connectional funds.

Wm. Johnson was elected a representative on the Standing Committee, and Thos. Manning was elected as representative on the Sunday School Committee.

As there is a large debt on the General Conference Fund, which must be provided for before entering the union, the brethern decided to bring the matter before the people, to raise the amounts laid on their circuits.

A resolution was unanimously carried by a standing vote expressing the high regard entertained for the Rev. J. Shaw, Chairman, and the obligations of the members of the district to him for his uniform kindness, his wise counsel and his efficient administration of the duties of his office.

The members of the district and a number of the congregation met at eight o'clock in the evening to hear an eloquent, thoughtful and edifying sermon from the Rev. J. Shaw.

THE PROVISIONAL DISTRICT

meeting met Thursday morning at 9.30. The Rev. J. Shaw was elected chairmen, and the Rev. E. A. Tonkin was elected secretary. The object of this meeting was to encourage the work within the bounds of the Peterborough district, which is necessary on account of the union of the Methodist bodies.

It was resolved that the congregation worshiping in the George Street, Murray street and Charlotte Street Churches should worship in the George Street and Charlotte street churches, and that Ashburnham and two country appointments should form a circuit. The work on the other circuits of the District was also adjusted as agreed upon by the committee which formally met for the purpose. The Rev. W. Johnston was elected as representative of the stationing committee of the Bay of Quinte conference, and the Rev. E. A. Tonkin on the Sunday School Committee.—[Com.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Two wheelmen from Peterboro' visited our town on Sunday but our local 'cyclist' thinks they do not enjoy as much 'variety' as his attempts result in. Perhaps he gets more electric "light."

Cheerful reports of the 24th reach us, from Norwood and Hastings.

The crops are looking well, and all nature is clad in her loveliest.

Our friend, Andrew Colville, of the suburbs of Keene — Allandale — has graduated at the Canada Business College. He says he likes Hamilton, well, and speaks highly of the Business College there.

The Lodge of Good Templars recently started in Allandale is, we hear, doing good work.

Lang thinks they have a lighter couple than Keene. Now the question arises, have they as heavy an one? No.

The proclamation of the Governor General respecting the wish of her majesty Queen Victoria relative to the celebration of her birthday, came to hand too late to prevent her loving subjects, from showing their accustomed respect for her natal day, by refraining from work, and seeking enjoyment on the anniversary of her birth, as early in the morning vehicles might be seen in numbers each bearing its load of occupants dressed in holiday attire towards the village, to witness the laying of the corner stone of the new Presbyterian church with Masonic honors. The Grand Junction Railway brought members from town, and the steamer Dora with scow attached furnished a large addition to the already large number congregated here.

The craftsman assembled in their lodge room in Grand Lodge meeting, whence they issued each member being clothed in Masonic regalia wearing white gloves and ties, and led by the excellent music of the Victoria Brass Band of the village, to the site of the church where the crowd had already assembled. The M. W., the G. M of A. F and A. M., G. R. C., ascended the platform and with the customery formalities of the craft laid the corner stone, to the music of "God Save the Queen" by the Band.

Dinner and tea were served by the ladies of the Congregation, the proceeds of which some $234 was added to the building fund and the assemblage dispersed, after giving three cheers for our gracious Sovereign Queen Victoria.

All seemed united in saying that the day was well spent and such as Keene may not see again in the course of many years.

DOURO.

On Wednesday morning of last week, Mrs. Ellen Driscoll, who resides on the Dummer road, about five miles from town, lost her life by accident. By some means, she fell down the steps leading to the cellar, and was instantly killed. She was 73 years of age.

THE ELECTRIC FIAT LUX.

The Lightning Turned to the Will and Use of Man.

The Town Inundated with the Electric Light—Day in Night—Great Success of the Undertaking.

On Friday night last, George, Hunter and Simcoe streets, suddenly burst into a blaze of white, clear, soft radiance—the electric light. The electricity developed in the dynamo-machine of the Peterborough Electric Light Company had been turned on. Both in expectation and in consequence of the event, the streets were crowded with spectators, whose praise of the exceeding brilliancy, steadiness, clearness and purity of the light was unbounded. Few of the many gave a thought as to the source of the light. Of course there was a general misty idea of currents conductors, negative and positive poles, but few knew how and where the electric soul of the light was generated. In the basement of a saw mill—Haslitt's timber and shingle mill—was the "secret place of thunder." Here a dynamo-machine, propelled by water-power, whirling at a terrific velocity—(850 times per minute)—was generating electricity. Some idea of the form of one of these generators, a Thompson & Houston dynamo, of which the Royal Electric Light Company, Montreal, have the sole control in Canada, may be formed from the following woodcut the lower part of which represents the dynamo.

A description of the working of the machine would be too technical to be of interest to the general reader. It is enough to say that it essentially consists of an armature covered with copper wire revolving between two iron magnets. The electric fluid is generated by the armature revolving at a high rate of speed between the magnets. One great advantage of this machine is the perfection of the arrangement for the automatical regulation of the speed of the machine, and consequently the flow of electricity and for proportioning the strength of the current to the number of lights burning.

Electricity, that mysterious fluid, essence, entity, result, cause, effect or whatever it is, for nobody has yet furnished the dictionary with a definition, though known for ages has within the last century been continuously subjected more and more to the will and purposes of man. The electric light is yet in its infancy but it is rapidly developing and bids fair to supersede in use and adaptation as it does in brilliancy and power, all forms of artificial lighting. The principle upon which it is produced is the same as that which evolves a spark from the fur on a cat's back by friction of its fur, or which wings the thunderbolts of Jove—interrupting or providing resistance to the flow of the electric current. The electricity leaping from cloud to cloud or from cloud to earth produces the vivid glow of the lighting whose clear intense brilliancy shows a glow as of day over the darkest midnight landscape, and the electricity in bridging the space between the carbons in an electric lamp produces the controllable lightning that may be seen any night in our streets or shops. The Thompson electric lamp a representation of which is given in the upper part of the above cut is claimed to be the best yet produced, and certainly the experience we have had of its capacity of illumination and steadiness here, inclines to support that claim. It distanced, so to speak, all competitors at the trial test of electric light apparatus at Cincinnati. Its illuminating capacity is equal to 2,000 candles. No one who has seen the light in Peterborough, will doubt this. On the streets its light is brilliant widely diffused and intense, while in shops it is even more satisfactory. Those shop owners who have tried it are enthusiastic in its praise. T. Dolan & Co., have a light in each shop and each is lighter than in the daytime for the light is all over the shop in a softly luminous flood, so that the most delicate shades in the fabrics are as easily distinguishable as in the day. Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co. have three lights at their establishment. The one on their millinery floor is particularly satisfactory. The most delicate distinctions of shade and colors in flowers and ribbons are perfectly distinguishable. The lamp in Messrs. Ormond & Walsh's drug store produces a most brilliant and beautiful effect, while Faucher's billiard rooms are as light as day with the electric lamp.

The electric light in Peterborough is a pronounced success and a credit to the progressiveness of the town. Great praise is due to the local company for their enterprise in originating the undertaking and for the promptitude with which they have carried on operations. Only about a fortnight ago the contract was signed with the Royal Electric Light Company of Montreal. Now the poles have been planted and the wires placed by the energy of Mr. A. T. Smith, and the dynamo-machine placed in position and connected by Mr. F. W. Mount, of Montreal, who has still charge of it.

Mr. H. McCaw, Custom House, Toronto, writes: "My wife was troubled with Dyspepsia and Rheumatism for a long time; she tried many different medicines, but did not get any relief until she used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. She has taken two bottles of it, and now finds herself in better health than she has been for years."

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT

Synopsis of His Great Speech.

The following is a synopsis of Sir R. Cartwright's speech at the Grand Opera House, Toronto, on Tuesday night.

His opening remarks were devoted to a statement of the causes that led him, fourteen years ago, to forsake the Conservative party. He had had sufficient cause for that action in his history, he said, and though he had the highest respect for every honest Conservative that could give a reason for the faith that was in him, yet he had never seen cause to repent or feel ashamed of his actions. Good sound Conservatives were as necessary as ballast to a ship, but when they were led by bad and unscrupulous men they became shifting ballast, the most unstable ballast that could be used.

He would first, he said, devote his attention to the aim of the Liberal party, and he was sorry if he would be compelled to say some things that were not pleasant. He held the opinion that the people of Canada had in some important respects retrograded from the high position they occupied some years ago. They had a less firm hold on liberty, less of self-government than they were possessed of fifteen or twenty years ago. Yet this was not unnatural. It was always easier to attain than to retain liberty, with them, as politics became more complicated, and other pursuits more lucrative, it was more and more difficult to get the best men of the country to undertake the task of governing the country. In the United States, after independence had been obtained, the government of the nation fell more and more into the hands of inferior men, and that history was being repeated in Canada.

Ontario, he said, was far from possessing her due weight in the councils of the government, while Quebec had greatly more than her share, and in the history of the United States, and the deplorable result of government by inferior men and place-hunters, there was a warning for the provinces. He did not blame Quebec, but he did blame the representatives of Ontario who would not stand up for their rights as the Quebec delegates did.

This being so, what an opening there was for an unscrupulous man to seize on power and hold it, and how more and more difficult it became to oppose him.

The difficulties they had to face were these: They were practically confronted with a sinister combination such as any country on earth rarely had to face. The leaders of their opponents and of the government were persectly unscrupulous men whom their followers knew to be so, and drew their inferences therefrom. Behind them was a large body of contractors, who found it very convenient to subscribe to a testimonial, to aid in an election, or to subsidize a newspaper. After these came a small, though very powerful body of monopolists, and following them an array of place and subsidy hunters that were very leeches upon the country. And lastly came a legion possessed with the idea that the Government existed for the special purpose of granting special privileges to special favorites. They must further consider that these had all been well-drilled by a Past Grand Master in the art, and then they could form some idea of the difficulties that had to be faced.

He declared explicitly that they had not a free government, but a government by bribery, the like of which had never been seen in the world. Walpole, he thought, was not a patch on the present government, as far as bribery was concerned. When the men that were elected in 1878 were elected it was as if the people of the United States had, knowing the records of the men, elected Boss Tweed for president, with Jim Fisk as his minister of railways, and Oakes Ames to handle the money. And the consequences, they might be sure, would be the same if they did not take care.

Sir Richard said the proofs of all he had said were to be found in the records of the country, past and present. This brought him to the question of our financial condition, which he dealt with exhaustively. At the time of confederation our population was 3,375,000, and our expenditure $13,500,000. In 1874 our population was 3,830,000, and our expenditure $23,316,000. In 1878 our population was 4,124,000, and our expenditure $23,500,000. In 1884 our population had only increased to 4,400,000, but our expenditure had increased to the formidable dimensions of $31,000,000. There never was, he contended, a more disgraceful exhibit. Here in times of prosperity, and at peace with all the world, we were as bad off financially as the United States was in 1867, after four years of disastrous and desolating warfare; and far worse off than the Americans are to-day. In the United States the expenditure was $25 per family and in Canada $35 per family. If in England they had gone in as we had the expenditure would be $170,000,000, instead of $85,000,000, and in the United States it would have been eight hundred millions instead of only two hundred and sixty-five millions. From 1867 to 1884 the various governments of Canada had collected from all sources of revenue $400,000,000. Add to this $92,000,000 tacked on last session, and $112,000,000 that had been borrowed and spent, and which they had the pleasure of paying interest for, and in all the total amount was $630,000,000, or $200 for every family in the land, that had been expended during the past seventeen years.

In 1863, $40,000,000 was exacted from the people of the Dominion, and they must remember that three-fifths of that sum was PAID BY THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO.

It was no wonder that many Canadians left the country to escape such excessive burdens. That such was the case was easily proven. The United States census of four years ago showed that 700,000 native-born Canadians were residents of the United States. Further, our own returns showed that of 342,000 emigrants whose passage had been paid to Canada by the Canadian Government, scarcely 90,000 remained. He had nothing to say against money wisely spent in bringing to our shores those who would assist in developing the resources of the country, but he had much to say against spending $500,000 a year in bringing over men who had to be supported by charity after their arrival, or who earned a living by displacing our own laborers.

The taxes on the people were really $45 per family, and if this was computed at 4 per cent., the result in the last forty years was equal to a mortgage of $1,100 on every family in the land. He did not believe it was possible to inflict this huge burden of taxation, and at the same time confer a benefit. His reason taught him that it was impossible to make a people rich by adding to their burdens, though that had been the theory upon which this country had been governed during the past half-dozen of years. He quoted further statistics to show that in all the years while the American people had been growing and developing into a great nation, they had been economically and frugally governed; governed in a way that gave Canadians cause to blush. The difference between the two countries was just the difference between honest government and government by dishonest means.

The speaker then turned his attention to the Governmental acts of legislation of last session. He dealt in a masterly manner with the Canada Pacific loan, and said the subsidies to the Province were simply a huge system of bribes to reconcile prominent followers to that loan. He also dealt at length with the Mousseau affair, the Exchange Bank loan, the Chapleau scandal, the Calgary land scheme of Lieutenant-Governor Robitaille, the Sir Charles Tupper whitewashing act, and the Section B affair.

At this stage of the address John A. Macdonnel stood up in the audience and asked what fee a certain lawyer had received for advocating the cause of the contractors before the arbitrators. John was greeted with hisses and loud cries of "put him out," "knock him down," &c. Finally he was induced to subside, and upon leaving his seat and the building a few minutes after was greeted with a perfect storm of hisses.

Sir Richard said he neither knew nor cared who defended these men, but when they got a large sum of money awarded them, and when John Shields failed, as he had done, to press his libel suit against the Globe, he felt justified in saying that the money was not given for a good purpose or spent righteously. At any rate he could say,

With every feature of the job complete,
If it be honest 'tis a devlish cheat.

He then turned his attention to the late Ministry, and eulogized Mr. Mackenzie. That gentleman, he said, had fallen in 1878 because he would not bribe. He might have offended by being too stubbornly honest. At any rate the people in 1878 had decided that they wanted the unjust steward, and a nice specimen they got. Mackenzie thought of country first, party next, and lastly of himself, and therefore he had not been most hopelessly defeated.

The aim of the Reform party should be:—To stop this systematic corruption; to maintain the local rights of the Provinces; to redress and amend the present fiscal system; to educate the people to a better sense of their public duty; to amend the present constitution of the Senate; and, if possible, to destroy the effect of the gerrymander and obtain a fairer representation in the House of Commons.

Sir Richard then entered upon a speculative phase of politics, and announced that in so doing he was speaking for himself alone. He had found, he said, a great unrest, a doubt as to the stability of our present governmental institutions. That feeling would develop, and to meet it they had before them three courses. The first was annexation to the United States, a course that did not for a moment receive his approval. Next came the question of independence, of which he did approve, advised by sentiment which the audience cheered to the echo. Lastly, they could form a federation of all the English-speaking people of the world. This scheme might be too vast; if so, they must prepare for self-government. He concluded a speech of two hours' duration by asking the audience to ponder well the thoughts he had placed before them. Upon taking his seat he was loudly cheered.

A Sure remedy for Neuralgia.

Neuralgia is one of the most common and distressing complaints incidental to this climate. It is not confined to any particular season, for whilst most general in the winter seasons, yet many suffer its excruciating agony in the heat of summer In late years this form of disease has become better known, and consequently the means of relief have become greatly increased in numbers, as well as in efficacy. Among the most powerful and penetrating combinations, placed within the reach of the public for the relief of neuralgia, we can mention no remedy equal to or more certain than Polson's NERVILINE. Its power over pain is something wonderful, and we advise a trial for neuralgia, or any other painful complaints. Nerviline is sold by all druggists at 25 cents a bottle, also trial bottles at 10 cents.

If you have a cough with raising of phlegm in the morning, night sweats, and irregularity of the bowels, loss of appetite, and general debility, take Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya. A host of those who have used it throughout the Dominion will attest its great efficacy in arresting the decline of the Consumptive. It begins at the root of the evil, the Stomach, and perfects Digestion, Assimilation of food, and the formation of Healthy Blood, rapidly invigorating the Constitution and restoring energy to all the Vital Organs. It is agreeable to take and permanent in its effect with no liability of relapse. Sold by all druggists at $1.00.

THE McKIM CASE.

Testimony of a Hostile Witness.

The Guelph Herald a Tory journal of no possible tendency to favor, anything "Grit," gives the following in reference to the McKim case and its statement is a complete refutation of the ridiculous assumptions and assertions of rabid tory journals that the charge against Mr. McKim was dismissed, not for want of evidence but from partiality exercised by the presiding magistrates, by advice of the county attorney, Mr. Peterson:

"The arrest of Mr. McKim, M. P. P. for West Wellington, on a charge of forgery created a good deal of excitement in his riding. He was summoned before Messrs. Hailey and Beaubien, of Arthur, and after evidence had been taken and the counsel employed had addressed the bench the result was a dismissal. Our Grit friends claim that McKim was dismissed on the ground that no evidence of the charge could be given and that he comes out of the scrimmage with unblemished character. On the other hand some of our friends on the Conservative side claim that in the face of the clearest proof of guilt, on the advice and by the assistance of County Crown Attorney Peterson, the case was wrongfully dismissed and a failure of justice has been had.

Both parties are in error, and the remarks that have been made about Mr. Peterson are in our opinion quite uncalled for. It is a very easy thing to get excited because a matter does not go just as a person has made up his mind it is going, and people are far too fond of jumping at rash conclusions on mere wild talk. A calm reflection of some of the features of the case might lead to a very different opinion.

The Hamilton Spectator starts off with the idea that Mr. Hailey being a good Grit called to the Bench an equally good one in the person of Mr. Buschlen. This is not the case, however. Mr. Hailey is a Reformer, and any arguments built upon the contrary basis of course loses their force. The Spectator also pitches into the Crown Attorney, who it says is not a Grit. Well, in that the Spectator is partly right. Mr. Peterson is not a Grit and in his official capacity he is supposed not to have any politics, nor we believe has he ever shown any political leaning in his public dealings as County Crown Attorney since his appointment. Mr. Peterson was a Reformer though not a Grit and he was appointed through the late Hon. Ferguson Blair by the Coalition Government. It is also incorrect for the Spectator to say that Mr. Peterson "overbore the scruples of the Magistrates who believed it their duty to send Mr. McKim for trial," as Mr. Buschlen was entirely in favor of dismissal, and as far as we can see the extent of Mr. Peterson's advice was that if the two Magistrates could not agree they had no other course to pursue than dismiss the case. That would appear to us to be correct. It was certainly the case when Judge Cameron and Judge Boyd sat on the Dowling case. Judge Cameron was for disqualification, and it seems natural that what holds good in the higher court should also prevail in the lower. The facts are that Mr. Peterson had no desire to go to Arthur but was requested to do so by the Conservative Magistrate Hailey, and when the court room was cleared for consultation, Mr. Peterson started to leave the room also, but was requested to remain by the court, and did not in any way interfere except when his advice was asked. As far as the case itself is concerned we express no opinion. The evidence given very reluctantly and evasively by Smith at any rate, proved that the date of the note was changed, whether that constitutes forgery or not, we do not know. The present dismissal in no way prejudices the case or the rights and remedies of those interested, as the matter can be pursued at any time.

PICTON.

The trial of the Louders and Thompsett for the murder of Peter Lazier last fall at Bloomfield, took place at the Assizes in Picton last week. Seldom has a stronger or more direct chain of circumstantial evidence been brought against persons charged with the crime of murder than was produced in this case. Providence seemed to provide necessary facts to convict the perpetrators of the unprovoked and needless murder of a harmless and defenceless man. So pointed was the evidence that one of the Louders, the one that was first arrested, was completely exonerated and discharged by order of the Judge at the close of the prosecution, while there was no room for doubt in regard to the others. They were traced by tracks in the slush and snow direct from the scene of the murder to their own houses, a snow storm which prevailed at the time having ceased just in time to prevent the boot tracks being obliterated.

The weather turning colder at the same time the impressions made by the footsteps were preserved as if in plaster Paris. The boots worn by the persons fitted the tracks precisely. Notwithstanding the father, mother, brother and other relatives undertook to swear an alibi, their statements at different times were shown to be conflicting. The jury, after an hour and a half's deliberation, brought in a verdict of guilty, with the now customary recommendation for mercy. Both prisoners were then sentenced to be hanged on the 10th of June next.

THE BANNER PROVINCE.

In Sir Richard Cartwright's, great speech delivered in Toronto on Tuesday night May 20th, the following high compliment to Ontario occurs:—

"Among her hundred colonies, acquired in every possible way—by war, by purchase, by barter, by discovery, by the natural instinct of settlement on the part of men who wished to better their condition—England has but one colony—Ontario—of which it can be truly said that it was won for her by men who gave up all else they held dear for the sake of their allegiance to the British crown [Loud and prolonged cheering]. I know of no other colony that can say as much, and I know of no nobler origin for any nation or colony than that.

WEIGHED IN THE BALANCE, but not found wanting. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure has been weighed in that just balance, the experience of an impartial and intelligent public. Both remedially and pecuniarily it is a success. Its sales constantly increase, testimony it its favor is daily pouring in. The question of its efficacy in Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Kidney Ailments, and for Blood Impurity, is decided.

CONSPIRING AGAINST COPS.

Ulysses and William Lappin of Hamilton have begun a career of crime in an original way. Ulysses is ten years old. William is nine. They determined to rob all the policemen of the ambitious city and laid out a programme by which their houses were to be visited in succession. It was a bold scheme but it didn't work. They were caught while burglarizing the house of Constable Grigg, and will be tried next Saturday.

Pure Bred Poultry!

The subscriber is now prepared to dispose of SITTINGS OF EGGS from the following varieties of Poultry:—Plymouth Rocks, Houdans, Black Spanish, White Leghorns, Buff Cochin, Silver Grey Dorkings, Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Pekin Ducks and Bronze Turkeys.

All the above varieties were either first or second prize birds at the fall and winter exhibitions. I have also added since the exhibitions some very fine birds of different varieties to my stock. Having bred the greater part of the varieties for three years, I think I know what suits the country.

Every pains has been taken to keep the stock pure, by keeping the birds in different yards, therefore the public can rely on a good article, either in Eggs or Chicks, second to none but in price, any and all of the above varieties being offered at $1.50 per 13, or 26 for $2.50, excepting the Ducks or Turkeys.

Any orders for eggs must be accompanied with the price. I would be glad to fill a large order, if required, with different kinds.

MISS KISTLER'S CHEEK.

HOW DR. SHRADY, OF NEW YORK, RECONSTRUCTED A LADY'S FACE.

Bertha Kistler, who for eighteen months has been under treatment by the surgeon of the Presbyterian Hospital in New York, has left the institution a living, grateful monument of surgical ingenuity and skill. Bertha Kistler is now about 20 years old, and fifteen years ago she was treated by an unskillful surgeon in Germany for a supposed cancerous growth on the cheek. The ailment proved to be of another character, but the operation destroyed all symmetry of the child's face, leaving a large whole in the cheek, and the mouth and nose frightfully distorted. Eighteen months ago the girl called on Dr. Shrady to discover if anything could be done to remedy her deformity.

She was only a poor working girl, but begged to go to the hospital and pay for treatment by work. Dr. Shrady held out little encouragement to her, but at last consented to undertake the task of building up virtually a new countenance. Soon after the first operation was performed, and in the course of a year it was followed by sixteen others. Most of the face was made over by transphantation of flesh from adjacent parts.

The most important step in the treatment of the case was the filling up of the hole in the face. For this purpose a large skin flap was wanted. It was obtained in the following manner: A rectangular section of the skin was separated from the girl's left arm above the elbow. An incision was made in the side of the forefinger of the right hand, extending from the first joint around to the thumb. The hand was then brought over to the left arm and the detached edge of the skin flap was sewed into the incision in the finger with fine silver wire. The hand and arm were kept immovable by plastic bandages. In about a week the skin flap became united to the hand, but the flap was principally nourished from the arm. To change the current of nutrition the flap was gradually cut from the arm, and when it had been nearly severed the finger, and not the arm, kept the skin flap alive. When this became apparent the entire skin flap was amputated from the arm. The hand, with the ingrown flap, was then brought up to the face, the scarred skin in the left cheek was raised, and the flap was inserted underneath. The hand was kept in position by plastic bandages and a plastic cap. In three weeks the flap became attached to the face; the current of nourishment was changed by gradual amputation from the finger, and finally, when entirely separated from the hand, the skin flap taken from the arm became the foundation for a new cheek.

With a natural anxiety the surgeon watched the growth of the flesh, and at last had the satisfaction of demonstrating indubitably the feasibility of transplantation of flesh from one part of the body to another by using the hand as a medium. New difficulties then arose. The surface of the face was rehabilated, but the girl's mouth was drawn out of shape to such an extent that the corner was almost directly under the nose.

To restore the mouth, Dr. Shrady decided to enlarge it on one side and sew it up on the other, and after this was done the lips were cut into true and proper shape and all traces of distortion had disappeared. With the success of this last operation, which made twenty in all, the labor was ended, and nothing was left but to await the healing of the incisions. These have at last become satisfactory, and the girls face is shapely once more, but, of course, slightly disfigured by scars. Most of these, however, are from straight, clean cuts, and it is expected that even they will eventually become imperceptible.

From the first moment of her long martyrdom the girl has not faltered for an instant, but has even been impatient for the next step. Sometimes the doctor would try to forego for a time the operation, but she persisted in her desire. A singular feature of the case is, that notwithstanding the sufferings she must have experienced, she has grown fat. She has been constantly the recipient of flowers, wines and delicacies of various kinds from people who, though strangers to her, have become interested in her singular and remarkable patience.

The gratitude she evinces towards Dr. Shrady is immeasurable. She is now in the most buoyant spirits, and is looking forward with delight to the prospect of attending a family gathering to take place next month.

A Note of Warning to Suffering Humanity.

We feel that we would be wanting in the duty we owe to humanity if we did not sound a note of warning in regard to the use of Mercury and other poisonous minerals in the treatment of blood and skin diseases. If the reader could see the horrible suffering, the awful wrecks of human health and happiness, shown by our correspondence with those who have been dosed with these mineral poisons he would shudder with horror. Arsenic, Mercury, Antimony, and Iodide of Potassium, are some of the remedies most ordinarily used for these diseases, and they are all POISON. Do not take these poisons. They might dry up your disease for a few days, but it will surely return, and with it you will have Mercurial Rheumatism, which may bring you years of torture. Shaker Blood Syrup will invigorate you and build you up, and force all the poison out through the pores of your skin, and cure you sound and well.

SHAKER BLOOD SYRUP

cures completely Scrotula, Syphilis, Rheumatism Cancer, Catarrh, and Skin and Blood diseases of every description. Sold by Ormond & Walsh. $1.00 a bottle, or six for $5.00.

A HARD QUESTION ANSWERED.

A good story is told of the bishop of Atlanta, Ga. He recently addressed a large assembly of Sunday school children, and wound up by asking in a very paternal and condescending way: "And now, is there a-a-n-y little boy or a-a-n-y little girl who would like to ask me a question?" After a pause he repeated the question: "Is there a-a-n-y little boy or a-a-n-y little girl who would like to ask me a question?" A little shrill voice called out: "Please, sir, why did the angels walk up and down Jacob's ladder when they had wings?" "Oh, ah, yes—I see," said the bishop; "and now are there a-a-n-y little boy or a-a-n-y little girl who would like to answer little Mary's question?"

Few are the remedies whose beneficial qualities and real merits have made so popular with the public, and increased from year to year their consumption, which, whilst possessing the most valuable remedial properties, are yet so simple in their compound, and so easy to take, as the Quinine Wine, prepared by Northrop & Lyman of Toronto. This article is prepared from the pure Sulphate of Quinine, combined with fine Sherry Wine, and choice aromatics, which relieves the Quinine of its bitter taste, and does not impair in the least degree the efficacy of its action upon the patent; while small doses, frequently repeated, strengthen the pulse, increase muscular force, and invigorate the tone of the nervous system, and thus, by the general vigor which it imparts, creates an appetite, which gives to the stomach tone and energy, and fortifies the system against all infectious diseases. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine; sold by all druggists.

FOREVER FORGIVING.

A pathetic scene took place in a Brooklyn Police Court the other day. A young man remonstrated with his betrothed on her flirting, she laughed at him, and he slapped her face. She had him arrested for assault. In court she said she would forgive him, and the two indulged in a little crying and a good deal of hugging and kissing. The Magistrate, however, said that the man had been guilty of a most cowardly act, and he sent him to jail for 20 days. On his release it is altogether likely the pair will go on cooing as before and probably the girl will marry him—to get thumped the rest of her life.

Would you Believe It?

Nature's great remedy, Kidney-Wort, has cured many obstinate cases of piles. This most distressing malady generally arises from constipation and a bad condition of the bowels. Kidney-Wort acts at the same time as cathartic and a healing tonic removes the cause, cures the disease and promotes a healthy state of the affected organs. James P. Moyer, carriage Man'fr, of Myerstown, Pa., testifies to the great healing powers of Kidney-Wort, having been cured by it of a very bad case of piles which for years had refused to yield to any other remedy.

NUNS FOR THE NORTHWEST.

Among the passengers by the last Sardinian was a party of black nuns from the St. Joseph convent, Liverpool. The party consisted of six sisters from Liverpool and five young girls from Brittany, under Sister Rosalie of France and seven young priests. The sisters will leave Montreal on Friday for Brandon, Man., whence they will depart for various stations to engage in work among the Indians. A band of grey nuns left on a similar mission Wednesday night.

BRITISH CROP PROSPECTS.

The Mark Lane Express, reviewing crop prospects in England, comes to the conclusion that present indications point to the probability of such a crop of wheat as has not been seen (in England) since the year 1868. The prevalence of westerly and south-westerly winds is believed to favor the expectation of a warm, growing summer season.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

The annual meeting of the Norwood Mechanics Institute was held on Monday afternoon. The attendance, as usual, was remarkable for its slimness, very little interest, with the exception of the attention given to the Library, being taken in this really valuable Institute. The following gentlemen were elected officers for the current year: President—W. E. Roxborough, 1st Vice-President—Dr. Ford, 2nd Vice-President—R. W. Waters, Secretary—Thomas Burke, Treasurer—W. H. Stephenson. Directors—Messrs. T. M. Grover, John Clarke, Dr. Pettigrew, Thos. Fraser, W. H. Mullins, P. W. Reynolds, Rev. Mr. Gibson, Rev. Mr. Gee, and Rev. Mr. Carmichael.

A meeting of the directors was held on Monday afternoon last at 2 o'clock, at the office of the President of the Institute.

FIRST FREIGHT CAR.

The first freight car on the Ontario & Quebec railway passed through here on Thursday evening last, there being thirteen large box cars laden with bar-iron for Winnipeg. It was rather a novel sight as yet for our villagers, who looked with pride and pleasure on the heavily laden cars as the "Iron Mone" steamed onward through our village to its distant destination. Norwood now rejoices over the fact she is not now dependent on the slow locomotion to the south of us for railway connection with the surrounding commercial centres, and that we can now offer to our neighbours a safe, sure and speedy mode of transit abroad.

PAY CAR.

The Ontario & Quebec Railway pay car passed through here on Friday last, and paid the men along the line. It took the nice little sum of $30,000 to pay the month's wages of the hands on the division between Peterborough and Tweed.

QUARTERLY SERMONS.

The quarterly services in connection with the Methodist church Norwood, were held on Sunday morning the 12th inst. The popular pastor of the church, Rev. Mr. Gee, officiated, and preached to a very large congregation, an earnest, appropriate and remarkably impressive sermon. On Monday afternoon the 13th, the official board held its quarterly meeting when a large amount of business in the interests of the Norwood circuit was transacted. The furnished reports from the different missions of the circuit were highly gratifying, and all returns really exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the board. There were only the trifling sum of two dollars lacking to pay up in full the minister's salary, which, with one or two exceptions some other financial call made upon the members of the Norwood and Dummer congregations was fully realised—a state of affairs both pastor and people certainly deserve to be congratulated upon.

MAGISTRATES COURT.

On Monday afternoon last a magistrates court was held in this village. H. Drain, Esq., presiding, when Mr. Timothy Murphy, of Asphodel, charged the Miss Farralls, tenants of a brick building owned by the former on Peterboro' street, with trespass, the latter according to statement of the complainant using a portion of a garden adjoining the premises without his consent. Defendants, however, had two witnesses, Miss Minnie Elliott and Miss Mary Patterson, who deposed that they heard Mr. Murphy give the use of the garden in question to Miss Farrell, with the statement that "she would have the stuff off of it by the time he would want to use it." The magistrate then dismissed the case with costs which only amounted to $2.70.

For a good heavy honey-comb quilt go to Turnbull's he has them cheaper than ever this season.

MAKING A LEAD PENCIL.

ITS COST AND ITS PROFITS—A PENCIL OF PRE-HISTORIC INTEREST.

"What does it cost to make a lead pencil?" said the menufacturer. "First let me tell you how we make a pencil. See this fine black powder? That's graphite. It costs 25 cents a pound. This white substance is German clay. It comes across the ocean as ballast in sailing vessels, and all it costs us is freight. We mix this clay and this powder together and grind them in a mill, allowing moisture to be added during the process, until the two are thoroughly assimilated and are reduced to a paste about the consistency of putty.

"This paste we press into these dies, each one of which is the size of a pencil lead, except in length. There are four leads in one of these. After they are pressed we out them into the proper length and bake in an oven kept at very high heat There we have the lead made. Its hardness is regulated by the greater or less amount of clay we mix with the graphite—the more clay we put in the harder the lead.

"The cedar we use comes principally from the swamps of Florida, and is obtained entirely from the fallen trees that lie there. The wood is delivered to us in blocks sawed to pencil lengths, some thick to receive the lead, and others thin, for the piece that is glued over the lead. The blocks are sawed for four pencils each. They are grooved by a saw, the groove being the place where the lead is to lie.

"The leads are kept in hot glue, and are placed in the grooves as the blocks are ready. When that is done the thin block is glued fast to the thick one. When dry the blocks are run through a machine that cuts the pencils apart. Then they are run through a machine that shapes and burnishes them, and they are ready to be tied in bunches, boxed and put out.

"The different grades in value are made by finer manipulation of the graphite. Here is a pencil that is about the average quality used in every-day business. It costs a little more than one-quarter of a cent to get it ready for market. We sell it to dealers at one hundred per cent. profit, and the dealer makes much more than that. Of this grade an operator and the machinery will easily make 2,500 a day.

"There is a pencil in that case. It's a cheap-looking thing, isn't it. Don't look worth more than a cent, does it? Well, it would take a ten-dollar bill to buy that. The cedar that surrounds the lead in that pencil was centuries old, I guess, before any cedar that is standing to-day began to grow. It was taken from a marl bed in Orange county, N.Y., at a depth of sixty feet, and near it was found a mastodon's remains. That bone knob on the end of the pencil was a piece of that mastodon's tooth. No, I don't think $10 would buy that pencil.

A SOCIETY PLAY.

Scene first—Gentleman leaves his wife, saying he wants to go forward to the smoking car to have a cigar. "Won't be gone long dear.'

Scene second—Gentleman in coach next ahead, which is not a smoking car, enjoying, not a cigar, but the company of a pretty and vivacious young woman, with whom he appears to be on excellent terms.

Scene third (after an hour)—Gentleman returns to his wife. 'I know I've been gone a long time, dear, but I met Mr. Hardy, of Galena. You saw him get on at Freeport, didn't you? We had quite a long talk about some business matters.'

Another gentleman, who turned out to be the Mr. Hardy, approaches from the rear coach, and despite the winkings and grimaces of gentleman No. 1 says:—"Why, how do you do. Mr. and Mrs. Smither? Smithy old boy, I didn't know you were on the train."

Then Mrs. Smithers picks a long, black hair from her husband's shoulder (her own hair being quite red) and silence reigns. But we can see from Mr. Smithers' meekness and Mrs. Smithers' flashing eyes and compressed lips, as they, without a word alight at their destination, that it is but the calm before the storm sure to break before the sun has set low down in the red west.

TWO OF A KIND.

It takes two to make a slander—one to listen the other to report. If mankind would act as a Russian general once did, the race of scandal-mongers would die of enforced idleness.

A Russian once tried to tell Skobeleff of certain scandalous reports about him. "One of your officers," he began, "is spreading lies about you. May I give you his name?"

"No, no; not a word," answered the General, sharply. "My officers fought like heroes. I love them. One word of mine was sufficient for their going willingly to death."

When the Russian, thus silenced, had left the room, Skobeleff called his servant, and asked:

"Did you notice well that face?"

"Yes, General."

"If so, then remember that for that man I am never at home, never! Do not forget my order."

THE POOR HORSE'S MOUTH.

There is an invention spoken of which it is thought may abolish the bit. It is called the carrago, or anti horse torture. It is composed of a steel band placed over the front bone of the horse's nose, and to this appliance the reins are attached. The inventor claims for the substitute for the bit that it gives complete control to the driver over the horse without inflicting the least discomfort or torture on the animal itself. It has been tried with satisfactory results.

For Range of Work, Perfection of Stitch, and Ease of Operation, it Possesses the following Advantages over all other Sewing Machines:—

1. Uses the shortest needle of any lock-stitch machine.
2. Carries a finer needle with a given size thread.
3. Uses a greater number of sizes of thread with one size needle.
4. Will close a seam tighter with linen thread than any other machine will with silk.
5. The shuttle holds the most thread.
6. Draws the needle thread both down and up while the needle is out of the goods therefore there is less friction on the needle and thread, consequently a tighter and more elastic seam.
7. It has a positive feed that will not choke in sewing any material.
8. Sews faster and with less noise than any other shuttle machine.
9. Will sew a greater number of sizes of thread without change of tension.
10. Will not change tension when sewing with a short or long stitch at varying speed.

FOR FAMILY SEWING IT IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHER MACHINES. No one should buy a Sewing Machine without first seeing and trying a Singer. PETERBOROUGH, MAY 29, 1884.

Mr. Blake and his Slanderers.

Our down street contemporary, after its custom, does not hesitate to ride, rough-shod, over facts in order to prejudice the position of Hon. Edward Blake towards secret societies. It practically asserts—when it dares not openly assert it always insinuates—that Mr. Blake from his place in the house denounced all secret societies as the "fruitful mother of maligntiy misrepresentation and bigotry." As, infidels, atheists, and wicked men can distort the utterances of the great Author of the Bible to secure their evil purposes, so the Review and other Tory journals by placing a false and evil construction on Hon. Mr. Blake's remarks, amplify them with evil unction, and take every advantage, for the purpose of vilifying a man whom, if the truth were alone told, these malignant theorists could not reach. To give the public an idea of Mr. Blake's real utterances and meaning upon the subject in question, we submit the following correspondence, which explains itself:

Hon. Edward Blake, M.P., Ottawa:

RESPECTED SIR,—My attention has been called by not a few prominent members of our order to a speech delivered by you lately on the "Orange Incorporation Bill," in which you appear to have denounced all secret societies, accusing them of being the "fruitful mother of malignity, misrepresentations, and bigotry." At the same time you admit that you are not a member of any secret society, and therefore do not know of yourself anything of their workings or teachings.

Many of my correspondents feel aggrieved that when you repudiated the language used as having any reference whatever to Freemasonry, that you did not at the same time also include "Oddfellowship," it surely having as strong a claim upon your kindly feelings as any other society.

I may say that "Oddfellowship is purely a benevolent society, having for its single purpose the relief of its members in the trials and struggles which are inseparable from human life." That its secrets are only those which are intended to protect its funds from impositions, &c.

I am unwilling that your conscientious remarks upon a bill then before you should be harshly judged or wrongly construed by our Order, amongst whose members are very many of your warmest and most ardent supporters, without first learning from yourself that you so intended, a fact which I do not for a moment harbour a thought of.

I shall be glad, indeed, if you will give me an assurance that I am right, that I may make public through the columns of our official paper, the Dominion Oddfellow.

I am, sir, respectfully yours,
J. B. KING, G. Sec.

(Copy). OTTAWA, March 28th, 1884.

DEAR SIR, I am much obliged by your letter of the 26th instant, in which you make some enquiries (very natural in view of the misrepresentations which have been circulated) as to the bearing of my recent remarks on secret societies. The most satisfactory reply which I can make is to enclose you (as I do herewith) a print of my speech, from which you will see what I did in fact say, and the connection in which my different remarks were made. You will observe that speaking in the first place of secret benevolent societies, such as that of which you are a member, I used the following language—

"I have never joined one, though many of my best friends are members of secret societies, which are as this professes to be, benevolent—secret societies that do not meddle with political topics—secret societies whose real action, so far as one of the public can know, is not inconsistant with or does not go beyond the avowed purposes of their association. But I believe the tendency of secrecy itself to be injurious. I believe that it involves a certain amount of sacrifice of individuality and independence, and gives very great facilities for the misleading of members by designing leaders—very great and mischievous facilities for that purpose. That is my general proposition with reference to secret oath-bound societies, a point on which, I dare say, as I said before, I am in a small minority; for I suppose the vast bulk of at least the Protestant members of this House belong to one or other of those societies; and I do not wish to be understood as saying that these mischievous tendencies are carried out in many of those societies, the operations of which, as far as I know are beneficial."

I then proceeded to refer to secret societies of a very different class, of which I gave as instances "the Ribbon Society," "the Pœnix Society," and "the Fenian Society," and pointed out the great evils which had resulted from their existance. You will see that it is after having discussed the evils which had arisen from this latter class of secret societies and exclusively with reference to quasi-political societies that I used the following language:—

"But we have no right, because we have no necessity, to engage for these purposes in secret societies, which, as I have indicated, have often been the fruitful mother of malignity, misrepresentation, and bigotry."

You enquire why when repudiating any intention to apply these words to the Society of Freemasons I did not make a similar repudiation as to your society. The explanation is simple. The speaker who followed me had charged me with having used these words as applicable to Freemasons. I denied his statement. It seemed unnecessary to deny a peformance which had not been imputed. After what I have said it is needless to add that the words referred to had no reference whatever to your society, any more than to that of the Freemasons, or any other like organizations. I conceive that it would have been a wanton slander had I used the words in the connection imputed to me.

I am,
Dear Sir,
Yours faithfully,
EDWARD BLAKE.

J. B. KING, Esq., Grand Secretary, Grand Lodge of Ontario, I.O.O.F., Toronto, Ont.

After perusing this correspondence the reader can form some idea of the weight which can be attached to the utterances of our contemporary. The Review may deceive itself, but it will find that it cannot deceive others, who have not the same nefarious reasons for exercising a nefarious facility of belief. No honest man, and no man who did not wish in pursuance of slanderous and malignant endeavor, would for a moment believe that Hon. Mr. Blake in his remarks referred to or intended to refer to, Masons, Oddfellows or any of the many other beneficent societies that abound in the country.

Editorial Notes.

The estimated cost of government in Canada, counting everything, is $15,000,000 a year.

An appeal has been entered in the Supreme Court in the West Northumberland Dominion election case.

It is understood the Dominion Government has promised Manitoba $100,000 additional subsidy per annum.

The appointment to the Dominion Senate of Mr. Wm. Macdonald, of Cape Breton, is gazetted.

Mayor Boswell, of Toronto, says that a casual ward for tramps will soon have to be provided in Toronto.

Rev. Dr. Withrow, of Toronto, the well-known author, has been elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada.

Hon. Edward Blake will be tendered a grand public reception on the occasion of his visit to Bowmanville, where he will address his constituents.

The Winnipeg Sun suggests that Mr. John Shields' new mansion should be called "Extra Hall." It was certainly purchased out of an extra haul.

The Ontario Government has decided to purchase the Shannon farm, on Shingle Bay, near Orillia, and will erect thereon a cottage asylum for 100 insane patients.

Hon. Mr. Mowat left on Saturday for England, by the steamer City of Chicago. Mr. Mowat went to look after the Boundary Award case which comes before the Privy Council in the course of next month.

Mr. C. J. Townsend, at present one of the M.P.P.'s for Cumberland County, has been chosen by the Tories to contest the seat in the House of Commons rendered vacant by the resignation of Sir Charles Tupper.

The point of difference between Sir Richard Cartwright and Sir John Macdonald is that Sir Rcihard had rather see Canadian Independence than Annexation, while Sir John prefers Annexation to Independence.

Respecting the annuities which the Provincial Treasurer proposes to issue according to the terms set forth in the advertisement, the Globe explains that they are not contingent upon the life of the purchaser, but are in the form of half-yearly payments, continuing for forty years in any event.

The Mount Forest Confederate, in reference to the late attempt to have Mr. McKim committed for forgery, says:—"A more contemptible piece of political spite has scarce ever been attempted, and we are confident that the sober thinking portion of Conservatives will not be backward in their condemnation of this treatment of our respected representative."

The reconstruction of the Ottawa Cabinet is now one of the chief topics in political circles. Tupper is out, and Macpherson, it is said, has resigned in a huff. Tilley wants a lieutenant-governorship, and may get it. And Costigan must go. Pending anything definite as to the coming men it may be mentioned that the aspirants are said to be white of Cardwell, White of Renfrew, Cameron of Victoria, Daly of Halifax, McCarthy, Speaker Kirkpatrick and some half-dozen others.

Those journals which keep up their harping on the string of Mr. McKim's frailties should bear in mind that when an apparently vexatious charge was brought against the latter gentleman he urged on the trial with all possible speed, while in striking contrast the shrinking and trembling conspirators are exercising every ingenuity to escape punishment by technical legal quibbles, and not by a full and fair trial, which, if they were innocent, would result in acquittal. "Conscience makes cowards of us all"—especially a guilty conscience.

The figures given by Sir Richard Cartwright show the situation in a nut-shell. At Confederation a population of 3,375,000 and an expenditure of $13,500,000. A rapid rise till 1874; then a rapidly increasing population and almost stationary expenditure till 1878; then another rapid rise in expenditure till in 1884 it reaches $31,000,000. No war, no large tribute to some other country has caused this increased tax upon the people. The only reason is that except during the period from 1874 to 1878, when there was almost no increase, a Tory Government has been in power.

Who will say that the Millennium is not dawning? After the Globe and Mail have been editorially at daggers drawn for a dozen years, the lion and the lamb lie down together. After the fire in the Mail building the Globe freely offered its political opponent the use of the Globe presses. The generous abnegation of the offer may be realized, when one reflects that the Globe might thus assist in the publication of an editorial of the Mail in its usual choice diction, giving its King street contemporary political "scissors." How can one help quoting:—

Viewed als own feather on the fatal dart
And winged the shaft that quivered in his heart.

Sir Richard Cartwright's Financial Comparisons.

The statements which Sir Richard Cartwright made in his speech of Tuesday evening last to show the increase in our expenditure, debt, and taxation, and the contrast he drew between our expenditures and those of the United States, before their great civil war, and between the financial condition at this day of Canada and the United States, deserve serious consideration.

We tabulate some of his statements:—

CANADIAN FIGURES.

	Population.	Expenditure.
1867	3,375,000	$13,500,000
1874	3,620,000	23,516,000
1878	4,124,000	23,516,000
1884	4,400,000	31,000,000

This he called a disgraceful exhibit. The only period in which expenditure did not increase by leaps and bounds was during the five years of the Mackenzie Administration when, although the increase of the charge for working railroads, the increase in Indian annuities, the cost of the Mounted Police, and the increased interest on debt amounted to millions, the increase in total expenditure was but $200,000; so great was the economy exercised. Sir S. L. Tilley repeatedly asserts that the rate of taxation per head has not increased. The simple figures we have quoted show how deceptive his mode of calculation by estimates and averages is.

After seventeen years of Confederation the financial condition of Canada is worse to-day than was that of the United States when they emerged from their great civil war.

The present population of the United States is 54 millions. Their actual expenditure last year was 265 million dollars, or about five dollars per head.

The population of Canada is 4,400,000. Her expenditure is 31 millions, or a little over $7 a head.

Thus the poorer people spend nearly fifty per cent. per head more than the wealthier people.

Every family in the United States pays $25 a year to the support of the government. Every family in Canada pays $35 a year.

The United States supports a small but expensive army and bears the cost of repeated Indian wars, support a small but expensive fleet and a great number of Ministers and Consular agents to look after her interests abroad. Canada has no army but that of place holders, place hunters, contractors, yet her militia does not cost a million a year.

The expenditure of the American people before the war were small compared with ours.

We again tabulate the statement.

AMERICAN FIGURES.

	Population.	Expenditure.
1830	9,469,822	$18,293,000
1840	12,866,020	12,141,000
1850	17,069,453	24,315,000
1860	23,191,876	41,000,000
1860	31,443,321	63,390,000

This brings us nearly to the time of the war. During these years the United States were engaged in some very serious Indian wars, and compare the expenditures in these years with the Canadian expenditures, and how vastly greater is the Canadian, the population being taken into account.

Deduct from the Canadian expenditure those items which represent such expenditures as the United States Government does not make. Deduct Provincial subsidies, and the running expenses of Government railways, and even what we spend on public works, although the United States have spent much in that way. Deduct all these, and the ordinery annual expenditure of Canada, with a population of 4,400,000, is as great as was the expenditure of the United States in 1845, when its population was 20,000,000 and its expenditure $22,930,000.

The growth of the United States and of their trade during those years when their expenditure were so small was very great.

"During about sixteen years, from 1834 or 1845 to 1860, a period almost identical in length with the term of our Confederation, the American duties fell from an average of 35 per cent, on all dutiable goods in 1844 to 19 per cent, in 1860; while at the same time their exports rose from $99,000,000 to $373,000,000, and their imports from $108,000,000 to $338,000,000, a rate of growth more than double they made in the sixteen years which succeeded the close of the civil war."

How sad is the comparison with this of Canadian progress since we have adopted the policy of high taxation!

But the burdens of the Canadian people are not represented by even the great annual expenditure. We now pay in Customs and Excise duties about 30 million dollars a year. We pay besides to various monopolies a large amount, estimated by Sir Richard to be at least ten millions more. This is in all 40 millions a year for the people who really do not number much more than four millions, or nearly ten dollars a year for every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

During the seventeen years of Confederation the people of Canada have paid in customs and excise duties alone $333,000,000!!—an enormous sum. If to this we add the amount the people were compelled to pay to monopolists during that period, which Sir Richard estimates at ninety millions, and the increase of the debt up to last session, and the fifty-two millions then added to our debt or liabilities, the whole amount taken from the people in taxes and imposed upon them as debt since 1867 is no less than $555,000,000!!—or about $600 for every family in Canada. Having these figures before us, we cannot feel surprised that business is so depressed and that the financial condition of the country is so unsatisfactory.—Globe.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the Great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle.

CRAZY AT TIMES.

EVERY PERSON A LUNATIC NOW AND THEN.

Prof. David Swing says: The fact that a druggist of this city has ended a human life by putting up wrong medicine awakens much indignation. He says many customers were in the store; he was in a hurry; he put up morphine instead of some simular drug. The inquiry arises whether the clerk is able to fill an order only when he has no customers in the shop? How empty must the shop be to secure safety? Must the street in front of the drug store also be empty? What if a fire-engine goes by? What if a dog fight occurs while the druggist is reaching for quinine? Is he justified in taking down strychnia? What if his mother-in-law has come to visit him? Such questions come up and properly; but there is another side to the fact of erring druggists, and that is, that most persons are crazy part of their time. The exceptions are rare. Each one is now and then a fool of the most complete order and species. All the laws and penalties in the world will not avail to make a druggist or anybody else have his full senses through all his life. Crazy moments or seconds will come. A wise man will step backwards off a porch or into a mud-puddle, a great philosopher will hunt for the specks that are in his hand or on his forehead, a hunter will sometimes shoot himself or his dog, a barber will sometimes forget his job and slice off a piece of a chin or an ear or an nose. A girl at work at Marshall field's had been feeding a great clothing knife for ten years. Last week she watched the knife come down slowly upon her hand. Too late she woke out of her stupor with one hand gone. For a few seconds her mind had failed and she sat by her machine a temporary lunatic and had watched the knife approach her own hand.

The man recently murdered on North Clark street, Chicago, saw the enemy come up with murder on his face, saw him draw a revolver, and, instead of making a lightning spring at the man, he stood bewildered and thus fell dead. His reason left him in the second of his greatest need.

One of the distinguished professors in one of our colleges was teaching near a canal. Walking along one evening in summer he walked as deliberately into the canal as he had been walking along the path a second before. He was brought to his senses by the water and mud and the absurdity of the situation. He had on a new suit of clothes and a new silk hat, but, though the damage was thus great, he still laughs over the adventure.

Our mail-collectors find in the iron boxes along the street all sorts of papers and articles which have been put in by some hand from whose motions the mind has become detached for a second. A glove, a pair of spectacles, a deed, a mortgage, a theatre ticket goes in and on goes the person holding on to the regular letter which should have been deposited. This is called absent-mindedness, but it is a brief lunacy. A lunatic is a person whose mind is habitually out of balance.

APSLEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Our usually quiet village was thrown into a fever of excitement, on Saturday last, on learning that our respected townsman, Mr. Thos. G. Eastland, had, after a desperate encounter with two monster bears, succeded in killing both. Whether T. G. E., had a presentment that something of this kind was about to happen, is not known to us, but it is certain that he has been carefully practising with his breech loader until he has become a crack shot. On going out on Saturday afternoon he encountered these two monsters of the forest, and they showed no disposition to make a retreat. Tom's blood was up immediately and having his trusty rifle on his shoulder, the fight commenced in good earnest, after a short but sharp encounter we are happy to say that Thomas came off victorious. It would be worse than useless to say that the scene of this terrible conflict was in F. Pratt's back yard, and some of our villagers are mean enough in their dispositions to actually insinuate that the bears did not get a fair show. They hint that there was a stout chain fastened to a solid post, the other end of which was securely attached to the animals neck. I guess if the truth was known, they are all jealous of Tom's good shooting.

"Ya'as," continued young Smythe, "I suppose everything created has some use, but 'pon me honah it's deuced hard to believe it, don't cher know?" "Yes," replied the young lady, looking him over intelligently, "it is, indeed."

KEENE CHURCH CORNER STONE

Well Made, Truly Laid, True and Trusty.

The Corner Stone of the Keene Presbyterian Church Laid with Masonic Ceremonies—By Grand Master Spry and a Large Number of Brethren—Success of the Ceremony—Description of the Church—The old Church and Congregation.

Saturday May 24th 1884, was a great day for Keene. At an early hour there were signs of unusual stir. As became the day flags and bunting were hung out, but around the drill shed and town hall the bustle of preparation showed that these were to be scenes of important proceedings during the day. The town hall on account of its size had been fitted up as a Masonic lodge room pro tem, for the accomodation of the large number of members of the mystic tie who were to be present to assist at the

of the Presbyterian church. The drill shed adjacent was converted into a banquetting hall for the occasion, and the appetites of the large concourse of visitors was made contributory to the coffers of the church. In this respect the same success that marked the proceedings of the day was a feature. Three or four rows of tables were stretched from one end of the building to the other, and from eleven o'clock dinner was laid, and these tables were filled and emptied successively by the hungry public whose appetites, sharpened by drives—many, long ones—through the bracing vernal air, did full justice to the exceedingly generous and excellent viands prepared by the ladies of the congregation. That such ample and orderly arrangements were made for "feeding the multitude" was due to the

LARGE COMMITTEE OF LADIES

who had charge of this department.

This committee consisted of Mrs. Lang, Miss Read, Miss Maggie Read, Miss A. Campbell, Miss Annie Campbell, Miss Boyce, Miss McNeil, Mrs. Millar, Mrs. D. Moore, Mrs. Plunkett, Miss Moore, Miss L. Moore, Mrs. D. Kerr, Mrs Mein, Miss Janet Anderson, Miss Lumsden, Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. McCartney, Miss Macfarlane, Miss Mary McNeil, Miss B. McIntyre, Mrs. J. Nelson.

The dinners were promptly served and everybody was surprised at the excellence of the viands, and the smoothness with which the arrangements for meeting the demands of the public appetite, were carried out. After the ceremonies of the day were over the public partook of a tea, the "twelve baskets" remaining from the dinner, and the generosity of the ladies had been such, that enough was left to feed a similar multitude. The handsome sum of $274 was cleared by the dinner and tea.

The programme called for the laying of the corner stone at "high noon" but there were various causes of DELAY.

The trains with the visiting brethren did not arrive in time for the hour to be adhered to, and the excursion party from Harwood, with the visiting brethren from different places was late. In the meantime, a party of fifteen or twenty brethren and others arrived from Hastings and representatives from Lakefield, Norwood and Peterborough. The latter consisted of Messrs. M. W. Bro. E. H. D. Hall, P. D. D. G. M., W. Bros. Dr. Fraser, P. W. M., Clementi Lodge, R. Shortley, W. M., Peterborough Lodge, and J. H. Barber, C. E., O. & Q. Railway, who, in company with the M. W. Bro. D. Spry, Grand Master, arrived in Keene by carriage. Still the hours passed on and it was nearly three o'clock before the large crowd that had gathered at the wharf, descried the welcome tug that was convoying, rather than towing the huge scow lashed to her side. This craft contained over two hundred excursionists, including several of the Grand Officers and other brethren from a distance. The brethren at once met in the improvised lodge room, and forming procession, and escorted by the Keene brass band, marched to the scene of the ceremony, where a vast concourse of the general public had assembled. There were about seventy-five masons in the procession which was closed by the following Grand and Past Grand officers, M. W. Bro. Daniel Spry, Barrie, Grand Master; M. W. Bro. Hugh Murray, Hamilton, D. G. M.; M. W. Bro. J. J. Mason, (Mayor of Hamilton,) Grand Secretary; F. H. B. O'Dell, Oshawa, D. D. G. M.; A. McGinnis, D. D. G. M., Prince Edward District; W. McCabe, P. D. D. G. M. and E. H. D. Hall, P. D. D. G. M.

Grand Master Spry prefaced

with a few well chosen remarks. He had been requested to lay the corner stone of this church, by the Masonic fraternity of Keene and it afforded him the highest pleasure to accede to their request because he was always willing to aid in a good work especially of the Presbyterian church, which in a very extended manner promulgated the true doctrines of revealed religion, and it was felt that Masonry which was universally recognized as having the highest interests of humanity at heart, and as teaching the high and pure principles which give an upward tendency to human life, should assist in the promotion of the elevating principles of the religion of the true God.

M. W. Bro. Murray, D. G. M., then proceeded to read the following which was placed beneath the corner stone:

By the favour of Almighty God, on the twenty-fourth day of May 1884, Era of Masonry, 5884:

And in the forty-eighth year of the reign of our most gracious soverign Victoria, by the Grace of God, Empress of India and Queen of Great Britan and Ireland and of the Dominion of Canada;

His Excellency, the most Honorable, the Marquis of Landsdowne, being Governor-General of the Dominion of Canada and

The Hon. John Beverly Robinson, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Ontario;

The Right Hon. Sir John Macdonald, Premier of Canada;

The Hon. Oliver Mowat, Premier of Ontario;

John Burnham, Esquire, Member of the House of Commons for the Dominion of Canada;

Thos. Blezard, Esquire, Member of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario;

John Lang, Esq., Reeve of the Township of Otonabee;

The Rev. John M. King, D. D., Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada;

The Rev. Alex. Young, Moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston;

The Rev. Mr. Jamieson, Moderator of the Presbytery of Peterborough;

The Rev. Francis Anderson, Minister of Keene and Westwood;

Alex. Wood, John Miller, William Plunket, Peter McNeil, James M. Drummond and William J. Miller, Elders;

Alex. Gillespie, David Moore, Jas. McNeil, John Lang, David Henderson, Peter Comrie and Peter Drummond, Deacons;

Messrs. Richard Hope, Alexander Wood, George Read, William Drummond, John Lang, William J. Miller and Jas. McNeil, Building Committee;

Messrs. Gordon & Helliwell, Architects;

Messrs. Harper & Son, Contractors;

This corner stone of the Presbyterian Church, Keene, was laid by Most Worshipful Bro. Daniel Spry, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge A.F. & A.M. of Canada,

Assisted by the grand officers and a large concourse of brethren, in accordance with the ceremonies and usages of the order; whom may Almighty God ever protect and prosper.

Enclosed in the glass bottle deposited in the corner stone is this scroll: a copy of the Presbyterian Record, the Presbyterian, the Daily Globe, the Daily Mail, Peterborough EXAMINER, Review, Times, Norwood Register, Canadian Craftsman, and Queen's College Journal, Canadian coins of the denominations of 50, 25, 10, 5 and 1 cent pieces.

PRESENTING THE TROWEL.

Rev. Mr. Andrew's then made a few remarks, and said that the thanks of the congregation were specially due to the ladies who had so nobly contributed to the success that had attended the proceedings of the day. Thanks were due to all who were present, and especially to the Masonic fraternity and the Grand Master, who had come a long way to lay the corner stone of the church, and, on behalf of the Building Committee, he had great pleasure in presenting him with a trowel to complete the work.

The trowel, a fine silver implement, with ebony handle, bore the following inscription:

"Presented to Bro. M. W. Daniel Spry, G. M. A.F. & A.M., by the Building Committee of the Presbyterian Church, on laying the corner stone, Keene, Ont., May 24th, 1884."

Grand Master Spry, in accepting the trowel, remarked that, in using it to lay the corner stone of the church, he was assisting in erecting an edifice in which the principles of true religion would be expounded.

The stone was lowered to its place to "God Save the Queen," by the band. After the usual tests had been applied by the Grand Master's assistants, the former pronounced the corner stone of the Keene Presbyterian Church

WELL MADE, TRULY LAID, TRUE AND TRUSTY.

Corn, oil and wine were then placed on the stone as the emblems respectively of Plenty, Cheerfulness, Comfort and Consolation.

In concluding the proceedings, Grand Master Spry said it afforded him great pleasure to meet so many persons present. While the day was memorable as the birthday of our Queen, the noblest of the rulers of Great Britain, both as a woman and a sovereign, the present was no unbecoming manner in which to observe it. Presbyterianism had always stood at the head of the movements in promotion of civil and religious liberty, whose possession so pre-eminently distinguished the Empire, while her ministers had ever spoken with eloquence and zeal the doctrines of the true religion. Referring to Masonry, he asserted that ninety per cent. of its brethren were active members of Christian churches, and the more its principles were studied, the more they were appreciated, and it was proper that it should be identified with religious progress. He thanked the committee who had by their invitation given him the pleasure of being present to-day.

The proceedings terminated with three cheers for the Queen, the brethren returning to the lodge room.

THE NEW CHURCH,

which is of brick, and in the Gothic style, will be 47x64 feet, with vestibule 10x27, and an annex in the rear, for vestry, 8x24. In the south-west corner will be placed a tower 13x13 feet, with belfry, and 60 feet in height, surmounted by a spire 50 feet in height, covered with galvanized iron and terminated by an ornate wrought iron finial. The walls of the church are 27 feet in height, and are strengthened with buttresses with cut stone caps. The windows, of Gothic shape, are filled with stained glass, and a large rose window, also of stained glass, will be placed in the front of the church.

A commodious basement under all, its ceilings supported by iron pillars, and reached by stairs from both vestry vestibule, is to serve as a lecture room.

The interior walls are finished in plaster, with vaulted ceiling. A line of ornamental moulding in plaster of Paris is run along the side walls, following, however, at the windows their Gothic outline. From this line, on either side, rise plaster of Paris ribs, terminating in the middle line of ceiling in ornamental bosses, and forming on each side five panels. A slightly recessed Gothic arch at the rear of the communion platform holds the pulpit. The seating rises in all directions from the communion rails, giving the line of seats a circular form. The seats are in oiled pine with birch back rail. A gallery ten feet wide, supported on iron pillars, runs across the front end of the church. The building is heated with hot air, and is complete in all its appointments. For beauty of design and finish, both without and within, it will be one of the handsomest rural churches in the district—one which many a large town would be proud of. Its cost will be in the neighborhood of $11,000, a large proportion of which is provided for. The church is situated on lofty ground nearly opposite the old church, overlooking the river and Rice Lake, on the corner opposite the residence of George Read, Esq.

THE OLD CHURCH

is still in good repair, especially within, though it was built 33 years ago—in 1831, at a cost of £250, and was at that time considered a very grand and elegant affair. The congregation received £50 of the £10,000 contributed by a Toronto gentleman for the first churches built in Canada. Roger Bate, who died at Madoc recently, was the architect and builder. The Building Committee was composed of Messrs. Thomas Short, Duncan Drummond, John Starke, Alex. Wood and Malcolm Campbell. Of these Mr. Alex. Wood, the veteran member of the congregation, and also a member of the Building Committee of the new church, is the only survivor. The first pastor of the congregation was Rev. Mr. Wallace, now of the West Presbyterian Church, Toronto, who was succeeded in 1852 by the present minister, Rev. Francis Andrews.

COURTSHIP IN SIBERIA.

In Northern Siberia if a young native desires to marry he goes to the father of the girl of his choice, and a price is agreed upon, one-half of which is then paid down. The prospective son-in-law at once takes up his residence with the family of his lady love and resides with them a year. If at the end of the year, he still desires to marry the girl he can pay the other half of the price, and they are married upon the next visit of the priest. If on the other hand, he concludes that he does not want her after the year's acquaintance, he is under no obligation to make good his vows of love, and the only disadvantage he labors under is the loss of the half he paid at the start.

IN A HURRY TO HAVE IT SETTLED.

"Is my husband any better?" she ashed, interceptting the doctor in the hallway on his way out.

"I think he is a little easier this morning."

"You can't say positively, I suppose, whether he will live or die?"

"I cannot."

"Well, I'm sorry for that, because I'm a delegate to a woman's rights convention that meets next week, and I'd like to have the matter settled before I go."

TIT FOR TAT.

A dandy with more beauty than brains married an heiress, who, although very accomplished was by no means handsome. One day he said to her, "my dear, ugly as you are, I love you as though you were pretty."

"Thank you, love," was the reply, "I can return the compliment, for, fool as you are, I love you as well as though you had wit."

A BECOMING BONNET.

"I think that bonnet you have will do very well for the present," said Cruikshank to his wife, who had been coaxing her husband for a new spring hat. "I think it is very becoming."

"Yes," said the lady sharply, turning up her nose high enough to nearly make her mark on the ceiling. "It is becoming—becoming old."

Lorts, a Nebraska murderer, understands the business as a fine art. After killing his man he managed to get on the coroner's jury, and then he managed the jury so as to secure a verdict of suicide.

Particular Notice to the Public

REGARDING PUMPS!

Over seventeen years ago I commenced the Manufacture of Pumps in Peterborough, and I take this opportunity of thanking the inhabitants of the town and surrounding country for the very liberal patronage they have accorded me during that time. It has always been my aim to produce and introduce all good improvements in Pumps, and I now desire to call attention to my NEW which this cut represents. I believe it to be the BEST COMBINED PUMP IN THE WORLD. It differs from all others in having the sectional stock or head, with its many advantages, and its firm and durable means of holding the attachments. The intermittent or detachable packing is only used in actual forcing, and it is at all other times (say 95 per cent. of the service of the pump,) unfreezable and unwearable.

THE HOSE COUPLING

is very convenient and effective. It can be adjusted in a few seconds, thus quickly changing an ordinary service Pump into a Force Pump.

The great advantage to the purchaser is that he possesses in one Pump, the Easiest Lift Pump made, as well as the Best Force Pump, for the same price as is often asked for an ordinary Pump. It throws water easier and further than any other Pump manufactured. For deep wells it has no equal.

All orders promptly attended to, by mail or otherwise, and repairing done on the shortest notice.

We, the undersigned, having examined Mr. H. Owens' New Model Force Pump, take pleasure in stating that we consider it a great improvement on pumps formerly in use. In our opinion it is one of the best pumps ever introduced to the public, being quickly turned into a pump for fire protection. It is powerful, durable, convenient and easy to work, and gives us pleasure to recommend it as a first-class article in every way.

FALL WHEAT OUTLOOK.

Reports received from over 600 correspondents of the Ontario Bureau of Industries show that the condition of the fall wheat in the Province is much more satisfactory than it was in May of last year. Yet it is not uniformly good, and there are some districts in which the outlook is somewhat gloomy. This is noticeably the case in the extreme ends of the Provinces—westward of the meridian of London, and eastward of the meridian of Kingston. For the large middle district the accounts are on the whole favorable, and the weather of this month has caused a marked improvement to take place everywhere. Complete returns of the acreage under crop have not yet been received, but as far as they have been obtained they indicate an area 20 per cent. less than last year. In the

EAST MIDLAND COUNTIES

the condition of the crop is rather varying. In Victoria the opening of spring found the growth thin and delicate, and the frosts of April were so destructive as to leave only the prospect of a yield much below the average. Some fields in the southern portion of the county, enjoying exceptional advantages in the way of drainage and shelter, and are looking strong and healthy; but elsewhere the outlook is anything but cheering, and on many farms from 25 to 50 per cent. of the wheat has been plowed up. In Peterborough, on the other hand, it appears to have more successfully withstood the frost, and gives promise of a fair average yield. As in other counties, the lateness of the sowing season gave no chance for good growth in the fall, but under the nourishing influence of the recent rains the plant is turning out much better than the conditions of a month ago seemed to warrant any hope for. In Hastings and Haliburton fall wheat is not so largely cultivated as in the other counties of this group, but where sown early and properly attended to it is a fairly successful crop. No injury from worms or insects is anywhere complained of. On the whole, present appearances do not give hope of an average crop in this district, though there is a possibility of a continuance of favorable weather producing such a change as to require a modification of this report for the better. The ruin so frequently cited elsewhere has been equally realized here, that a successful crop is not so dependant upon the character of the soil as upon such controllable conditions as efficient drainage, summer-fallowing, early sowing, shelter and careful husbandry. The greatest damage has been inflicted on soils which are low or undrained, or that are unprotected from the northern winds. In the

NORTHERN DISTRICTS

of the Province fall wheat is not grown, except in a few isolated instances in some of the more southerly townships of Muskoka. In these cases, however, it is reported to be thriving, especially on light and dry soils.

A Remarkable Escape.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey, of Tunkhannock, was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give her no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 lbs. in a few months. Free Trial Bottles of this certain cure of all Throat and Lung Diseases at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large Bottles $1.00.

A MODEL SCHOLAR.

A girl named Alice Akermar, age fourteen, the daughter of a laborer, has just completed her education at Langley School, Bucks, England. She has never missed being present since the school was opened, October 4th, 1875, and in completing her 3,451 attendances is said to have walked 6,000 miles. She has passed every standard successfully, and in the three subjects in the first grade of drawing obtained "Excellent" prizes in free-hand and model, as also in the three stages of the specific subjects, literature, domestic economy, and animal physiology, and in one stage in physical geography. She has also obtained twenty-six other prizes for good attendance, sculpture, sewing, knitting, etc.

James Cullen, Pool's Island, N. F., writes: I have been watching the progress of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil since its introduction to this place, and with much pleasure state that my anticipations of its success have been fully realized, it having cured me of bronchitis and soreness of nose; while not a few of my 'rheumatic neighbors' (one old lady in particular) pronounces it to be the best article of its kind that has ever been brought before the public. Your medicine does not require any longer a sponsor, but if you wish me to act as such, I shall be only too happy to have my name connected with your prosperous child.

INSPECTOR OF MODEL SCHOOLS.

Mr. J. J. Tilley, for many years Public School Inspector of Durham, has been appointed Inspector of Model Schools for the Province. Mr. Tilley was one of those who took an active part in devising the Model School system of Ontario, in connection with the present Minister of Education. He was a member of the Central Committee for five years, and examiner for the Normal Schools for a long period. With this extensive experience the new Inspector enters upon his duties with every opportunity of greatly increasing the utility of the Model Schools of Ontario.

A WHITBY EPISODE.

A YOUNG SALVATIONIST SKIPS OUT WITH A FEMALE SOLDIER.

This town is highly excited over the amorous propensities of George Story, a young man from Lindsay. Story has been in the town for a few weeks, and has filled every position in the salvation army except the captaincy. He could beat the soul-stirring drum in a manner that would win him distinction in a fife and drum corps. Story accompanied his exhortations at times with sand-jigs, and he was one of the drawing cards in the army. But Whitby will know him no more. A father and mother mourn the loss of a daughter, and the proprietor of the Ontario House mourns the loss of a board bill. Story has skipped out with a young lady who has taken a prominent part in the army proceedings. She was well known in the town and her escapade has caused a great deal of gossip.

THE JERSEY LILY IN A POLICE COURT.

Mrs. Langtry appeared on Friday before the City Police Court, New York. John A. Stevens had brought a suit against her for $1,500 damages, which he says he has suffered through her refusal to play at his theatre at a matinee performance on February 26th last. Mrs. Langtry was escorted into court by Mr. Dion Boucicault. Her physician testified that she was ill at the above time, and had refused to play because he had ordered her not to do so as it would have been very injurious. Mrs. Langtry was sworn, and restified that her real name was Emily Charlotte Langtry, and that her home was at No. 120 West Thirteenth street, New York. She had no other home, although her people, she said, live in Jersey. Regarding the matter of her refusal to play at the matinee for Mr. Stevens, she said she had to much to do rehearsing and supervising the production of her plays that she was afflicted with severe headaches, and she had to give up. The jury took the case into deliberation for fifteen minutes and brought in a verdict for Mrs. Langtry.

BUNGLING ON EVERY HAND.

When the Exchange Bank was about to collapse, Sir Leonard Tilley put his hand in the Dominion purse and gave the directors nearly $25,000. It was known, beyond a peradventure, that the bank was then rotten at the core, but at the solicitations of political friends the Finance Minister aided and abetted the continuance of the concern, thus postponing the evil day of collapse and adding to the responsibilities of the shareholders and depositors. By-and-bye the bank shut its doors, practically bringing ruin to many. Now Sir Leonard Tilley demands back the loan, maintaining that the Government has a preferential claim. The directors assert that the Dominion should rank as a common creditor, and will take the case to the courts. The officiousness of Sir Leonard in bolstering up an unsound bank, to please a few interested friends, has led to all this trouble, with the possibility that almost the entire $25,000 will be lost to the country. Even if it is not, the evil results of the act will still be apparent, for the loss to the shareholders will be very much larger than if the Finance Minister had stuck to his business.—Hamilton Times.

THREATS TO ASSASSINATE GLADSTONE.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Home Secretary, has again become nervous over information which the police claim to have discovered of Fenian plots to assassinate himself, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Trevelyan, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and other members of the Government. It is stated that these threats are the cause of the proposed Cabinet conference on Irish affairs, to which Earl Spencer, Lord Lieutenant for Ireland, has been summoned from Dublin. Lord Spencer will be guarded by two special officers throughout his journey, and extraordinary precautions are being taken to secure the safety of the members of the Government. On Friday night no less than twelve Scotland Yard detectives, in plain clothes, were counted in the lobby of the House of Commons, waiting to escort the different Ministers to their homes.

ISLANDS OF LAKE SUPERIOR.

Mr. Cabot, who wrote the narrative of the Agassiz expedition in 1851, estimated that there were nearly thirty-six thousand islands in the lake, most of which lie across the mouth of these three bays, and along Point Magnet, which bends westward from the western extremity of "the Nipigon," and as we passed between them and the main-land, there was at times the impression that one was floating down some river like the Danube or Rhine; again, the effect was of a submerged mountain chain, while still again the appearance was wholly like the sea as we swept by breezy headlands with projecting reefs of dark brown rock fringed with curling foam, or stopped to sketch some broken pile of rocks richly mottled with patches of yellow, brown, and green, and crispy with its brilliant lichen coat.—JOHN A. BUTLER, in Harper's Magazine for June.

A LARK'S TRUST IN MANKIND.

A romantic incident is vouched for by the Elgin Courant, a Scotch paper. A gentleman while in the fields heard the cries of a bird, apparently in distress. Looking up he saw a lark pursued by a hawk, which, by a series of fierce dashes, tried to secure its prey. For a time the lark evaded the attacks, but the hawk continued to gain, and the lark, terror-stricken, seeing the man below, came down like an arrow and fluttered actually into his hand, where it cowered trembling. The pursuer followed until within six yards, but seeing what had occurred it flew off in disgust. After a time the lark was liberated, when it soared aloft, singing, doubtless, a song of gratitude to its deliverer.

SANDERSON'S

FOR FINEST JEWELRY, WATCHES, CLOCKS, PLATED WARE AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

A USE FOR DEAD LANGUAGES.

The following extract from J. T. Trowbridge's new serial, "The Scarlet Tanager," began in the May St. Nicholas, is a clear and simple explanation of the reasons for giving to flowers and trees, beasts, birds and fishes, the long, sad, so many, unintelligible Greek and Latin names they all bear:

"But I can't see the use of giving Latin and Greek names to birds and things, nowadays,' said Gaspar.

"Perhap I can explain it to you," said the master. "I take the picus auratus, for instance. We have seen that it has several common names; one of which, certainly, belongs to another bird. So, if a person speaks of a yellow-hammer, how are you to know whether he means this or the European species? In ordinary conversation you may think that is not very important; but in all scientific descriptions, it is necessary that such names shall be used as can not be misunderstood."

"But why can't men of science agree upon English names?' the boy inquired.

"That is a sensible question. The answer to it is that all men of science are not English-speaking people. There are German, French, Spanish, Swedish, Dutch, Russian ornithologists, and those of many other countries. Now, it is true, they might all agree upon an English name for each bird; but it would be as unreasonable for us to expect that of foreigners, as we would consider it, if we were all required to learn a French or a Dutch name. It really seems much simpler and more convenient to use Latin and Greek names, which learned men in all countries agree upon and understand; so that a German man of science will know just what a Spanish man of science is writing about, if he uses correct scientific terms. A Swedish naturalist named Linnæus, who was a great botanist, and classified and gave scientific names to plants, also gave names to many birds to this species. I suppose, among others; so that when picus auratus is alluded to by any writer in any language ornithologists know just what bird is meant. So, you see, these scientific terms that you dislike form a sort of universal language understood by men of science the world over."

FORBIDDEN KISSES.

'Remember,' said a Fort Street physician to his wife, as he was leaving home for a few days, 'and do not let the children kiss anyone.'

'Is it possible asked a surprised third party who was present, 'that you consider it necessary to give such instruction as that? Where is the danger?'

'The danger is so complicated, and yet so certain, that it would take too much time to decribe it here,' said the doctor, looking at his watch. 'In any case, all kinds of people come to my house and office to consult me, and they often wait hours. If one of my children happens to come in they are almost certain to take to it, and you know almost the first impulse with people who notice children is to kiss them. Bah! it makes me shudder—tainted and diseased breaths, lips blue with cancer, foul and decayed teeth. You would kill a stranger who would waylay your young lady daughter and kiss her by force, but the helpless, innocent, 6 year old child, susceptible as a flower to every breath that blows, can be saluted by every one who chances to think of it. I tell you it wasn't Judas alone who betrayed by a kiss. Hundreds of lovely, blooming children are kissed into their graves every year.'

'But, doctor, how can a mother be so ungracious as to refuse to allow people to notice their children?'

'There need be no ungraciousness about it; or, if there were, which is the most important—the safety and well-being of the child or the permitting of a habit of ill-breeding and doubtful morality at best? Let the mother teach her child that it is not a kitten or a lap-dog, to be picked up and fondled by every stranger, and instruct it to resist any attempt to kiss it. Why, there are agents, peddlers of household wares, who make it a practice to catch up a prattling child kiss and pet it, and so interest the mouther that she will buy something she does not want. I tell you there is death in the kiss.

"The beloved and lamented Princess Alice of Hesse took diphtheria from the kiss of her child and followed it to her grave. Diphtheria, malaria, scarlet fever, blood poison and death lurk in these kisses. There! I shouldn't wonder if I lost this train. Remember, no kisses!" and waving his hand, the doctor drove away.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 15.—A dispatch from Indian Head, N.W.T., says Agent McDonald left for Chief Jack's reserve very hurriedly Thursday morning. It is rumored that Jack and his band threaten to exterminate Piapot's band, who have quartered on their reserve. Piapot refuses to go back on his own reserve. The Indians are very much excited. A band of bucks camped at Indian Head have hurried to their reserves. Yellow Calf and his band, who lately created a disturbance at Crooked Lakes, have left their reserve. Their whereabouts is not known.

A MONEY GRUBBER GULLED.

The following clever trick was recently played upon an avaricious French landlord by a poor wretched engraver who had got into arrears with his rent:

'Give me a little time,' said the tenant, 'I have discovered a means of paying you soon.'

'Bah!' returned the landlord, incredulously. 'How I should like to know!'

'Look here,' replied the engraver, taking a hundred francs note ($20) mysteriously from a drawer, 'that's my last piece of work.'

'Did you do it?'

'Certainly.'

'You, yourself—and not the Bank of France?'

'No, its my work.'

'Will you trust me with it for half-an-hour?' and the landlord took the note and hurried to the bank.—There they assured him that it was perfectly good, and finally changed it for him. As he hurried back to his lodger, the wretched man's head fairly swam with visions of untold wealth.—'My good fellow,' he cried, on reaching the house, all out of breath, 'how clever you are! Why don't you make thousand-francs notes ($200)?'

'For the very good reason that I have never seen one.'

'That need be no obstacle—here is one. Copy it, and I will be back in a weeks time. We will share it.' At the end of the week the landlord made his appearance. 'How does the note get on?' was the anxious inquiry.

'Your note! Why, I have spent it with two or three friends, you vagabond!' majestically replied the engraver.

'Spent it? but——'

'No noise, or I'll split?, And the man explained to his landlord that he had outrageously taken him in, and that the hundred-franc note was perfectly good. He wound up by advising him to turn his avariciousness in another direction.

OUGHT TO BE SKINNED.

"Is my shaving agreeable to you, sir?" a loquacious barber asked a customer whom he had been flaying alive.

"My wife would admire it very much," rather indefinitely responded the man under torture.

"Ah," said the barber with great complacency, "ladies are often excellent judges of their husbands being well shaved. And you think mine will suit, sir?"

"No doubt of it in the world. It was only this morning she became angry because I told her I could not afford to buy her a spring bonnet, and she said I ought to be skinned alive."

The barber lost himself in reflection.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land

CONFIDENTIAL.

Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUBBEBIN COMBINATOIN REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.

Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $3 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.

Information Wanted.

On the 12th of May, a man named Edward Reid, well known here, and formerly employed at Curtis' brick yard, left his home, and has not since been heard of. He said nothing of to his movements to his wife, and she is naturally in great distress and suspense. Reid is a man about 60 years of age, small, wiry frame, fair complexion, with sandy whiskers, and a slow way of talking. It is supposed he would try to reach Toronto, where his parents formerly lived. Any information concerning him will be thankfully received by his distressed wife, Bridget Reid, care of Mr. John Scott, Peterborough. Provincial papers please copy.

Entertainment.

The entertainment in connection with St. Luke's Band of Hope, held in the school room, Ashburnham, on Tuesday, 27th inst., was very successful. The programme consisted of instrumental solos and duets, readings, recitations and songs, most of them being by members of the society. Among those taking part were Clara Ludgate, Sophie Cameron, Carrie Bennett, Fanny Pakenham, Juliet Orde, Margaret C. Curtis, Lizzie Roubough, Alice Cocks, and Arthur Higham. The closing piece was a dialogue entitled "The Red Chignon," in which the principal characters were taken by Ella and Carrie Bennett, Katie Payne, Clara Ludgate and Sophie Cameron, who fulfilled their parts in an exceedingly effective manner, and with much natural ability and skill. The entertainment closed with an exhibition of magic lantern views, shown through the unfailing kindness of Mr. R. Meade. Miss Revell skilfully performed her duties as pianist during the evening.

The Double Scull "Saw-off."

The deciding heat between the winning double scull crews, at the Regatta on Monday—Messrs. F. G. Cox and W. Rutherford—and J. Fanning and W. Kent—will take place on Little Lake course on Friday evening and a lively bit of sport may be expected.

Heard From.

It is a matter of speculation what becomes of the portion of a rocket that "comes down like a stick." On Saturday evening a lad named Larmour, while watching a rocket, was enlightened. He missed the view of the stick, which, coming down, struck him in the cheek, making a nasty cut.

Cricket.

On Thursday last a Peterborough eleven went to Port Hope and played a fine game with the Trinity College School club, the latter winning by one point only. R. B. Rogers in the second innings put together double figures—12. The home eleven had better success, however, in the match played at Lakefield on Monday, winning by two runs, with eight wickets to play.

Ottawa "Daily Sun."

We have sunshine in the sanctum every day now, especially when the bright little "Sun," lit up by Mr. Carroll Ryan of Ottawa, arrives. This is a new daily paper of independant politics. It is newsy, shrewd, sharp, and is a credit to the capital, and there is no reason, if life and vigor are guaranties of success, why the "Daily Sun" should not continue to flourish for years.

The Pestilent Fire Cracker,

On Saturday evening Mr. James Young, engine driver, Midland R. R., accompanied by his sister-in-law, Miss Foster, was driving down Charlotte street, when some boy threw a squib which, exploded at the horse's heels. The startled animal made a mad plunge and the occupants of the buggy were thrown out and the young lady received a severe bruise on the shoulder but fortunately no other serious damage was done. The squib, like the bad boy, may be small but it is capable of much mischief.

Masonic Visitation.

On Friday evening last M. W. Bro. Daniel Spry, Barrie, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Canada, was received with all the honours by Corinthian and Peterborough lodges. After lodge work a banquet was tendered the visiting dignitary. Grand Master Spry is now enjoying his second term, and he is so extremely popular and has so efficiently discharged the trusts of his high office that if he desires a third term there is little doubt but that he would be re-elected.

Pool Match.

On Tuesday evening there was a large crowd assembled at Faucher's Billiard Parlors to witness a match game of pool between Mr. A. D. Faucher and E. H. Hugill, of Montreal—best four out of seven games. The first game, very carefully played on both sides, was won by Hugill. The next two were taken by Faucher, who also captured the fifth and seventh, thus winning the game, which he did with considerable ease. This was the first game played in Peterborough by electric light, and the winner says he would not be without it over his tables.

The Best in the Dominion.

We are pleased to make known the enterprise of Mr. W. M. Fair of Cavan, as shown in his purchase of "John Anderson," the celebrated Clydesdale colt, from Messrs. John Miller & Sons, Markham. "John Anderson" is a pure bred animal and was purchased in the old country at a fabulous price; he is acknowledged by good judges to be the best horse of his age in Canada. His sire and dam have never been beaten at an exhibition. His studbook record shows that the best blood of his breed courses through his veins. "John Anderson" will stand for mares at his owners' stables. Farmers should hasten to avail themselves of the opportunity which Mr. Fair's great enterprise has placed within their reach, for improving their stock. Mr. Fair should be encouraged as he is a public benefactor in this respect.

Dominion Pianos.

This morning we had the pleasure of admiring a magnificent upright Dominion piano at the rooms of Mr. J. J. Irwin, George street, opposite the market block. This instrument is a beauty; the case is of burl walnut, finished in a manner that is finger proof and impossible to deface except with some cutting material or instrument. This is the first instrument of this finish brought into Peterborough. Not only is the case of this instrument superb, but its action is strong and the best made. The tone is strong, full and rich, and compasses seven and one-third octaves. A finer instrument in finish, tone or strength is not built. The upright piano is the fashion now, and Mr. Irwin has, since he came to town last winter, placed four of these grand instruments in the best houses, where none but the best is bought.

The Rose Combination.

This aggregation of athletes, consisting principally of—well, disgust—when they left town on Tuesday morning, utterly failed in their attempts at drawing a crowd in the side-shows they tried to give in the Opera House. Even the contest between the horse and the ass—the "strongest man in the world"—pulling against a team of horses—didn't draw.

Little Lake Cemetery.

The new fountain described in a recent issue of THE EXAMINER, has been placed in position. It presents a finer appearance in play than it promised before being mounted. It is a vast addition to the beauty of these beautiful and well kept grounds. The cemetery is now at its finest, as far as verdure and foliage are concerned.

Flourishing.

The St. Luke's branch of the Church of England Temperance Society, is the most thriving temperance organization in the community. Branches have been formed in Douro and Otonabee and the total membership is now 222. The St. Luke's members have purchased a piano for use at their entertainments, the series of which has been so successful the past winter.

The Locks Bridge.

This bridge is again open for travel. The new iron swing has been placed in position. The full length of the new swing is about ninety feet. It is well and substantially built and is warranted to stand. It is opened and closed with the greatest of ease, is throughout a most substantial and desirable piece of work, extremely creditable to the town and county engineer Mr. J. E. Belcher, and also perfectly safe for years to come.

Badly Shaken Up.

On Monday Charlie, son of Mr. Henry Bennett, Ashburnham, aged eight or nine years was placed on the back of a colt which his father was, with some cows, taking to pasture. While the latter went to attend to the cows, the lad became frightened at the movements of the colt and jumped off. He sustained a severe injury of the collar bone and some bad cuts and bruises. Dr. King supplied the necessary surgical attention.

Matrimonial.

On Wednesday "Moria Hall" the residence of Rev. John Shaw witnessed an interesting matrimonial event, when Mr. Edward Parlow of Iroquois, was united in wedlock with Clara Isobel, eldest daughter of Rev. Mr. Shaw. A large number of invited guests witnessed the ceremony. The amiable and popular bride received numerous, beautiful and valuable presents. We beg, with the many friends of the family, to extend our most cordial felicitations and wishes for future happiness and prosperity.

"Where are Ye Movin' Till?"

On Wednesday a jolly old Irishman was passing Belleghem's furniture warerooms, in front of which a huge van loaded with furniture, ready for delivery, was standing, and he called out: "I say, Mr. Billyjim, where are ye movin' till?" "Moving? why nowhere, this is an everyday occurrence. Here's where we make furniture. There's a big shop in the rear where workmen are turning out the best of furniture every day, and I'm "moving" it every day into the best houses in the town and county." "O! I beg pardon, intoirely, that's the way, is it? Good day, sor."

Always something fresh in Dress Goods at Turnbull's. See the lot he has just received in Summer Shades.

THE OTHER TWENTY-FOURTH.

Morning, Afternoon and Evening.

The loyalty of the citizens of Peterborough had this year, certainly, sufficient vent, for the town was favored with a double celebration of the Queen's birthday. The "unofficial" celebration in the nature of a private enterprise, took place on Saturday. There was no business observance of the day, the banks and shops being open as usual. But a vast number of visitors from the country flocked to town attracted by the Athletic Tournament, advertised by E. W. Johnson. These were to take place in the afternoon, but was filled in with sports in the Cricket Grounds, Ashburnham, where a base ball match took place between teams composed of representatives of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, and the Auburn Mills employees. Both nines contained considerable raw material, but very creditable play was done. The match resulted in favour of the ironmongers by a score of 20 to 12, but the defeated enjoyed a sort of moral consolation, if not victory, in the result of the quoit match, between the Auburn's and the foundry—the former defeating the latter by a score of 41 to 33. The tug of war contest between sides representing the same establishments, was a tough one. The result was, as became a pull, a sort of a draw, each team winning two heats. The Fire Brigade Band was present, and supplied their excellent music.

THE MORNING

THE AFTERNOON

brought on the much lauded Athletic Sports. The Agricultural Grounds were crowded, as many as 5000 persons being present. Messrs. J. W. Smith, J.E. McIntyre, secretary, and F. A. Passmore, acted as judges. The events were contested with the following results:

BOYS' RACE (UNDER 12.)—Allan Bell, Jas. Sophey, A. Thorndyke.

VAULTING WITH POLE.—Thos. Sharpe, 9 feet, 4 inches; Robert Hunter.

100 YARDS RACE—amateur—P. Myles, A. B. Rogers.

2 MILE WALK—Amateur—W. Haslett, W. Hartley.

THE HURST BROTHERS then gave a bar performance, which was very good.

ONE MILE RACE—Amateur.—W. Haslett, J. Giroux.

HALF MILE RACE—Amateur.—G. A. Valleau, A. B. Rogers.

PUTTING 56 LBS. WEIGHT.—E. W. Johnston, 23 feet, 7 in. D. C. Ross, as an exhibition, made a score of 26 ft., 4 in.

QUARTER MILE RACE—Amateur.—G. A. Valleau, P. Myles.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP.—Thos. Sharpe, 4 feet, 10 inches; R. Hunter.

THROWING 56 LBS. WEIGHT, HIGH.—E. W. Johnston.

The wind up was to be a professional boxing bout, between Moriarty and Lynch, "for $200 and a gold medal." But the crowd in their greed for seeing, closed around the platform, so that it was impossible to carry on the performance. Mr. Johnson asked the crowd to stand back or there could be no performance, but it was a crowd that wouldn't go back, and of course there was no knocking out. Though all the advertised events were not put on, the public have themselves to thank that part of the programme at least, was not carried out. It is estimated that Johnston cleared $500 by the performance.

IN THE EVENING

the promenade concert under the auspices of the Fire Brigade, took place, the band furnishing a splendid programme at the promenade concert. There was an exceedingly large attendance, as many as two thousand persons having been in the drill shed and grounds. The band acquitted itself in a better manner than usual at its promenade concerts, the electric light being so brilliant that not a note was missed or hesitated over, from lack of light.

At the conclusion of the concert the fireworks were brought on; the splendid assortment of pyrotechnic material was excellently managed, and a magnificent display was the result. Some of the pieces were exceedingly fine, and were loudly applauded, especially the "May 24th," and the "Good Night." At the conclusion of the fireworks a torch-light procession was formed, and headed by the band, marched down George street to the market, firing colored rockets en route, and presenting a very gorgeous appearance, which was somewhat dimmed however, by the splendor of the electric light. The evening's performance was one of the most successful ever conducted by the Fire Brigade. The fine playing of the band was the subject of frequent and hearty commendation.

Some handsome White Goods for dresses at Turnbull's, in Brocades, Ottoman Cords, Polka Spots, etc.

A Splendid Chance.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that Mr. D. W Dumble offers for sale a number of Building Lots in various parts of the town on ten years credit. No money down, interest only to be paid for first five years, and thereafter yearly instalments with the right to pay at any time as may suit the convenience of the purchaser. Building will be cheap this year and no doubt many will take advantage of this very liberal offer. Besides lots in town, Mr. Dumble offers a number of lots in Ashburnham, and several park lots on the same terms. Call at his office and see plans, &c. 12-tf

LACROSSE CLUB CONCERT.

Like Every Game They Play—Successful.

The Lacrosse Club concert, held in Bradburn's Opera Hall on Friday evening, May 23rd, was a very pleasant and successful affair. The counter attraction of the first public display of the electric light somewhat operated against the attendance, which was, however, very fair. The boys had the stage beautifully decorated for the occasion. The stage was set for the drawing room scene, filled with drawing room furniture, and a plentiful array of living flowers, in hanging baskets and vases, were tastefully and liberally disposed. Conspicuous, on a pedestal, was the "Glidersleeve Cup," a trophy won and held by the club against all comers. The musical programme was excellently conceived and carried out. Everything, as it must do under Mr. Ewing's management, went smoothly. The concert opened with the "Vienna March," presented with fine effect by Mr. Ewing and Mr. Freeman, piano and cornet. In Mr. Ewing's second number, "Pasquinade," (Gottschalk) he was loudly recalled. The vocal trio, "O, Lady Fair," by Mrs. Chambers, Miss Scott and Mr. Porteous, was received with warm applause. Mr. Warrington, of Toronto, first appeared in that grand selection, "Alone in the Desert," and at once sang himself into popularity. The applause that greeted the close of his first number was most enthusiastic, and was only a fitting recognition of the magnificent manner in which he sang. His voice is well-trained, rich and clear, and his enunciation exceedingly distinct. He gave in the second part a selection from "The Barber of Seville," and in reply to an irresistible recall, the humorous selection, "The Man Who Couldn't Get Warm," and was again encored. Miss Alice Scott gave a couple of songs in so pleasing a style as to invite encores, which she sang in response two songs that, by singular coincidence, had been sung by a lady, in the same order and under the same circumstances at the last concert held in the Hall. The Mendelssohn Quartett Club, composed of Mrs. Chambers, Miss Wells, and Messrs. Porteous and Elliott, appeared four times, and every time with increased favour—every time encored. Miss Clara Clurton gave the "Old Lock" and "Fishing" in the usually excellent manner that has made her deservedly popular. She was warmly encored, and the last time sang "Home, Sweet Home," wonderfully well. Mr. Porteous in the "Toreador's Song" did full justice to his reputation; he was enthusiastically recalled. Mrs. Chambers sang, with splendid effect, "O Loving Heart, Trust On," and was very heartily applauded and recalled. The humourous duet, "Master and Scholar," Mrs. Chambers and Mr. Warington, was delightfully done and warmly praised, as was also the "Liberty Duet," from I Puritani, by Messrs. Porteous and Elliott, with cornet accompaniment by Mr. Freeman. The concert, on the whole, was both musically and socially a splendid success.

DUMMER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A TERRIBLE NOCTURNAL ENCOUNTER WITH A BEAR.

One night last week Mr. Alex. Kidd, of Dummer, had a thrilling adventure with a bear. He was aroused by the violent barking of his dog. Dressing hurriedly, he sallied forth, and, following the sound of the battle that was evidently raging, arrived at the lower corner of his orchard, when, on peering through the darkness, he discovered his dog in deadly conflict with a huge black bear. Having no firearms he, like David, collected some smooth stones and, approaching, actively supplemented the efforts of his dog to worst the prowling soliped. The first stone evidently took effect, for Bruin, attempting to retreat, tried to climb the fence, but, evidently weak from the effects of the well-aimed stone, fell back. The brute, while remaining in one place, continued floundering, and Mr. Kidd went to the house to summon his servant-man, who joined him in the fusilade of stones. The attacking party was next reinforced by the servant girl, and finally the son appeared on the scene with a lantern, and it was seen that a black umbrella had been stoned into ribbons. The umbrella had been left on the verandah to dry, and the high wind which prevailed had carried it down through the orchard, where the vigilant watch dog discovered it. It is very easy to select a subject of conversation more agreeable to the hero of the adventure than his thrilling encounter with a gingham black bear.

THE "MAIL" BUILDING BURNT.

Damage $25,000.

The Mail building took fire about 9.30 Saturday morning. The fire originated in the paper room in the sub-cellar, the flames at once springing up the elevator way to the top flat, and invaded the telephone room. The girls were driven out of the room, to take refuge on the ledge of the building, where for fifteen minutes they occupied a very precarious position. Some citizens seeing their perilous plight, at once broke open the adjoining building and made a determined attempt to rescue them. The rescuers, on arriving at the roof of the building, found that the ledge on which the girls were standing was much higher than the position which they had gained, but, by means of a ladder, they were enabled to reach and rescue them. One girl jumped from the high building to the next and was slightly injured, while another fainted and fell. A few minutes later the cupola of the building caught fire, and when the roof of this ornament burned through the heavy flagpole, with the Union Jack flying, fell into Bay street, the firemen narrowly escaping with their lives. In the meantime an extension ladder was put into a front window on the top flat, and two streams were taken to the top of the building. By this time, however, the flames had got such a start that it was impossible to check them until the roof of the building had fallen in. A fire engine attached to a hydrant to force the water to the top of the building did good service. There was great danger to citizens, owing to the falling telephone wires, of which there were hundreds in connection with the main office, which is in the Mail building. The firemen to a man deserve great credit for their bravery. Damage about $25,000; fully covered by insurance. The Globe generously offered the Mail the use of its presses.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Mr. Cahill, said he had a rather long report to read and one that if adopted, would cost money,

TO THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL:

GENTLEMEN,—The Street and Bridge committee begs to report that they have this day (June 2nd) made a survey of the streets and reccommend that the several improvements named below be carried out. Your committee have noted with pleasure the large improvements in progress throughout the town. Every where new buildings are in course of erection, old ones are being enlarged and improved and this spirit of improvement has extended to the streets, several persons having boulevarded and otherwise beautified the streets in front of their premises.

(1) George street, north from Brock, to be gravelled and otherwise improved as may be found necessary and that the south side of the same street be filled up north of Smith street.

(2) Water street, to be gravelled from Cemetery street to Hilliard's Mills and repaired where required from Cemetery street to Smith street.

(3) Cemetery street, a two-plank sidewalk to be put down from Water street as far north as necessary.

(4) Smith street, a narrow sidewalk from George to Water street also cut down the hill near Stewart street, the excavation to be deposited near the Midland Railway, as may be required.

(5) Antrim street, the sidewalk on north side, to be rebuilt from George street to the foot of the hill.

(6) Edinburgh street, a new sidewalk to be built on north side, east from George street to connect with present walk.

(7) London street, sidewalk to be rebuilt on north side from George street to Aylmer, also water tabled from George street to the railway.

(8) Dublin street, sidewalk to be repaired between Aylmer and Union streets.

(9) Aylmer street, rebuild sidewalk for some distance north from railway, deepen water table, south from railway to the bridge at Lund's and rebuild and enlarge said bridge.

(10) Rubidge street, to be water tabled between Dublin and Edinburgh streets.

(11) London street, to be water tabled near Downey street and filled up at the bridge; rebuild sidewalk on same street from Downey to Reid and from Stewart to Rubidge streets.

(12) Downey street, present culvert to be extended to Edinburgh street.

(13) Dublin street, some necessary repairs to be made at the bridge, near Downey street.

(14) McDonnell street, necessary repairs to be made at the bridge near Downey street.

(15) Gilchrist street, to be water-tabled north from McDonald street.

(16) Park street at the intersection of McDonnell, water-tabled from the Midland Railway to the creek.

Weller street, build crossing at Mr. Gladman's and a sidewalk at the next house west from Mr. Gladman's.

(18) Bromley Lane, the culvert near Mr. Campbell's to be rebuilt and new sheeting against work on Bromley.

(19) Gilmour street, to be gravelled where necessary.

(20) Romaine street, rebuild sidewalk from Simcoe street to Aylmer on both sides, also on north side from Hunter to Brock.

(21) Hunter street, to be gravelled from George street to the Iron Bridge.

(22) Charlotte street, a culvert to be built near the creek.

(23) Rink street to be gravelled between George and Aylmer streets.

(24) Perry street, to be gravelled from Aylmer to George, and new culvert street to be gravelled from Aylmer to Hunter.

(25) Weir street, to be gravelled from Water street as far east as it is built upon.

(26) Park street, [illegible] to be gravelled [illegible] to be rebuilt, [illegible] the culvert [illegible] and [illegible] the railway and build culvert near Hamilton street.

(27) Lake street, to be water-tabled and an underground drain made from a point west of George street to the Lake.

(28) Perry street, a sidewalk to be built on the south side from the Midland Railway to Stewart street.

(29) Rutridge street, to be water-tabled from Dalhousie to Simcoe street.

(30) Dalhousie street, to be water-tabled from Stewart street to Park street and a culvert built across Park street.

(31) Rubidge street, to be water-tabled from Charlotte to King street.

(32) Stewart street, to be water-tabled from Charlotte to Dalhousie street, also a plank walk on the south side of Hunter-brooke to Rubidge street.

(33) Bolton street, to be water-tabled from King to Dalhousie street, also a plank walk for a short distance south from Dalhousie street.

(34) Aylmer street, to be water-tabled from Hunter-brooke to Dalhousie street.

(35) Chamberlain street, to be graded west from the G. & Q. Railway and a proper culvert provided to carry off the water.

(36) Albert street, sidewalk to be repaired or rebuilt where necessary.

Your committee would point out that a large quantity of gravel could be procured by grading down Dalhousie street east from George to the river.

Your committee recommend that any portion of the above work may be performed by contract or otherwise, as may be deemed expedient, and that the town engineer may be employed to make grades when necessary.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. CAHILL,
Chairman.

Peterborough, June 2nd, 1884.

Mr. Menzies inquired what the cost of the proposed improvements would be.

Mr. Cahill said the cost would be under $4,000.

Mr. Hartley agreed to these figures. The Street Committee had only recommended street improvments that were unavoidable.

Mr. Millar said that he was with the Street Committee, looking over the ground, and nothing was recommended that was not necessary.

Mr. Rutherford thought the expense would be less than $2,000. If it had been more he would oppose it, as there had already been spent on the streets about $2,000.

Mr. Cahill said that the report contained nothing that was unnecessary. The town should keep pace with private enterprise. The Committee, on their rounds, were surprised to see the number of new structures going up.

Mr. Rutherford remarked the town was growing so fast, and the walks so rapidly extending, that it was time we considered some more substantial material than wood for walks.

Mr. Menzies urged that it was all very well to say that the people desired these improvemnts, but they would grumble enough when the tax collector called. The work should, as much as possible, be done by tender.

The report was adopted.

CHARITY.

Mr. Green, Chairman, reported, recommending that the application of Isabella Drummond, for charity, be not entertained, as money had been left for her maintenance and she had several wealthy relatives who were able to assist her.

Several members bore testimony to the economy with which Mr. Green had administered the affairs of his department.

YELLAND'S SWITCH.

A by-law was introduced to amend by-law 469, (enacting more stringent and specific clauses in reference to compensation of parties likely to suffer damage by the placing of the switch,) and duly passed.

SANITARY MATTERS.

The report of the Board of Health having come up, on motion to adopt it,

Mr. Menzies submitted that $200 was a large figure for Medical Health Officer's salary.

Mr. McNeil, Chairman, on being called on, explained that a part of the Medical Health Officer's multiform duties, especially in case of outbreak of infectious diseases was to supply practitioners with forms, which they were to fill out and return to him and he would report to the Board. The attending physician must also report to the Medical Health Officer the progress of the the case, and the house must be placarded. He was to attend to the purification of infected premises, look after drains, etc., etc.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Menzies, in amendment, that the Town Physician be appointed at an advance of $75 to his present salary, and that the constables be required to act as Sanitary Inspectors.

Several speakers expressed their opinions on the subject, when the amendment was put and lost, and the original motion adopted on the following division:

YEAS.—Messrs. Davidson, Rutherford, Allin, Green, Millar, Kendry and Hartley—7.

NAYS.—Messrs. Cahill, Kelly, Yelland and Menzies—4.

Mr. Richard Hall, Board of Health, being unable to spare from his business the time necessary to attend to the meetings of the Board, Mr. Geo. Hilliard, M. P., was appointed in his place.

COLLECTOR'S ROLL.

Mr Cahill called attention to the importance of the roll being placed in the Collector's hands at as early a day as possible.

STREET WATERING.

After considerable talk, a motion was agreed to, empowering the Fire, Water and Gas Committee to put on an extra watering cart, to water as much of an area as possible, the new arrangement to be for one month—on trial.

LEGAL.

The Mayor said that Mrs. Costello had entered a suit for damages, and that the matter was in the hands of the Town Solicitor.

Mr. Laplante's suit to quash the by-law transferring Wolfe street to the O. & Q. Railway was talked over, and it was understood that the plaintiff agreed to an adjournment of the case for two weeks.

SIGNATORIAL.

Mr. Menzies was authorized to sign cheques for the Chairman of the Finance Committee, Mr. Davidson, during the absence of the latter from town.

DEBENTURES.

The Mayor and Clerk were authorized to issue debentures to the amount of $2,500, to retire debentures falling due.

RAILWAY APPROACHES.

The Town Clerk was instructed to urge upon the Midland Railway the necessity of making proper approaches to the railway at the intersection of Park and McDonnell streets.

The Council adjourned to meet the last Monday in June.

To-morrow this week at Townsell's some beautiful Summer Dress Goods in the new shades, bought away down below regular prices. They will be sold cheap.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

BURGLARY.

A remarkable daring burglary was committed at the Norwood grist mill on Wednesday of last week, when Mr. Thos. Beak was cleverly victimized out of about $2,000. The daring robbery was committed in broad day-light, and the plucky burglar, whoever he was, performed his work in a very business-like manner. The mode of his entrance into the mill is still a mystery, but slight resemblance show that he must have been quite familiar with the premises, and that he was aware of their being plenty of funds on hand. The desk in the office of the mill was wrenched open by a large chisel to allow of sufficient space to admit of the burglar's hand to displace the lock, when the contents of the desk were laid open to his view. To grasp a large roll of bills—containing the missing amount—was the work of a second, when he at once made off with the valuable booty. Suspicion is of course at work, but without the least clue to the perpetrator. It is a difficult matter now to cast any suspicion upon the guilty party. Time alone can now develope and clear up the mystery which clouds this daring burglary, and bring to justice the villainous perpetrator. It is to be hoped such will be the case.

REMOVING THE DEAD.

With the consent of the friends interested, sixteen bodies have been removed from the north-east corner of the Norwood Cemetery to other portions thereof, for the purpose of procuring a convenient roadway into the station grounds of the O. & Q. Railway. This step was found indispensably necessary on account of the small space intervening between the railway track and the cemetery. The work of removal was performed under the superintendence of Mr. Thomas Rork, who certainly spared no pains to execute very satisfactorily this delicate and difficult undertaking.

PERSONAL.

Mr. D. Belleghem, of your town, on Tuesday of last week, delivered at the Norwood Methodist parsonage, a very handsome set of parlour hair cloth furniture, which were made to order at his furniture establishment in Peterborough. They reflect the highest credit upon his taste and skill in this particular branch of his business, and the kind ladies, who by their entertaining socials during the past winter provided the funds for this essential adornment of the residence of their popular pastor, spoke in the most flattering terms of the parlor set and of the courtesy of Mr. Belleghem.

METHODIST UNION.

The Rev. Mr. Gee, on Sunday morning last, being the day of the consummation of the union of the various Methodist bodies of the Dominion, preached a remarkably eloquent and impressive sermon upon the subject of the union from the text; "That they all may be one; as Thou, Father, art in me, and I in Thee, that they also may be one in us."

OTONABEE.

GREAT LABOUR SAVING APPARATUS.

Our old friend, Mr. Peter Walker, the Otonabee genius, has invented and obtained a patent for a rack lifter, which with the assistance of one horse, can lift any ordinary load of grain, hay or anything you wish, in one minutes time, right up to the rafters of any barn no matter how high, when any boy ten or twelve years old can unload it with ease, as all he has to do is to shove it over the side and into the mow it goes. He called on me the other day and put one of them up in my barn. To test it, we had one of Mr. Peter Hamilton's cleaners of a ten-horse power thresher on the barn floor with the straw-carriers, tables and all the rest of the traps belonging to a thresher, which I think would be nearly two tons weight. I hitched on to this and raised it with the greatest of ease. He has put up quite a number in the county and is prepared to put up more if the people wish him to do so. He has put up one for Mr. Charles O'Reilly, ex-Reeve of Asphodel, one for Thomas Blezard, Esq., M. P. P., Thomas Shearer, Phillip Elmhurst and others of Otonabee who are all highly pleased with it as well as myself.

SCIENCE AND PRAYER.

Rev. Dr. McVicar's Vigorous Lecture.

On Friday evening a large audience, assembled in the George-street Methodist Church, gave a delighted hearing to Rev. Dr. McVicar, of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, while he delivered a most logical and telling lecture on the subject of "Science and Prayer"—dealing trenchantly with the objections of so-called scientific against prayer.

Rev. Mr. Shaw occupied the chair and introduced the speaker.

After facetiously defining prayer, and showing that in scientific matters our knowledge was finite and and our ignorance infinite, the speaker debated the position that, because we could not reconcile the hearing and answering of prayer to the conditions of human experience, we should not abandon it any more than we should chemistry or any other branch of science because of our ignorance of its operations.

The first objection dealt with was that prayer from a scientific standpoint was needless—the first step of a man who tried to educate himself to infidelity. Speaking of a man who had ceased to offer prayer here, while the results that he did not succeed only better in business with prayer than without it, it was shown that God does not always give us what we ask for, in merely a self-seeking spirit. This test case did not fulfill the conditions as to earnestness, honesty and sincerity, and, therefore, an answer was not to be expected—God was too wise to be deceived by empty forms. The human heart was full of self-deception, as shown by opposing armies praying for success in their bloody work. Prayer was as intuitive as a belief in a Deity. Cases of men had been found that lived without religion and homes, but never without some form of prayer. All were dependent on God, and prayer was a necessary consequence of this condition. If prayer were needless why had God implanted the instinct of prayer in the human heart?

It was alleged in the second place that prayer is a folly, statistically considered—praying men were no healthier, nor lived longer than those who did not pray. In answer, the speaker showed that the spiritual benefits of prayer could not be summed up by statistics. Pardon, peace of soul and buoyancy of hope were not subject to arithmetic. If a man studied a subject for years and could not reduce the results to figures, would he denounce the subject as a folly? The speaker asserted that praying nations were superior to prayerless ones. The subject was a direct issue between paganism and Christianity with the overwhelming burden of proof in favour of the latter.

The third objection was that prayer failed when subjected to the tests of science. Reference was made to the notorious proposal to test prayer by the result of treatment of sick persons with and without prayer. The speaker clearly showed that the necessary conditions to such a test could not be secured—persons of exactly similar constitutions and maladies, etc., and it was folly to propose a test that would be wanting in all the conditions of "scientific exactness." Besides it was impossible to prevent one set of patients being prayed for and there could be no guaranty that God would be a party to the "nice little experiment."

It was also asserted that prayer was inconsistent with material laws. It was impossible to give force to this objection for nature's laws were merely inferences and the result of observation and experience and could be no more uniform than the people who observed. Law implied a lawgiver and was useless without some power to enforce it. To doubt God's willingness to answer prayer was to strike a blow at the scheme of human redemption. God was the subject of no law and was able to act untrammeled.

Again it was urged that answers to prayer were incredible because they involved miracles. A miracle was defined as a special work of God aside from his ordinary mode of working, usually performed through one commissioned to speak in His name. This did not require God to run counter to His laws, only to vary this mode of working. It was no extravagent idea, that God, possessed of infinite power and resources could turn aside from His usual mode, of working without contradicting Himself.

A final objection was that men had been imposed on by false miracles and therefore could have no confidence in prayer. There were broken banks and false friends yet we did not give up business nor abandon friends on this account. Neither in science nor religion would it be asserted that because falsehood exists all must be false. The Rev. gentleman concluded an eloquent, logical and thoughtful address by asserting as his article of belief, "All things whatsoever ye ask in faith believing ye shall receive."

On motion a vote of thanks were tendered the lecturer, and the trustees of the church for its use on the occasion.

MIDLAND DISTRICT DASHES.

The Cream of Occurrences Skimmed from Contemporary Columns.

EMILY.

Mr. W. Crowley, of Emily, has sold 21 head of fine steers to Mr. W. Cameron, of Woodville. Mr. Crowly has some 31 head more for sale which will be in good condition in a few weeks.

NORWOOD.

The Register says that some person entered Buck's grist mill Thursday afternoon and abstracted from the safe the sum of $1000. Mr. Birt, the manager, has not the slightest suspicion of any person.

BOBCAYGEON.

At a recent district meeting of the Methodist Church a resolution of condolence with Rev. Mr. Steele, in the loss of his wife was passed with expressions of sympathy. The Rev. W. H. Emsley was elected to represent the district, on the Conference stationing committee.

OMEMEE.

On the 24th of May morning, early, the large cannon, which has been a native of the commons for many years, exploded with a tremendous roar, pieces weighing upwards of fifty pounds being thrown high in the air. The fourth firing proved too much for its strength. No lives lost.

PORT HOPE.

Men are busily engaged repairing the spire of the Baptist church.

The new organ for St. Mark's Church has arrived, and is being placed in position.

Considerable lumber is coming in on the Midland, and is principally being shipped to Oswego.

LINDSAY.

The County Council is called together for Tuesday, 10th June.

At Hamilton's carriage works there is building a splendid sample of serviceable work in the shape of a delivery wagon for a prominent Toronto merchant. A good article always commands ready sale.

Three or four of the fine dwellings in the Lundy terrace are offered for rental. Those in need of houses should look them up. The rental asked is very moderate when the advantages of a new-finished residence are considered.

On Saturday morning the fire brigade were photographed with the walls of the convent as a background. The brigade looked well, and the picture in years to come will be a pleasing reminder of good-fellowship.

At six o'clock Thursday morning an unknown man deliberately threw himself under one of the locomotives of the Grand Trunk railway here, and was cut to pieces. He was buried by the town.

CAMPBELLFORD.

The River Trent has been made richer by the deposit of half a million of young salmon in its waters.

The late bazaar held by the ladies of the English Church, was a success. The large sum of $250 was raised.

The large Clyde stallion which Mr. D. Adams imported from Scotland last year, died of inflammation the early part of this week. The animal was valued at $2,000.

Mr. A. P. Jones, who has lived in Campbellford several years, and who has identified himself with the sale of trees, has gained some notoriety by leaving the place before settling his accounts.

Last Saturday there were nearly 21,000 lbs of cheese shipped from the Grand Junction station here. It represented the produce of six factories of this locality, and was consigned to Belleville for further shipment.

The body of the unfortunate young lad, Montgomery, son of Mr. S. Montgomery, of Campbellford, who was drowned in the Trent last fall, was found one day last week within a short distance of the spot where he sank. It was taken from the water and immediately buried.

COBOURG.

Judge Boswell and wife, and Captain Walker, sailed by the Parisian last Saturday for the old country.

On Monday night some miscreant set fire to a vacant building, the property of Mr. W. L. Payne, on College street. Fortunately the flames were discovered in time to save the building, and the fire was extinguished before the brigade arrived. The scoundrel had gone about his work systematically, using coal oil to make the thing sure. Less than an hour afterwards the alarm again rang, when it was found that an unused stable and barn in rear of the property formerly occupied by Mr. Sheriff Waddell, Division street north, was in flames. It was quickly consumed.

The people of Cobourg will be interested in learning that, after fifty years' service in the Methodist Church, Rev. Dr. Jeffers retires next month from the active work of the ministry. The retirement of a man who was preaching the Gospel years before the great majority of us were born, and who has made his mark upon the history, the education and the morals of the country, could not fail to be of interest to many. Dr. Jeffers' many friends in Cobourg will wish him improved health, and many years of comfort and happiness in his retirement. We might be permitted to say that we hope he may find leisure to prepare some of his great sermons for the press. It would be a great pity if they were lost. Dr. Jeffers will reside at Belleville.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

TRACK-LAYING BEYOND SUDBURY—A SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE.

The work of construction on the eastern division of the Canadian Pacific Railway is now being pushed forward with redoubled vigor, the track now being laid down to a point about twenty-five miles beyond Sudbary Junction and the ballasting completed to a distance of seventy-five miles beyond. There are now about 6,000 men employed at work in this vicinity, but owing to the rough nature of the country their progress is necessarily very slow. Mr. Harry Abbott has superseded Mr. Worthington, and is now superintending the entire work of construction. An official of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has just returned from Sudbary, informed a Star reporter that the country thereabouts is destined to become the resort for sportsmen. Game of every description, including the moose deer, is found in the greatest abundance, and the innumerable small lakes and streams teem with every variety of fish. During his stay at this point, one of his party without the least assistance succeeded in catching, in three hours, sixty-eight fish weighing 118 pounds. The track-men during their spare moments have no difficulty in meeting with the same success, and keep the larder well stocked.

West-bound freight for Manitoba and the North-west is now being shipped from this city via the Canadian Pacific and Ontario & Quebec railways in enormous quantities. Up to the present, no freight for local points on the latter road has been accepted, but on Monday next a regular freight service will be inaugurated. The new line is already proving a source of competition against the Grand Trunk.—Montreal Star.

THE BOUNDARY BUSINESS.

HON MR. MOWAT'S DEPARTURE FOR ENGLAND TO PLEAD THE CASE.

On Thursday afternoon Hon. Oliver Mowat left for England, where he will argue the Ontario side of the boundary dispute before the privy council. Quite a number of his political friends were down to see him off, and the "little premier" seemed happy in the importance of his mission. After kissing his grandchildren and shaking hands with all his friends he got on the rear platform and started for Hamilton amid the cheers of his sympathisers. Among those present were noticed Hon. A. S. Hardy, Hon. A. M. Ross, Capt. McMaster, Mr. Darling, Hugh Miller, F. Fenton, Mr. Hendersrn, T. Wood, W. Johnston, C. Dogherty, Major Allen, Mr. Rogers, J. D. Edgar and C. R. W. Biggar. The Hon. David Mills will be associated with the Premier in the case. It is said that Mr. Christopher Robinson, Q. C., who was retained by the Dominion has thrown up his brief, and that Mr. Dalton McCarthy has declined it.

EXTRADITION REFORM WANTED.

The New York Herald vigorously advocates a revision of the present extradition treaty with Great Britain, which, it claims, enables United States rogues of all kinds to make Canada a hiding place. Under that treaty neither larceny, embezzlement, misappropriation of funds, swindling, fraud nor obtaining money under false pretences is an extraditable offense. The treaty does not cover any crime to which the recent disclosures regarding bank and stock swindles point. The British Government, it is true, has if it chooses, power to surrender a fugitive for an offence not mentioned in the treaty, but neither the President nor the U. S. State Department can do likewise. It is claimed that these extradition relations between the two countries are discreditable and productive of mischief. They could certainly be improved upon. There appears to be no good reason why a man who is proved, by unimpeachable testimony, to have stolen, defrauded or embezzled, should not be extradited as well as a forger or a murderer.

THE GRAVENHURST-CALLANDER RAILWAY.

On Monday, says the Muskoka Herald, our reporter had an interview with a gentleman who is a good authority on railway matters. He is willing to stake his reputation (and he has a good record for truthfulness) on the statement that the work of constructing the line will be in progress before the first of July. Mr. Campbell, one of the Directors of the company, stated that tenders for the work will at once be advertised for, and that the first section will be from Gravenhurst to Huntsville. The following paragraph, clipped from the Globe, corroborates these statements:—"The work of surveying the Callander branch to join the Canadian Pacific Railway is being prosecuted with vigour. The junction with the C. P. R. will be at a point close to the northeast corner of the district of Parry Sound and will pass by South East Bay. Work will be commenced before the 1st of July so as to comply with the conditions on which the Government aid is granted.

A CANADIAN SCIENTIST IN ENGLAND.

A gala meeting was held by the Victoria Philosophical Institute of London, in May, at which its members gave a worthy welcome to Vice-Chancellor Dawson, C. M. G., of McGill University, Montreal, at whose instance the British Association visits Canada this year. The Society of Arts kindly lent its premises for the occasion, and its great theatre was crowded in every part long before the hour of meeting. The chair was taken by Sir H. Barkly, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., F.R.S., who—after the new members had been announced by Captain F. Petrie, the secretary—welcomed Dr. Dawson amid loud applause, and asked him to deliver his Address: It was on "Prehistoric Man in Egypt and Syria," and was illustrated by large diagrams, also flint implements and bones collected by Dr. Dawson himself on the spot during his winter tour in the East.

To fatten and prepare horses, cattle, sheep, and swine for market, Dr. Scott's Prepared Spice is the best medicine yet discovered for that purpose; it gives the animal a fine appearance. For sale by all Druggists, and Patent Medicine Dealers.

THE CONSPIRACY CASE.

ARGUMENT BEFORE THE QUEEN'S BENCH—JUDGMENT RESERVED.

In the conspiracy case, argument took place Thursday before the Queen's Bench Divisional Court on the rule taken out by the defendants calling upon the Crown to show cause why all proceedings taken for argument of demurrer should not be set aside on the grounds that the return to certiorari was not made which these proceedings were taken, and that defendants had not yet appeared, or been called upon to plead to the indictment in the Superior Court. Counsel for the Crown contended that the proceedings were regular, and that the defendants were bound by their recognizances to appear and argue demurrer; therefore, if there were any irregularity in getting down the demurrer for argument before calling upon defendant's own act. Counsel for defendants argued that after the certiorari the Crown must commence de novo and as to recognizances that defendants could not by their act change recognized practices. Judgment was reserved.

POTASH.

Iodide of Potassium is one of the strongest of the minerals used in medicine, and has produced much suffering in the world. Taken for a long time and in large doses, it dries up the gastric juices, impairs digestion, the stomach refuses food, and the patient declines in health and weight. Persons with Blood or Skin Diseases should be careful how they take these mineral poisons, as in most instances the effect of them is to almost permanently impair the constitution. To take the place of these poisons we offer you a safe, sure, prompt and permanent relief from your troubles. Shaker Blood Syrup is entirely a vegetable preparation, and it is easy to convince you of its merit.

I have cured permanently Blood Taint in the third generation by the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, after I had most signally failed with Mercury and Potash. Dr. Smith, Bangor, Pa.

A young man requests me to thank you for his cure of Blood Poison by the use of your specfic after all other treatment had failed.
J. E. Kennedy, Druggist, Cobourg, Ont.

For Years I was afflicted with Dry Tetter of the obstinate type. Was treated by many of the best physicians; took quantities of mercury, potash, and arsenic, which, instead of curing the Tetter crippled me up with mineral poison and rheumatism. The tetter continued to grow worse, and the itching almost made me crazy. In this condition I was induced to take Shaker Blood Syrup, and the result was as astonishing as it was gratifying. In a few months the Tetter was entirely well, the Mercurial Poisoning all out of my system, and I was a well man—and due only to Shaker Blood Syrup. All like sufferers should take it.

DYNAMITERS IN LONDON.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP SCOTLAND YARD DETECTIVE OFFICE.

An explosion of dynamite occurred outside the detective office in Scotland Yard Friday evening. The corner of the building, composed of thick brick work, was blown off to a height of thirty feet. Several persons were injured.

A bomb was thrown into the basement of the Junior Carlton club house and exploded. There was another explosion near the same building a few seconds after. The basement of the club house was shattered and four servants seriously injured.

A search results in the discovery that another explosion was averted in Scotland Yard by the failure of the fuse to burn. Several cakes of dynamite have been found in the vicinity, and a canister of unexploded dynamite in Scotland Yard, Sixteen packets of dynamite, with fuses attached, were found under the Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square. This, the police believe, is of American manufacture.

An End to bone Scraping.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve and my leg is now sound and well."
Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by Taylor & Macdonald.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

At the late session of the Dominion Parliament an Act was passed prohibiting railway trains from standing on crossings for more than five minutes consecutively. Mr. Hickson has just issued a circular to all the employees of the G.T.R., warning them that the law must be strictly carried out in this regard. The penalty is $50, and a portion of the fine goes to the informer.

It is not Disputed

That NERVILINE, the new pain remedy, is a good article. Some indeed claim that the old fashioned preparations are just as good, but any sufferer can satisfy himself by expending ten cents on a sample bottle of Polson's Nerviline, that nothing sold can equal it for internal, local or external pains. Always speedy in effect, prompt and certain in every cure. H.S. Webber, Orangeville, writes: "My customers speak very highly of Nerviline as a remedy for toothache and neuralgia." All druggists and country dealers sell Nerviline. Try it to-day.

DOWN ON DEBT.

Mr. Hickson has issued an order that any employee of the Grand Trunk Railway whose wages are attached by garnishee summons shall be dismissed, unless some satisfactory reason is given. The order has been issued in consequence of the great inconvenience and expense the company has been put to by garnishee summonses.

BLIGHTING MAY FROSTS.

Discouraging Reports from Canadian and American Points.

The Damage in Niagara District Enormous—Grain, Fruits and Garden Stuff Perish—A Short Crop the Result.

STONY CREEK, Ont., May 29.—The frost last night has done much damage to the crops. The tomato plants were cut badly, and the grape vines were especially hurt; the early kinds show the effects very much. The clover tops are turned as though they were burned. A gentleman from Winona states that all the early fruits are very much injured, especially grapes and tomatoes, but he thinks that the apple crop is not affected to any extent. Your correspondent, in conversation with a farmer from Nelson township, was told that the frost was very severe there, ice being formed in several parts. In the vicinity of Bartonville the effects of the frost are plainly visible.

The effects of last winter are more plainly visible now than ever; the peach trees, which a week ago showed signs of health and a vigorous growth, are now in a bad state. The leaves are all curling up and falling, and half-budding leaves are turning black on the trees. The statement that Wm. Cline, of Stoney Creek, made some time ago regarding the trees dying, has proved only too true in regard to peach trees.

WATFORD, Ont., May 29.—Last night's frost was the severest of the season felt here for many years. Ice was formed half an inch thick, and a great amount of damage has been done to the crops. The grape crop has been totally destroyed, and it is feared other fruits are greatly injured. Barley in many cases is totally destroyed. Peas and fall wheat are damaged to a large extent. Early potatoes, beans and tomatoes are all cut to the ground.

SEAFORTH, May 29th.—There was a heavy frost here last night. Potatoes, fruit and gardens were seriously damaged and there is every prospect of more frost to-night.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 29.—The frost in this vicinity last night was so heavy that ice formed in stagnant water. Flowers were frozen in some localities and barley injured.

GUELPH, Ont., May 29.—Last night the thermometer recorded five degrees of frost as the lowest point, and it is regarded as certain that oats, barley, potatoes and other field crops have received a rather severe check, while the blossoms on fruit trees may have been badly damaged or destroyed. It will take a day or two to learn the real effects of the cold spell, and at this critical juncture everybody will anxiously await reports from the country.

CLEVELAND, May 29.—Reports from many points in northern Ohio indicate that last night's frost did great damage to fruit, vegetables and grain.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 29.—A severe and blighting frost was general in Wisconsin last night. Great damage was done to crops, especially corn and tobacco. Small fruits and vegetables are ruined. In some counties clothes were frozen stiff on the lines. Ice formed three-quarters of an inch thick on small ponds.

DETROIT, May 29.—Heavy frosts are reported last night from the interior of the State, doing much damage.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., May 29.—Black frost did great damage in this locality last night to small fruits and vegetables.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., May 29.—Reports from the river counties show a damaging frost last night. Another heavy one is apprehended to-night.

CINCINNATI, May 29.—Fruit and vegetables in Southern Ohio suffered severely from frost last night.

With reference to the action taken by the liquidators of the Exchange Bank, at Montreal, against Alex Buntin for $10,000, it is learned that while denying all charges of fraud and collusion made against him, Mr. Buntin has, through his solicitors, expressed his willingness to replace $10,000 in the Bank, as though they had never been withdrawn. These terms, in addition to payment of all costs, have been accepted.

At the annual meeting of the Mechanics' Institute, London, last evening the usual yearly reports were presented and adopted. It was shown that the free library scheme had reduced the membership of the Institute, and the Council was soundly berated for having thrown cold water on the scheme. E. F. Clyne, brother-in-law to Wm. V. McDonald, who was killed by falling over the bank at the Falls last Tuesday, arrived at Niagara Falls and left with the body for Brooklyn. The general supposition is that he being tired out, having been riding all night on the carg, lay down on the grass to rest, fell asleep and rolled down the precipice before he could recover himself.

A week ago Mrs. Catherine McGregor, of London, was terribly burned by a coal oil explosion. Everything possible was done to relieve her sufferings, but a fatal termination ensued yesterday morning about 10 o'clock. She had remained conscious until yesterday. She was 59 years old, a native of Edinburgh, but for 28 years past she had resided in London. Her husband's death was also the result of an accident. He died a year and a half ago, on the same day and at exactly the same hour. Mrs. McGregor leaves two sons.

A MANIAC MOTHER'S DEED.

IN HER FRENZY SHE DESTROYS HERSELF AND HER FIVE CHILDREN.

On Friday night, in Albany, N. Y., Mrs. Christopher Schreifer, aged 33, while temporarily insane, cut the throats of her four little children with a razor. Their ages were seven, five, and three years, and nine months. The heads of all were nearly severed from their bodies. The woman then seized her nine-year-old daughter in her arms, ran to the railroad track, and sat on the rails waiting for a train to kill them. She was found fearfully mangled, her head, both legs and an arm being cut off. The girl's left foot and left arm above the wrist were cut off. She was horribly bruised but conscious when picked up. She said she could not get away from her mother, who threw herself before the cars. The child died Saturday morning. The father, a German blacksmith aged 45, is nearly crazed with grief. The couple lived happily. The woman's insanity is said to have been due to the loss of a savings bank book.

Pure Bred Poultry!
The subscriber is now prepared to dispose of STTINGS OF EGGS from the following varieties of Poultry:—Plymouth Rocks, Houdans, Black Spanish, White Leghorns, Buff Cochin, Silver Grey Dorkings, Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Pekin Ducks and Bronze Turkeys.

All the above varieties were either first or second prize birds at the fall and winter exhibitions. I have also added since the exhibitions some very fine birds of different varieties to my stock. Having bred the greater part of the varieties for three years, I think I know what suits the country.

Every pains has been taken to keep the stock pure, by keeping the birds in different yards, therefore the public can rely on a good article, either in Eggs or Chicks, second to none but in price, any and all of the above varieties being offered at $1.50 per 13, or 26 for $2.50, excepting the Ducks or Turkeys.

Any orders for eggs must be accompanied with the price. I would be glad to fill a large order, if required, with different kinds.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 5, 1884.

The Bribery Case.

The legal proceedings in connection with the trial of the four parties charged with the infamous plot to purchase a Parliament, threaten to be of the longest and most tedious nature. The counsel for the accused are throwing every obstacle in the way of a decision of the case by a fair trial before a jury. In thus complicating the matter, these gentlemen are, in one sense, acting in the interest of their clients. While the case can be left dangling, between adjournment and adjournment, the real question of the guilt of the accused is left undecided, and for the present, at least, the quartett enjoy the liberty of innocent men, or at least of men whose guilt has only been decided on by a magistrate and not by a jury. On the other hand, the frantic attempts to interpose delay and stave off a trial, furnish exceeding strong presumptive evidence of guilt. If a man be innocent of a crime, it is only natural that he should be anxious for a trial of the charge on its merits, with the certainty that he would be triumphantly acquitted. This is generally true. Therefore, if the accused conspirators are innocent and falsely charged men, the most agreeable course would be to have a speedy and complete investigation of the charges. The fact that they are trying to escape from the corner, in which they have been caged, by legal technicalties and quibbles is, apart from direct testimony, the very strongest evidence in proof of their guilt. No honorable man, feeling his innocence of a heinous crime charged, like the one in question, would sanction the introduction of a single element of delay in the process that would result in the establishment of his innocence and the vindication of his character; while a guilty man, conscious of guilt, would be inclined to stave off the evil day as long as possible. The matter seems to stand thus: Bunting, Meek, Wilkinson and Kirkland, were charged with bribery and conspiracy. This charge they, of course, as well as their political allies, or, perhaps, more strictly speaking, confederates, vehemently denied. The charge is investigated before Police Magistrate Denison, Toronto, and he was so strongly impressed with the weight of the evidence against them that he committed them for trial. This, the accused and their friends say, is of little moment; the case would have a different aspect when the other side—the defence—was heard. But they decline to avail themselves of the chance presented of proving their innocence, but try to escape through some legal loop-hole in a manner which will not be proof of their innocence, but will save them from the penalty attached to the offence alleged.

"Big Push" has come out in a new role. He is essaying to shed new glory on his name with a new style of luminous paint, in connection with which he has filed a caveat at Ottawa. Mr. Wilkinson's whole career has been a living caveat—something that all honest politicians should beware of. As to his luminous paint, we may soon expect to see a test of it in the Cumberland election. We shall soon see whether his paint has as good an effect in rendering the noses of the b'oys in that riding luminous, as John Shields' plug whiskey. John had better be careful, however, and not infringe on Big Push's caveat.

To Pinkerton's Newest Ambition.

Politically, Hon. Mr. Macpherson is out of a job, and is naturally looking for another situation. The circumstances of his retirement from the cabinet have not yet transpired. In absence of specific information as to the causes of his withdrawal, the Edmonton registrarship matter, may have something to do with it. Senator and Minister Macpherson's connection with that matter has a very black look. Indeed it appears to even have touched the moral sense—generally hypothetical—of the great Chieftain himself. It will be remembered that Sir John in claiming for himself an exalted purity of political conduct and character, stated in effect that when one of his ministers was guilty of a political crime he "disappeared" from the cabinet. Has Macpherson "disappeared?" or had he too blundering a way in leaving clues, when he placed registrarships at the disposal of Mr. Wilkinson? At any rate he was a luminous failure as Minister of the Interior, and perhaps in pursuance of Sir John's practice of rewarding disgraced politicians, the ex-Minister is to be made Lieutenant-governor of Ontario. Any way his name has been mentioned in connection with the appointment. That he should for a moment think of accepting such an office is a wonder. After the disgraceful exhibition he made in the Senate, it is evident that he does not possess the dignity and self respect necessary to qualify himself for the position, while his low and uncharitable abuse of Mr. Mowat and his cabinet make it impossible that there should be that harmony between cabinet and governor—advisers and advised—which is necessary to the maintenance of the dignity of their relative positions and the subserving of the interests of the country. The appointment of Mr. Macpherson to the Lieutgovernorship of Ontario would be an insult to the ministry and the province. But that would be one reason why Sir John should make the appointment. Ever since Confederation, the Premier's policy has been to humiliate and discriminate against the province, and Mr. Macpherson's appointment will be another chance. Ontario must be punished for remaining true to Reform principles, for retaining a Reform government in power, and for perpetually presenting herself as a barrier against the success of Sir John Macdonald's schemes for the aggrandizement of the Tory Party.

The C. P. Syndicate "Loan."

It would appear, that Mr. Geo. Stephen, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has not met with great success on his recent visit to England, where he went a short time since, for the purpose of floating the stock of the company. His success was problemetical. He went handi capped, by the fact that the road was mortgaged to the goveanment in security for the "loan," and investors, after the exhibition of extravagant expenditure on the part of the company would be very cautious in advancing money on a second mortgage. Under these circumstances the prediction made by the Opposition members last session of parliament is in a fair way of being verified. It will not be a surprise, if, at the next session of Parliament, the Canada Pacific railway Syndicate take the government by the throat and demand a modification of terms or enlarged concessions. The government will either have to surrender their security and make the "loan" what, in the end it will probably have to be, a gift or guarantee another loan. The company seems to be getting into deeper difficulty every day; but this fact does not greatly concern them. They have the present Tory government in their power and will be able to dictate terms, so long as a subservient Ontario Tory majority, will support the government in their extravagant and ruinous concessions to the syndicate, while the country has to pay the shot.

The Vultures Gathering.

The Guelph Mercury seems at a loss to know why Messrs. J. J. Hawkins, J. A. Wilkinson, H. H. Smith, J. A. Macdonnel and others of their stripe, are all in Ottawa at one time or what Sir John wants with them. But there is no mystery about the matter. There is an election pending in Cumberland—the constituency which has been unrepresented for several months—since Sir Charles went to take the duties of High Commissioner last fall. There is a great gathering of the Tory vultures in devoted Cumberland just now. The four worthies above mentioned as well as Hon. Mr. McLean, Minister of Marine and Fishries are detailed for the work. An election on the Tory side could not be carried on without the peculiar assistance of these men who figured so extensively in the Ontario elections and as a consequence in the election courts. We should not be surprised to hear any day of the arrival of Shield's with a supply of plug whiskey as a Tory factor of success. It is rather rough on the ex-representative and ex-minister of Railways and Canals that it is necessary to import so large a collection of corruptionists to keep the supply in the riding up to the mark maintained by the presence of the Great Stretcher.

Colonel Middleton has been appointed to succeed General Luard in the command of the Canadian militia, and will sail for Canada in June. It is to be hoped that our new commander-in-chief will, while firmly insisting on the maintenance of discipline and the efficiency of the volunteer force, apply his methods with more pleasantness than Gen. Luard—liberally combine the suaviter in modo with the fortiter in re.

Methodist Union.

Last Sunday was a red letter day in the calendar of Canadian Methodism—the day that saw the union of the four branches into one vigorous and powerful religious combination. To give some idea of its strength, extent and importance the following statistics may be submitted: Methodist Church of Canada, membership, 128,644; Methodist Episcopal, 25,671; Primitive Methodist, 3,090; Bible Christians, 7,208; total, 169,803. Ministers, including students: Canada Methodist, 1,216; Methodist Episcopal, 259; Primitive Methodist, 89; Bible Christian, 79; total, 1,643. Canada Methodist: Churches, 2,202, $4,438,435; parsonages, 646, $712,086; parsonage furniture, $102,923; Methodist Episcopal, 545 churches, $1,314,204; and 126 parsonages, $113,110; Primitive Methodist, 231 churches and 50 parsonages; $40,280; Bible Christian, 59 churches, $285,510; total, 3,159 churches; 977 parsonages; value, $9,130,807. The number of Sunday Schools in the four branches of the Church are 2,707, with 22,434 teachers and 175,052 scholars. The united body will consist of ten Annual Conferences. The Montreal Conference will include all the Province of Quebec and Eastern Ontario as far West as Kingston. That such a vast consolidation of moral as well as material resources, combined in a united and aggressive attack on sin and immorality will have a tremendous effect on the moral condition of the country, goes without saying. The union was consummated with unexpected concord and good feeling, and the union under these circumstances, of the piety, zeal and missionary enterprise of four powerful bodies, point not only to a great future for the Methodist Church in Canada, but also possesses an emphatic significance in relation to the moral well-being of the country.

Editorial Notes.

This week will be an important one for the Presbyterians of Toronto, as the general assembly of the Presbyterian church was appointed to meet in St. James' square church, on June 4.

The Court of Appeal heard the appeal in the Muskoka Provincial election petition last Monday. A motion in the Algoma Provincial election petition was heard on the same day.

A Mr. Murphy, in Toronto, has been granted a Dominion license. He reports that he had tendered the fee, $210, to the Ontario License Inspector, but that gentleman had refused to accept it, although he had accepted other amounts from applicants for Dominion licenses. It is consequently thought that Mr. Murphy's will be made a test case, and that he will be at once summoned by the Ontario Inspector.

With all their boasted liberty, enlightment and progress, the Americans are still far behind the age. While we in Canada have taken the important step of giving the inquiry into, and decision of, controverted election trials into the hands of non-partizan judges, the Yankees still cling to the corrupt system of leaving such matters in the hands of partizan committees of the House of Representatives. But we came up to them in Ottawa last winter when Sir Charles Tupper was made a member of Parliament without the constituency thus outraged having been consulted. That was, however, an exception. We cannot expect, even with all the political depravity that Sir John has introduced into Canadian politics, that such another flagrant outrage will be perpetrated again in the present century.

Hon. Mr. Hardy at Guelph.

The inaugural meeting of the Young Men's Liberal association of South Wellington was held in Guelph last Friday evening. There was an immense attendance and among other speakers was Hon. Mr. Hardy whose remarks are summarized as follows:—

He was pleased to be present to take part in the opening ceremonies of the Club because he came to a riding which endorsed the doctrine of Reform as expounded by Mr. Mowat, and because it was represented by his friend James Laidlaw—a man who from the time he first entered the Legislature had shown a bold straightforward front. It is also afforded him great pleasure on behalf of the Government with which he was identified to thank Mr. McKim for the action he took in exposing the bribery conspiracy. (loud cheers) for which the country owed him a deep debt of gratitude—a debt which he believed they would honestly pay, a man who had been singled out as a target for slander and abuse. But it was not alone on personal account that he was glad to be here, but from the fact that the Reformers of Guelph were showing a vital spirit, showing that they were alive, that in the time of peace they were preparing for war, and forming a club in the nature of a political school for the purpose of educating the public mind in the principles of Reform. The work of government demanded association, it might be a school which radiated as it were to different combinations. It was a growing feature of progress in those modern days, and one which was necessary. Individual effort no longer had the strength it had in times past. The world was moved by combinations. In the business world, railways, banking institutions, trades unions, manufacturing industries were largely conducted by co-operation and it was so with their political affairs. They would find that great measures that stand out prominently in the pages of political history would never have been carried but by this means. The Reform Bill of '32, the repeal of the Corn Laws were passed by the efforts of particular men who combined for particular purposes. The declaration of independance in the United States, the adoption of Responsible Government in Canada were carried by the same means. Some of these measures represented what was done by the power of party, by legitimate constitutional methods, by the power of reason and argument. Therefore, he said, the club was legitimate and should serve the very highest ends of a political school.

"It had become the custom sometimes to decry political parties, but they have not made out a good case for the abolition of the one party or the other. They would find that, as in the commercial world, so the political world had been moved by parties, so had the government of great nations been carried on by parties in the past, and so it was to-day. They would find that those gentlemen who decry political parties offer no complete substitute; they had not shown to the world that a representative and constitutional form of government could be carried on without them. It became them to do that. (Cheers.) They would find in some of the so-called independent papers articles decrying party and attributing all sorts of evil to it, but he had found as yet no means suggested of carrying on the Government [illegible] and well without it. These papers [illegible] vigorous in their attacks. Extremes in party are extremes in other matters might be bad, but in so far as party represented combination—the coming together of representative men to secure great objects in so far party represents what he believed to be good, and until gentlemen could point out some other way to govern constitutionally he believed that parties would continue to exist. (Loud cheers.) What about free England, which had been ruled by one party or the other since she assumed a responsible form of government? What about republican France? What about the United States, perhaps more thoroughly represented by party than our own country? What about Canada? We had our parties here. What about Spain, Italy, Germany—all possessing party in a more or less vigorous form as a basis, but they are broken up into factions? It meant when you did away with party that they came down to factions, to cliques, to individuals, to what they saw in New York politics not very long ago, "heelers." Prof. Goldwin Smith occasionally cried out against party, against party ties. He noticed, however, that their cry was usually against party at Toronto, and he failed to see any great cry on the part of Mr. Smith against the party at Ottawa. (Laughter and cheers.) Now, if party was not good at Toronto, then it must not be good at Ottawa. (Cheers.) He noticed that the Conservatives set up the cry of "No Party" in order to deplete the Liberal ranks. They had, perhaps, the best illustration of this last session which could possibly be given. Too much party was their cry; patriotism, that was their Shibboleth. Mr. Creighton, one of the strongest party men in the House, got up and cried too much party; Mr. Meredith, who was, perhaps, just a stronger party man, got up and cried the same thing, and young Mr. Ermatinger who was, perhaps, the very essence of partyism, followed suit. They wanted coalition, and while they were shouting "no party," their emissaries, their political agents, were attempting to buy up their opponents. (Cheers.) Perhaps there never was a better instance of what the cry of the Conservatives for "No Party" meant in Canada. Passing on to speak of the Dominion Government's encroachments upon Provincial rights, he said he believed it was the virtual intention of Sir John Macdonald to undermine and subvert the constitution of this country."

THE BAPTIST UNION.

The meeting of the Baptist Union during the present week in Brantford has been an especially interesting and successful one. It has been characterized by a very devout as well as earnest and hopeful spirit. Broad catholic views have been enunciated; comprehensive schemes of denominational action marked out; and an increased amount of energy infused into all the deparments of church enterprise. It has been clearly enunciated that Baptists as a denomination have not baptism of adults by immersion as their one only raison d'etre. As Dr PATTISON said on Wednesday evening. "No body "of people could have attained to the "proportions they had on such a belief as "that. A church would starve, and so "would a soul on such poor provisions. "This would be to put them on a level "of the Ritualists. It would be to "affirm that one of the largest, if not the "largest of the Protestant denomination "was bound together by a mere rite." This is the true view to take of matters, and the cordiality with which Dr. PATTISON's statements were received indicates that it is the prevailing one.

The vigorous manner in which the Baptists are prosecuting their evangelistic work is also an indication of vitality and power. In their efforts for the advancement of higher education, and especially for the better equipment of their ministers in all branches of sacred learning, they are showing a wisdom, energy, and liberality which those of other churches might do well to copy. McMaster Hall is already one of the best institutions of the kind, if not the best. It has already a larger staff of instructors than any other theological institution in the Dominion, while it is evident that no efforts will be spared to make it still more efficient. Concentration of effort and unity, of purpose have brought this much to be desired result about, so that many larger and wealthier denominations may well sigh for a similar spirit of wise self-abnegation, union of plan, and earnest and active co-operation. What can be done in the conservation of forces the Baptists are showing. We fear we must add that some others are as active and almost as successful in showing what are the results of isolation, and of more or less covert antagonism.

Nor is it only in these things that the Baptists are showing a healthy progressiveness. They plan a closer union among all the churches of the body. They are making arrangements for a wider and more systematic use of the printing press, while higher Christian education is also to have an increased amount of their thought and effort. All these things are indications of vigorous growth, and all give good promise of a progressive and successful future in which all Christian Churches will rejoice. Where so many have done so well it might perhaps appear invidious to single out any individuals as specially noticeable for their work of faith and labour of love. Yet we believe that on one will think we do wrong when we mention Hon. Wm. McMaster as having in a very noticeable manner contributed more perhaps than any other individual to bringing round the present prosperous and progressive condition of the Baptists in this Province. Mr. Wm. McMaster has for many years shown a wise liberality in all departments of Christian and benevolent enterprise, and it must be to him a matter of singular gratification and thankfulness that he has lived so long as to see many of those enterprises in which he has borne a very prominent part crowned with so much and such unmistakeable success.

Warm weather has created a great demand for Summer Millinery. For a Stylish Hat or Bonnet, go to Turnbull's.

Sir Richard at Adolphustown.

Sir Richard Cartwright is a descendant of the most prominent of United Empire Loyalists. His grandfather, the Hon. Richard Cartwright, was one of the leaders of the little band of Loyalists who left Albany, N. Y., and took up their residence in Lennox. He was elected a member of the first Parliament of Canada, which met in 1792 and continued to hold a seat in that body until his death in 1815. The family have ever since ranked among the most prominent of the provinces. Sir Richard will speak at Adolphustown, on the very spot where his forefathers landed one hundred years ago. At this place the centennial of the landing of the Loyalists will be celebrated in a very elaborate manner. Sir Richard will of course speak as he always does, eloquently and forcibly.

GENERAL GORDON'S POSITION.

Latest despatches from England say that Sir Henry Gordon has ample assurance from his brother, Gen. Gordon, of the personal safety of the latter. He could leave Khartoum by a safe route any day, but did not care to do so till a better government was established in the Soudan. He did not want a large British force at all, he only needed a few hundred troops to co-operate with the gunboats after the rising of the Nile, to clear the country of rebels from Berber to Khartoum.

In view of this and similar statements lately made, much of the indignation uttered by the Opposition in England over Gen. Gordon's supposed abandonment by the Government would seem to have been wasted. The "abandonment of Gordon" simply meant that the Government did not see fit to do anything asked by that general, and in consequence he got vexed and made an indignant complaint, which was re-echoed by the Tories for purely political purposes. The Government's policy, openly avowed and impressed on Gordon, in dispatch after dispatch, was that there was to be no attempt to retain the Soudan, or to make war on the Mahdi, or take any other than plausible steps to preserve the Egyptian garrisons along the river. Gen. Gordon, after he got into the field of operations, wanted more active measures; he wanted to "smash up the Mahdi," and carry things with a high hand. He had a perfect right to submit his views to the Government, but he had no just cause of complaint when the Government refused to alter its policy to suit his ideas. And this is really what the whole trouble is about. Gen. Gordon could not have his own way; and he grows indignant. The Tories take advantage of his excited complaints, and declare that he has been abandoned. If there has been any abandonment, it is on the part of Gen. Gordon, who has been disposed to abandon the course laid down for him by the government that employs him. It should certainly not be made a cause of complaint against Mr. Gladstone that he hesitates to send an English army to the risk of death and disease, under a burning sun in Africa, in order to help Gordon to carry out a policy contrary to that which the Government has steadily and consistently endeavored to enforce. Mr. Gladstone is responsible for the losses of British soldiers as well as for the glory of Gen. Gordon. When it is absolutely necessary to sacrifice the lives of English subjects for the safety and integrity and honor of the nation, it will have to be done. But meantime it would be no sign of either wisdom or courage for the British Government to be cowed by the bowlings of jingoism, or to take a course which they consider neither just nor generous, simply because a popular commotion has been raised by demagogues.

GETTING RICH.

It is easy to grow rich. One way is to trust nobody, to befriend none; to get all you can and save all you get; to stint yourself and everybody belonging to you; to be the friend of no man, and have no man for friend; to heap interest upon interest, cent upon cent; to be mean miserable and despised for some twenty or thirty years; and riches will come as sure as disease, disappointment and death.

THE NEW CREAMERY.

PROVIDING FOR ITS ESTABLISHMENT AT THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

GUELPH, May 30.—Mr. J. H. Wanzer, of Darlington, Wis., is here drawing plans and completing other arrangements for the establishment of a creamery in connection with the Ontario Agricultural College, on the cream-gathering system. Mr. Wanzer is the nominee of a committee specially appointed by the Provincial Government to visit the creameries of the United States and Canada and to choose the best man to inaugurate the new system here. The sum of $3,000 was voted to defray the expense of starting the establishment. Hon. A. M. Ross, Provincial Treasurer and Commissioner of Agriculture, was here to-day in consultation with Mr. Wanzer and Prof. Mills, Principal of the College, in relation to the establishment of the new creamery. It is expected that the building now used as a cheese factory at the College can be made available for the use of the creamery, and that by this means the expense will not be greater than $1,300. Provision will be made for using the cream of 1,500 cows, but a start will be made with that of two or three hundred cows. As the name implies, the cream only is collected from the farmers instead of taking the milk, as under the other system. The advantages are, to the creamery, greater certainty and less expense in transportation, and to the farmers the use of the skim-milk for stock feeding. Guelph is the centre of a great stock-feeding region, and this system, while giving all or nearly all the advantages of the other system, will not interfere with that business. Mr. Wanzer is a practical man, having a creamery which uses the milk 2,400 cows, and has an average daily product of 2,000 lbs. of butter during the season. He brings with him samples of the can in use under this system. It has a small glass scale at one side which will show at a glance what quantity of butter the cream in the can will make. The other is for carrying the cream. It has a moveable top, which rests upon the cream and prevents it from churning. Mr. Wanzer says that farmers in his section make from $35 to $45 per cow each season. "In fact," he said, "we tell them that we will pay them as much for the cream as they could get for the butter if they made it, and I think that is about the practical result."

THE CIGAR-MAKING INDUSTRY.

New York is the centre of the cigar-making trade. She has nearly 4,000 factories and turns out 1,000,000,000 cigars a year. Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois rank after New York. There were made in this country last year 3,177,860,952 cigars, about forty for every pound of tobacco used. How many imported? About 35,000,000, a total of about 3,212,000,000, or sixty for every man, woman and child in the United States, and 250 for every man over 21 years of age.

NORTH POLE NONSENSE.

Commander Cheyne has given up his project for reaching the North Pole by means of balloons, for the very good reason that the $80,000 fund required to equip the expedition is not forthcoming. The fact is, balloons are fickle things; up till now it has not been proved that they can be managed in the face of adverse winds; and as people with money are supposed to see some tangible reason for spending it, before opening their purses, the intrepid commander must bide his time and perfect his system.

James Brayley, Hamilton, says:—"I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisiana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value, we had plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away, I was as bad with Billious Fever and Indigestion as I think any one could be, I have taken three bottles and am nearly well and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I am better than I ever expected to be." Free Trial bottles at J. McKee's Drug store. 23-2t

METHODIST UNION.

Informal Ratification Meeting in George street Church.

On Sunday last the legal union of the different Methodist churches came into effect and the important event was recognized by a union meeting of the different bodies and congregations in Peterborough. George street Methodist church was selected as the place of meeting and at eleven o'clock on Sunday, was filled with expectant worshippers.

Rev. John Shaw, pastor of the church and Superintendent of the District, conducted the services, and Rev. Messrs. Butcher and Manning, occupied seats on the pulpit platform.

After the usual introductory religious services Rev. Mr. Shaw made a few remarks. He said that the legal union of the Methodist bodies had come into effect that morning. It had been agreed to by an overwhelming majority of the ministers and laity interested. The union had been endorsed by the secular world and the secular press as a mighty onward stride and one that would have an important bearing on the moral well being of the country. Hence it was thought fitting to hold these services, for, as yet all the bodies had their separate existence. He regretted that Rev. Mr. Joliffe of the Murray street Bible Christian church, was unable on account of his absence at Conference, to be present.

The Rev. gentleman read as the lesson peculiarly applicable to the occasion, the twelfth chapter of Romans.

REV. MR. MANNING

pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church congratulated the people on the Union that day consummated. Apart from all other considerations there were conditions, calculated to make all hearts glad. He predicted that a day was coming when it would be possible for all Christians to stand on common ground. The union sentiment between all the churches was growing and the present union was a long step in the direction of universal union.

The welfare and hope of the country, apart from purely religious considerations, depended largely on the churches of the country. It was the province of the pulpit to deal with political matters that involved the moral health of the community, and everything affecting the moral and intellectual status of the country was a fit subject for the pulpit,—preachers were coming to recognise this fact more and more. It was the mission of the Methodist church to establish righteousness in the land and to oppose intemperance. There was hardly anything that affected the moral and social condition of the country that did not depend on the churches. He hoped the day would soon come when all the churches would be united, for thus the church, that presents such grand opportunities for working for the good of the country, would be consolidated and its influence augmented.

REV. J. W. BUTCHER

made a few remarks from the words:—"This is the Lord's doing and it is marvellous in our eyes." He was hopeful for the future of the union for it was plainly the work of the Lord. He briefly sketched the difficulties and obstacles, apparently insuperable, that had stood in the way of the union, but under the Divine influence the prejudices had melted away as could only be done by the spirit of God. The basis of the union was good beyond expectation; it had been perfected by the opposition it had encountered, for God had overruled the whole matter. This first day of June, the Lord's Day, was a fitting occasion to meet to recognize the evidence of God's superintending providence. But with his joy at the union there was blended the sorrow of severing the pastoral and church associations of 42 years. To-day all could join as one Methodist church with rejoicing.

REV. MR. SHAW

rejoiced to see this day, because he had long felt that there was no reason why church bodies with a community of spirit, doctrine and worship, should be apart. These facts all pointed to the propriety of the churches massing their forces for the fight against sin. Moreover he rejoiced because God had wrought the work; with man there might be mistakes, but God could not err. They had met to-day to rejoice that the Union had been consummated without serious opposition or bitterness. The new Methodist church whose union became a fact to day, comprised ten annual conferences, and one general conference in which the laity was represented; there were 1633 ministers, and 169,803 members equivalent to 1,079,000 adherents. There were 175,032 Sunday school scholars of which 18,330 were members of the church. The Sunday schools raised annually the sum of $63,359. These statistics, imperfect as they were, gave some idea of the strength of the new church and the grand possibilities of its future. It formed an irresistible moral force. No parliament could afford to ignore the demands of such a body when united in making demands on behalf of some great moral issue. The Methodist church if combined with the Presbyterians, who were taking advanced grounds on great moral questions, would form an irresistible moral phalanx, and represent a glorious development of moral forces, on such subjects as temperance, Sabbath observance, etc. It was the present duty of every member of the church to mutually promote the spirit of union. All came into the new church on equal terms and there was no chance of oppression to any. All had made sacrifices. The Union was a glorious combination of the spirit, zeal, wisdom and resources of the four churches and it needed no prophet to predict for the united church a glorious future. After a touching allusion to the near approach of the severance of his pastoral relations with his flock, Rev. Mr. Shaw concluded his remarks.

The unusually liberal collection was devoted to the conference fund. While it was being taken Mrs. Chambers and Mr. Porteous rendered a sacred duet in a most excellent and impressive manner.

After the dismissal of the general congregation, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, was administered to the members of the new Methodist church, followed by a sort of informal social reunion, in which the members of the new church formed mutual acquaintances and exchanged congratulations.

The music on the occasion was especially fine. The choir, numbering about twenty-five, was a combination of the chief singers of the three church choirs and the music was rendered in a most gratifying manner, especially Jackson's Te Deum, which was sung during the course of the services in a most effective give manner.

The services throughout were most cordial, edifying and satisfactory. In Peterborough at least the union is one of fact not of name only, and the spirit of cordiality and the gratifying absence of friction, which marked the first grand reunion of the members of the new Methodist church is a pleasing augury of the hopeful and harmonious future before it.

BARRIE LACROSSE CLUB.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I have read with considerable surprise and disgust the scurrilous attack made on the Barrie L. C. by a correspondent of the Lindsay Post. It is a somewhat hopeless task to attempt to render wholly ineffectual any such disreputable report, but I write simply to give an unqualified denial to the slander, in case those who have read it may construe silence into acquiescence. It is admitted by every person of common sense that every party of young gentlemen, no matter how well conducted each individually may be—when travelling as a club, will enjoy themselves to the fullest possible extent and be as cheerful as their good spirits and youthful Canadian vigor will allow; but to the annoyance or discomfort of no one. Such was the conduct of the B.L.C. as can be vouched for by every person who travelled on the same train—notwithstanding the contemptible statements by the above correspondent. It is entirely unnecessary to particularize, it will suffice to say that it is far beneath the dignity of a gentleman or a club with the unstained record of the B. L. C. to deign to notice the vile slander. It is unworthy of the contempt of either. I can only refer any person who doubts to the unanimous and unsolicited report of the B.L.C. by the press of Peterborough. In explanation it was deemed advisable to reply through the Peterborough papers.

Yours respectfully,
ONE WHO WAS THERE.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

Particular Notice to the Public

REGARDING PUMPS!

Over seventeen years ago I commenced the Manufacture of Pumps in Peterborough, and I take this opportunity of thanking the inhabitants of the town and surrounding country for the very liberal patronage they have accorded me during that time. It has always been my aim to produce and introduce all good improvements in Pumps, and I now desire to call attention to my NEW which this cut represents. I believe it to be the BEST COMBINED PUMP IN THE WORLD. It differs from all others in having the sectional stock or head, with its many advantages, and its firm and durable means of holding the attachments. The intermittent or detachable packing is only used in actual forcing, and it is at all other times (say 95 per cent. of the service of the pump,) unfreezable and unwearable.

THE HOSE COUPLING

is very convenient and effective. It can be adjusted in a few seconds, thus quickly changing an ordinary service Pump into a Force Pump.

The great advantage to the purchaser is that he possesses in one Pump, the Easiest Lift Pump made, as well as the Best Force Pump, for the same price as is often asked for an ordinary Pump. It throws water easier and further than any other Pump manufactured. For deep wells it has no equal.

All orders promptly attended to, by mail or otherwise, and repairing done on the shortest notice.

We, the undersigned, having examined Mr. H. Owens' New Model Force Pump, take pleasure in stating that we consider it a great improvement on pumps formerly in use. In our opinion it is one of the best pumps ever introduced to the public, being quickly turned into service for fire protection. It is powerful, durable, convenient and easy to work, and gives us pleasure to recommend it as a first-class article in every way.

DISPLAY OF COIN.

The Port Hope Times has the following in reference to the numismatic collection of a Port Hope gentleman:—"One of the grandest displays of coins we have seen for some time is that shown by Mr. Joseph Hooper, in the window of Messrs. Clemes & Son, of this town. It was arranged by Mr. Hooper on the 24th, in memory of the 65th anniversary of Her Majesty's Birthday. Among the display may be found a perfect collection of the coinage of the reign of Victoria, including the rare and valuable gothic crown; also, a complete set of the coins of George III. A perfect set of Queen Anne silver; Queen Elizabeth shillings and Edward I. six-pence.

"A very rare coin is the "Thistle Merk" of James VI. of Scotland and I. of England—coin in use in Scotland at the conjunction of the two Houses. The coin of Alexander the Great, 336 B. C., is placed side by side with the modern Alexander—Napoleon Bonaparte. Among the rest is the coin of Nero, who persecuted Paul, and a perfect set of the coin of the Popes; the rebellion token, war cents; Lower Canadian sous, 127 varieties; U. S. coins, including coppers of 100 years, from 1783 to 1883; a complete set of the bills of the late Southern Confederacy; the first United States bill, printed in 1778; Roman coins out of catacombe 2,000 years old. We noticed a bill issued by Bowman & Co., of Bowmanville, eighty years ago. Mr. Hooper has a very large collection of the coins of nearly every country in the world. He values it as about $1,200. Among the collection he has other rarities, one of which is the first copy of the first newspaper published in Canada, the Quebec Gazette, which bears date 21st June, 1764."

THE SCHOOL BOOK QUESTION.

We learn from the Lindsay Post that Hon. Mr. Ross, the Minister of Education, attended the Victoria Teachers' Convention last week, and made a most favorable impression on the teachers, who soon saw that he is a live, progressive, practical educationist, familiar with the details of the profession, and anxious to solve pressing problems and deal in a practical, common sense way with existing difficulties. There was hearty applause when the Minister informed the Convention that in future there will be but one series of school books, and that the series is now in course of preparation. There is to be one small, simple grammar for Public Schools. An advanced grammar and an advanced geography will be provided for High Schools. These announcements are most gratifying. The fewer and the more simple the books for the junior pupils are the better it will be for them, while at the same time the expense to parents will be reduced.

GOOD ADVICE TO TEACHERS.

Here is some excellent advice taken from the California Teacher:—Attention is the corner stone of memory. So insist upon perfect attention. Make your exercises short. Study the clearest and simplest language in all definitions and statements. Have the pupils repeat in concert. Have one do it alone. Have them write it, that they may see as well as hear. Always use an object or thing when you can. If not, have a picture, a drawing or at least an outline. Select, vary, adapt, combine methods; study, review, repeat. Examine often and thoroughly, both by tongue and pen; and, above all, be sure that you yourself clearly understand, rightly know, and really care for your work, believe in your methods, and especially that you truly love your pupils. So will your lessons and yourself long and lovingly abide in in the memory of every pupil.

MIDGETS MARRIED.

The midgets, General Mite and Millie Edward, were married Thursday morning at Manchester, England, at the Registrar's office. They were carried up-stairs and placed on a table. Both were self-possessed, from the fact, no doubt, that they were both one, and that each possessed the other.

Amos Hodgin, Toronto writes: "I have been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the past six years. All the remedies I tried proved useless, until Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure was brought under my notice. I have used two bottles with the best results, and can with confidence recommend it to those afflicted in like manner."

CANNED GOODS.

During the last session of the Dominion Parliament, a number of amendments were made to the Weights and Measures Act of 1879, of which the following is a most important one:

"Every hermetically sealed package of canned goods, such as fruit, vegetables, fish and the like, shall have the weight of the contents of the tin, can, or package containing the same legibly marked on it; and any packer or other person found guilty of selling or exposing for sale such goods, in any such tin, can or package, on which the weight of the contents is not marked, or on which such weight is misrepresented, shall for the first offence incur a penalty of two dollars for each such tin, can or package, and for each subsequent offence a penalty of not less than three nor more than twenty dollars for each such tin, can or package.

"This section shall come into force on the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five."

A choice range of American Polka Dot Prints, goods rarely seen in Peterborough, now offering at Turnbull's.

A COUNTRY SCHOOL.

Pretty and pale and tired
Sits she in her stiff-backed chair,
While the blazing summer sun
Shines in on her soft brown hair;
And the little brook, whispers,
That she hears through the open door,
Mocks with its murmur and
Hard bench and dusty floor.

It seems an endless round—
Grammar and A, B, C;
The blackboard and the sums;
The stupid geography;
When from teacher to little Jim
Not one of them cares a straw
Whether "John" is in any "case,"
Or Kansas in Omaha.

For Jimmy's bare brown feet
Are aching to wade in the stream,
Where the trout to his luring bait
Shall leap with a quick, bright gleam;
And his teacher's blue eyes stray
To the flowers on the desk hard by,
Till her thoughts have followed her eyes
With a half unconscious sigh—

Her heart outruns the clock,
As she smells their faint, sweet scent;
But when have time and heart
Their measure in unison blent?
For time will haste or lag,
Like your shadow on the grass,
That lingers far behind,
Or flies when you fain would pass.

Have patience, restless Jim,
The stream and fish will wait;
And patience, tired blue eyes—
Down the winding road by the gate,
Under the willow shade,
Stands some one with fresher flowers;
So turn to your books again,
And keep love for the after hours.

JAMIE'S OLD WATCH.

On the street for an hour the other day a bruised and battered old dumb watch and chain lay in the gutter, where some foot had kicked it from the walk. If anyone gave the toy a second glance it was to realize that some child had lost or flung it away. The case was battered, the face scratched and scarred, and no boy would turn aside to pick it up.

By and by a curious procession came up from the depot. It consisted of a man and his wife, both past fifty years of age, and four children, the youngest of whom seemed to be about twelve. They were spread out on the walk and street, heads down and moving slowly, and there was a look of anxiety on every face. Some one asked the man if he had lost his wallet, and he replied:

"No, not that. Somewhere as we came along we lost our Jamie's watch."

"Very valuable?"

"Well, sir, not as far as money goes, but it's a relic of the dead, and, sir—and——"

"Oh, it was an old dumb watch, eh?"

"Yes, sir!"

"You'll find it in the gutter up by that post."

The entire family made a rush for the spot, and the watch had no sooner been lifted than the mother kissed it and the children shouted their exultation.

"It may seem foolish to you, sir," explained the husband, as he slyly wiped at something like a tear in the corner of his eye, "but it's a long twelve years since Jamie died. That watch was the first toy I ever bought him. We've been burned out of house and home twice since he died, and that's the only scrap or relic of the little one. You see, it's old and bent, but money couldn't buy it. Every time we look at it we can call up his blue eyes and chubby face, and the thought that he is waiting for us up there almost answers for a meal with mother."

"Are you going away?"

"Yes—across the ocean to our old home in England. We must leave the dead behind. Had we lost the watch I believe the mother would have broken her heart. So long as we have it the boy's face comes up to us. We can almost hear his laugh again, and it seems more like we had laid him away to sleep for an hour or two. Thank heaven that we have it! It was Jamie's, sir, and we are never to see his grave again."

CISTERNS IN THE AIR.

While a surveyor was resting at noon in a forest in Florida, one of the chainmen of his party exclaimed:

"I would give fifty cents a swallow for as much water as I could drink."

He expressed the sentiment of the others; for all were very thirsty, and there was not a spring or a stream of water anywhere in the vicinity. While the men were thus talking, the surveyor saw a crow put his bill into a cluster of broad, long leaves growing on the side of a tall cypress. The leaves were those of an air-plant. They were green and bulged out at the bottom, forming an inverted bell. The smaller end was held to the tree by roots grappling the bark. Feeding on the air and water that it catches and holds, the air-plant becomes a sort of cistern. The surveyor sprang to his feet with a laugh.

"Boys," he said, "that old crow is wiser than every one of us."

"How so?" they asked.

"Why, he knows that there are a hundred thousand water-tanks in this forest."

"Where?" they demanded, in amazement.

The surveyor cut an air-plant in two, and drained nearly a pint of pure cold water from it. The men did not suffer for water after that; for every tree in the forest had at least one air-plant, and almost every air-plant contained a drink of water.

A MATRIMONIAL ROMANCE.

A charming matrimonial romance was brought to an abrupt ending recently in one of the law courts of Rome. A young fellow of 26 years of age, of handsome and elegant appearance, and a young creature of 17 years of age, his wife, were charged with theft. He had been cook and she housemaid in an Irish gentleman's family. A robbery having occurred in this family, the young couple were suspected and imprisoned. When they were brought before the bench both burst into tears. As soon as they could be calmed the young man, as usual, was asked his name, and, covering his face, he replied that he was Count Riccardo Stroszi, a legitimate descendant of one of the most illustrious families in Italy. The wife, though not of so noble a birth, is also of a very good family. They had fallen in love with each other and run away, travelling about in disguise in order not to be discovered. At last, being penniless, they had entered the above family as servants, as already stated. Fortunately their innocence was proved as clear as day. The coincidence of their flight with the day of the robbery was thoroughly explained and they were set at liberty amid the cheers of the whole court. It is not stated whether the stern parents relented or not, or whither the young couple went.

Twenty-five Per Cent. Stronger than any Other Butter Color.

BURLINGTON, Vt., May 3rd, 1882.

I hereby certify that I have examined the Butter Color prepared by Wells, Richardson & Co., and that the same is free from alkali or any other substance injurious to health; that I have compared it with some of the best of the other Butter Colors in the market and find it to be more than twenty-five per cent. stronger in color than the best of the others.

I am satisfied that is not liable to become rancid, or in any way to injure the butter. I have examined it after two months free exposure to the air in a place liable to large changes of temperature, and found no trace of rancidity, while other kinds similarly exposed became rancid. A. H. SABIN, Prof. Chemistry, University of Vermont.

A COMMON POISONOUS HERB.

Spotted hemlock, conium maculatum, which caused serious illness to fifteen boys and death to several others at Harrisburg, Cy., the other day, is a biennial plant; cultivated for medicinal purposes. It grows from three to six feet high, bears large, deep green decompound leaves and small white flowers. The plant in summer has a peculiar fetid, mousy smell. Its active principle is a yellowish, oily fluid, volatile, of acid taste. It destroys the conducting power of the nerves in motion, producing muscular weakness and paralysis. In poisonous doses it causes death by paralysis of the muscles of respiration. It is not certain whether this was the state poison of the ancients, or the cicuta virosa, a much more virulent herb. The boys mistook the plant for wild parsnip.

Intemperance of every kind is followed by exhaustion of the vital forces—by nervous prostration and general debility, with restlessness of body and mind, the body incapable of exertion—the mind feeble, capricious, with no power of concentration, and often subject to despondency, and an indisposition to do battle with the world. To recover persons usually obtain from the excessive use of Whiskey and Tobacco, reform irregular habits and take, Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya, to restore tone to the stomach, vitality to the nerves and muscles, and energy to all the organs of the body. Sold at $1.00.

WHY HIS FATHER WAS LIKE JAY GOULD.

"Oh, pap, pap!" cried a precocious country boy as he watched the horses disporting themselves in the farm-yard, "do you know why you are like Jay Gould?"

"Look here, you young rascal, don't you insult your daddy."

"No, pap, this is a riddle. Do you give it up?"

"Yes, why am I?"

"Cause you've got lots of rolling stock."

"You're right, sonny; and now you can be like him too—go and water the stock."

Mrs. W. J. Lang Bethany, Ont., writes: I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to ulcers, causing entire deafness. I tried everthing that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort, I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored. I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts bruises, &c., in fact it is our family medicine.

HE ALWAYS PUTS SOMETHING AROUND HER.

"There, Frances, you've caught another cold, and I'll warrant you caught it when you were walking with Joe last night."

"Oh, no, mother! I couldn't have caught it then, 'cause we didn't go fast enough to catch anything; in fact, we just sat down and studied astronomy!"

"And did you have anything around you, my dear?"

"Oh, yes, indeed I did! Joe is always particular about that: he won't allow me to sit down anywhere in the evening air without something around me."

Do Not be Discouraged

even if you have tried many remedies for your Kidney disease or Liver complaint without success it is no reason why you should think your disorder incurable. The most intractable cases readily yield to the potent virtues of Kidney-Wort. It is a purely vegetable compound which acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels at the same time and thus cleanses the whole system. Don't wait, but get a package to-day and cure yourself.

A FEMININE SPAT.

Two high bred women—one from New York, the other from Boston—happened to meet in what is ironically called a "social" circle. Both were rich and accomplished, and both claimed to have ancestors. Boston, in the course of a little conversation between the two, alluded, in the most seemingly unpretentious way, to the trivial circumstance that her ancestors came over in the Mayflower. "Ah!" replied New York, with a little lift of her eyebrows expressive of innocent surprise, "I did not know before that the Mayflower brought over any steerage passengers."

No one Buys a "Pig in a Poke"—in other words, purchases on mere guesswork—who buys for his or her relief Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The fact is too well known to leave room for any peradventure that it is a sovereign curative for Indigestion, Costiveness, Impurities of Blood, Kidneys and Female troubles, and other infirmities.

HE ACTED JUST LIKE A DOCTOR.

Youngster to fond mother: "Papa has heart trouble, hasn't he?" F. M.: "Yes, my dear." Youngster: "That's why the doctor lays his head against his chest to listen, isn't it?" F. M.: "Yes, my child, but don't ask so many questions." Youngster: "Is papa a doctor, too?" F. M.: "No; why do you ask?" Youngster: "Because he had his head against nurse's chest last night, listening just like the doctor." Fond mother leaves the room for a brief conversation with the nurse.

THERE IS EVER A SONG.

There is ever a song somewhere, my dear;
There is ever a something sings always;
There's the song of the lark when the skies are clear,
And the song of the thrush when the skies are gray.
The sunshine showers scream the grain,
And the bluebird trills in the orchard tree;
And in and out, when the eaves drip rain,
The swallows are twittering ceaselessly.

There is a song somewhere, my dear;
Be the skies above dark or fair.
There is ever a song that our hearts may hear—
There is ever a song somewhere, my dear,
There is ever a song somewhere!

There is ever a song somewhere, my dear;
In the midnight black or the midday blue.
The robin pipes when the sun is here,
And the crickets chirrup the whole night through.
The buds may blow and the fruit may grow,
And the autumn leaves drop crisp and sere;
But whether the sun, or the rain, or the snow,
There is ever a song somewhere, my dear.

THREATENING THE CZAR.

THE EMPEROR ALEXANDER REMINDED OF HIS FATHER'S FATE.

The Nihilists have begun a new campaign of terrorism in the province of Moscow. They have placarded that province with hundreds of copies of a manifesto conveying a threat of death to the Czar. The proclamations are headed "The Executive Committee to the Emperor Alexander III." They have neither date nor signature, but each copy bears the usual seal of the Executive Committee. The proclamation reminds the Czar that he was warned in May, 1881, that, if he would avoid the fate which had befallen his father two months before, he must grant a constitutional form of government, and organize a Parliament composed of representatives of the people. During the three years that have followed this warning, the proclamation says, the revolutionists have suspended their agitation, but now that their warning has been so long unheeded, they inform the Czar that he must prepare to be dealt with as his father and removed, and as suddenly as his father and predecessor. Many students of both sexes have been arrested on suspicion of posting the placards, and although a thorough search has been made of the offices of all newspapers suspected of disloyalty, none of the peculiar type used in printing the placards has been discovered. The police believe it was melted up immediately after being used.

SEASONABLE HINTS.

The Sanitary Journal gives some "Seasonable hints" which are worthy of attention. In view of the near approach of the bathing season our contemporary advises:—"Be not too ready to get into cold water out of doors. Better to bathe at home until the weather and the water get decidedly warm. Go not into cold water when over-heated, nor when cooling off, when cold, nor remain in it too long at first. Fatal cramps are caused by such indiscretions. Dry off quickly and dress as soon as possible, on leaving the water." Referring to the too common habit of leaving off under-flannels on the first warm day, the Journal says that indiscretion "has been the prime cause of many a death. Better to be uncomfortably warm than fatally cold. It is a good plan to wear lighter flannels for a few weeks before leaving off altogether, although many do not. They might be left off at night, if so worn, at almost any time.

A trout has just died at Harwich, England, known to have been living in a well there during the past thirty years.

Sure Signs.

Distress before or after eating, loss of appetite, belching of wind, heart-burn, irregular action of the bowels, and nervous irritability are sure signs of Dyspepsia. The sure cure is Burdock Blood Bitters. Procure and read the testimonials.

A New Yorker has invented a little spring to attach to gas jets, so that when the light is blown out the gas will be shut off.

—The reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First; It is perfectly harmless. Second; It saves more than half the labour. Third; It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 49-52t

"Mamma, I want to see what is in that box." "There isn't anything in it Tom." "Oh, then I want to see what there isn't in it."

What The Figures Reveal.

G. M. Everest, of Forest, says that in one year one family purchased over fifty bottles of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for their own use and that of various friends. He has sold this invaluable throat and lung remedy over sixteen years, and its sales are steadily increasing. 23-2t

"Young man," said the landlord, "I always eat the cheese-rind." And the new boarder replied: "Just so; I am leaving this for you."

A Cure for Cuts, Sores, Etc.

The Finest healing compound under the sun is McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. There is no sore but will succumb to its wonderful healing properties. It is an invaluable dressing for scalds, festers, etc. Price twenty-five cents at J. McKee's Drug Store. 22-2t

Don't call a very large, strong, sinewy man a liar. If you are sure he is a liar, hire another man to break the news to him.

An Important Enquiry.

Are you threatened with Consumption? If so, the cause may be in the blood. Impure blood and Scrofula are close companions, and Scrofula and Consumption are still closer related. Burdock Blood Bitters cure all Scrofula by cleansing the blood and regulating the secretions. 23-2t

A Southbridge teacher received the following excuse recently: "Tomie stade home cus he hed no close and thats excuse enuff god nose."

Timely Aid.

A little daughter of the captain of the Steamer "Empress of India" was suddenly attacked with Croup at a friend's house in Toronto. No medical aid being handy, recourse was had to Hagyard's Yellow Oil; this popular household remedy afforded prompt relief and the little girl was as lively as ever in a few hours. 23-2t

"Let take a drink," said a drunken man, leaning up against a lamp-post. "I cannot accept your prop-position," replied the party addressed.

First Belated Sportsman—"Is that the sun or the moon rising over the hill?" Second B. S. (perplexed)—"Really, can't say. I am a stranger hereabouts."

Narrow Chance of Escape.

A person exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate has little chance of escaping from colds, sore throat, rheumatism, frost bites, and other troubles incident to change of temperature, to say nothing of accidents and emergencies. The best external and internal ready remedy is Hagyard's Yellow Oil. 23-2t

Large development of the commercial sense:—"Did not the sons of Jacob commit a heinous sin when they sold their brother Joseph?" asked a Sunday school teacher of the son of a merchant. "Yes, sir." "What sin was it they committed?" "They sold him too cheap.

An eccentric old bachelor who died lately at Easton, Pa., left $50,000 for the erection of a monument over his grave; also $10,000 for the maintenance of a brass band to bear his name, and at each anniversary of his death to play a dirge at his grave.

What It Has Done.

MRS. GEORGE SIMPSON, Toronto, says: "I have suffered severely with corns, and was unable to get relief from treatment of any kind until I was recommended to try Holloway's Corn Cure. After applying it for a few days I was enabled to remove the corn, root and branch—no pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it. I can heartly recommend it to all suffering from corns."

"And 'ow about the performers for my lady's concert Wednesday next?" "Oh, it's all right, Sir Georgius! I've got you six first violins, four second violins, and ——" "Second violins be hanged! I'll have none but first fiddles performing in my 'ouse!"

A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why, of course by using PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure, safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a host of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the genuine Putnam's Extractor or N. C. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

"My dear," said Mr. Johnsbury, "I hope you didn't feel bad when I called you 'baggage' this morning. I didn't mean it, you know." "Oh, I don't care," replied Mrs. J., "so long as I am treated like any other baggage." "I don't understand, my dear." "Why, I want to be checked." The check was forthcoming. This accounts for Mrs. Johnsbury's new black silk.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land
Address,
The Culverwell Medical Co.,
41 Ann St., New York
Post Office Box 450. 1-52ins

CONFIDENTIAL.

Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do not succeed. The JERUBEBINE COMBINATOIN REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.
Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $2 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.
M. FINDLAY & CO. Sole Agent.

THERE IS EVER A SONG.

There is ever a song somewhere, my dear;
There is ever a something sings always:
There's the song of the lark when the skies are clear,
And the song of the thrush when the skies are gray.
The sunshine showers scream the grain,
And the bluebird trills in the orchard tree;
And in and out, when the eaves drip rain,
The swallows are twittering ceaselessly.

There is a song somewhere, my dear;
Be the skies above dark or fair,
There is ever a song that our hearts may hear—
There is ever a song somewhere, my dear,
There is ever a song somewhere!

There is ever a song somewhere, my dear;
In the midnight black or the midday blue,
The robin pipes when the sun is here,
And the crickets chirrup the whole night through.
The buds may blow and the fruit may grow,
And the autumn leaves drop crisp and sere;
But whether the sun, or the rain, or the snow,
There is ever a song somewhere, my dear.

THREATENING THE CZAR.

THE EMPEROR ALEXANDER REMINDED OF HIS FATHER'S FATE.

The Nihilists have begun a new campaign of terrorism in the province of Moscow. They have placarded that province with hundreds of copies of a manifesto conveying a threat of death to the Czar. The proclamations are headed "The Executive Committee to the Emperor Alexander III." They have neither date nor signature, but each copy bears the usual seal of the Executive Committee. The proclammation reminds the Czar that he was warned in May, 1881, that, if he would avoid the fate which had befallen his father two months before, he must grant a constitutional form of government, and organise a Parliament composed of representatives of the people. During the three years that have followed this warning, the proclamation says, the revolutionists have suspended their agitation, but now that their warning has been so long unheeded, they inform the Czar that he must prepare to be dealt with as his father and removed, and as suddenly as his father and predecessor. Many students of both sexes have been arrested on suspicion of posting the placards, and although a thorough search has been made of the offices of all newspapers suspected of disloyalty, none of the peculiar type used in printing the placards has been discovered. The police believe it was melted up immediately after being used.

HOLD ON, BOY.

Hold on to your tongue when you are just ready to swear, lie, or speak harshly, or use any improper word.

Hold on to your hand when you are about to pinch, strike, steal or do any improper act.

Hold on to your feet when you are on the point of kicking, running away from study, or pursuing the path of error, shame or crime.

Hold on to your temper when you are angry, excited or imposed upon, or others are angry with you.

Hold on to your heart when evil associates seek your company and invite you to join in their games, mirth and revelry.

Hold on to your good name at all times, for it is of more value than gold, high position or fashionable attire.

Hold on to truth, for it will serve you well and do through all times.

Hold on to virtue. It is above all price to you under all circumstances.

Hold on to your good character, for it is and ever will be your best wealth.

SEASONABLE HINTS.

The Sanitary Journal gives some "Seasonable hints" which are worthy of attention. In view of the near approach of the bathing season our contemporary advises:—"Be not too ready to get into cold water out of doors. Better to bathe at home until the weather and the water get decidedly warm. Go not into cold water when over-heated, nor when cooling off, when cold, nor remain in it too long at first. Fatal cramps are caused by such indiscretions. Dry off quickly and dress as soon as possible, on leaving the water." Referring to the too common habit of leaving off under-flannels on the first warm day, the Journal says that indiscretion "has been the prime cause of many a death. Better to be uncomfortably warm than fatally cold. It is a good plan to wear lighter flannels for a few weeks before leaving off altogether, although many do not. They might be left off at night, if so worn, at almost any time.

Sure Signs.

—The reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First; It is perfectly harmless. Second; It saves more than half the labour. What The Figures Reveal.

G. M, Everest, of Forest, says that in one year one family purchased over fifty bottles of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for their own use and that of various friends. He has sold this invaluable throat and lung remedy over sixteen years, and its sales are steadily increasing. 23-2t

An Important Enquiry.

Are you threatened with Consumption? If so, the cause may be in the blood. Impure blood and Scrofula are close companions, and Scrofula and Consumption are still closer related. Burdock Blood Bitters cure all Scrofula by cleansing the blood and regulating the secretions. 23-2t

A Southbridge teacher received the following excuse recently: "Tomie stade home cuz he hed no close and thats excus enuff god nose."

Timely Aid.

A little daughter of the captain of the Steamer "Empress of India" was suddenly attacked with Croup at a friend's house in Toronto. No medical aid being handy, recourse was had to Hagyard's Yellow Oil; this popular household remedy afforded prompt relief and the little girl was as lively as ever in a few hours. 23-2t

First Belated Sportsman—"Is that the sun or the moon rising over the hill?" Second B. S. (perplexed)—"Really, can't say. I am a stranger hereabouts."

Narrow Chance of Escape.

A person exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate has little chance of escaping from colds, sore throat, rheumatism, frost bites, and other troubles incident to change of temperature, to say nothing of accidents and emergencies. The best external and internal ready remedy is Hagyard's Yellow Oil. 23-2t

An eccentric old bachelor who died lately at Easton, Pa., left $50,000 for the erection of a monument over his grave; also $10,000 for the maintenance of a brass band to bear his name, and at each anniversary of his death to play a dirge at his grave.

What It Has Done.

MRS. GEORGE SIMPSON, Toronto, says: "I have suffered severely with corns, and was unable to get relief from treatment of any kind until I was recommended to try Holloway's Corn Cure. After applying it for a few days I was enabled to remove the corn, root and branch—no pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it. I can heartily recommend it to all suffering from corns."

"And 'ow about the performers for my lady's concert Wednesday next?" "Oh, it's all right, Sir Georgius! I've got you six first violins, four second violins, and ——" "Second violins be hanged! I'll have none but first fiddles performing in my 'ouse!"

A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why, of course by using PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure, safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a host of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the genuine Putnam's Extractor or N. C. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

"My dear," said Mr. Johnsbury, "I hope you didn't feel bad when I called you 'baggage' this morning. I didn't mean it, you know." "Oh, I don't care," replied Mrs. J., "so long as I am treated like any other baggage." "I don't understand, my dear." "Why, I want to be checked." The check was forthcoming. This accounts for Mrs. Johnsbury's new black silk.

MANHOOD
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6p. or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land

CONFIDENTIAL.
Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUBEBIN COMBINATOIN REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.
Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $2 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.
M. FINDLAY & CO. Sole Agent.

Purchase of Prime Cattle.

On Monday Mr. Doherty weighed on the market scales twenty-five head of prime stock, fed on Dr. Kincaid's farm, and purchased by Mr. James Howden.

Hold Your Orders.

We understand that a large stock of furniture, will be opened out at the skating rink, about the middle of May. Persons contemplating purchasing will do well to postpone buying till that time, as the stock to be then offered will be new, fashionable, and wall-made, and great bargains may expected.

Money.

Mr. John A Bennett, of Otonabee, is prepared to make loans on real estate and to purchase mortgages. Loans will be made at the lowest rates of interest, payable when the borrower deems the most convenient time, the principal, being payable at such times as may be agreed upon. Expenses are very light. 12-tf

A Good Opinion of It.

Speaking of the electric light in Peterborough the Lindsay Post says:—

"The light is white, of great brilliancy and of extensive power of illumination. Those portions of the streets within the radius of the lights were as bright as day, and when by municipal enactment the gas lamps are replaced by the electric light business men will be laggards in closing up their stores. The contrast between the new illumination and the present brand of gas furnished by the local gas company was hard upon the eyes, and it is said that when the employees of the company went to turn off the gas on the side streets they had to take a lantern with them in order to find the lamps.

The "Parish Church Work."

The Orillia Packet contains the following well-deserved commendatory paragraph, respecting this valuable church monthly:—"The Ashburnham Parish Church Work for April is a temperance number, and contains an extract of the sermon preached by the Incumbent on the first Sunday in Lent, and many particulars regarding the local branches of the C. E. T. S. which numbered 213 members in March, and the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw informs us that more have since joined." This serial is only one isolated outcome of the energy and enthusiasm, which the Incumbent of St. Lukes infuses into every department of Church work.

Ocular Demonstration.

On Wednesday the members of the Street and Bridge Committee drove through the town to see with their own eyes, the street improvements wanted this season. The result of their tour is embodied in the report to be found in the Council proceedings. The cost of the improvements recommended is only a matter of guess work, the opinion of the members of the committee, ranging from $2,000 to $8,000. In other towns an accurate survey is made and the length of new walks, with the cost per rod is put down in the report, and thus there is no guess work, and the council knows exactly what it is spending on street improvements.

Fire Protection.

On Monday Messrs. Wm. Tateley, Montreal, and James Hinde, Liverpool, agents of the Royal Insurance Company, Liverpool, were in town to look into the efficiency of our fire protection service. For their accommodation an exhibition of the working of the water works was made. At the request of the mayor the fire brigade turned out and in five minutes one stream was playing from the hydrants and in seven minutes three branches were throwing water. Though no extra pressure was put on the mains—fine streams were well thrown and the visitors pronounced the test highly satisfactory. They were equally pleased with their visit to and inspection of the Fire Hall and the apparatus therein.

Remarkable Circumstance.

It is a circumstance to be remarked that of the witnesses in the well-known suit, Township of Monaghan vs. Dobbin, six have died since the Fall Assizes in 1882.

Farmers and Horse-Owners, Attention.

The American Horse Powder has proved its just claim to a place in the front rank of Condition Powders. As a feed and general medicine for Horses and Cattle its merits are unexcelled. For sale at the City Pharmacy, George street, Peterborough. J. D. TULLY, Chemist and Druggist. 16-tf

A Serious Tumble.

On Saturday a lad named Bogan, of Ashburnham, was disporting in a tree he had climbed, whose branches overhung the water. By some mishap he fell into the water, which was shallow, but his head struck a stone. A terrible scalp wound was inflicted on the back of his head. He received other painful wounds. Dr. Pigeon furnished surgical assistance.

Mr. Smith's Solid Sense.

The last issue of the Bobcaygeon Independent contains the following graceful and touching allusion to this town, for which our thanks are hereby duly tendered:—"Peterborough is the spot where you get it. Peterborough, in the language of the stable, has taken the bit in her mouth, and is cutting out her own pace, regardless of consequences. The electric light company is a brilliant success, and the street car company is coming on. It is a great town, is Peterborough."

Hunstmore Pic-Nic.

The annual grand midway pic-nic under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church, Ennismore, will be held in the beautiful grove, Chemong Lake Park Grounds, on Thursday, June 19th. The management of the affair will be in the hands of Rev. Father Keilty, and this fact, together with the great success of past pic-nics, guarantees a most enjoyable affair. There will be dancing, sports and games, and the usual amusements. Whoever attends will be sure of a grand day's pleasure.

Baseball.

A second baseball club consisting of 37 members, all employes of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, has been organized, with the following staff of officers:—

HONORARY PRESIDENT—And. McFarlane.
PRESIDENT—Richard Reeves.
VICE-PRESIDENT—Thomas Doris.
CAPTAIN—Wm. Watson.
SECRETARY—Wm. McDowell.
TREASURER—Wm. Hickey.

The organization of the club, is a credit both to the establishment that can supply material for so large a club, and to the sporting enterprise of the employes themselves.

Reduction of Wages.

Mr. A. White, Traffic Manager of the Midland Division of the G. T. R. has issued the following circular:—

"Owing to the very serious falling off in traffic receipts it has been found necessary to make a reduction of five per cent. upon the wages paid for a period of six months. This is a very unpleasant announcement to have to make, but there is no help for it, and as the employes of the main line and Great Western division have accepted the same we feel sure the employes of the Midland division will show an equal willingness to assist the company out of its present difficulties. The rating will not be altered from the present standing, but for six months, commencing May 1st, a reduction of five per cent. will be made on the pay-roll."

We understand that the men have accepted the reduction quietly and with as good grace as possible under the circumstances.

A Splendid Chance.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that Mr. D. W Dumble offers for sale a number of Building Lots in various parts of the town on ten years credit. No money down, interest only to be paid for first five years, and thereafter yearly instalments with the right to pay at any time as may suit the convenience of the purchaser. This offer enables a poor man to use his money in erecting a building, and so he gets rid of rent, and secures a home for himself. Building will be cheap this year and no doubt many will take advantage of this very liberal offer. Besides lots in town, Mr. Dumble offers a number of lots in Ashburnham, and several park lots on the same terms. Call at his office and see plans, &c. 12-tf

The Best in the Dominion.

We are pleased to make known the enterprise of Mr. W. M. Fair of Cavan, as shown in his purchase of "John Anderson," the celebrated Clydesdale colt, from Messrs. John Miller & Sons, Markham. "John Anderson" is a pure bred animal and was purchased in the old country at a fabulous price; he is acknowledged by good judges to be the best horse of his age in Canada. His sire and dam have never been beaten at an exhibition. His studbook record shows that the best blood of his breed courses through his veins. "John Anderson" will stand for mares at his owners' stables. Farmers should hasten to avail themselves of the opportunity which Mr. Fair's great enterprise has placed within their reach, for improving their stock. Mr. Fair should be encouraged as he is a public benefactor in this respect.

Summer Amusement.

During the winter the local skating rink is enthusiastically patronized, and the use of the building might be kept up during the summer by the introduction of roller skating. Wherever this amusement has been introduced it has become exceedingly popular. This week a rink was opened in Guelph, and the Brantford Expositor thus alludes to the amusement which has been introduced there:—

"The opening of the Roller Skating Rink on Friday evening last was an innovation which Brantford hardly expected, but now that the recreation was laid at our door, our young people took very kindly to it, and even a Methodist minister was seen striving with difficulty to maintain his equilibrium and clerical dignity. Some sixty or seventy went through the awkward and funny formality of learning, or as an old sailor would express it, "getting his sea legs," and at first there was a succession of thumps as the beginners, left to their own destruction, would go down. The art seems to be very easily acquired, however, and an expert gave an exhibition, showing what can be done on these skates."

While the rink is lying idle, the matter is worth considering. There seems to be no disposition to convert the rink into swimming baths, which could be easily and cheaply done, and at the same time confer a great boon on our dusty population in the simmering heat of the torrid spell, and now is the chance for some enterprising individual to inaugurate the pastime of roller skating.

The Driving Park.

This desirable sporting institution, is likely to be an accomplished fact. Mr. M. Connors has the contract for grading the track and is at work.

Fire.

On Tuesday at one o'clock the fire alarm rang to call out the brigade to extinguish a fire that had broken out in the wooden lean-to in rear of Landy's tannery, Brock street. The brigade was promptly on hand and the fire was put out after doing only a slight damage.

Number of Tellers.

On Thursday ten men, engaged by Mr. T. Cavanagh, started for Midland, about a dozen for Rat Portage to work for a lumbering firm at that place. The same day about 100 men engaged to work on Lake Superior section of the C. P. Railway, left town.

Five Score and Four.

Last Monday Mr. Daniel Sheehan, the Douro centennarian and four to carry, was in town looking after his pension as a retired schoolmaster. Mr. Sheehan has lived a generation or thirty-four years beyond the limit laid down by the Psalmist, and still looks as young as he did twenty years ago.

Five Years Safety.

William Donnelly a nine-year old desperado, who has been giving his friends and business men trouble by his petty fraudulent pratices, was charged at the police court on Monday with the theft of money—$2.50. He was adjudged guilty and sentenced to five years in the Reformatory, at Penetang.

Accident.

Mr. Charles Pearson of Smith, while driving in a buggy on Aylmer street on Monday, had the misfortune to have the buggy overturned, which resulted in severe injuries, his brain having received a severe shock by his head coming violently in contact with the ground in his fall. Dr. Clark attended to his injuries.

Off to the Central.

On Tuesday Central Prison bailiff, English, removed Wilford and Boyd to the Central Prison. Both serve six months terms, the former for vagrancy and the latter for larceny of Mr. Enos Dunsford's horse, buggy, etc. The lad Donnelly, for larceny was at the same time taken en route to Penetanguishene Reformatory where he will spend five years,—one year for the larceny and four for purposes of moral reform.

T. V. C.

The work of getting out the stone necessary for the locks at Burleigh Falls is being well carried on. The stone is being taken from the extreme summit of a high, wood-covered hill directly opposite and ten minutes walk from the Burleigh Falls Hotel. This lofty hill is part of the unbroken chain that extends from Stony Lake to Deer Bay. The stone for the lock is of a very superior quality, being of a tough and durable nature. An instructive and amusing hour can be spent by any one, who braves the toil of a climb up the steep hill side, watching the workmen, some forty odd, quarrying and shaping the immense blocks of stone. In answer to our query "How do they propose getting the blocks down? We were told that the intention is to lower them on cars over a steel track by steam power and to run the cars aboard a steam-scow, which will convey them to their final resting place at the "Big Shoot."

Among the Places of Interest.

Conspicuous among the places of interest which the rising city of Peterborough can boast of is the "Golden Lion" Dry Goods Store. Situated in the centre and on the best side of George steet, and noted for formidably prominent signs, strangers can hardly fail to have their attention drawn to this the finest and most eligible business stand in the "Plate Glass City." It is within easy access to the principal hotels, banks and Post Office, and only one block away from the Market Square. There is something business-like about the place which cannot fail to leave an impression on passers by and tempt customers inside. With large heavy plate glass show windows, and elegant goods to adorn them, and a massive golden lion sign over the door, Messrs. FAIR, VANEVERY & Co., are doubtless among the best known dry goods merchants in the Midland district. —Notes from a Traveller.

May Cheese.

At the fortnightly meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board, held in the Board rooms on Tuesday afternoon, there were offered over 1,300 boxes of cheese, principally the last half of May. Sixteen factories were represented—as follows:

Factories.	Boxes.
Downeyville	109
Star	87
North Ops	55
South Ops (say)	40
South Douro	68
Bobcaygeon	80
Myrtle	60
Keene	148
Warminster	150
South Dummer	135
Trewerne	165
Selwyn	74
Lily Lake	30
Normanhurst	58
Glengow	57

Of this, the cheese made in Peterborough county factories was purchased by Warrington, of Belleville, for 9¾ cents. Dundas & Flavelle, Lindsay, secured the remainder, excepting South Dummer, which refused to sell, at 9½. These figures, considering the flat condition of the cheese market, are considered very fair, and correspond closely with the latest advices from foreign markets. Messrs. Warren Taylor and J. M. Drummond conducted the sales, and about thirty-five persons interested in cheese were present. The buyers strongly advised makers to color well or leave the cheese white, as there was no market for "straw color" cheese.

COUNTY COURT

And General Sessions of the Peace.

The June session of the County Court began on Tuesday, His Honor Judge Dean, of Lindsay, presiding. His Honor Judge Dennistoun having been prevented by family affliction, the sudden death of his son, from taking the Court.

The docket comprised nine civil cases and two criminal—one larceny, the other threatening and resistance of constable.

THE BAR

was represented by C. A. Weller, County Crown Attorney, R. B. Edwards, D. W. Dumble, C. W. Sawers, W. A. Stratton, James Henry, A. P. Poussette, R. E. Wood, G. M. Roger, R. H. D. Hall, J. O'Meara and W. H. Biggar, Belleville.

The following gentlemen composed the

GRAND JURY.

Jas. McKibbin, Foreman.

V. Best,	Samuel Clysdale,
Wm. Corneil,	Paul Costello,
D. F. Crowley,	Wm. Cox, sr.,
H. Carveth,	A. Douglass,
Patrick Doherty,	Jas. Davidson,
Geo. Emon,	Albert Fife,
Sylvester Fife,	Geo. Johnson,
M. J. Johnson,	M. Landerkin,
W. Lancaster,	Wm. Lane,
J. L. Medill,	Jos. Sawdye,
R. Stockdale	C. Wynn,
	C. Young.

His Honor addressed the Grand Jury briefly. He referred in feeling terms to his regret at the occasion that led to his occupancy of the bench to-day. The jury had doubtless heard of the death of the son of his brother, Judge Dennistoun, who would receive the sympathy of the jury, as well as of the whole community where the learned judge was so widely and favorably known. His Honor was glad that there was so little for the grand jury to do—though there was more than this county usually presents. He alluded to the cases before the Court, defining assault, resistance of a constable and larceny. He concluded his address by paying a high compliment to the grand jury—an ancient and venerable body, and the prototype of the modern press—and one that he should be sorry to see done away with.

CIVIL SIDE.

TAYLOR vs. PETERBOROUGH PULP COMPANY.—An action brought by J. & J. Taylor, Toronto, to recover possession of a safe claimed by defendants. The plaintiffs sold a safe on the instalment plan to one Richardson, who resold it to Usborne & Co., builders of the Pulp Works. The Sheriff subsequently sold the safe under execution against Usborne & Co. to Wm. Davidson, who sold it to the Dickson Estate, which sold it to the present Company, the defendants. Plaintiffs claim that the title never passed out of them. Judgment reserved. C. W. Sawers for plaintiffs; Poussette & Roger for defendants.

DELINE vs. RUTHERFORD.—An action of account. Verdict for plaintiff and $148. C. W. Sawers for plaintiff; R. E. Wood for defendant.

CRIMINAL SIDE.

QUEEN vs. RITCHIE.—Alex. Ritchie, of Galway, received his trial for resisting a constable in the discharge of his duty, and was found guilty.

QUEEN vs. JOHN CRONIN.—Larceny, true bill.

[The Court is in session as we go to press.]

There is nothing that ladies are so particular about as the fit of their Mantle or Dolman. These leaving their orders at Turnbull's are sure to be suited. The only trouble being this season to fill up stock and getting out orders.

Board of Education.

There was no meeting of the Board on Tuesday evening—from lack of a quorum—only two members having been present when the clock struck eight.

Double Scull "Saw-off."

The deciding heat in the double scull race, postponed from Monday May 26th was rowed on last Friday evening. The crews, F. G. Cox and W. Rutherford and J. Fanning and W. Kent, rowed a close race throughout, the former slightly leading after the turn of the buoys, but Fanning and Kent stayed well and won by about a length. Messrs. J. McClelland and William Ross acted as judges.

Excursion to Town.

On Wednesday an excursion party under the auspices of the Orange body came to town by the Midland Railway. The excursionists, who numbered about 250, came from along the line, starting at Beaverton. They spent the afternoon in looking at the sights in this live borough. There was a sensible addition to the number of pretty girls and handsome women seen on George street of an afternoon.

The Cemetery Crescent.

A good deal of surprise is reasonably shown that action is not taken to arrest the wearing away of the banks along the lake drive to the Little Lake Cemetery. The town fathers seem to have forgotten the pithy bit of wisdom they struggled over in their youthful days, in their copy books, "A stitch in time saves nine." The banks are wearing away so rapidly that if measures to arrest their detrition are not soon taken a new roadway will have to be bought. The Cemetery Company is to a great extent interested, and if they would take some action the Council would meet them half way, at least. A comparatively trifling amount of money judiciously spent would make the Cemetery Crescent a drive corresponding in beauty to the commendable neatness and picturesqness of the Cemetery grounds.

Sensitive Creatures.

On Tuesday evening a bevy of young ladies was overheard making gushy complaints of the electric light. The burlen of their wail was that the young men that congregate on George street, near Dolan's corner, where there are four lights within a narrow area, stare at them so hard when they (the young ladies) pass. If the truth were known, the real ground of objection is not that they dislike being admired, but that the electric light is very trying to the complexion, giving it a sort of "after the ball" tinge, and developing pearl powder in a startling manner. On this account the ladies will be on terms of the deadliest hostility to the artificial daylight, and with reason. It is noticed that a party of men, viewed under the electric light, look very much like the breaking up of a poker party at day break, when the struggling dawn gives them a weird, washed-out appearance. It is possible to offensively cast light, as well as reflections, on a lady's complexion.

THE DEATH-DEALING FROG.

Brakesman Clegg Caught, Crushed and Killed.

On Wednesday morning a fatal accident happened at the Midland Station, at the switch just south of Charlottee street crossing, by which John Clegg, brakesman, lost his life. He was assisting at shunting cars, James Mims being driver of the shunting engine. As near as can be learned, the accident happened in this wise: One car was to be detached and sent on to a siding. Brakesman Clegg had cut off the car, which, by the impulse, was sent on to the siding. The train then backed down to go on the main line. In the meantime poor Clegg, who had dropped the coupling pin at the point where he had cut off the car, ran and picked it up. In moving backward his right foot caught in the switch frog till the train, backing down, caught him. The rear truck of a platform car passed over his ankle and between his legs and then over the groin and lower part of the abdomen. The injured young man was at once picked up and carried to his boarding house, Mrs. Stutt's, Charlotte street. Dr. King was called in, but all hope of human aid was vain. Mr. Clegg's vital forces never rallied from the moment of the accident, and he died from the shock in about an hour and a half after its occurrence. He was

AND HELD HIM THERE

PERFECTLY CONSCIOUS

and realized his position. This remark to driver Mims entirely exonerates the latter from the slightest blame in connection with the accident:—"It's a bad job, Jimmy, but nobody was to blame." The last hours of the deceased were remarkable for the touching solicitude felt respecting his mother—"O, if I could only see mother, I could die." His mother, who lives in Port Hope, arrived by the mid-day train, about three hours after his death. She was literally crazed with grief. Her tearless agony had so prostrated her that she had to have medical attention before she was taken to the death chamber. John Clegg was a young man aged between 22 and 25 years. He was a most of the railway, a favorite with all his fellows, and his death leaves no more trusty or attentive servant in the employ of the Company. Deceased was born in South Monaghan, at or near Centreville. His father is dead, but his mother, two brothers and one sister survive him. Deceased was a member of the Brakeman's Benevolent Union, and his mother will be a beneficiary of the funds of the association to the extent of about $1,000.

STEADY, RELIABLE AND VALUABLE EMPLOYE

The Late R. H. Dennistoun.

The unexpected intelligence that Mr. R. H. Dennistoun, barrister, son of Judge Dennistoun, died on Monday, in a railway carriage, in Kansas saddened the entire community. He was returning from Lower California, where he had gone for his health. Deceased was a gentlemen, whose fine natural courtesy and unfailing affability endeared him to all who met him. His legal acquirements, of no ordinary nature, gave him a prominent rank in his profession.

Brodie's Woolen Mills.

Mr. Brodie is perpetually improving. His latest departure is the erection of a fire proof building for his picker, a machine which Insurance companies have a particular spite against; at least they make an excuse of the presence of a picker among other machinery in a woolen mill, to "tuck on" the rate. Mr. Brodie's picker building will be placed between the dye house and the main building and will be as nearly fireproof as Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, who has charge of its construction, can make it. The mills are receiving new machinery besides. Within a few days two carloads have been received from England, and one carload from Goldie & McCullough, Galt.

1st.—It avoids the weakening effect of paying too large profits in the early years of the policy, and the consequent inability to do justice, as the policy becomes older.

2nd.—It strengthens the position of the Association, and consequently the security to the policy-holders.

3rd.—It secures an increase in profits from year to year, and equitable share to each kind of policy.

4th.—It does away with the objection, "that endowment and limited payment policies are taxed for the special benefit of ordinary life policies."

MISS JENKINS

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.

Interesting Letter From a Peterborough Lady.

DEAR MR. EDITOR,—Dr. Joseph Parker in a late address delivered to the Congregational Union of England and Wales, in the City Temple, said, "My distinct contention is that editors are preachers, the broadsheet is a pulpit on the wing, articles are sermons, and reviews are spiritual monitors." I liked the thoughtsee much in its wide suggestiveness of editorial power that I concluded to test its practical bearing upon a subject in which I am greatly interested. May I therefore under the above heading, introduce to your numerous readers this wonderful little man and his wonderfully great work.

DR. BARNARDO.

Short, stout, energetic in movemovement, rapid and graceful in speech, with massive head, clear fresh complexion, sweet winning smile and keen dark eyes which nothing can escape though he does wear spectacles, is a brief summary of the outer man. Of the inner, his abundant, unwearied and marvellously successful efforts on behalf of England's orphan, neglected and destitute children, reveal the sympathetic heart, clear head and untiring devotion to this work of rescue, which characterize the man. To understand his power you should see him as I did, surrounded by sixteen hundred East London waifs and strays, over whom half-a-dozen policemen had next to no control; the moment he appeared on the platform there arose such a succession of cheers that one felt stunned with the noise, but his kindly "My lads, I thank you for that welcome, now let me have silence," reduced the roaring, wriggling mass to a state of quietude almost incredible. Dr. Barnardo is their friend—kind, but also shrewd and firm, and so they both trust and respect him. Last winter when he came down to the Ilford Homes to give these six hundred girls their Christmas treat, another phase of his character appeared, as he joined with the utmost heartiness in the biggest, most enjoyable game of blind-man's-buff I ever witnessed, and wound it all up so happily by saying, "now, my children, we have played, let us also pray together." The man is unique in his capabilities and chosen of God for a work, the extent and influence of which no reed of ours can measure.

HIS HOMES.

As to the Homes now in thorough working order. I believe there are about twenty under his care and management; and I heard him say a day or two ago the very handsome gift of his generous friends Mr. and Mrs. Cox, of Peterborough, added another to the distinct branches of the institution. In the Boy's Home at Stepney Causeway, the little fellows learn trades of all sorts, and turn out capital work I am told. The Labour House leads from another brigade into which are admitted boys too old for Stepney, but who are equally in need of a helping hand—young fellows gradually drifting, if they have not already been carried far down the awful stream of iniquity just because they have never had a chance to learn how to earn an honest living. What a blessing to some lads this Home, with its opportunity of acquiring good trades, and its openings to future employment at fair wages, cannot be estimated. The Dr. hopes soon to have a training ship which will take boys who are eager for sea-faring life and fit them for useful service in that line. Another Home, I forget now just where, has very lately been established and has already about seventy little lads in training for farmers, many of whom will in all probability be brought out to try their vigorous young muscle at farm labour in our own fair Dominion.

THE GIRLS' HOMES.

In regard to the Homes for wee girl-waifs, this at Ilford is the principle, the purpose of the establishment at Church House being simply to give a few months training to young girls who can be induced to give up factory life and prepare for respectable service. The "Village Home" consists of the Governor's house, Mossford Lodge, (the home of lady workers and teachers, the School, Steam Laundry, Infirmary, Store-house, Gardener's dwelling, and thirty cottages in an oblong square, each of which accommodates a "Mother" and twenty girls. The system is a capital one, and admirably adapted to secure the object at which Dr. Barnardo aims, viz., to give the children as far as possible the helpful influence of genial home life under the care of a wisely affectionate mother, and then to afford them such an education and such thorough training in all branches of household duty and needlework as will prepare them for useful and respectable lives either in their own land or across the waters.

STRIKING AT THE ROOT.

In his aim for all these children Dr. Barnardo is striking grand blows at the very tap root of the great question, "What is to be done with the outcast population of London?" That all will not turn out well is a foregone conclusion, but that thousands thus rescued will, by the blessing of God, become good and useful men and women, may be confidently expected. The work is a glorious one, and commends itself by the very force of its Christ-like purpose to the hearts of those who grieve over the world's great misery and rejoice with the angels over every effort made for the uplifting of the race.

In conclusion I ask the prayerful interest and practical sympathy of the dear Peterborough friends for the Home now being established among them, feeling sure that in helping to furnish the house and sustain the work both gifts and giver will be approved of Him who said, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto Me."

MILLIE SANDERSON.

There is nothing that ladies say so particular about as the fit of their Mantle or Dolman. Those leaving their orders at Turnbull's are sure to be suited. The only trouble being this season to fill up stock and getting out orders.

A FEW DROPS OF RAIN.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I should like, through your columns, to inquire into the propriety of the dismissal of the pupils of a school of the standing of the Collegiate Institute, on account of the shower of rain such as we had on Monday? Only two of the teachers, I am informed, returned to their duties in the afternoon. Is this justice to the pupils? Is it justice to the ratepayers, that teachers, not content with eight or ten week's holidays in the course of the year, should take an extra holiday on every possible excusable occasion? For their seems to be an inclination on the part of the teachers to put in as much idle time as possible. Now in the matter of holidays, the High School teachers, I believe, get nearer ten than eight weeks, owing to the suggestion to the pupils (who seldom need urging when a holiday is concerned) by the teachers, that in view of the examinations, they (the pupils) would gain more by studying at home the last ten days of the term. If this be the case, perhaps the pupils might do better by staying at home during the whole of the term, and we might save the $5000 a year the Institute costs us. It seems to me that if teachers were more anxious to earn their salaries, and give their full legal time to the work, instead of wrangling, back-biting, squabbling among themselves, and tale-bearing, the school would be in a more efficient state. I should also like to inquire if a subordinate teacher has the power to suspend a pupil without reporting the same to the Principal, so that the latter might report it to the Board for decision.

I make these few inquiries because there are things in our Collegiate Institute which need prompt and vigorous attention and now that the Board has changes in contemplation, I hope they will make a thorough job of it, that they will dig to the root of the evil, and make a clean sweep of everything that retards the progress and impairs the working of the school, no matter who is hit or hurt.

Yours, etc.,
RATEPAYER.

THE POST OFFICE SITE.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

I regret to observe a most questionable attempt to make the selection of the local post office site, which is a matter that concerns the public generally, a question of pure party wire-pulling. What other construction can be put on the circulation of a petition to the government by a couple of interested parties, for the re-consideration of the question of a site, to be signed only by Conservatives? And that too, on the ground of party justice to No. 1 Ward, which it is recalled gave, at the last provincial election, a majority of 87 to Mr. Carnegie, whereas his total majority in the riding was only 86. The selection of a site for the new post office is a subject that concerns the public, and is not one for wire-pulling and intrigue for the personal benefit of anybody. Let the best site be selected for the public, and nobody will begrudge the incidental advantage that may accrue to anybody from such selection. The circulation of such a petition, to be signed only by Conservatives, is going farther than even my Tory sympathies, which are none of the weakest, will carry me.

Yours truly,
CONSERVATIVE.
Peterborough, June 11th, 1884.

FOOT RACING.

HAZLETT TO KINDRED.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

In your issue of May 30th you ray in alluding to the race between me and Kindred that "Kindred could not have been in shape, for he beat Hazlitt badly last fall." I say that Kindred never beat me in a square mile race. In the said race, at 15 laps the scorer called "time" and Kindred stopped. It was 17 laps to the mile. I had to walk in the mile race afterwards and had also to get home by the 6:10 train, so I could not stay to see about the race. That is the way Kindred beat me. I am willing to run Kindred a mile race for a cup at Barrie or toss for place (Barrie or Peterborough), any time after July 1st.

I hope this will suit Mr. Kindred.

Yours truly,
W. HAZLITT.

Barrie, June 8th, 1884.

A Splendid Chance.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that Mr. D. W Dumble offers for sale a number of Building Lots in various parts of the town on ten years credit. No money down, interest only to be paid for first five years, and thereafter yearly instalments with the right to pay at any time as may suit the convenience of the purchaser. This offer enables a poor man to use his money in erecting a building, and so he gets rid of rent, and secures a home for himself. Building will be cheap this year and no doubt many will take advantage of this very liberal offer. Besides lots in town, Mr. Dumble offers a number of lots in Ashburnham, and several park lots on the same terms. Call at his office and see plans, &c. 12-tf

Mr. Henry Marshall, Reeve of Dunn, writes: "Some time ago I got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Dicovery from Mr. Harrison, and I consider it the very best medicine extant for Dyspepsia." This medicine is making marvellous cures in Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, etc., in purifying the blood and restoring manhood to full vigor.

COUNTY COURT.

The following cases comprise the conclusion of the report of the business of theCounty Court.

The grand jury made the usual presentment, which contained nothing of unusual interest. His Honor, however, in reply, paid a high tribute to the abilities and character of the late R. H. Dennistoun.

The defendant, Mr. Daly, of Daly Bros., of the Grand Central Hotel, bought the 'bus with the business, and believed it was paid for. Mr. St. Charles, Belleville, the builder of the 'bus, brought suit to recover possession. Judgment reserved. E. H. D. Hall for plaintiff, and Dumble & Heary for defendant.

MORRISON vs. CROUGH.—Action of replevin. Settled by defendant giving up goods claimed and paying costs. Dumble & Heary for plaintiff; J. O'Meara for defendant.

MORRISON vs. SCRIBNER.—Action on promissory note. Verdict for plaintiff, and $224.49.

LIGHTBOUND vs. MILBURN.—Enlarged.

RUTHERFORD vs. KERR.—Enlarged.

LOCKHART vs. BRADBURN.—Action of account. Verdict for plaintiff and $150. Dumble & Heary for plaintiff; Geo. Edmison for defendant.

CULLEN vs. SCRIBNER.—Action on promissory note. Verdict for plaintiff and $222.54. Dumble & Heary for plaintiff.

CRIMINAL SIDE.

QUEEN vs. RITCHIE.—Assault. Prisoner pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to one year in jail.

QUEEN vs. CRONIN.—John Cronin was charged with larceny of two pigs, which, the evidence disclosed, he had bought from G. W. Hall. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty without leaving their seats. The judge, in dismissing the matter, said that Cronin was honorably acquitted—without a shadow of a stain on his character.

NEW RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

The work in each is progressing favourably. More missionaries are needed for the united missions of Barleigh, Chandos, and Cardiff. Stoney Lake mission has been joined to Harvey, a station on the Ontario & Quebec Railway, and it is hoped that this deserving mission will now prosper more than it has done."

ORANGEMEN AND NATIONALISTS.

Dreadful Scene of Disorder and Riot at Newry.

THE POLICE POWERLESS.

DUBLIN, June 9.—Advices received from Newry late this afternoon state that the disturbances between the Nationalists and Orangemen which broke out on Sunday at that place have increased during the day to such an alarming extent that the whole town is in a state of riot, and unless the Government can at once send more troops to the scene and sternly put down the rioters the greatest destruction of life and property will undoubtedly ensue. The military and police now there seem utterly powerless to control the disorders. The peaceable and law-respecting class are paralyzed with fear, and are of no service whatever to the authorities. The Protestants are obliged to keep themselves in their houses, with barricaded doors; those who ventured on the street during the day were chased hither and thither by the frantic mob, and stoned and beaten with clubs. The greater part of the military and constabulary surround the Orange hall, in which a large number of Protestants have gathered, and with loaded rifles are holding the crowd at bay. The number of rioters, however, is constantly increasing, and in the event of their overpowering the police a fearful scene of bloodshed will follow. At times detatchments of the police charge the mob, but with little effect. The centre of the riot is at the Orange headquarters, where the two parties are stoning each other over the heads of the police. The approach of darkness is awaited with anxiety, as a terrible night is anticipated unless help speedily arrives.

THE COURTNEY-ROSS RACE.

ROSS ROWS OVER THE COURSE AND TAKES THE PURSE—THE DUFFER DECLINES TO ROW THE RACE.

Courtney failed to appear at the time for starting in his race with Ross at Oak Point, N.Y., on Saturday. The latter rowed over the course in 23:59½. Courtney was about the grounds all morning and up to nearly four o'clock in the afternoon. About the latter hour he went across the road with Johnny Cree, who had once been his backer, to get shaved. At three o'clock the referee told Courtney's trainer to find his man, as the race would be started at five o'clock. The trainer searched for an hour and returned saying he could not find his principal and was unable to see any barber shop. Courtney was over the course in the morning, and afterwards said the water was good. At five o'clock the water was smooth over half the distance, although in places there were trifling choppy ripples, caused by eddies. Courtney circulated the report, before leaving, that there was no money up, and he would not row unless he saw the purse in advance. Courtney's trunk was removed during the morning by some person who said that Courtney was afraid of the mob. Ross rowed over the course in an admirable manner in excellent time, for the water and tide. The referee decided all bets off, except where "play or pay" was stipulated. Ross says he is disgusted with Courtney and will not row with him again.

Latest developments go to show that Courtney, failing to sell the race to Ross, backed down and out, like the acquatic coward that he is.

DOUBLE HANGING.

Joseph Tompsett and George Lowder were hanged at Picton on Monday morning for the murder of Peter Lazier, in Belleville last winter. Both maintained their innocence to the last.

Before the ropes were adjusted while on the trap, Tompsett turned to clasp Louder's hand and say "good bye, George," calmly but in a broken voice. Louder said "good bye," and the black cap was pulled over their heads, their legs pinioned and the ropes adjusted. Rev. E. Loucks, church of England minister, led a short prayer after concluding which he said, "Sheriff, I think those men want to say something." The Sheriff directed the hangman to remove the black caps. Tompsett did not say a word but stood firmly, hardly moving a muscle. Louder said: "If they knew what they were doing they would not do it," and then began praying. He prayed for several minutes using good language but becoming more and more excited as he went on, until at length he broke down completely, his legs tottering so that he could hardly stand. As soon as he ceased the hangman swiftly adjusted the cap and took position at the bolt. At a signal from the sheriff he drew the bolt, and the men shot through, and were dead in thirteen minutes.

Neither of the unfortunate men admitted his guilt at any time. Louder left a letter with a minister, with the request that it be published, in which he solmenly affirms his innocence.

Text of the Statutory By-law.

At the last session of the Ontario Legislature an Act was passed to make further provisions respecting the public health, entitled the "Public Health Act, 1884." No person shall within this Municipality suffer the accumulation upon his premises, or deposit, or permit the deposit upon any lot belonging to him, of anything which may endanger the public health, or deposit upon, on, or into, any public street, square, lane, by-way, wharf, dock, ship, lake, pond, bank, harbor, river, stream, sewer, or water, any manure or other refuse, or vegetable or animal matter, or other filth.

5. It shall be the duty of the Sanitary Inspectors to keep a vigilant supervision over all said lanes, by-ways, lots, or premises, upon which any accumulation as aforesaid may be found, and at once to notify the parties who own or occupy such lots or premises, or who either personally or through their employes, have deposited such manure refuse, matter, dirt, or filth, in any lane, or by-way, to cleanse the same, and to remove what is found thereon; such parties shall forthwith remove the same, and if the same be not removed within twenty-four hours after such notification, the Inspectors may prosecute the parties so offending, and he may also cause the same to be removed at the expense of the person or persons so offending. 7. If the Board is satisfied upon due examination, that a cellar, room-tenement, or building within its jurisdiction, occupied as a dwelling, place, has become by reason of the number of occupants, want of cleanliness, the existence therein of a contagious or infectious disease, or other cause unfit for such purpose, or that it has become a nuisance or in any way dangerous to the health of the occupants, or of the public, they shall cause notice in writing to such occupants or any of them requiring the said premises to be put in proper sanitary condition, or if they see fit, requiring the occupants to quit the premises within such time as the Board may deem reasonable. If the persons so notified, or any of them, refuse or neglect to comply with the requirements of such notice, every person so offending shall be liable to the penalties imposed by section 13 of this By-law, and the Board may cause the premises to be properly cleansed at the expense of the owners or occupants, or may remove the occupants forcibly and cause the premises to be properly cleansed at the expense of the owners, and may cause the premises until put into proper sanitary condition.

11. No person shall offer for sale as food within this Municipality a diseased animal, or any meat, fish, fruit, vegetables, milk, or other article of food which, by reason of disease, adulteration, impurity, or any other cause shall be unfit for use.

A CHARMING SERIAL.

"Yeamie Walton," by Mrs. S. R. Graham Clark, is a story of rare power and interest, written in a lucid style. The struggles of a girl of ardent temperament and affectionate impulses are interwoven with great simplicity and pathos. But so much fun and humor are interspersed that the transition from grave to gay, from laughter to tears, is not disagreeable. No Sunday school library should be without it.

"Yeamie Walton's Workaheed" is a sequel of the above. It in every way sustains the author's reputation.

"Triple E" is a work just out. The gifted author of "Yeamie Walton" tells with charming freshness the simple incidents in the life of a homely girl whose want of good looks did not prevent her from being true and noble, nice and attractive.

It may be of interest to know that Mrs. Clark is British by birth, being a native of Halifax, N.S. When she was nine years of age, her widowed mother moved, with her large family, to Portland, Me., where she received her education and where she married.

D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, publish the "Yeamie Walton" books, five volumes. They are for sale by all booksellers, or will be sent postage paid on receipt of price, $1.50 per volume, by the publishers.

M. Sheehan, of Oscoda, Mich., writes: "I have used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil on horses for different diseases, and found it to be just as you recommended. It has done justice to me every time, and it is the best Oil for horses I ever used." Observe that the name "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil" is in front of the wrapper, as there are imitations of it.

THE WOOL MARKET.

Messrs. Justice Bateman & Co's latest circular in reference to the wool market is as follows:

"Since our last circular the disturbances in the money market have paralyzed the wool business and operations have been so meagre that quotations are merely nominal. Holders of wool consider that values are already at a very low point, and are indisposed to make further concessions. The attention of the eastern market is now turned toward the probable opening prices in the country for the new clip, which it is generally considered must be sold at about three cents per pound, below midsummer prices of last year. The principle reason for this is the necessity of having cheaper wool in order to compete with the very cheap manufactured goods which are pouring into this country from abroad. The wool growers do not suffer half so much from competition with cheap imported wool as they do from the competition which manufacturers meet with in the way of low-priced foreign goods and woollen yarns which, under the last reduction in the tariff are being admitted at relatively lower duties than the raw wool. The wool grower clamors for an increase of duties upon his wool, but there is no remedy for him in this direction unless the manufacturer who buys his wool can have relative protection against the cheap scoured wools that are sent to this country manufactured into yarn and cloth.

"English washed coarse and low medium fleeces, called half-bred Norfolk hogs, are offered now at 9 pence, say 18c., and have declined 2c. per lb. within a month. This wool costs the English manufacturer only 18c. per lb. in the fleece washed condition, and 25c. per lb. scoured clean, and it is the importation of yarns made of these cheap wools which causes the low prices for American staple.

POETIC TAFFY.

Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin, the Baldheaded Bard of the Blizzard's Birthplace, has sent forth on its mission a poem that, we believe, begins at the mouth of the St. Lawrence and meanders gracefully along to the Rocky Mountains. We have not read the poem, life being short, but we gather from the comments made upon it that Sir John Macdonald created the Dominion and all in it, and very magnanimously allows the people to live here. Our esteemed contemporary, the Ottawa Free Press speaks of portions of the poem being beyond the conception of the ordinary Canadian. This raises the ordinary Canadian in our estimation fully 25 cents. —London Truth.

HARWOOD.

The saw mill at Harwood has commenced this seasons operations, on Monday of last week. A trip through the mill is a very pleasing one, and the rapidity with which the logs are converted into lumber is wonderful. There are about ninety hands employed, and the cut this summer will be about eleven millions.

HASTINGS.

Scarlet fever the Star says is very prevalent throughout the townships adjoining, its correspondents almost weekly record cases which have terminated fatally in their respective neighborhoods. From Alnwick it regrets to hear of the death of one of Mr. Leeper's children, and to add to the affliction three more are down with the dread disease.

OMEMEE.

Over fifty flocks of fine sheep were washed in the river opposite the grist mill in a week's time.

The work of repairing the dam is completed, and a good job has been made of it.

Great preparations for the loyal celebration of the Twelfth in Omemee are being made. Thousands can be fed on that day, says the Herald.

CAMPBELLFORD.

On Friday morning last, Mr. Charles Oulton passed away hurriedly from this life to the unknown world.

A large staff of men are now employed at the paper mills, and the institution is at present flourishing beyond anything attempted since its erection.

New quarters have been secured by the Orangemen for their place of meeting. They have left the Irwin block, and fitted up a lodge room in the Trent block.

EMILY.

On Wednesday Mr. M. Connell, of Emily, lost a valuable horse under peculiar circumstances. Mr. Connell was at work using the horse to draw out rail cuts to the road. The pathway was narrow. A man who was out shooting—whose name we did not learn—came up to talk to Connell, and placed his gun against a stump by the path. The men walked to the road, unshipped the log, and as they were returning along the pathway the horse reached out and seized in his mouth the gun by the muzzle. The gun swung round and striking on the ground was discharged, the charge blowing the front of the horses head to pieces. He didn't know it was loaded.

NORWOOD.

Messrs. John Finlay & Son are building an extensive addition to their already large factory. This addition is a two-story affair, fifty feet in length by forty in breadth.

The anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne will be celebrated in Norwood this year in grand style. Invitations have been extended to all the lodges in the district, and a large turnout may be expected. The lodges of the village have engaged the Norwood brass band for the occasion.

The Lacrosse Club, at a meeting held at the Brennan House on Monday evening last, decided, among other things, to celebrate the 1st of July in grand style. The programme will consist of a lacrosse tournament, Caledonian games, and a concert in the evening. It is intended to have at least five lacrosse matches during the day, and to present a beautiful cup to the best team on the field.

COBOURG.

The yacht Sappho has been sold in Toronto.

Shipping at the harbor is very quiet this season.

Nearly midnight on Sunday fire destroyed an empty frame building on the old distillery property. It was a case of incendiarism, which is becoming a little too frequent lately.

The annual meeting of the West Riding Northumberland Reform Association will be held at the Young Men's Reform Club Rooms, King Street, Cobourg, on Saturday afternoon of this week, June 14th, at 2 o'clock.

Between one and two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon while several young lads were bathing at the mouth of the factory creek, one of them named David Foote, about fifteen years of age, son of Alexander Foote, got in beyond his depth, and being unable to swim was drowned.

LINDSAY.

Lindsay proposes to invest $5,000 in the extension of her water works for fire protection.

An experimental strip of sidewalk is being put down along one block on Kent street, opposite the town hall. Side and centre planks are spiked down and the spaces between filled up with cinkers and furnace refuse. It is expected that the walk will be durable beyond the all-plank variety.

The 45th Batt. volunteers will take part in the military exercises during one of the days of the semi-centennial celebration at Toronto, probably about the 24th July. Two companies go from Lindsay, one from Fenelon Falls, one from Omemee, and the balance of the battalion from other points in the district.

The Town Council have readily acceded to the request that $200 should be subscribed toward the guarantee fund of the Central, and at Monday night's meeting a motion to that effect was carried unanimously. Mayor Wallace and Couns. Bryans and McTavish were appointed to represent the Council on the Committee of Management.

MILLBROOK.

We have the painful task, says the Messenger, to perform in announcing the very sudden death of one of our most worthy and respected citizens, Mr. Alfred Lough, Surgeon Dentist. On Saturday, the 24th, being the Queen's Birthday, Capt. Waller's cavalry troop, of which Mr. Lough was Lieutenant, turned out to practice, the target being placed at the side of Maid's mountain. Here, it is supposed, he got over-heated, for on Sunday and Monday he felt very poorly. On Tuesday evening he took to his bed, at his boarding house, the residence of Mrs. M. J. Brown, with an attack of bilious fever. Wednesday morning, much to the surprise of his many friends, after getting up and washing his hands, in apparent delirium, he sat down on the side of the bed; a few minutes after he fainted away and suddenly expired. His remains were taken to his father's residence, Cavan, from whence they were taken to the Back Church Cemetery Thursday afternoon, at three o'clock. Deceased was 34 years of age, and much respected by all who knew him. The funeral, from the residence of deceased's father, was one of the largest ever seen in Cavan. He was buried with Masonic honors. He was Treasurer and Past Master of J. B. Hall Lodge, No. 145, and a most worthy member. The Rev. Rural Dean Allen, Rector of Cavan, officiated.

BOBCAYGEON.

DOMINION DAY.

Our national holiday, the 1st of July is to be duly celebrated. Mr. W. Read and Mr. A. Garlick have taken the matter in hand, and have already a large subscription list. An attractive programme of sports is to be arranged, and every exertion made to insure a grand gala fete; a day that will rival the fetes of Paris, or even the carnivals of Venice. In the evening the Skating Rink Committee propose giving a Concert, in the Town Hall.

TIMBER DRIVES.

The first drive of the year has arrived, and is passing over the slide. It contains about thirty-three thousand logs, and is under the command of Mr. Edward Dwyer. It is bound for Mr. Haslitt's mill, and was taken out in the townships of Anson and around Minden. M. Boyd & Co. have a good drive to hand from the Burnt River and more following. Frank Bell, a gentleman who has a reputation for fast driving, is now in Sturgeon Lake, with a large block for Mr. Ullyott, and is making a lively run for first home. The water has been good though the weather has been cold for the men.

FISHING FLUSH.

On Saturday Mr Armour, head master of the schools, caught 90 bass. On Monday Mr. Morgan Johns, of South Verulam, paddled down the lake to attend a meeting of the Council. He carelessly threw out a trolling line, and whilst deep in the contemplation of road jobs and statute labor, he was suddenly yanked up by the line. He pulled but there was no give; it must be a rock. Then it began to come a little; must be a log, or horrible thought, it might be a drowned man. Then he got a glimpse of something and just at that instant he was not quite sure whether he was struck with a Missouri whirlwind, or with a thorough-bred cyclone. The water flew in all directions, the boat spun round, and the line zipped through his hand as if a torpedo were on the end of it. The log or corpse business had entirely vanished and after about ten minutes skillful play, Mr. Johns hauled in the longest maskalonge of the season. When brought to the Forest House it weighed 21 lbs. 5 oz. Mr. Rawley, on Wednesday landed with one rod 26 bass weighing 67 lbs. the two largest weighed 7¾ lbs. Mr. Jay Edgar saw a maskalonge in the canal, and letting down a hook and line, caught him, and landed it. A party of Toronto gentlemen at the Rockland, have had splendid sport, and Mr. Hunter and Mr. Taylor, of Toronto, at the Forest House, took a fine string from the canal. On Thursday morning Mr. Taylor caught two maskalonge one 14 lbs. and the other 7 lbs. As some of our contemporaries have most unprofessionally cast reflections upon the truthfulness of our fish items, we may state that this paragraph is regularly sworn to by our Mr. Smith, and attested by Lockmaster Kelly.

A Great Discovery.

Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Ia., says: "My wife has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty-five years, and this spring more severely than ever before. She had used many remedies without relief, and being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratifying results. The first bottles relieved her very much, and the second bottle has absolutely cured her. She has not had so good health for thirty years." Trial Bottles Free at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.

Purely Vegetable.

First the bud, then the blossom, then the perfect fruit. These are the several stages of some of the most important ingredients composing of painless and sure corn cure — PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR. The juices of plants greatly concentrated and purified, gums and balsams in harmonious union, all combined, give the grand results. Putnam's Extractor makes no sore spot, does not lay a man up for a week, but goes quietly doing its work until a perfect cure results. Beware of acid substitutes.

Spent Years a Terrible Death.

Unto May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men without any benefit. My mouth and throat became badly ulcerated, sores breaking out on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with rheumatism, grew very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the fey hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at Shaker Blood Syrup like a drowning man at a straw. After two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores began to discharge freely, and Rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, and there is not a symptom of the disease remaining, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that Shaker Blood Syrup has saved me from a horrible death.
T. S. Cannon, South Boston, Mass.

In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible Blood Poison, and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not able to raise my hand to my head, spitting up clots of blood, and reduced in weight from one hundred and eight-five to to one hundred and thirty pounds. I then began the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighed one hundred and ninty-six pounds, and have never had a symptom of the disease since. If it had not been for Shaker Syrup I believe I would have been in my grave.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 12, 1884.

Downright Dishonesty.

It is, to a certain extent, excusable that a political journal in its treatment of political subjects, should not be able entirely to divorce itself from partizan prejudices; but that it should resort to downright dishonesty admits of no defence or palliation. Our local Tory contemporary in dealing with Hon. Edward Blake's utterances in reference to secret societies is guilty of the most flagrant misrepresentation. In its last issue the Review in alluding to the Ancient Order of United Workmen, quotes the Globe's description of the order,—

"The chief feature and the most important to a majority of the members is the beneficiary or co-operative insurance department."

Commenting on this the Review dishonestly says:

"It will be seen from this description that the Ancient Order of United Workmen is one among others, of the secret societies so grossly calumniated by Mr. Blake in the House of Commons."

True Hon. Mr. Blake in the speech in question did as he had a right to do, say that he was not in favor of secret societies, on general principles. He might say as much without insulting any secret society, as a man might say he did not believe in marriage without insulting all married persons. In his general proposition he qualified his remarks in reference to the mischievous tendencies of secret societies in this way, as reported in Hansard:

"I do not wish to be understood as saying that these mischievous tendencies are carried out in many of these societies, the operation of which, as far as I know, are beneficial."

In referring to secret societies of a very different class, namely the Ribbon Society the Phœnix Society and the Fenian Society of Ireland, Hon. Mr. Blake used this strong language:

"But we have no right, because we have no necessity to engage for these purposes in secret societies, which, as I have indicated, have often been the fruitful mother of malignity, misrepresentation, and bigotry."

Who will dare say that these words applied to these societies are one whit too strong? It was to these societies alone in using the last quoted language, that Hon. Mr. Blake referred. He had not the slightest reference to any of our benevolent societies, and the Review and other Tory journals know they are guilty of the grossest dishonesty when they seek to pervert and seperate from its connection the speech of a great public man in order to convict him of an insult, which he never uttered nor intended. But something like this Hon. Mr. Blake foresaw. In concluding his speech he said:

"I know that I shall be misinterpreted and that men shall be misled in my province and elsewhere as to what I have said to-night. I say that men will be misled by designing politicians, who are using the cloak of religion and the cloak of charity to promote party politics."

Just as the Review is hypocritically using the cloak of pretended solicitude for the reputation of all secret societies "to promote party politics." No doubt the party journalistic hacks had their instructions to hound down Hon. Mr. Blake with a false and dishonest cry. They did their work, but the majority, ashamed of the filthiness of the commission, only fouled one issue; it remained for our contemporary to become pre-eminent in the dishonest game. For a downright dishonest game it is; we defy any member of a secret society who shall combine with the action a lack of prejudice and an honest desire for correct interpretation, to read Hon. Mr. Blake's speech and feel that his order is insulted in the manner which our contemporary with persistent malignity and palpable dishonesty seeks to make appear.

The Public Health.

All proper and thorough measures to improve the sanitary condition of the town, tend to save life preserve health and save wealth. In this enlightened day it is not necessary to urge the importance of thorough public cleanliness in relation to the public health. The public have a vital interest in all sanitary matters. We therefore reprint on our inside pages the by-law founded on the "Public Health Act of 1884," which by-law comes into force in Peterborough on July 1st. The by-law is worthy the perusal of every citizen, for its provisions affect all. The new board of health for the town, organized under the provisions of the act, promises to be an energetic body. It will, it is understood, endeavor to enforce the by-law as fully as circumstances will admit of, at the same time refraining from extreme measures, unless obstinate neglect of the provisions of the by-law render such measures necessary. It is the duty, then, of every citizen, who has the welfare of the town at heart to assist the board in their important work. Some of the provisions of the by-law may seem harsh and arbitrary, but they are intended solely for the benefit of the public. The board, in enforcing the by-law, receives no personal advantage, except the pleasant consciousness of doing its duty and the benefit individual members will receive as citizens from making the public health as secure as possible. One of the most important steps in promoting the growth and prosperity of the town is making it a healthy home. By so doing population will be attracted and retained, good health will admit of energy, enterprise and the exercise of hopeful endeavour. It is estimated that every immigrant that becomes a citizen is worth a thousand dollars; if, therefore, sanitary measures, such as the by-law enjoins, result in saving scores of lives by improving the public health, every citizen will be in duty bound to aid the Board of Health in performing its duties and thus promoting the best interests of the town.

The Presidential Campaign.

The Americans are a nation of politicians. They have as much turmoil, excitement and plotting in getting their candidates into the field, as in Canada accompanies a general election. At the Republican convention, at Chicago, James Gillespie Blaine, of Maine, was nominated as candidate for the Presidency, and Logan for the Vice-Presidency. Blaine has for a long time been prominent in politics. He received the second largest vote for Republican candidate in 1876, and was well up in 1880. Blaine appears as the candidate of the protection party, which at this time is making a strong bid for the workingman's vote. These interests are as widely divergent as the poles. Protection enriches monopolists, while it does not give steady work, the highest wages, nor cheap living to laborers. Personally the Presidential candidate of the Republican party is a "machine" politician, personally smirched with corruption. He has made himself rich by politics, and it is in his interest to perpetuate a policy that will, in the most extended sense, give the spoils to the victors. He secured the nomination, it is said, by intrigue. His prospects of success are not so brilliant as they appeared in the first flush of excitement. Influential Republican journals like the New York Times, Independent, and Harper's Weekly do not endorse the nomination, and the party is not by any means unanimous. The Democrats are preparing for holding their convention, also at Chicago, and, if they bring out a good candidate, their prospect of success is the best it has been in a quarter of a century. Blaine's success will not be in the interests of Canada. With him at the head of affairs it will be almost impossible to maintain international relations of an amicable nature, which are so evidently in the interests of both this country and the United States.

"Utterly Groundless."

John A. Macdonnell, whose political reputation is not by any means of the saintly order, has received a decided snub. During the last session of Parliament Mr. Mullock, M.P., called the attention of the House to the monstrous charges made by Macdonnell for professional work done for the Government. In reprisal, the intriguer of the Tory party published letters, threatening to arraign Mr. Mulock before the Law Society. Of these the latter took no notice. Macdonnell then turned his attention to Mr. Samuel Blake, and published letters accusing the latter of unprofessional conduct, intending thereby to annoy and scandalise his brother, Hon. Edward Blake. This charge was so serious that the Tory factotum was required by the Law Society to formulate his charges. This was done, and the committee to which the investigation was intrusted, decided that "the complaint in question was utterly groundless." To show that, as may be and has been insinuated, no partisan feeling was an element in the decision, as partisan feeling, not to say malignity, was evidently an element in the charge, it may be stated that five out of the nine members of the committee were Conservatives, and that the decision arrived at was unanimous.

The Congegationalists of Canada have showed themselves the most radical of progressionists in church government. While the Methodists, have taken a long stride in advance by adopting for the united church, lay delegation, the Congregational Union of Ontario and Quebec have decided to admit women as representatives. Whatever advantages may be gained by this innovation, the element of brevity in their deliberations has been bartered for that of beauty.

English and French Criminals.

Statesmen and philosophers have always found it a difficult problem to deal successfully with habitual criminals of the worst and lowest type. Many ingenious plans have been devised to meet the difficulty of disposing of those who are hardened in sin and crime, but as the years pass and civilization becomes more advanced, weak points in all proposed methods have shown themselves, and the problem is by no means solved in our own day.

In England, some years ago, it was thought transportation to some foreign colony was the only feasible method of repressing crime and ridding the country of the vilest and most abandoned characters. So, for a long time, Australia and New Zealand were looked upon as being splendid havens for the disposal of criminals, because these countries were thinly inhabited, and so far removed from England as to prevent a speedy return to old haunts. A time came, however, when the colonies very rightly and naturally repudiated such an arrangement. Even if these depraved persons, who left their country for their country's good, were consigned to districts somewhat remote and inaccessible, such neighbours were very undesirable from every point of view, and in no inconsiderable measure retarded the growth and prosperity of the colony. Representations were accordingly made to the mother country to effect some other arrangement. And, in 1854, the Legislature of Victoria, Australia, passed an Act which not only authorised the return of escaped or discharged convicts to the place from whence they came, but also inflicted heavy penalties in fines or imprisonment, or both, on the masters of any vessels which brought them.

Experience, too, has proved conclusively that the number of convicts has decreased concurrently with the abandonment of penal settlements. Though the population has increased fifty per cent., not more than one-half the number are now sentenced to penal servitude as compared with thirty years ago. In the year 1867, transportation was finally abolished, and yet, while there were over 12,000 convicts in English prisons in the year 1870, at present there are less than 10,000.

Improved prison discipline has, no doubt, helped to produce this desirable result. The work of reformation, too, has had a share, and industrial occupation and employment at severe labour, within prison walls, have contributed at least in some degree, to effect improvement in the direction of repressing crime.

All this being so, it is somewhat surprising to see France agitating for the passage of a Bill which provides for transporting offenders and habitual criminals to the Pacific islands. The Act, it is said, is due to the policy of Gambetta; and his former colleagues, to prove their admiration for their late chief, are warmly and strenuously advocating the measure. The project has caused much excitement in our own colonies of New Zealand and Australia, and is looked upon as pregnant with much danger to those resident in the Southern Hemisphere. It appears from statistics that at least ten thousand professional French criminals would be shipped yearly to the Pacific islands, and be left there, after a very short interval of supervision, to shift for themselves as best they might. One can easily imagine the calamities that might be expected to follow such a proceeding. The result would most likely be that these thieves and murderers would spread themselves over the islands within their reach and commit most terrible depredations. They would bring the name of white men into such evil reputation that Europeans would find it dangerous in the extreme to visit these localities, either for purposes of trade or from a desire to evangelize the heathen. Such depraved criminals would also try hard to reach the large cities of Australia, and they would carry terror and insecurity wherever they roamed. The colonists could not be expected to suffer the banditti to act thus, but would attempt reprisals, and the end might be open war, first, upon the penal settlement itself, and, perhaps, in consequence, subsequent stern retaliation on the part of France. All these difficulties have been plainly put before the British Government by Australia. But though Lord Granville has done all in his power to avert such consequences, and has given France timely warning of the dangers their policy will bring about, no immediate effect has been produced. M. Jules Ferry looks upon the interference of any stranger in such matters as the disposal of criminals, as most unwarrantable and uncalled-for. The dangers, however, he cannot be blind to, and it is just possible that he may yet endeavour to avert them. If the discipline of French prisons were more closely inquired into and improved, and a stirring reformation adopted, it would be found quite possible to deal advantageously with criminals, without resorting to transportation, which has been tried and rejected in other countries, and which, experience proves, tends rather to the increase of crime than its diminution.

The ladies are beginning to make the lords of creation look well to their laurels, plucked in academic groves. At the May examinations in Toronto, Miss Lizzie Balmer took two scholarships—modern languages and general proficiency. She also secured first-class honors in mental and moral science, without attending lectures in any of the departments. Her success is marvellous. At the same examinations the Misses Brown, daughters of the late Senator George Brown, stood well in the third year examinations. These facts prove that the intellectual capacities of women do not debar them from taking higher places than that of merely making home happy.

Ecclesiastical Parliaments.

The month of June witnesses the completion of the preparation of the farmer's arrangements for the coming harvest and by a happy coincidence it witnesses also, the preparations of the churches for the gospel harvest. In the month of June the Synods, Assemblies and Conferences of the different departments of the church are assembled. The most notable of these gatherings, are, in view of the union which came into effect on June 1st, the several Methodist Conferences. In its consolidated form, the Methodist body is numerically the strongest in Canada. The struggles of the opponents of the union, were lively and vigorous, but the latter have wisely accepted the inevitable and are co-operating harmoniously to promote the prosperity of the new church.

This month the Presbyterians also hold their general Assembly. Numerically they come next in strength to the Methodists. This great body is also just beginning to appreciate the beneficial results of the union of the three branches into one body. The old lines of distinction have already become very indistinct and the homogeneity of the entire body is becoming perfect. The membership of the church shows an increase, and the funds for prosecuting church work are, this year, larger than ever before.

The Baptist church has also had a sort of union. It has consolidated its theological colleges and united them into one excellent institution McMaster Hall, Toronto. The result is that great progress has been made in theological education and in other departments of church work.

At this writing the annual synods of the Anglican Church are entering upon their yearly work of review and preparation. From the nature of the Church, the changes that can be expected are simply developmental. The flourishing condition of the church as shown by the record of the past, will not it is believed be discredited by the reports the coming synods will bring forth.

It is almost impossible to appreciate the immense moral influence of all these religious bodies working, by different methods, to the same end. Their existence means the moral salvation of the country. Once remove the restraining influence of their presence in the land and there would be a relapse into the semi-barbarism of pre-christian days. Let him who doubts that the world is growing better, thoroughly review the work of the churches and his scepticism must come to an end.

Editorial Notes.

The Toronto papers publish the names of the contributors to the semi-centennial celebration fund, which amounts to nearly $15,000.

The Montreal Conference of the Methodist Church adopted a resolution requesting superintendents to refuse admission to pulpits of any evangilest coming without any church relationship or proper credentials.

Recently Vice-Chancellor Mulock set on foot a project to establish a scholarship in memory of the late Chief Justice Moss, a graduate of the University. Professor Loudon has carried on the work, and the subscriptions to the scholarship fund now amounts to over $1,500.

With Sir Leonard Tilley profession and practice are quite distinct matters. At a public meeting in St. John's, in 1878, the financial colossus claimed that $18,000,000 was enough to pay for the annual expenditure of the Dominion. Yet he has spent:

1879-80	$24,850,000
1880-81	25,502,000
1881-82	27,097,000
1882-83	28,730,000

And this year he will spend $31,000,000, the amount of the estimates of 1884. Sir Leonard and his colleagues can stand it if the country can.

Bystander, in the Week, says of Sir John's share in promoting the severance of British connection between Canada and the Empire:—"The last material bond in connection between Canada and the Empire was broken by Sir John Macdonald when, in a loud and defiant tones, he proclaimed Fiscal Independence." And the Mail trumped Sir John's act when it asserted that if the tariff imperilled British connection, "so much the worse for British connection." There's Tory loyalty for you—when it runs counter to the interests of the party, down with it. At other times we are nauseated with flabby protestations of lip loyalty.

The Carillon Dam, that great monument of Tory jobbery, is destined to be a perpetual bill of costs to the country. Since the dam and slides have been taken off the contractors' hands there has been spent in repairs about $150,000, besides $60,000 "extras." The breakages in the dam, and consequently the cost of repairs, are due to Sir Charles Tupper, who ordered changes in the plans after the contract had been awarded to his friends, Messrs. McNamee & Co. In this he ignored the advice of the Government engineer, to please and profit political favorites, and the country has already had to pay $150,000 of its hard-earned taxes. Sir Charles is no longer with us, but he has left in the country abundant reminders of his extravagance and corruption.

The subscriber is now prepared to dispose of SITTINGS OF EGGS from the following varieties of Poultry:—Plymouth Rocks, Houdans, Black Spanish, White Leghorns, Buff Cochin, Silver Grey Dorkings, Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Pekin Ducks and Bronze Turkeys.

All the above varieties were either first or second prize birds at the fall and winter exhibitions. I have also added since the exhibitions some very fine birds of different varieties to my stock. Having bred the greater part of the varieties for three years, I think I know what suits the country. Every pains has been taken to keep the stock pure, by keeping the birds in different yards, therefore the public can rely on a good article, either in Eggs or Chicks, second to none but in price, say and all of the above varieties being offered at $1.50 per 13, or 26 for $2.50, excepting the Ducks or Turkeys.

Any orders for eggs must be accompanied with the price. I would be glad to fill a large order, if required, with different kinds.

FRASERVILE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The following is a report of pupils of S. S., No. 9, Cavan, and 4 North Monaghan, Month of May.

Sunior 4th.—1st, James Laing; 2nd, Hannah Campbell; 3rd, Carrie Madill; 4th, Eben Laing. Junior 4th.—1st, John Clark; 2nd, Ida Dunlop; 3rd, May Latimer; 4th, Ada Ray. 3rd Class.—1st, Jane Bothwell; 2nd, Annie Magee; 3rd, Minnie Dunlop; 4th, John Bothwell. 2nd, Class.—1st, David Cunningham; 2nd, Minnie Clark; 3rd, Elsie Patterson; 5th, Wm. H. Clark. Part 2nd,—Maude Laing; 2nd, Bessie Goodfellow; 3rd, Martha Atchison; 4th Bertie Elliott. Average attendance 45.

Some few week ago one of the many peddlers engaged in the rag and tin calling, met with a very singular, and judging from his midnight cries, very doleful mishap. On leaving Fraserville, he proceeded north one mile, and though the sun was yet high in the heavens, he turned East at Cairo School and soon on account of a lightness in the head he took his pipe out of his mouth and relapsed into what you might term "immovable taciturnity" and remained in that state for some time. On recovering he found his horse vehicle and himself in one of the streams which runs into the Otonabee river. It is not for us to say what his many thoughts were on that watery occasion but surely he must have thought he was in pursuit of General Gordon and that now he was standing in water caused by the overflow of the Nile in distant Egypt; but alas! it was not far, it was none other than Lockie's creek. How to get out he did not know, as he could not turn his horse the water was so deep. Finally he concluded yelling for help was his only resort, and from 10 o'clock till after 12 a strange cry was heard in that lonely place, and people who heard it concluded it was the cry of a man; and on searching beheld a man seated on a peddling rig with a horse attached some distance down the creek. A raft was soon constructed and the man, horse and wagon brought safely to land, but not without a great deal of labor. The next morning he thought he would do better if the Scott Act were enforced in these counties: then left and we have not seen him since, but sincerely hope when the peddler referred to thinks of going river driving again, he will leave his horse and wagon at home and in place of the wagon ride on the logs.

It is with feelings of sorrow we record the names of two dear school boys, who died one some few weeks ago, and the other on last Thursday about 12 o'clock. The late Geo Gilroy, who passed away some few weeks ago, suffered for six or eight weeks terribly, but previous to his death, some two weeks lay almost perfectly still, apparently not noticing anything. Dear George was liked by all who knew him, and ever ready to oblige. Particularly was he admired because of his good manners and cheerfulness in life, and we must say a boy with a better disposition and a kinder heart was hard to be found. He was about nine years old and interred in the Baptist burying ground Fraserville.

The late Alfred Miller aged over 13 years, who passed away last Thursday, had been ailing for some time back, suffering first from rheumatism then from a weakness in his heart caused by his first disease. His last suffering was great and death was indeed a wonderful relief to him. Being the only child, his parents feel very bad. Dear Alfred was a good boy, and who has a better chance to know this than his teachers who say a better boy never entered the school room. He was kind, gentlemanly and possessed a fine intellect, and had the Lord spared him we think he would have made a literary mark but for some reason known to God he has been taken from our midst to wear a bright crown in that happy land.

Our prayer is that Lord may comfort those who have been bereft of dear ones, and may they be able to see that their loss was their dear childrens' gain.

Rev. F. Johnston of Fraserville left last Monday morning for his old home in Ireland. He is accompanied by Mr. G. L. Fair, brother of Mr. R. Fair, of Fair VanEvery & Co., town. We wish both a pleasant trip.

DURABILITY OF BANK OF ENGLAND NOTES.

The album in which specimens of the various counterfeits discovered are preserved, also contains some interesting proofs of the extraordinary durability of these notes. There are three notes for twenty-five pounds, which passed through the Chicago fire, and were sent in for redemption by Mr. R. H. Nottin, Paymaster of the Chicago and Alton Railway. Though they are burnt to a crisp black ash, the paper is scarcely broken, and the engraving is as clear as in a new note. There are also five five-pound notes, which went to the bottom of the sea in the unfortunate training-ship Eurydice, and were recovered after six months' immersion. They are not even frayed. The paper is stained a light brown, and that is the only effect their long exposure to salt water has had. We are shown in a small case covered with a magnifying glass, a few small fragments of paper for which the Bank paid £1,400. They are the remains of several notes destroyed in a fire, and were redeemed at their full value, the holders being able to give their numbers and dates, and to satisfy the Bank that they had actually been destroyed. There is another note in the album, which was in circulation 125 years before it was returned to the Bank for payment. No note is issued twice. As soon as a note is returned, even though it has been out but a few hours, it is cancelled. Very often a note issued in the morning is brought back in the afternoon of the same day, but on an average a five-pound note is out about eighty days. The notes have many strange adventures. One of a large denomination was found keeping the wind away in the broken pane of a cottage window, neither the cottager nor his wife having any idea of its value. Another, also for a large sum, the disappearance of which had led to many wrongful suspicions and accusations, was discovered, after many years, inclosed in the wall of the house from which it had mysteriously disappeared. One thing notes will not endure. They will hold together at the bottom of the sea, and come out of a furnace intact, but they will not outlast the scrubbing, the bleaching, and the mangling of the laundry. The trial, to which they are sometimes subjected through the inadvertence of ladies who send them to the wash in their dress pockets, usually defaces them, though even after it their genuineness is still recognizable.

RAILWAY CHANGES.

The latest rumor in railway circles is that all the lines in the Grand Trunk system, including the C. & G. T., Detriot and Milwaukee, Detroit and Port Huron, and Michigan Air Line, are to be consolidated, with Mr. W. J. Spicer as general manager. The consolidation has long been in contemplation, and Mr. Spicer is just the man to assume the management of so extensive a system. His history is that of the Grand Trunk, having been connected with the road from the time it was built, and there is probably no man on the continent more thoroughly conversant with all branches of rialway work. We sincerely hope the rumor, which is a very likely one, may prove correct.

In this connection it is stated that the Grand Trunk system in Canada and the Eastern States is to be divided into six districts each under the charge of a general superintendent. Such a change would conduce greatly to the more efficient working of the road.

A HINT WORTH HEEDING. Life loses half its zest when digestion is permanently impaired. Surely then a speedy means of restoring this essential of bodily comfort is worth trying. Every rank, every profession, bears its quota of evidence to the beneficent influence upon the stomach, and also upon the liver, bowels and kidneys, of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, or celebrated Blood Purifier. What is the wise course suggested to the sick by this testimony? We leave them to decide.

Among the Places of Interest.

Conspicious among the places of interest which the rising city of Peterborough can boast of is the "Golden Lion" Dry Goods Store. Situated in the centre and on the best side of George steet, and noted for formidably prominent signs, strangers can hardly fail to have their attention drawn to this the finest and most eligible business stand in the "Plate Glass City." It is within easy access to the principal hotels, banks and Post Office, and only one block away from the Market Square. There is something business-like about the place which cannot fail to leave an impression on passers by and tempt customers inside. With large heavy plate glass show windows, and elegant goods to adorn them, and a massive golden lion sign over the door, Messrs. FAIR, VANEVERY & Co., are doubtless among the best known dry goods merchants in the Midland district. —Notes from a Traveller.

WEATHER NOTES.

May has continued as good for seeding as the preceding month although during the first week considerable rain fell, falling during the month, on 12 days to the depth of 2 inches and 73.100 of an inch. We had dashes of snow on two different days reminding us of our bygone winter. We had two extremes of temperature during the month; on the 21st at 2 o'clock p. m., the thermometer stood 93° degrees in the shade, on the morning of the 29th, 29th and 30th, we had severe frost doing a great deal of damage to early fruit, vegetables, barley and other grains, on the latter morning the thermometer dropped to 4° below the freezing point. The mean temperature for the month was 50 4-31°. During the month we had two thunder storms, but of small consequence, little rain falling. Three fierce gales swept over us during the month leveling the trees and fences. Only one morning, a slight fog which is a very rare, scarcely now ever visiting us.

THE CROPS.

It is merely speculation to say anything regarding our crops; however, one thing is apparent, if the present dry weather continues our meadows will be light, especially timothy.

Particular Notice to the Public

REGARDING PUMPS!

Over seventeen years ago I commenced the Manufacture of Pumps in Peterborough, and I take this opportunity of thanking the inhabitants of the town and surrounding country for the very liberal patronage they have accorded me during that time. It has always been my aim to produce and introduce all good improvements in Pumps, and I now desire to call attention to my NEW which this cut represents. I believe it to be the BEST COMBINED PUMP IN THE WORLD. It differs from all others in having the sectional stock or head, with its many advantages, and its firm and durable means of holding the attachments. The intermittent or detachable packing is only used in actual forcing, and it is at all other times (say 95 per cent. of the service of the pump,) unfreemble and unwearable.

THE HOSE COUPLING

is very convenient and effective. It can be adjusted in a few seconds, thus quickly changing an ordinary service Pump into a Force Pump.

The great advantage to the purchaser is that he possesses in one Pump, the Easiest Lift Pump made, as well as the Best Force Pump, for the same price as is often asked for an ordinary Pump. It throws water easier and further than any other Pump manufactured. For deep wells it has no equal.

All orders promptly attended to, by mail or otherwise, and repairing done on the shortest notice.

We, the undersigned, having examined Mr. H. Owens' New Model Force Pump, take pleasure in stating that we consider it a great improvement on pumps formerly in use. In our opinion it is one of the best pumps ever introduced to the public, being quickly turned into a pump for fire protection. It is powerful, durable, convenient and easy to work, and gives us pleasure to recommend it as a first-class article in every way.

P.S.—Mr. Bradburn liked the Pumps so well that he ordered three to replace the cone pump now in use.

He Knows It.

Hiram D. Maxfield, formerly of Silver Spring, R. I., has no doubt about the wonderful curative powers of Kidney-Wort. He was so afflicted with Kidney Complaint that he could not stand on his feet from pain and weakness. As soon as he commenced using Kidney-Wort he experienced immediate relief and at once began to grow strong and was relieved of all pain and unpleasantness. He says: I know I have been cured by Kidney-Wort."

RESTORING FRUIT CAN RINGS.

Rubber rings such as are used on fruit cans often become hard and brittle. They can be restored by letting them lie in water in which you have put a little ammonia. Mix in this proportion; one part ammonia and two parts water. Sometimes they do not need to lie in this more than five minutes; but frequently a half-hour is needed to restore their elasticity.

WHEN CLOVER BLOOMS.

The days of heat and bloom are here—
The breakfast table's green banks strewn—
The robin calleth loud and clear—
The distance glimmers as a stream,
And in the breeze the meadows swell,
The lilac waves its purple plume,
But, oh! above it all, my heart is full,
When clover blossoms fill a-bloom.

For once, when their aroma sweet
Did perfume all the sunny land,
Beside me ran quick childish feet,
In mine was clasped a childish hand.
Oh! the rare beauty of that day—
There came to me no hint of doom—
As glad we loitered in our way
Midst rosy seas of clover bloom.

With happy laughter, through the glow
Of the wide, blushing, fragrant mead,
We vanished—but o'er the bloom did go,
The one with whom I walked had fled.
Oh! can I e'er forget the time
When sweet, true wedding of those eyes
Uplifted, dark and deep, to mine,
In woeful, innocent surprise!

And now as all the woodlands ring,
And little winds blow soft and sweet,
And bloomy boughs their petals fling
In mimic snow drifts at our feet;
And as the fields gleam rosy red—
And waft of fragrance fill the room—
Oh, then my heart it breaks—she said—
When clover fields are all a-bloom.

A BONELESS BODY.

A MAN WHO CAN BE FLATTENED OUT LIKE A PANCAKE AND ROLLED UP LIKE PAPER.

[Cincinnati Times-Star.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Yesterday your correspondent was introduced to Isaac Arbuckle, a member of the United States Marshal's posse, who had just returned from a raid in search of moonshine whiskey manufacturers in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky. Arbuckle was waiting for a train to take him to his home in Carter County, and when interrogated stated that the revenue raid was almost barren of results, but that he had made a discovery while prowling among the mountains down below Barbourville that he felt sure would be of interest to newspaper readers. His story, in his own words, was as follows:

Two days after leaving Barbourville I spent the night at the cabin of a poor farmer, among the hills, and during a social family conversation, in which I participated, after supper, some one incidentally spoke of Hector Davis, "the man without bones." I immediately asked what was meant by the expression, when my host explained that Hector Davis was one of their "neighbors," living some three miles further on, among the mountains, and that he actually had

NOT A BONE IN HIS BODY.

As I expressed some skepticism, he volunteered to show me over to Hector's the next morning. We knocked at the door of the Davis cabin about 9 o'clock next day, and the first thing that struck my attention upon entering was a middle-aged man sitting bolt upright and supported by a rude and peculiarly-shaped frame.

He was introduced to me as Hector Davis. I at once entered into conversation with him, and discovered him to be a man of fair intelligence, and eager to tell me all about himself, in a voice that was as strong as my own. I grasped his hand upon first entering, but his fingers all rolled up together like a cabbage leaf in a mushy sort of way that made me glad to let go of them. Taking hold of his limbs they yielded to the pressure until they were flattened out to twice their proper width. The only indication of bone was in his skull, which while pliable almost as shoe leather, still offered a kind of protection to the poor fellow's brain.

His neck was limber as a dishcloth, and when his head was released from its support, which was something in the shape of a similar contrivance used it photograph galleries, it rolled helplessly about upon his shoulders

LIKE A FOOT-BALL.

His arms dropped at his side, but with the aid of the muscle he was enabled to partly raise the forearm, although the hand curled over limply and gave the whole a sort of zig-zag shape. He shuffled off his slipper, and requested me to step on his foot. I did so, and it at once spread itself out until it looked as if a railroad train had passed over it. It slowly resumed its natural shape, but it was fully a half hour before he was able to get the foot in his slipper again.

"Perhaps you would like to tie my leg in a knot?" he suggested.

I found no difficulty in performing this feat, while my friend accomplished the same with the other leg, and after we had also tied knots in both his arms he presented a very knotty problem, indeed, and one that would have set a professional contortionist crazy.

When we had unravelled all the knots and straightened out his limbs again, he requested us to lift him gently from his framework and place him upon the floor. This we found no easy task for his body slipped about in our arms like an eel, and it was only by securing a firm grip upon his clothing that we managed to keep him from falling. We finally succeeded in straightening him out upon the floor, and then my friend, who seemed to thoroughly understand the boneless man's programme, seized a barrel standing near, and which I afterwards learned contained turnips, and swiftly upending it at once proceeded to roll it over the prostrate Davis, from his toes up to his chin, and BACK AGAIN TO HIS TOES.

The only manifestation of pain he made was when the barrel passed over his heart and lungs, but it left him in a horrible shape. I can only describe it by comparing it to that of a man made of mud and then thrown up and flattened against a wall. But I had no time to contemplate his flatness, as he almost immediately called to us in a rather weak voice to "roll him up." This we proceeded to do by doubling his head over his chest and then continuing to "roll him up" as you would a carpet until we came to his feet, and he formed a perfect cylinder about as large around as a half-barrel. A voice feebly piped from the centre of the cylinder for us to unroll him, and we soon had him once more spread out over the floor.

HORRIBLE MURDER.

DALRYMPLE, June 9—A horrible tragedy took place near Preston's tavern, on the Monk road, twelve miles east of Orillia, on the morning of Friday last. There has been a scandal going around for the past month or two, caused by the alleged too intimate relations existing between one Jesse Higgins and the wife of Edward Story, better known as Edward Stacie. Higgins, the murdered man, was a widower, with one grown up son, and was about 55 years old. He had about six weeks ago induced Story's wife to go and live with him, and kept her for a week. Story, after some difficulty, induced his wife to return. Higgins habitually entered Story's premises whenever he liked. Mrs. Story seems to have tired of Higgins, and on Friday morning told her husband that she expected a visit from Higgins, whom she would refuse to see for the future, and requested Story to answer his call and dismiss him. Story instructed one of his little children, of whom he has four, to say, in case Higgins called, her parents were from home, and then hid himself. Higgins came along presently and was informed thus, but stated his disbelief and demanded to see the child's mother. Story then entered and ordered him to leave the premises. Higgins flatly refused, boldly stating his intention to take Story's wife with him. Story slapped Higgins across the face and ordered him away again, and was again refused until Mrs. Story should go too. Higgins was a smallish man, and Story a big, burly, powerful fellow, and on this second refusal to quit his premises he knocked Higgins down and dragged him out of doors. Here he kicked the unfortunate man to death, breaking every rib save four from the backbone, it is said. Higgins revived a little, and started about 9 o'clock in the morning to crawl to his own house, which was only a short distance off, and had sparcely arrived at home in the evening when discovered by his son. Two doctors were brought from Orillia, but it availed nothing. A number of stories are in circulation, which the present murder has stirred up, and the general tone of these reports indicate that the whole crew connected with both sides of this scrape are a hard lot. Story is said to be under arrest.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirit of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquillizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healty animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman's of Toronto, have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

BUTTERMILK.

In warm summer weather many persons feel a irresistible craving for something sour, and often gratify this desire by a free indulgence in pickles or vegetables made acid with vinegar. This demand for acids indicates a deficiency in the acid secretions of the stomach, and the demand for an artificial supply is a natural one, but vinegar is the best substitute. Lactic acid, our physicians say, is one of the chief agents that give acidity to the gastric juice of the stomach in health. This is the acid of sour milk, and, therefore, one of the best summer diet drinks that we can use is buttermilk. It satisties the cravings for acids by giving to the stomach a natural supply and at the same time furnishing in its cheesy matter a good supply of wholesome nutrition. A man will endure fatigue in hot weather better on buttermilk than on any diet drink he can use.

REASONS FOR A DIVORCE.

Henry Beltzhoover, aged 70 years, of Pittsburg, Pa., is now suing for a divorce from his wife on the ground that "in 1854 she had called him a hog, and had said that she would as soon live with a hog as him; that she would not pour out his coffee, that she refused to permit him to enter the house by the front door, and that she hid the butter from him."

THE GIRL EVERYBODY LIKES.

She is not beautiful—oh, no! Nobody thinks of calling her that. Not one of a dozen can tell whether her eyes are black or blue. If should ask them to describe her they would only say. "She is just right," and there it would end. She is a merry-hearted, fun-loving; bewitching maiden, without a spark of envy or malice in her composition. She enjoys herself and wants everybody else to do the same. She has always a kind word and a pleasant smile for the oldest man or woman; in fact, I can think of nothing she resembles more than a sunbeam, which brightens everything it comes in contact with.

All pay her marked attention, from rich Mr. W., living in the mansion on the hill, to negro Sam, the sweep. All look after her with an admiring eye, and say to themselves, "She is just the right sort of a girl." The young men of the town vie with one another as to who shall show her the most attention, but she never encourages them beyond being simply kind and jolly. No one can call her a flirt; no, indeed; the young men would deny such an assertion as quickly as she. Girls—wonderful to relate—like her too, for she never delights in hurting their feelings or saying hateful things behind their backs. She is always willing to join in their little plans, and assist them in any way. They go to her with their love affairs, and she manages adroitly to see Will or Peter, and drop a good word for Ida or Jennie, until their little difficulties are all patched up, and everything goes on smoothly again—thanks to her.

Old ladies say she is "delightful." The sly witch—she knows how to manage them. She listens patiently to complaints of the rheumatism or neuralgia and then sympathizes with them so heartily that they are half cured. But she cannot always be with us. A young man comes from a neighboring town by and by and marries her. The villagers crowd around to tell him what a prize he has won, but he seems to know it pretty well without any telling, to judge from his face. So she leaves us, and it is not long before we hear from that place. She is there the woman everybody likes.

"My wife for a number of years has been suffering from Asthma and Disease of the Heart. Her breathing was short and quick, at times causing great distress and apprehension of impending death, and she was greatly prostrate with general debility. At night she was constantly subject to attacks of great difficulty of breathing, the surface of the body becoming cold, and she was apparently lifeless, being restored only by great exertion on the part of attendants. She began taking your medicine about a year ago, and she has not had an attack since, and is now in the enjoyment of very comfortable health. I have great reason to be thankful for extraordinary improvement. W. ARMSTRONG,

ENGLAND'S DRINK BILL.

Mr. W. Hoyle, in a letter to the London Times, points out that the nation's expenditure upon intoxicating liquors during 1883 amounted to $626,896,375, a decrease of $3,870,420 as compared with 1882. In 1882 there was a decrease from 1881 of $4,115,505. In 1880 with a population of 28,778,000, the expenditure of the United Kingdom upon intoxicating liquors was $426,384,350. Year by year the expenditure rose until in 1876 it reached the enormous sum of $736,443,795. Thus, while the population had only grown 15 per cent., the drink bill had grown 72 per cent. Between 1876 and 1880 the drink bill receded from $736,000,000 to $610,000,000. This was largely owing to the depression in trade, and to some extent it was also due to the vigorous efforts of temperance reformers. In 1881 the drink bill rose again to $635,000,000, since which year it has fallen to the extent of about $3,800,000.

SNAKE EATING SNAKE.

A blacksnake four feet long was seen near the south beach, Staten Island, recently, with two-thirds of a two-foot garter-snake protruding from his mouth. A farmer explained the matter in this way: "This is probably the first day that has been warm enough to bring the reptiles from their holes. When they first come out after the hibernation, snakes are very hungry, indeed, and eat the first moving thing they see. At no other season are snakes known to be so hungry that they will eat snakes. Probably they rushed at each other with open jaws, and the biggest one got the best of the bargain." The farmer killed the blacksnake, which could only crawl backward slowly, as the garter-snake protruding prevented a forward motion. The tails of both continued to twitch for some time.

"I preserve my equilibrium under all circumstances," she was heard to say in a pause of the music, to a tow-headed youth who was her escort. "Do you?" he answered softly. "Mother cans hers." Then the music resumed.

"No," said a Kentuckian, "the title of 'Colonel' in this State does not indicate that its possessor is a military man by any means. It simply goes to show that he is willing to put up the drinks between drinks."

"SPACIALLY JIM."

I was mighty good-lookin' when I was young,
Sport an' black-eyed an' slim,
With fellers a-courtin' me Sunday nights,
Spacially Jim.

The likeliest one of 'em all was he,
Chipper an' han'some an' trim,
But I tossed up my head an' made fun o' the crowd,
Spacially Jim!

I said I hadn't no 'pinion o' men,
An' I wouldn't take stock in 'em;
But they kep' a-comin' in spite o' my talk,
Spacially Jim!

I got so tired o' havin' 'em roun',
Spacially Jim!)
I made up my mind I'd settle down
An' take up with him.

So we married one Sunday in church,
It was crowded full to the brim;
'Twas the only way to get rid of 'em all,
Spacially Jim.

A Sweet thing in collars—Lady: "I should like to choose a few of those lovely collars. I suppose they are the newest style out?" Counterman: "Excuse me, madame, those are not collars exactly, but lamp shades!"

HOUSE PLANTS.

A lady whose beautiful plants are the delight of her life and the envy of all her acquaintances, reveals the following secret of success: The soil is about two-thirds good garden soil, and the rest is sand. It is kept light and loose about the roots; they are watered as they appear to need it, and not according to any particular rule; but the chief reason for their wonderful growth and bloom is this: "When any of the leaves wither and fall, instead of picking them up and throwing them away, I make little rolls of them, and tuck them down in the earth and let them decay; and this is the only fertiliser I have ever used. This" she added modestly, "seems to be Nature's way. And the plants that have the afternoon sun, only, grow and rival those that have the morning sun."

What The Figures Reveal.

G. M. Everest, of Forest, says that in one year one family purchased over fifty bottles of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for their own use and that of various friends. He has sold this invaluable throat and lung remedy over sixteen years, and its sales are steadily increasing. 23-2t

SORROWS OF SALVATIONISTS.

Captains Tuckie Hill, Lizzie Ben Louis, Lucifer B. White, Robert Wilkie and Jos. Griffith, of the Salvation Army, were arraigned at the Police Court in London, Ont., on Friday for beating drums and making unusual noises in the streets. Griffith and Wilkie pleaded guilty. The two women and Wilkie claimed they had made no unusual noise, because they had made a daily practice of singing and tambourine playing. All were convicted and fined $10, or ten days, with the exception of Wilkie, who is a boy and a private, and was only fined $1. Crying, singing, praying, and kissing varied the monotony of the court proceedings. The prisoners would not promise to obey the law in future, claiming their conduct was part of their religion. Orders were given for distress warrants to issue, returnable forthwith, though the defendants said they had no goods.

A QUEER POST-OFFICE.

Probably the smallest and most unique post-office in the world is a barrel, which swings from the outermost rock of the mountains overhanging the Straits of Magellan, opposite Tierra del Fuego. Every passing ship opens it to place letters in it or to take them out. Every ship undertakes to forward all letters in it that it is possible for it to transmit. The barrel hangs by its iron chain, beaten and battered by the winds and storms, but no locked or barred office on land is more secure.

In a few hours his arm began to swell, and he is now prostrated by blood poisoning, and the surgeons feel assured that amputation will be necessary.

I may say that I am better than I ever expected to be." Free Trial bottles at J. McKee's Drug store. 23-2

MANHOOD
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.
We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the rapid and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land
Address,

CONFIDENTIAL.

Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUSALEM COMBINATION REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.
Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $3 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.

On Saturday night a lighted match or cigar dropped on the rubbish on the planking on the north side of the east end of the iron bridge set it on fire and a large piece of plank was burned. The fire apparently went out of its own accord.

Hold Your Orders.

We understand that a large stock of furniture, will be opened out at the skating rink, about the middle of May. Persons contemplating purchasing will do well to postpone buying till that time, as the stock to be then offered will be new, fashionable, and well-made, and great bargains may expected.

Money.

Mr. John A Bennett, of Otonabee, is prepared to make loans on real estate and to purchase mortgages. Loans will be made at the lowest rates of interest, payable when the borrower deems the most convenient time, the principal, being payable at such times as may be agreed upon. Expenses are very light. 12-tf

A Washout.

The furious downpour of rain on Monday did considerable damage to the St. John's church grounds The water in addition to guttering the newly grassed slopes, washed out six or eight feet of the stone wall at the base of the grounds at the east end, greatly damaging the appearance of the enclosure, upon which improvements had just been finished, making it one of the finest if not the finest church grounds in the Province.

Defunct Dog.

The hosts of visitors that visited Little Lake Cemetery on Sunday were favored on the way with a view of mortality under its most repulsive form. Midway between Mr. Winch's residence and the gates, there was to be seen the carcase of a huge dead dog, its normal bulk disgustingly emphasized by the plumptitude of putrifaction. It was lying a few yards from the shore presenting a good view to the passers by. While the local board of health is getting into official harness, the authorities should see that such disgusting spectacles are not allowed to horrify the public, especially on the way to our only place of public resort.

Hallelujah Wedding.

A wedding is always an event of the most exciting interest, but pecular interest will attach to the Hallelujah wedding which will be celebrated in the Opera House on Tuesday evening, June 17th. The contracting parties, both prominent officers of the Saved Army, are Lieutenant William Pengelly of Campbellford and Lieutenant Hattie Abercrombie, of Peterborough. The ceremony will be performed in connection with and invested with the peculiarities of the services of the Saved Army. This will be the first event of the kind in town and there will very probably be an immense attendance of the general public, which with the fact that the officers from different outposts will muster in full regimentals and force, will make the occasion one of unusual interest. There will be an admission fee of 25 cents, the proceeds to be devoted to the dower of the bride. Everybody, we understand, will be cordially welcomed to witness the unusual and interesting event—a Hallelujah wedding, which will be doubly so on account of the combination of the marital and martial elements—the chimes of the wedding bells mingling with the notes of the war trumpet.

Street Watering.

Now that the council have decided to put on an extra watering cart and sprinkle Charlotte street as far as the Midland Railway track, it is to be hoped that the officials of the road, with their usual attention to the interests and comforts of their patrons, will have the station grounds, where necessary, regularly watered. Such action will silence the complaints that are often heard during the dusty season.

Eanismore Pic-Nic.

Attention is again directed to the fact that the grand annual pic-nic under the auspices of the Eanismore R. C. Church will be held in the beautiful Park Grounds, Chemong Lake, on Thursday, June 19th. The programme will include sports, games, dancing and other amusements. It promises to be even a better pic-nic than past ones, and more could not be said of it. Whoever misses it will miss a grand day's enjoyment and amusement.

Baseball.

On Thursday, June 12th (to-day), the Peterborough Baseball Club will play a match game with Lindsay, on the High School grounds, in that town. The following players compose the Peterborough nine:

J. Callaghan ..... C.
W. H. Dayman ..... P.
T. Sanderson ..... 1st B.

The Late Mr. Vennor.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Henry G. Vennor the celebrated weather prophet which took place at Montreal on Sunday. Mr. Vennor was of the Dominion geological survey and a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, and probably the best known man in America. He was a brother-in-law of Mr. J. H. Roper, Manager of the Bank of Toronto, here, who is the subject of much sympathy as Mr. Vennor's recent death is the third in the family in three months, a brother and the father, whose venerable figure, while he was staying with Mr. Roper was a familiar figure in our streets, being the other victims of death.

Oddfellows' Decoration Day.

The local brotherhood have decided to unite in decorating the graves of deceased brethren, in Little Lake Cemetery, on Friday, June 27th. The services of the Fire Brigade Band have been secured, but the full details of the ceremonies of the occasion have not yet been arranged. However, the portion of the public who witnessed the grand procession and solemn ceremonial of last year, will retain a vivid recollection of its impressiveness, and this year it will be improved. Anyone wishing to contribute to the success of the occasion by furnishing flowers, wreaths, etc., may leave their contributions at the confectionery shop of Bro. Harry Long, George street.

Wholesale Larceny.

On Wednesday morning Charles Cressell, who with his wife, occupies part of Mr. Lafayette Carpenter's, residence, Nursery Hill, Hunter street, was arraigned at the police court charged with theft from Mr. Carpenter. The ante-chamber of the hall of justice was filled with a cartload of the stolen articles, consisting of every sort of household stuff, clothing, dresses, aprons, bibs, tidies, sauce-pans, door-knobs, crocks, jugs, spades, hoes, etc., etc., which constable Adams had unearthed in Cressell's apartments with a search warrant. These goods were claimed by Mr. Carpenter. Cressell pleaded not guilty, and as the articles had to be identified separately the hearing is going on as we go to press.

The Pulpit.

Rev. John Shaw, pastor of the George street Methodist Church and Superintendent of the district, preached his farewell sermon in George street Church on Sunday evening last. The reverend gentleman has, for three years, discharged the responsible duties of the pastorate with a zeal and acceptability that made the event of his valedictory an occasion of keen regret on the part of both pastor and people.

Rev. Mr. Andrews, of Cobourg College, occupied the pulpit of the Charlotte street Methodist Church on Sunday last, morning and evening.

Rev. A. H. Munro, pastor of the Baptist Church, left on Monday for a trip to St. Louis, U.S.A.

Rev. Mr. Tully preached in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning.

The Dark Spots.

Peterborough has many churches, and, morally, compares favorably with any other town, yet there are occasional occurrences which show that there is much left to be done before the millennial standard is reached. On Saturday evening, after seven o'clock, the unusual and painful spectacle was presented on Brock street of a woman, respectably clad, reeling drunk. At length she fell helpless in the gutter, and a couple of gentlemen performed the rather odorous gallantry of seeing her on her way home. On Sunday evening, about nine o'clock, two young women and three young men, or, rather, two young men and a brute, had an altercation in the public street, in front of a church. The brute objected to one of the girls giving one of the young men her company, and in earnest of his objection, gave her a brutal blow in the mouth, and flung her hat into the church lot. A passer-by threatened to call the police, and the party bolted like a flock of surprised partridges. There is still plenty of harvest to reap in the home mission field.

LACROSSE.

The Junior Team at Hastings.

On Thursday last, the junior members of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club went to Hastings to play with the latter club. The boys went down on the Grand Junction, and were accompanied by about a dozen citizens.

The following is the composition of the teams:—

PETERBOROUGH.

J. Coughlin, goal; E. Rogers, point; S. Heaps, cover point; J. Shevlin, defence field; A. Rogers, field; J. Carveth, centre; R. Bagley, S. Wright, D. Deyell, P. Mescrip, home field; W. J. Morrow, and G. Myers, home; J. Sheehey, field captain.

HASTINGS.

A. Butler, goal; G. Hill, point; J. B. Ward, cover point; J. Berry, defence field; P. Howard, field; J. Myles, centre; J. Conlon, E. Breagh, W. Nelson, and H. Fowlds, home field; A. McFaul and G. Hall, home; G. Brentin, field captain.

Messrs. G. S. Perks and J. McKelvey, acted as umpires for the Peterborough and Hastings clubs respectively, and Mr. Fred Brennan, of Norwood, was selected as referee.

THE GAME.

The first game was a brief but hot one, lasting only ten minutes, G. Myers putting the ball through. The second game was even more hotly contested, and was won by Morrow putting the rubber between the flags. The third game was won by Myles doing the work, and securing the third straight game for the Junior Peterborough's. The last two games lasted about 20 minutes. The game was played with the best of good nature and feeling, having been in this respect, a lesson to crack Toronto clubs. In the evening the Hastings boys entertained the visitors at a supper at the Clarendon Hotel. The home team were delighted with their treatment throughout by the Hastings club, and will always be happy to meet them in future.

For good value in Summer Silks, go to Turnbull's. All the new shades in stock.

PERSONAL.

Rev. J. W. Jolliffe, of the Murry Street Bible Christian Church, preached the sermon to the conference at Bowmanville last Thursday. His selection, is gratifying testimony to his pulpit ability.

Miss Lauder, who was for some time the organist at St. Peter's Cathedral, and who has been recently organist of St. Mary's, Lindsay, has removed to Campbellford, where she takes charge of the R. C. Church choir and organ. She will also open classes in music and French.

Mr. John T. Grange, ex-M. P. P., Napanee, who is doing business, through the county, is spending a few days in town. Farmers who have occasion to do business with Mr. Grange will find him reliable, and square in his transactions—will, in fact, find him a Grange(r) worthy of their guild.

On Tuesday, Bros. James Kendry, Jas. Byrne, W. H. Watson and John Fanning, of Court Peterborough, and Bros. Thos. Rutherford and H. C. Holmes, of Court Little John, C.O.F., left for Toronto, to attend the annual sessions of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

The following gentlemen are representatives of Ashburnham and Peterborough at the Anglical Synod of the diocese of Toronto, which began its session at Toronto on Tuesday. St Luke's, Ashburnham, Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Incumbent, Messrs. R. Meade and H. T. Strickland; St. Mark's, Otonabee, Dr. H. C. Burritt, Toronto; St. John's Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector, J. E. Belcher, A. P. Poussette and Dr. Burnham. Rev. Mr. Clementi, attends as member of Synod.

We are pleased to chronicle continued successes of our young citizens at the Provincial University. At the May examinations Mr. Joseph Gilmour took fourth place in the first-class honor list in the third year classics. Mr. A. Stevenson, son of Mr. James Stevenson, passed with great success the examinations for the degree of B. A., taking at the same time the prize in meterology. Both gentlemen received their preliminary training at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, which is entitled to a large share of the success of their academic career.

Mr. Wm. Van Every, of the firm of Fair, Van Every & Co., has removed from Port Hope and has become a permanent resident of Peterborough, occupying the Robert Stinson residence, Charlotte street, The Port Hope Times, in noticing the removal, says:—

"Mr. and Mrs. Wm. VanEvery left yesterday for Peterborough, to take up their residence there permanently. A large circle of friends will greatly miss both, and their interesting family. Mrs. VanEvery has only recovered a short time from a severe illness, and we trust the change will have a good effect. The growing demands of his Peterborough business necessitated Mr. Van Every's removal, and in conjunction with a large number of our citizens, we wish him the utmost success in his new field of labor."

We are pleased to know that Mr. J. E. Hawkens, who has for the past four or five years filled, with most satisfactory efficiency, the office of private secretary to A. White, Esq., Traffic Manager of the Midland R.R., has been promoted. He has been appointed chief clerk of the Traffic Manager' department in the place of Mr, J. F. Holden, resigned. The appointment is a good one; in addition to being capable and courteous, Mr. Hawkens from his long connection with the business of this department, has become well acquainted with the customers of the road, and his courteous and obliging disposition, will additionally tend to facilitate business transactions and make the department popular with the public.

Beautiful Goods.

Insane Prisoners.

On Wednesday, Mr. John Waddell, Provincial Bailiff, arrived by the midday train with an insane prisoner from Lindsay. The prisoner was with two others from the jail here, taken in the afternoon, to Rockwood Asylum, Kingston. The Asylum at Toronto is overflowing.

CRICKET.

Peterborough Rattpens Cobourg.

On Friday a match game of cricket was played on the Ashburnham ground's between eleven of the Cobourg and Peterborough clubs. The visitors arrived in town on Thursday evening, having been brought up by water from Gore's Landing to Peterborough in the steam yacht "Dora," Captain White.

Play was begun about eleven o'clock. The home team went to the bat, and, judged by the result, made run-getting the business of the hour, for, before the last wicket dropped, the score had been run up to 122. Of these Stratton and Rutherford made 31, the former putting together by brilliant and careful play 51, and Rutherford 20. H. B. Rogers added fifteen to the count. These scores were made in the face of good bowling by Hargraft, Wood and Hayden, of the visitors.

Cobourg then went to the bat, but only succeeded in running up a score of 54. The visitors followed their innings, but only succeeded in tallying 47, leaving the home team victorious by an innings and 20 runs. Below is the score:

In justice to the home club it may be stated that they had not their strongest team in the field, several of their best players not being included in Friday's eleven. The Peterborough club this year shows strong form and will make a good record the coming season.

New Market Scales.

The new six ton market weigh scales, made by Guerney & Ware, are on hand, and workmen are preparing the foundations for their reception. While this is being done, Mr. Doherty has secured the use of the scales at Stevenson's grain warehouse.

Cricket.

On Friday, June 20th, a match game between the home club and the Toronto Cricket Club will be played on the Ashburnham grounds. The home team will be a strong one, and the visitors are rated high, therefore we may expect an interesting day's sport—a game well worth seeing.

Wolfe Street By-Law.

On Tuesday, the motion (at the suit of Mr. Laplante) to quash the by-law of the town granting Wolfe street to the O. & Q. Railway Company, was argued in the Queen's Bench Division, Toronto. Judgment will be given on Friday. The Toronto agents of Mr. Laplante's solicitor, say that there is a 'reasonable' probability that that the by-law will be quashed.

Board of Health Dumping Ground.

The Sanitary Inspectors have promptly carried out the instructions of the Board of Health. On Friday last they secured a dumping ground, for depositing filth, refuse, rubbish, etc., which, under the by-law must be placed outside the town limits. The place is May's sand pit west of the R. C. Cemetery, and is excellently adapted to the purpose intended.

A Paving Experiment.

Work was began on last Wendesday morning, under the direction of the street committee, at the laying of an experimental stretch of cobble stone gutter pavement on George street, from R. B. McKee's hardware store, north to George street. The work is being done by Mr. Charles Billings a professional pavior, who goes at his work as though he thoroughly understood it.

Drowned for Two Dollars.

On Saturday evening a party of Italian navvies were crossing the O. & Q. Railway bridge. One of the party, Niccolo Perrugio, took from his package of $52 a two dollar bill, to give to his brother. In the act the wind caught the bill, blowing it into the water. He ran down the embankment at the west end of the bridge and waded into the water. He grasped the bill, but in so doing got beyond his depth and was drowned in sight of all his companions, none of them being able to swim. On Sunday the body was found, one hand grasping the fatal two-dollars, and the other the $50 wallet. The burial took place on Monday.

What the High Court Brought Forth.

The Peterborough representatives returned from the High Court meeting, bringing goodly reports. During the past year there have been instituted twelve new courts, including Court Little John, No. 92, Peterborough, representing an increase of 600 members, the total membership now being 3,500. While the membership has shown this satisfactory increase, the care exercised in admitting healthy members of good habits is shown by the fact, that the death returns are less than in any previous year, the number of deaths—with claims paid, having been only eleven, of which one was that of Richard C. Wright of Court Peterborough. There have been paid by subordinate Courts since the last High Court meeting for relief other than endowment, (sick benefits), $4814.76; for medical attendance, $2352.44; for burying the dead, $230.37; making a total of $7397.57 expended for benevolent purposes during the year.

All the subordinate Courts are in good position financially, there being on hand in the different treasuries, cash to the amount of $8036.56, besides property valued at $6,318.71. It will thus be seen that the order is in a most flourishing condition, forming one of the most economical as well as safest beneficiary institutions in the country, and worthy the membership of any healthy, steady man who may wish at a trifling outlay to provide a legacy for his children or dependents, as well as enjoy the benefits of a money grant and free medical attendance, during the period of illness when as a rule the income, derived from a fixed salary, ceases.

Peterborough also supplies a High Court Officer, Bro. James Kendry having been appointed High Junior Woodward, and the local delegates also succeeded in securing Peterborough as the next place of meeting of the High Court (the first Tuesday in June, 1885,) against such competitors as Toronto, Hamilton, London and Chatham.

No action was taken in dealing with the suggested change in the endowment plan, but it was decided to appoint an energetic, gentleman to act as a sort of inspector over subordinate lodges and, where necessary, to present the claims of the order in the most favorable light. Owing also to the exertions of the Peterbyrough delegates it was decided to publicly invite tenders for the printing required by the High Court during the coming year.

THE BARRIE LACROSSE MATCH.

We have been requested to re-publish the following from the Lindsay Canadian Post:

"To the Editor of the Canadian Post:

"SIR,—My remarks in your issue of the 30th ult., under the heading 'Disgraceful Conduct,' have struck home. An indiscreet friend of the 'party of young gentlemen,' as he is pleased to call them, has written the Peterborough papers a denial of my statements.

"He seems to have hoped that by a bold effort he could wipe out the disgrace which the report of their gross misconduct has brought upon them. The denial—remarkable for brazen falsehood—could only be produced by one who was both blind and deaf, or by a person who was not there at all, but who was duped into attempting a defence. No man with any sense of decency, and who knew the facts would be guilty of such a proversion. I saw and heard for myself. Three of my fellow-passengers, men of character and experience, who take a kindly interest in young men and their amusements, saw and heard for themselves, and will substantiate and emphasize every word I stated. Do the members of the Barrie lacrosse club need some reminders? If they conducted themselves properly why was it necessary for one of the party to try to check the vile utterances of some of his party by whispering, 'there are ladies on the train?' Was it not suggested among themselves when the singing of Salvation Army songs by such a company became painfully blasphemous, that if they could not sing other songs they should desist? Did not several of the party follow the intoxicated youth when he wished to pass to the smoking car and hold him lest he should fall? Did not the same youth afterwards stagger along the aisle of the coach uttering filthy language? I know nothing of these 'young gentlemen' while in Peterborough, but their behaviour while at the Lindsay station and on the train to Lorneville, between nine and eleven o'clock in the forenoon of 27th May, was that of a completely demoralized party. Their would-be defender makes no distinction. In my former letter I said a number of the members, not intending to include all, because no exception could be taken to the conduct of several men who wore badges. These latter were doubtless only common persons, not dignified young gentlemen like their companions, who, to quote their champion in the press, 'will enjoy themselves to the fullest possible extent, and be as cheerful as their good spirits and youthful vigor will allow,' even though in doing so they disgust every one who comes within sight or hearing of them, and bring dishonor upon themselves, their friends and the town which gives them a name.

[We fail to see in what way the correspondence on the above subject can benefit or entertain either the public or the parties concerned. COUNTY COUNCIL.

June Session.

Warden's Address—Three New Members.

The June session of the Council of the county of Peterborough began at the Chamber in the Court House on Tuesday, June 17th, 1884, at 2 o'clock p.m.

The following members were present:—The Warden, John Lang, Esq., in the chair, Messrs. Burnham, Stephenson, Brown, Elmhirst, Kidd, Moloney, McCliggott, Mansfield, Crough, Stewart, Sanderson, Fitzgerald, Foster Hicks and Stephenson (W. H.)

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

The warden then delivered the following address,

GENTLEMEN,—It is with extreme regret that I have to announce that since our last meeting it has pleased Providence to the late representative of Harvey, George Oliver, Esq., whom I feel sure you will miss, as he was highly esteemed by the members of the Council.

REMOVE FROM AMONGST US

And also on the 16th day of May it pleased our Great Creator to remove from amongst us our old and respected friend, Henry Collins, Esq., late Warden of this County and Reeve of North Monaghan, which municipality he so ably represented for the last twelve years, and whose absence I am sure will be felt by every member of the Council.

LEGISLATION.

Shortly after we adjourned in January last I was notified by Mr. Blezard, M.P.P., that a deputation from the County of Victoria had waited upon the Ontario Government for the purpose of getting the Municipal Act amended relating to bridges on county boundary lines, and he thought that probably some of us would have to go up to watch the interests of the County. I at once advised him that if there was likely to be any action taken in the matter to instruct our County Clerk to notify me and I would go up and take two or three of my colleagues with me to help him and Mr. Carnegie to defeat their object. In a short time our clerk was telegraphed to by our representatives and he immediately sent the same to me, but owing to sickness in my family it was impossible for me to leave home, so I asked our clerk to request Messrs. Sanderson, Collins and Moloney to go at once, as the municipal committee of the Legislature were to meet the day following. They complied at once with my request and went to Toronto, and were the means of having the bill thrown out altogether, the particulars of which they will be able to lay before you at this session, which I am sure will be satisfactory to you all.

BRIDGES.

Nassau bridge:—When the contractors got through I purposed calling the committee together to inspect the work, but Mr. Sanderson was in Kansas and Mr. Collins was sick in bed, so Mr. Moloney, Mr. Belcher and myself went up and inspected it and pronounced it a first-class job, and according to our judgment reflected great credit on the contractors, both Mr. Wynn and the Toronto Bridge Company.

Locks bridge: When the bridge company sent their men down from Toronto to put up the swing, on examination by their foreman it was found that the abutment that the swing rested upon was not substantial enough. He called Mr. Belcher's attention to it and upon examination it was found to be filled up with loose stones and clay, so Mr. Belcher caused about six feet to be taken off the top and replaced with ashlar rock work which I, in company with Mr. Belcher, examined when finished, just when they were beginning to put the swing together, and pronounced it a first-class piece of workmanship. We again examined it on the 17th day of May, when the swing was about finished. The men were laying the flooring. They closed and opened the swing to let us see how nicely it worked. It seemed to swing very freely and easily, and is a very fine looking structure, and a credit to both town and county.

GRAND JUNCTION.

I suppose most of you are aware that the Midland and Grand Junction Company have paid all former costs on the suit between E. O. Bickford and the County, and have started proceedings anew against the County of Peterborough. Mr. Edwards, acting under an old resolution instructing the Warden to defend the same, went to Toronto and retained Mr. Bethune on behalf of the County, which I considered correct, although not directed particularly by myself, and he will be able to lay the facts before you this session as far as the case has gone.

EQUALIZATION.

The equalization of the assessment roll is a very important duty you are called upon to discharge at this the June session, and I hope it will receive your careful consideration, so that each municipality may bear their fair share of the county rate.

There are other matters that will come before you, and I am sure they will receive the consideration that their nature and importance require.

JOHN LANG,
Warden.

NEW MEMBERS.

The Warden announced that the three new members of the Council, the Reeves of North Monaghan, Harvey and Norwood, elected since the January session of the Council, had filed their certificates of election with the County Clerk.

On motion of Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Moloney, Messrs. Burnham, Stephenson (W. H.), Sanderson and the mover and seconder were appointed a committee on the Warden's address.

On motion of Mr. Sanderson, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, the names of Messrs. Stephenson, Foster and Hicks were placed on the different committees of which their predecessors respectively were members.

The Council adjourned for the convenience of committees.

Second Day—Wednesday.

The council resumed this morning, all the members present.

WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

The special committee on the Warden's address reported as follows:

1. Your committee concur in the sentiments expressed by the Warden in his address in regard to the lamented deaths of Mr. Geo. Olliver and Mr. Henry Collins, late members of this council and recommend that a committee be appointed to draft a resolution of condolence to their respective families.

2. Your committee fully approve of the actions of the Warden in opposing the proposed legislation relating to Bridges on County Boundary Lines, and congratulate the council that owing to their prompt action and the successful endeavors of our representative all objectionable features of the bill were removed.

3. Your committee are pleased to learn that the locks and Nassau Bridge have been so creditably completed and beg to assert that experience has justified the wisdom of this council in building such structures of a solid, permanent and substantial nature.

4. Your committee beg to endorse the action of the Warden and Mr. Edwards in reference to the Grand Junction Railway suit, and recommend that the suit be vigorously resisted. All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN BURNHAM,
Chairman.

PERSONAL.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall has been appointed solicitor for the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. A. Hayter, editor of the Millbrook Messenger, was in town and made us a call on Wednesday.

Mr. John Wilson of Lindsay, one of the earliest settlers of this county, was in town this week on a visit.

Mr. George Peters has been appointed librarian of the Mechanics' Institute, his duties to begin July 1st.

Mr. R. C. Strickland, Reeve of Lakefield, was unable, on account of illness in his family, to take his seat in the County Council on the first day.

Mr. F. Stancliffe, of Montreal, the General Manager for Canada of the British Empire Mutual Life Assurance Company, was registered at the Oriental on Tuesday.

Rev. Alex. Bell, of St. Andrew's Church, started on Friday morning for a visit to the old country, attending during his absence the Pan-Presbyterian Assembly in Belfast, Ireland.

Mrs. T. Menzies and Miss Teenie Menzies, Mrs. J. R. Stratton and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Davidson left on Monday morning for a visit to Winnipeg, where they will spend the summer.

Mr. George E. Williams, permanent secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Peterborough, has been absent in Montreal attending the fourteenth annual conference of the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. George Tanner, who has lately been employed in St. Catharine's, returned home on Saturday, having been put out of commission by having lost a finger by accident in the factory.

The Stationing Committee of the Toronto Conference have returned Rev. Mr. Manning to the pastorate of the Charlotte street church. Rev. Peter Tovell will be the pastor of the George street church, and Rev. John Shaw goes to Orillia.

Rev. Mr. Jeffers, father of Mr. J. Frith Jeffers, on his retirement from the active work of the ministry, was the subject of the following complimentary resolution at the recent session of the Toronto Methodist Conference:—

"That it is with sincere regret and heartfelt sorrow that we learn that the Rev. Dr. Jeffers finds it necessary, after nearly half a century spent in the itinerancy, through failing health and advanced years to retire from the effective ministerial work. Our regret is deeper from the knowledge of the fact that in parting with Dr. Jeffers from the regular work we are parting with no ordinary man. He early came to the front both in his pulpit ministrations and as a Conference debater. He preached the Word with power. For more than 40 years his name has been a household word in Methodism. He possessed in a high degree the confidence of his brethren—filled the highest position in the gift of the Church, from editor of the official organ of the Church to that of President of the Toronto Conference. Our confidence and esteem accompany our venerable brother into private life, and we pray that Divine Providence may grant him many many happy days, and that he may have strength at least occasionally to employ his great talents in publishing the message of salvation from both the pulpit and the press; that Dr. Jeffers be respectfully and earnestly requested to favor the Church with a volume of sermons and lectures."

PIC-NIC FARE.

Now that we have good railway facilities connecting us with the towns eastward and westward, it is expected that our village will be patronized by a number of pic-nic parties. Some very eligible sites exist in our neighborhood, and every necessary adjunct for the comfort of pic-nicers can be easily obtained here. With this end in view, our [illegible] accompanied by several other gentlemen, on Friday last made an inspecting tour of several beautifully sheltered groves on the property of Mr. Grover—who kindly consented to the suitable place in his possession to be used for this purpose—and finally selected the woods south of Mr. P. M. Grover's residence as the site best adapted for holding pic-nics. It is beautifully shaded with large, handsome trees, high and dry, and well laid out with large trustful swings, grass swept, together a really pleasant [illegible] and calculated to afford a few hours of real pleasure to those desiring a day's relaxation from their business engagements. Already Reeve has received letters from [illegible] from parties desiring to hold pic-nics as soon as the O. & Q. is ready to carry them over that road, and the cars, we hope, to welcome to Norwood a large party from our enterprising county town. At any rate they can rest assured they will receive a cordial welcome and a warm reception.

NORWOOD HIGH SCHOOL.

Dr. McLellan, Senior High School Inspector, visited the Norwood High School on Thursday, the 5th inst. He made a thorough examination of the pupils of the different classes, and at the conclusion highly [illegible] the teachers upon the successful and methodical manner in which the different classes of the work of the school was performed. The Dr., in the presence of the scholars, paid a high compliment to the headmaster, Mr. John Davidson, for his thorough scholarship, and for his skill shown in the management of the school—an opinion which is entertained throughout the length and breadth of the school section. Under the present principal's guiding hand it is well known the discipline of the school is most thorough, and that its reputation now stands as high as any institution of the kind in the Dominion. This is saying a good deal for our High School, but the official record of the institution will amply bear out these statements. After the examination Dr. McLellan visited our new school buildings, almost completed, was well pleased with them, and referred to them as being very creditable to the taste and enterprise of the people of Norwood. We learn that our School Board intend to have a grand opening of this structure in September next, at which it is expected the Minister of Education, Dr. McLellan, and other prominent educationists will be present.

EXCURSION TO TORONTO.

The members of the Presbyterian Church here have arranged for a gigantic excursion to Toronto on the Ontario and Quebec Railway. The date is not definitely settled, but it is expected it will be about the 18th of July. An excursion by the same line is the talk to Ottawa, and perhaps [illegible] under the management of the [illegible] the Methodist church.

HIGH SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

Owing to the very large number of candidates for examination at the Norwood High School, two presiding examiners have been appointed to conduct the proceedings here, instead of one, as formerly. There are no less than thirty-seven pupils from our High School who intend writing for certificates, the largest number Norwood has ever sent up for this purpose. Of these the majority are non-residents, a fact which speaks volumes for the popularity of [illegible]. Forty-five pupils are now in attendance at this institution, of whom thirty-three are from different parts of the county, outside the limits of our school section. With the increased facilities which the new school building will certainly furnish, and our present efficient and popular staff of teachers, we expect that our High School in the future will be one of the most popular scholastic institutions in the Dominion. So mote it be.

THE NINTH LINE.

The Ontario Government having granted the sum of $500 to open up the Ninth Line through the township of Dummer, the municipalities interested—Norwood and Dummer—intend supplementing the Government grant. Dummer, by a by-law passed at a recent meeting of its Council, has granted the sum of $200, while Norwood is now raising a like amount by subscription. The opening and improving of this road is a want long felt, and will, no doubt, prove advantageous to both municipalities concerned.

AN ELEVATOR.

There is considerable talk of an elevator being constructed at the station here at once, so as to be ready for the reception of this year's disposable grain crop in this section. Other places have too long euchred Norwood out of this profitable grain business.

Hallelujah Wedding.

The Hallelujah Wedding, under the auspices of the Saved Army, took place in the Opera House on Tuesday evening. There was a large muster of officers: Gen. Lindsay, Capts. Willis and Munt; Lieuts. J. Sleepy Wyatt, Nellie Willis, Annie White, Louise Pearce, — Rash, Sarah Hayes and Addie Brown; Delegates, C. B. Sproule and W. Phillips, Sergeants [illegible] Tyrrell and T. Webb. The ceremony was prefaced by the usual services, and at 9.15 Rev. Mr. Torrance, who performed the ceremony, came on the stage, accompanied by Rev. Messrs. Bennett and Butcher, who assisted him. Sergeant (Miss) Sherwood was bridesmaid, and Sergeant T. Webb acted as best man. All were dressed in uniform. Both principals made the usual responses in a firm tone of voice. As the minister pronounced Wm. H. Pengelly and Hattie Abercrombie man and wife, Sergeant Webb threw out a line of skirmishers, and, by a dexterous flank movement, surrounded the husband and captured the first kiss from the bride. This little military manœuvre was greeted with loud applause by the spectators, the maiden members of the staff, who formed a square on the stage behind the bridal party, enjoying it particularly well. Prayer by Rev. Mr. Torrance concluded the interesting ceremony, when the song, "Will you meet me at the fountain?" was sung. The happy pair then received the congratulations of their friends, to which we add our own, with the hope that happiness may crown the union, and that the newly-wed will never regret having added, to the duties of their spiritual warfare against sin, the more militant elements of matrimony. There was a fair attendance of spectators, and the utmost decorum, with the excusable exception noted, marked the proceedings.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We are pleased to chronicle the marriage on Wednesday June 11th, 1884, of Mr. Joseph Lowe of Emily, to Miss Mary Ann, daughter of Thos. Tellford, Esq. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. A. E. de St. Dalmas, in presence of a large number of invited guests, who assembled to enjoy the happy occasion. The presents to the bride were numerous, costly and well selected, besides being both useful and ornamental. With many wishes of long life and happiness to the new married couple, the company separated only when approaching day spread its crimson mantle over the Eastern horizon.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 19, 1884.

The Health Exhibition.

The present month witnessed a unique spectacle among exhibitions in the great metropolis of the world. Early in May the International Health Exhibition opened at South Kensington, with a gorgeous ceremonial, as may be expected, and the presence of the usual admiring crowds.

Most people, we presume, who have heard of the exhibition (originated by the Prince of Wales), have been wondering at the very title, and have put to themselves some perplexing questions upon the subject. "What," they ask, "has health got to exhibit? How can that best of earthly blessings be turned into a huge spectacle and appear to mortal eyes? In what form, and under what disguise, can the functions which we call health be embodied, so that admiring crowds may read, mark and inwardly digest the glorious sight? Do the originators purpose to exhibit man in the varied stages of health and of disease?"

The exhibition occupies the site of the Fisheries' Exhibition, which was such a marvellous success last year. But fishery is a subject suggesting countless objects for exhibition. There are fish themselves in innumerable forms; there is all the paraphernalia for catching, cooking and selling them, besides the countless contrivances used for saving or restoring the lives endangered in such trying occupations as the seal, cod and whale fisheries.

Very little reflection is needed to remind us that a good deal of this may serve to show what health demands. Fish are food, and the right kind of food is certainly a prime element of health.

When this is recognized it is quite easy to imagine what sort of articles is required in order to provide material for a Health Exhibition.

So a visitor to the Exhibition now being held at Kensington would expect to find the broad aisles and immense spaces lined with refreshment saloons, with tempting stores of cake and confectionery, with immense barrels of ale and beer, and shelves filled with curious mixtures in the form of aerated drinks. No one who expected all this would be disappointed. The inevitable sandwich and coffee vendors are in their place as usual. Then the visitor would find that the exhibition is much like our own agricultural shows in other respects. There are displays of huge vegetables of all kinds, furnished by the seed merchants. There are dairies, with charming dairy maids, who regularly go through the process of milking, churning and making butter, for the instruction and delectation of visitors, while the genuine Alderney cows form a pretty and realistic back-ground. There are splendid dining rooms, also, where cheap dinners are supplied on scientific principles, and where the curious can obtain practical instruction in the art of cooking.

It is evident, also, that our bodies require to be covered as well as filled. So provision is made for the display of dress and fashion, in all its forms. Here, too, the historical student may gaze at the way in which our forefathers dressed, from the plate armour of the Roman knight and the rough fabric of a peasant's dress in King John's days, down to the nobby uniforms of Queen Victoria's regiments and the charming dresses of a court lady of our own day. This part of the exhibition is certain to be well patronized, even among those who care little for the mysteries of health. It will attract the antiquarian, the student and the ordinary spectator who only desires to be amused.

The managers also have remembered that healthy man in our own days and climate requires to be housed. So to convey to the multitudes an idea of how our ancestors dwelt, they have produced in fac simile a fragment of old London. The homes they have erected are most picturesque and charming in appearance, with quaint and curious forms. But they are probably built as warnings, rather than examples. Compared with modern houses, we must conclude that in comforts, conveniences, and in sanitary and useful appliances, we are much better off than our fathers.

Such is a mere fragmentary outline of what health has to exhibit. It is apparent that the sightseer, rather than the specialist or student, has been considered in the combination that awaits the visitor to the exhibition. But here, again, probably, the managers would assert amusement and recreation must be combined with work, in order to fulfil the conditions of a perfectly healthy existence. For these things, at any rate, they have amply provided.

Mr. T. C. Wells, Chemist and Druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure sells well, and gives the best of satisfaction for all diseases of the blood." It never fails to root out all diseases from the system, cures dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, etc., purifies the blood, and will make you look the picture of health and happiness.

MILLBROOK.

While working on a barn near here on Tuesday last, Mr. Geo. McWilliams of Omemee, met with a painful accident by cutting his right foot with an axe, and about twenty minutes after a eldest fell and cut three of his fingers on the right hand.

PORT HOPE.

The Rev. A. Murdoch, of the Baptist church, has had the degree of LL. D. conferred upon him by the Toronto University.

On Sunday says the Times, the new organ in St. Mark's Church was dedicated by a special opening service to Almighty God.

The Guide, has been making great improvements in its establishment, by removing to the premises opposite its old stand, Walton street. The building has been remodelled and fitted up in a very convenient manner, making it one of the best country offices in the Province. The improvement in the printing of the paper recently is also very noticeable. We congregulate Messrs. Geo. Wilson & Son on their prosperity.

NORWOOD.

Mr. F. H. Birt, manager of Buck's Flouring mills, offers $200 reward for the discovery of the party who stole $1000 from the mills on May 25th. A couple of detectives have been engaged in "working up" the robbery and the incendiary fires at Cobbersmith's. They are said to be meeting with success.

Mr. Todd, the newly appointed road-master, is "raising things" on this section of the O. & Q. Railway. The three locomotives employed in ballasting are performing "wonders" under his management.

Mr. John Pettigrew commenced work on his new brick residence on Peterborough st., on Wednesday last.

About fifty Italians, employed on the O. & Q. near Crow River, struck for higher wages on Tuesday last.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Mr. T. W. Johnston, of Campbellford, challenges any checker-player residing here or within a radius of ten miles, to a friendly trial of skill for the championship of the district. Players in Hastings, Warkworth and Norham are included in the above. Matches to be played between July 10th and August 20th.

The Rawd Army officers and troops marched to the English Church on Sunday last. The meetings are still well attended, and the hall last Sunday night was crowded. Visitors have not been very liberal with the contents of their pocket books, however, as an intimation was thrown out some days ago that unless the receipts were larger, the work here must come to a standstill.

The cricket club played the return match with the Lakefield club, in that village, last Tuesday. Arrangements are also being made with the Brighton club for a match here, soon.

COBOURG.

We are glad, says the World to hear good accounts of the growing crops from various sections of this County. They are as forward as usual at this time of the year: and, generally, look very promising. The rain of the early part of the week was just what was wanted, and did not come a moment too soon. We hope to be able to present a continuation of these favorable reports.

An item of considerable interest at the recent session of the County Council, was the appointment of an Inspector of Public Schools for Durham, in place of Mr. J. J. Tilley, resigned. The applicants were Messrs. W. E. Tilley M. A., head-master of the Lindsay High School, and Samuel Hughes, First English Master in the Toronto Collegiate Institute. Both gentleman were so well known in Durham, and so highly recommended, that the Council had some difficulty in making the selection. The choice finally fell on Mr. Tilley, and a by-law was passed confirming his apppintment.

BENSFORT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The crops are making excellent show since the recent beautiful showers and appearance indicates good returns.

The building boom during the season is on the increase. Many handsome edifices are either completed or in course of construction, in the vicinity.

Mr. J. Dawson found about half a dozen of his sheep worried. Almost immediately afterwards two wandering dogs, whose actions created suspicion, suddenly ceased to roam.

The Rossin House has during the spring undergone repairs such as reflect credit on the proprietor. The handsome addition attached to the south end is nearly all of new material.

Considerable has been done already towards removing the quantity of the remains of the ancient pines, which without removal form serious obstruction to the proper cultivation of the soil. Tommy Armstrong recently made the first raid on his farm with his new machine and succeeded in removing upwards of 220 of the old veterans.

In the absence of your worthy canvasser our village owing to its usual busy and innocient hum would scarcely be noticed outside of the limits, did not some casual observer discuss its progress or probabilities, with the village blacksmith, or something unusual take place. However nevertheless, notwithstanding, its highly pacific reputation, John was left the other day to his fate, with the only fighter we can boast of, who besides being at times noted for pugilism, on this happy occasion, fully prepared to expose the muscle of old Ireland, being prompted principally by the unwholesome influence of a few gulps of rye. Our blacksmith coolly took in the situation, and after a short parley, deftly placed the muscular giant on the soft side of a heap of scrap iron, where a nap in the bright and empyreal regions of dreams so far unclogged the wings of his fancy, as to materially change his style of procedure.

THE CURFEW IN CALIFORNIA.

The "curfew ordinance" is being slowly but pretty generally instituted in the towns and cities of California, and a good thing it is for both parents and children. The street is so especially attractive at night to all boys, many of whom are inclined to idle and vicious habits, that it is the duty of the law to correct so far as may by by forbidding them the freedom of the city after seasonable hours, thus in a measure preventing them from forming practices that tend to make disrupted young men and bad old ones. Other States might copy after California in this respect, to advantage.

HARMONIZE WITH HER DOG.

"Hello old man," said a gentleman to a friend, "what's that you've got under your coat?"

"That," was the sad reply, as he brought it forth, "is my wife's little pug dog."

"What are you going to do with him? Take him somewhere and drown him?"

"I wish I might," earnestly responded the gentleman, fetching a sigh. "No, I am not going to drown him. My wife is having a new spring suit made to harmonize with Beauty, as she is pleased to call the disgusting little brute, and I am on my way to the drygoods store to match him for half a yard more of material.

The Great Inflammatory Remedy.

NERVILINE, the latest discovered pain remedy, may safely challenge the world for a substitute that will as speedily and promptly check inflammatory action. The highly penetrating properties of Nerviline make it never-failing in all cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, pains in the back and side, headache, lumbago, etc. It possesses marked stimulating and counter irritant properties, and at once subdues all inflammatory action. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterboro', write: "Our customers speak well of Nerviline." Nerviline may be tested at the small sum of ten cents, as you can buy a sample bottle for that sum at any drug store. Large bottles 25 cents. Try Nerviline the great internal and external pain cure. Sold by all druggists and country dealers.

POWER OF IMAGINATION.

"Mother, may I go to see the lacrosse game this afternoon?"

"No, Johnny. You've been to see several games already. We can't afford so much expense. Just imagine you see it; that will do just as well."

"All right, mother."

"That's a good boy. Now run and bring me a bucket of coal right quick."

"Just imagine you see a bucket of coal settin' there, mother; it will do you just as much good."

Then Johnny imagined he saw his mother reaching for the strap, and he flew out after the coal like a good boy.

A Lawyer's Opinion of Interest to All.

J. A. Tawney, Esq., a leading attorney of Winona, Minn.' writes: "After using it for more than three years, I take great pleasure in stating that I regard Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, as the best remedy in the world for Coughs and Colds. It has never failed to cure the most severe colds I have had, and invariably relieve the pain in the chest." Trial Bottles of this sure cure for all Throat and Lung Diseases may be had Free at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.00.

WHEN THE CIRCUS BEGAN.

"Podge, you're a fool!" yelled the good lady, threateningly.

"Yes, deary, I suppose so," replied the poor fellow, trying to smile, "but I was not always crazy."

"You've been crazy ever since I knew you," she howled.

"Was I off my base when you married me?"

"I think you most assuredly was."

"Yes, yes," mused Podge, thoughtfully, "it is a self-evident fact that I was, or you never would have got me."

The curtain rose then and the circus began.

WHERE CANARIES ARE REARED.

Canary birds are mostly raised in the Harts mountains of Germany by people who are so poor that the two New York firms which have a monopoly of importing them are compelled to advance money to buy food for the young. There are about 100,000 canaries brought to America during the season, from September to March, and a great many die on the way. One large dealer says that the cost of feeding the pets in this country is fully $5,000,000 a year.

THE TORONTOS BEATEN BY THE SHAMROCKS IN MONTREAL.

The long talked of match between the Torontos and their old-time foes, the Shamrocks, came off on the grounds of the latter in Montreal on Saturday. A large crowd assembled and were repaid by witnessing a tremendous struggle. When the Torontos won the first game in 2½ minutes the excitement was intense, and this was increased when the visitors scored a triumph in the second game in 12 minutes. After that the Shamrocks, who had hitherto played a loose game, pulled themselves together. A grand struggle took place but it was plain that the Torontos were not the stayers that the Shamrocks were. The latter won the next three games.

Pure Blood

Is the absolute necessity of health. The marvellous results of Shaker Blood Syrup upon all humors and low conditions of the blood(as proven by the cures,prove it the best blood medicine. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes and enriches the blood thereby restoring and renovating the whole system. Shaker Blood Syrup purifies the blood, cures dyspepsia, cures biliousness. A peculiar point in Shaker Blood Syrup is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

Toronto, Ont., February 20th, 1884.

Gentlemen,—
I have used Shaker Blood Syrup in my family for Scrofulous humor with wonderful success.and am happy to tell you that it is the best medicine we ever used. I do sincerely advise any one who is troubled with scrofula to to give this valuable remedy a trial, and assure them that they will not be disappointed.

Very truly yours,
J. P. Sanborn.

Shaker Blood Syrup is sold by Ormond & Walsh. Price $1.00 per bottle, or six for $5.

SUNDAY IN VERMONT.

Last Sunday one of the pastors of the little village of Pownal was walking to church, when he saw a man, with his coat off, digging in his garden. The good man beheld with grief and astonishment, and, coming up to the fence, began to recite in a solemn voice: Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work—"

"See here," said the man in the garden, looking up, "be you talking to me."

"Yes, my poor man, I am."

"Well, you needn't worry about me, then. I ain't agoin' to do any work; I'm only diggin' worms to go a-fishin' with."

The Half was Never Told of the wonderful powers and virtues of that best of all medicines, Kidney-Wort. It has been tried and proved. Its cures are numberless and the record of (supposed) incurable cases that have yielded to its influence, is astounding. If you have trouble with your Kidneys, Liver or Bowels, if you suffer from Constipation and piles, if you are a victim of Rheumatism or Malaria, take Kidney-Wort. You will find it the remedy you need.

WHAT SHE WAS PLAYING.

Sam Ritchie, a granger from Union Creek last week, called on a friend at Branswick Hotel. As they walked past the parlor a lady was observed pounding on the piano.

"What is she playing?" asked the granger.

"She is playing the 'Harp that Once Through Tara's Halls.'"

"So it is a harp she is playing. Dang my buttons if it didn't sound like a piano. It looks like one too."

One of the most notable properties of Dr. Wheeler's Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya is its sustaining power during active mental and physical exertion. Business men, editors, clergymen, lawyers, physicians, and all classes engaged in any occupation requiring great application and consequent fatigued will find this remedy invaluable, as it will enable them to accomplish their work with comparative ease. Phosphate of Lime is an active agent of nutrition, constituting more than fifty per cent of the system; Phosphorous, a powerful Nerve Tonic; Phosphate of Iron, a blood maker: and Calisaya an agreeable supporting Tonic. Sold by all druggists.

There are fully twenty thousand people between Natchez and Vicksburg, who are destitute, and have no prospects that they can raise a decent crop until next year.

"DIED GAME."

It was morning on the prairie.

To the east is the rosy sunrise and the dim, far-away outline of a mountain range; to the north a shadowy line which may mean hills or timber; to the west and south a broad, level ocean of green grass which has no limit. It seems as level as a floor to the eye, but it is cut up with dry ravines and hollows, and there are sharp ridges and dips and sunken spots.

The sun is warm, the air still, and every blade of grass is loaded with diamond dew-drops. There is no bird to chirp, and no crickets to call out, but there is no feeling of loneliness. One who faces that morning sun and feels the vastness of the prairie is lost in quiet amazement. There is an awe upon him akin to that which man feels when he sees the ocean lashed to mighty fury. The one is an exhibition of Divine anger—the other of Divine peace.

See! A rough-clad, full-bearded man, of iron muscle and fearless courage, suddenly rises from a hollow, tosses aside his blanket, and slowly turns his head in every direction to scan the green grass sea. At the same moment his horse emerges from a dip which has heretofore sheltered him, and, with a whinny of recognition and pleasure, advances straight upon his master.

Alone! Man and horse are the only living creatures in sight. They are as much lost to the world as two grains of sand washing to and fro in the Atlantic. The master's hand steals up until it rests upon the horse's neck, and the faithful animal crowds a bit nearer. Both are awed by the broad expanse. The mighty grandeur of Nature steals in upon the man's soul, and it seems to pass like an electric current to the horse. He raises his head. His nostrils expand. His eyes grow clearer and larger. Surely he must see the picture spread out before him there, and something of its beauty must be felt.

See that! The man's hand goes up to shade his eyes. He is looking straight to the west. He stands like a rock, and his eyes are as keen as an eagle's. The horse is looking in the same direction, ears pricked forward, lips quivering and every muscle in his legs tightened up as if for a race. What is it? A flutter on the surface of the prairie caught a man's eye for an instant and then disappeared. It was two miles away. It was only a trifle; but on that trifle depends his life. A shipwrecked sailor catches his breath at sight of every white cloud creeping above the water-line. The hunter on the prairie feels his heart pound at the flutter of a bird's wing—the bark of a coyote—the hoot of an owl—at sight of a hoof-print or a broken bush. These may mean nothing or they may mean an ambush—a race for life—capture and torture.

"Yi! yi! yi!"

The level-seeming prairie is broken two miles away by a dry ravine deeper than a man's height. This curves and bends and leads on for miles. Scrambling out of its depths, and each one sounding his war-whoop as he mounts his pony, are a score of Indians.

For two days the hunter had swept the horizon in vain. He was alone on the great ocean. Night had been tranquil and full of sound sleep. Here, now, rising like specters from the earth before him, is a band of blood-thirsty demons raving for his life. The sight stuns him for a few seconds. Then, with a growl of chagrin and defiance, flings the saddle upon his horse, picks up his rifle, and while yet the Indians are a mile and a half away, he mounts and heads for the east.

A race for life has begun.

The hunter's horse strikes into a long, steady gallop, which would keep him alongside of a train of cars. There is a chorus of yells from the redskins as they make the first rush. Then the silence of the prairie is broken only by the thud! thud! of horses' feet. The very silence is ominous, and speaks of a grim determination to run the victim down.

Steady, now! The hunter's horse devours mile after mile of the green prairie, now at the crest of a swell—now almost hidden in a dip—now for an instant out of sight of those who follow. They gain a little. The hunter plans that they shall. Every yard they gain requires an extra speed that will take ten minutes off the race after high noon. At 10 o'clock they have gained half a mile. Then the pace is even, and neither loses nor gains.

There is something terribly grim in following a man to his death. Not a shout—not a call—not a rifle-shot. Thud! thud! thud! over level and ridge and always to the east. The sun mounts higher and higher, and now and then the hunter glances back with a faint hope that the pursuit has been abandoned. No! He might as well expect a wolf to quit the pursuit of a wounded deer leaving its life-blood to stain the grass at every rod.

It is high noon.

The pursuit began over sixty miles away, but the breeze brings to the hunter's ears that same monotony of hoof-beats, and he glances back to see that same dark line strung out at his heels It has become a question of endurance. If he can tire them out he will escape. He shuts his teeth anew, reaches forward to caress his horse——

He is down! A burrow caught a foot as the horse sped onwards and man and animal roll to the ground. The race is finished. The poor beast whinnies an apology for his fall as he flounders about with a broken leg, and the exultant shouts of the redskins hardly reached the hunter's ears before he is down alongside the crippled horse and his rifle aimed at the approaching foe.

It is another bright, peaceful day. Here are the same pure air, the same blue sky, the same panorama of grass and flowers and dimly outlined mountains.

A band of hunters are crossing the prairie at a steady gallop, instead of a single man riding for his life. A vulture rises up with a hoarse scream—a second—a third, and the odor of decay reaches the nostrils of riders and horses. The band halts, rides to the left, and presently all look down upon a sight which tells its own story. The swollen carcass of a horse, the scalped and disfigured body of a hunter—trampled grass—spots of blood—broken arrows—the earth uptorn by hoofs.

One with stouter heart than the rest dismounts and picks up a dozen flattened bullets and a score of arrows. Then he circles round the spot and gathers up the empty shells thrown out by the hunter's Winchester. Bullets, arrows and shells are deposited in a heap by the corpse, and the man points out one—three—five—seven spots on the prairie where the trampled grass and stains of blood show the fall of horse or man. Then in a voice in which sorrow and pride were mingled he whispers:

"Poor Tom! But he died game!"—Detroit Free Press.

It it always policy for farmers and stable men, when buying Dr. Scott's Prepared Spice to buy the large packages, as they will receive more value for there money, as the package is much larger in proportion.

Six Little Maidens.

I'll tell you a story, I'll sing you a song—
It's not very short and it's not very long.—
Of six little maidens: in white they were dressed,
And each was the sweetest and each was the best.

Invited for four—well, now, let me see:
Waiting was dull, so they got there at three.
There were little Miss Katie and Nellie and Sue,
And little Miss Bessie and Polly and True.

It might have been June, if it hadn't been May,
The first of the month and a beautiful day!
They kissed when they met, as the ladies all do—
Kate, Susie and Nell; Bess, Polly and True.

They danced and they skipped and they sang and they played,
And they formed pretty groups in the sun and the shade;
And I said, when they asked me of which I was fond,— "Brunettes are the dearest and so are the blonde."

And that night, as I bade them adieu at the gate,—
Bess, Polly, and True, and Sue, Nellie, and Kate,—
How I wished that "good-bye I" could have been "bow-d'y-do!"
And I said: "Come at three I" so as to get them at two!

A CHICAGO GIRL.

A Graceful and Truthful Tribute to Mrs. John W. Iliff, the Richest Lady in Colorado.

The richest woman in Colorado, it may surprise many to know, is not a bonanza princess, nor am I aware that the smallest proportion of her wealth even came in any way, either directly or indirectly, through mining. So the uninitiated outsider may discover that there are other sources of money making in this new State, less hazardous, though slower, perhaps, than that of which the most has been told.

It is something to be the richest woman in any State. It is often a question hard to decide, "Who is the richest woman in a State?" But in Colorado it is Mrs. John W. Iliff, widow of the late John W. Iliff, popularly spoken of as "the cattle king" of the State, a man who died owning, perhaps, twice as many herds as any other stockman in Colorado. Considerable over 100,000 was the number of cattle possessed by Mr. Iliff when he died; and, as 10,000 or 5,000 are sufficient to make a wealthy man, it is easy to see that the Iliff estate was vast enough to render the widow and children the richest heirs in all this State. Ordinarily, the life of the rich is not a subject of sufficient interest to find its way into a newspaper's columns, but, as I have remarked, it is something to be the richest woman in the Rocky Mountain region; while, besides, her life has been one of so much dignity and good sense, that it is pleasant to sketch it—and many, I think, will find it pleasant to read of it.

Fourteen years ago a Chicago girl came to Denver to sell machines for the Singer Manufacturing Company. She had wealthy brothers, who offered her a home and provision, but she had that independence too rare among young women outside of novels, refused their proffers, and started ont for herself. Once when I heard a woman, not this girl's equal, berating her brothers for not lavishing on her money, dress and jewels, I could not refrain from contrasting with her Elizabeth Frazier.

She was a graceful, slender, dark-haired lady, not handsome, perhaps, but with an interesting face, full of fine womanly resolve. She determined to work for her company hard, constantly and faithfully; she had youth, health and energy, and so admirably did she bring her efforts to her work that her machines were sold by hundreds throughout the third Territory. It was here she met Mr. Iliff, who became so greatly interested in the bright, animated persevering young agent, that when, after two years, stay in the West, she returned to Chicago, it was to become the great cattle dealer's bride. Theirs was a happy life until Mr. Iliff's death, a few years since: his loss was to his wife a blow from which she has never fully recovered, and probably never will. He left no will, so under the Colorado statutes one-half of the mammoth estates goes to his wife, and the other half to the three children, but as it will be long before these attain their majority, the management of the estate involves untiring supervision peculiarly difficult to execute since so much of it lies in cattle, and the head of it all a woman.

But Mrs. Iliff has shown singular judgment and surprised her closest friends by her wonderful and decisive management; but one woman in 500 could control the reins so suddenly thrust into her hands with success. Mrs. Iliff happened to be that one woman. The wealthiest lady in Colorado, there is no better business woman in all its stretch of prairies and mountains. To have seen the great Iliff estate rapidly flung to the winds by incompetent guardians would have been only the history of great estates, but that epitaph one may safely predict will never be read over this one, so long as Elizabeth Iliff lives.

Although her bereavement and business cares have pressed heavily upon her the last few years, she has yet found time to do hundreds of good works, and liberal, even for one of her wealth, are her donations to charity and the church. She is a sensible mother, and her little girls are brought up in a very simple way, much indeed after the example set American women by the lovely Princess of Wales. She is no more devoted to her own children, Edna and Louise, than she is to her step-son Willie, who fairly idolizes her in return. She is a devout member of the Methodist Church, and never, if her health permits, misses any of its services, not even the prayer-meetings and special services, too often voted by aristocratic members "a bore."

It is too common, unfortunately, to pay respect to wealth and position, to the exclusion of unadorned worth; there are those who even reach such an acme of vulgar obeisance to these as did one woman, who, fortunately as she considered it for herself, had secured a servant who had once been employed in the family of the chief executive of the State. Thenceforth she gauged her acquaintances not by culture, nor yet by kindliness of heart, but as to how they would appear to "my girl, who has lived at the Governor's." What magnificent material for a heroine such a woman would make in the caustic hands of the author of "Daisy Miller." It is, one must admit, though with deep regrets, an American weakness. Nothing but a broader education will effectually rid us of this plague spot. Mrs. Iliff is shrewd enough to know that much of the deference is paid not to her, but to what is hers; and she keeps her closest friends, they who were her friends before she became "the richest woman in Colorado."—Kansas City Journal.

A. D. Noyes, Newark, Michigan, writes: "I have enquired at the drug stores for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, but have failed to find it. We brought a bottle with us from Quebec, but it is nearly gone and we do not want to be without it, as my wife is troubled with a pain in the shoulder, and nothing else gives relief. Can you send us some?

A great baptismal event was witnessed at Washington Sunday, when 187 negro converts were immersed in the Potomac River.

AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the glossy and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the VIGOR is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRECHER writes from Derby, O., July 3, 1883: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the Mt. Arthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The VIGOR is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANGUS FAIRBAIRN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbairn Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give silvery evidence of the change which lasting time prescribes, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 16 Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., April 15, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly used but one bottle of the VIGOR, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 19, 1884.

Our Enlarged Issue.

This week we have the pleasure of presenting to its numerous readers THE EXAMINER in an enlarged form—the third enlargement of the paper within three years. These enlargements have been rendered necessary by the continuous increase of THE EXAMINER's advertising patronage, a circumstance that speaks volumes for its value as an advertising medium. A paper that is readable and reliable is sure to find a place in thousands of homes, and these facts being known, result in increased favours from advertising patrons.

The present enlargement is equivalent to an increase of ten columns of matter per week, an addition which, with its general character, makes THE EXAMINER the best and most readable family newspaper published in the county. Among the new and permanent features of the enlarged issue is the publication each week of instalments of a charming story, which will commend itself to the more youthful readers of THE EXAMINER. To keep up the amount of reading matter, when there is a rush of advertisements, we have made arrangements to add a column to each page, which means an addition of eight columns of reading matter, or a total of sixty-four columns in such special issue.

While gratefully recognizing the liberal patronage that has enabled us to make the continuous improvements in THE EXAMINER above noted, we engage to not only relax no effort, but to put forth renewed exertions to further improve THE EXAMINER, so that, in the march of progress of which our thriving town is so enviable an example, THE EXAMINER shall be in the future, as it has been in the past, the best, the most widely read, and the most popular newspaper in the county.

Other improvements in the paper are in course of preparation, as will appear in due course.

THE EXAMINER Printing and Book-binding Establishment is now one of the most complete and best equipped establishments of the kind between Toronto and Montreal.

All improvements necessarily involve an increased expenditure of money. There are very many outstanding accounts, some of long standing, for the amount of which we should be happy to write receipts.

Ecclesiastical Amenities.

In our last issue we referred briefly to the grand moral work being done by the churches in their respective spheres. It is now a pleasure to refer to the evidence of increased amicable feelings developed at the meeting of the Anglican Synod of the diocese of Toronto. The Anglican church has been sometimes credited by other religious organizations with having a good deal of stand-offism, but it would appear that such is over estimated.

At the session of the synod of the Diocese of Toronto on Thursday, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Rev. W. C. BRADSHAW, (St. Luke's, Ashburnham,) moved, seconded by Rev. Canon O'Meara, (Port Hope,) "That a deputation, to be named by the Lord Bishop, be appointed to convey to the Presbyterian Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, now in session in this city, the most cordial and fraternal greetings of this synod."

Dr. HOPKINS, (Toronto,) moved, seconded by Rev. John Pearson, (Holy Trinity, Toronto), "That a deputation to be named by the Lord Bishop, be appointed to convey to the first United Conference of the Methodist Church, at its meeting in this city on the 19th instant and following days, the fraternal greetings of this synod on the recent union so happily effected between the various branches of the great Methodist family in this country. The synod feels with devout gratitude to God this evidence of Christian unity as one of the most hopeful signs of the times, and as an auspicious herbinger of that closer union amongst the members of Christ's Body everywhere for which the Church universal has so long and so earnestly prayed."

The importance of such expressions of friendliness is not to be lightly estimated, and it makes opposite the condemnation of the Psalmist, "Behold how good and pleasant a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." But it may have a far more material and practical, (apart from purely spiritual considerations), meaning; at least Rev. John Pearson must have thought so, when, in speaking in reference to the latter resolution, he looked forward to the time when they (the church of England and the Methodists) would be one again. Such a reunion does not seem more improbable and impracticable than did the union of the different Methodist bodies, a few years ago. Their faith, as Rev. Mr. Pearson pointed out, is one, their object is one, and more remarkable things in ecclesiastical history have happened than their ultimately being one again.

These circumstances if they do not indicate a probability of organic union, which in any event will, from the nature of things, be a slowly coming and distant contingency, furnish indisputable proof that the Protestant organizations of Canada never before presented so united a front, nor so harmonious an agreement as to the desirability of co-operation, though by differing means and methods, to attain the common end which all are seeking—the common goal, all are striving to reach.

The Corruptionist Colonization Company.

The Dominion government have not been surprisingly energetic in colonizing the Northwest, but to give—their their due, the government has loosed one company with astonishing enterprise. They have carried out pretty fully their policy of making the Northwest the dumping ground for all sorts of political hacks and party malefactors. These do not, it is true, make a very desirable or productive class of settlers, but they relieve other provinces of their unsavory presence. The following, from the Manitoba Free Press, gives a good idea of the success and extent of the operations of the Corruptionis Colonization Company, in the Northwest, Canada's Botany Bay for political "toughs":

Mr. Wilkinson is here, at least nobody would care to persecute him in Winnipeg. Mr. Rufus Stephenson, Mr. Bannerman, Mr. Chapleau, Mr. Swan, Mr. T. McLean, of West Toronto, and the rest of the retired "statesmen" are always with us save when they are away at Ottawa looking for instructions; and the Ottawa despatches say Mr. J. J. Hawkins may come in and that Dr. Allen, of Cornwall, is surely coming. The land inspectors, land guides, forest rangers, Indian tutors and land agents who have been or will be appointed out west, will bear a fair proportion to the number of actual residents; in fact when the new provinces are organized, there will be more tax-eaters in some distant localities than tax-payers. This is to be the happy-hunting ground for every Easterner "worker" whose usefulness has been impaired in the party's service. There may be an exodus of settlers, but the Government is evidently doing its best to keep up the population by a large office-holding immigration. The people, it is only fair to say, do not complain when decent Conservatives or even half decent ones are appointed to situations. The theory that Eastern Canada, having bought the Northwest from the Hudson's Bay Company and the Indians, can do what she likes with it regardless of public opinion here, is now widely accepted by the settlers. But the latter do protest against the shipment of criminals to the public service of the Northwest. Rufus Stephenson would be acceptable even if he spent six months twice a year at Ottawa waiting for instructions, but the line is drawn at Wilkinson and still more broadly at Allen of Cornwall. Let the Government send up place-hunters until they cover these plains one for each settler, but in the name of common decency let it not let loose upon us a general jail-delivery.

Editorial Notes.

Blaine the Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States has made prohibition a plank in his platform.

The Scott Act campaign is being vigorously pushed in Northumberland and Durham. The friends of the act seem to be the more energetic as far as public methods are concerned, at least.

Oh, no! there is no exodus to the United States. Yet over seventy skilled mechanics and labourers from St. Thomas and Ingersoll passed through London, Ont., the other day en route to Chicago to seek the employment which the N. P. does not furnish them with at home.

It is probable that the choice of the Democrats convention will fall upon Cleveland of New York as candidate for the presidency. Tilden asserts that his health will prevent him from standing. The former can carry his own state, and it is a pivotal one in the coming contest. His nomination would add a large element of certainty to the Democratic chances.

The chief organ of the Tory party needs a good memory. In 1878 the Mail made this statement:

"If the passage of the N. P. endangers British connections, so much the worse for the connection."

Now the Mail is afraid that further commercial relations with the Yankees will endanger British connection and it remarks:

"In the opinion of every loyal Canadian and of every man who knows the history of this continent, the connection between Britain and Canada is essential to the interests and the glory of both."

A despatch states that white men are walking the streets of British Columbia towns unemployed. Yet the Dominion Government permits the importation of Chinese to work on the Canadian Pacific Railway, built with the people's money, to which funds these very workingmen contribute, thanks to the high tariff, in no meagre manner. This is Tory friendship to the workingmen, who should recollect these facts when tory electioneering agents approach them with their "soft sawder" protestations of affection and good will, especially when their votes are particularly wanted.

The session of the Quebec Legislature which was prorogued a few days ago has been barren of beneficial results, and the chief good that has been done has been due to the courageous manner in which Messrs. Joly and Mercier of the Reform opposition have exposed the intrigues of the ministry and its politicial allies, the prodigal plundering of the provincial treasury, the reckless alienation of the provincial assets, and the purchase and corruption of the people's representatives. The seed thus sown may require a little time to ripen into fruit, but it is evident that the ruinous career of the Tory party in Quebec has pretty well run the length of its course

The following from a rank and rabid protectionist paper, the Philadelphia American, furnishes an excellent argument for a Reciprocity arrangement with the United States—that is from a Canadian point of view:

"As the tariff (American) stands, the vast market for food which is furnished by the Eastern States is reserved for the Western farmer. The Canadian is as good as shut out of that market by our duties on farm-products of every sort. What inducement is there for the agricultural population of the West to support an arrangement which destroys the competition they are to meet, without furnishing them a single customer."

Canada would under a reciprocity treaty, find a market at her very door for her surplus agricultural products. It is quite evident, judged by the current price of wheat and other grains that the N. P. has not furnished the Canadian farmer with a profitable home market and with the prospect of a good harvest in England, Canadian grain prices promise to take a still further tumble.

It is difficult to tell where will be the end of the mischievous practice of giving sops to the different provinces as equivalents for the support of members to assist the government in forcing through parliament measures whose nature prevented members from supporting them, unless some soporific, in the shape of a provincial grant was administered to reconcile the easily satisfied political conscience to the sacrifice of principle for expediency. All the provinces, Ontario excepted have shared in this matter of bargain and sale, and the Federal treasury is lighter by millions of dollars on account of this indefensible squandering of the public funds. And now Ottawa city is making a claim for Federal assistance. This claim is, however, the outcome of another evil whose operation extends to every portion of the country,—that of exemption from taxation. But it demands money as well. In Ottawa and according to the Free Press exemptions amount to over ten millions of dollars. Ottawa is energetically presenting her claims to a generous dole from the Federal money bags, and it seems she has as much claim to consideration as the provinces which have received money from the Dominion government; and its claim has this merit that it is free, apparently, from the aspect of political huckstering—it is a claim based on justice. This is not the first time that Ottawa has aired her grievances, but the excuse of the Tory government has hitherto been that it was sure of Ottawa's support—a reply that practically says, "The Tory government uses none of the public money in the way of aid to provinces except as a bribe more or less indirect." When the policy of the Dominion government is not one of plunder, pure and simple, it is one of political expediency, buttressed by bribery.

DOMINION DOINGS.

Reduced to Readable Dimensions—Their Pith and Point Preserved.

The summer meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association will be held at Berlin on the 25th and 26th inst.

The Grand Trunk officials at Kingston have been unable to get any trace of those who placed the wood obstructions upon the track near the lower depot a few mornings ago, but they are trying the virtue of $200 reward.

Applications have been made to the Customs Department at Ottawa to permit Kentucky whiskey to be brought into the Dominion for the purpose of re-shipping it to New York, and to allow the importation of tea-dust from the United States, both of which propositions have been declined.

While a bee was in progress, for the purpose of raising the frame for a driving house, near Mountain View, in Prince Edward county, the supports slipped and the structure falling killed James Morden and fatally injured Daniel Eckert.

A despatch from Kingston says Andrew Robinson, aged 22, married but two months, lay down beside a pool of water near Moberly in order to get a drink, and was drowned. He took a fit, to which he was subject, and was suffocated. His wife found him with his head under the muddy water.

Dr. Ingersoll, the coroner, and his jury, Dr. Morden, the jail physician, and Dr. H. B. Evans, all witnessed of the execution of Lowder and Tompsett, have signed a letter to the sheriff at Picton, flatly contradicting the charge of bungling made by the correspondents of some papers. Many of these gentlemen have witnessed previous executions, some of the physicians have been present at numbers of executions in the old country, and all state they never saw better arrangements, and give it as their opinion that insensibility took place instantly, the drop being over six feet.

UNITED STATES NEWS NOTES.

A mercantile crisis is impending at New Orleans. Several heavy cotton failures have already occurred and others are daily anticipated.

The accident to the Ashland, Pa., express, in which eight persons were killed, is attributed to neglect of orders on the part of telegraph operator.

On Friday night Abe Massey, charged with brutally outraging a 6-year-old girl at Oxford, Miss., was shot and killed while resisting arrest by Constable Joy.

The skeleton of a boy was found in a pond at Avondale, O., on Sunday morning, with a rope around his neck, and a stone tied to the rope. There is no clue to his identity.

The family of Mr. Brunk, of Carthage, Mo., fled to the cellar for safety during a storm, leaving a son, aged 17, sick in bed. When they returned they found the boy had died, it is supposed, from fright.

Mayor Chase and City Marshall Guthrie, of Omaha, Neb., have been indicted for alleged bribery and perjury. It is charged that they have been levying tribute upon gamblers and prostitutes and received money from contractors.

The Court of Alabama Claims at Washington will hear no more cases before adjournment for the summer. Eighteen hundred and seventy cases have been argued and submitted and judgments rendered in 1,754, for the aggregate amount of $4,960,000, against $7,230,000 claimed.

An old brick building on Grand street, New York, fell on Saturday afternoon. Three woman were buried, but one was rescued not seriously hurt. Mrs. Lizette Miller was the only person injured. None of the tenants of the building are injured or missing.

Steve Anderson, a colored fireman in the mills of Fort Scott, Kan., who was recently married, quarrelled with his wife last night over the plans of a proposed fishing party. The woman shut him out of the house. He requested her to open the door, and when she complied shot her three times in the breast with a pistol. He then shot himself in the head and died instantly. The woman died a few minutes later.

ASPHODEL.

The following appeared among the American dispatches to the daily press on Friday last:—

"DETROIT, June 5th.—Miss Johanna Coughlin, school teacher, of Richard township, was shot and perhaps fatally injured by John Shea, while sitting in her school room. Shea visited the lady and proposed marriage, which offer was declined. He then drew a revolver and fired. The affair created intense excitement, and twenty men turned out with shot guns to hunt him down. He was found in the house of a friend, arrested, and brought to jail at Saginaw City."

Both the above are natives of Asphodel, the lady being a niece of Mr. T. Coughlin, Hastings, while O'Shea's father is an old and esteemed resident of Asphodel, who resides three miles north of Hastings. The relatives of both parties have the sympathy of all friends in this sore affliction. In reply to a telegram it is learned that Miss Coughlin was wounded in the leg and is progressing favorably.

A Boston Maiden.

She was a Boston maiden, and she'd scarcely passed eighteen,
And as lovely as a houri, but of grave and sober mien;
A sweet encyclopedia of every kind of love,
Though love looked coyly from behind the glamour that she wore.

She sat beside her lover, with her elbow on his knee,
And dreamily she gazed upon the steam'ring summer sea,
Until he broke the silence, saying, "Pray, Minerva, dear,
Inform me of the meaning of the Thingness of the Here.

"I know you're just from Concord, where the lights of wisdom be,
Your head crammed full to bursting, love, with their philosophy;
Those hoary headed sages and maids of history blue—
Then solve me the conundrum, love, that I have put to you."

She smiled a dreamy smile and said, "The Thingness of the Here
Is that which is not past, and hasn't yet arrived, my dear;
Indeed," the maid continued, with a calm, unruffled brow,
"The Thingness of the Here is just the Thisness of the Now."

A smile illumed the lover's face, then without any haste,
He slid a manly arm around the maiden's slender waist,
And on her cherry lips impressed a warm and loving kiss,
And said, "Love, this is what I call the Nowness of the This."—Somerville Journal.

Not The Right Kind of Butter.

J. B. Baltzly strolled into his grocery establishment on Austin Avenue, just as that excellent man, Mr. Allen White, was opening a keg of golden-tailed oleomargarine.

"That looks nice. It's genuine butter, I suppose, none of your bogus stuff?" queried Baltzly.

Now this was a leading question, as the lawyers say. The grocer wanted the worst in the world to sell some of that stuff to Baltzly, so he spoke up and said:

"Of course it is butter. Did you think it was lard? Don't you see it has got that beautiful golden hue that can only be found in real butter? It makes me think of cows, and meadows, clover and butter cups, just to smell it," and the grocer held some of it on a paddle under the nose of Baltzly, who asked:

"Yes, but is it butter?"

"Is it butter? Why of course it is butter. Some people are so suspicious that they won't believe butter is butter unless they see it taken out of the churn themselves. Man alive, smell it. Don't it make you think you are rolling around in newly mown hay? You can just taste the buttermilk in it."

"Yes but is it really butter?"

It was evident to the grocer, who goes to church regularly, that the crisis had arrived. He had either to lie or lose a cash customer. He was too conscientious a man to lose a customer, so he came right out and told a lie. He said it was butter.

"Do you say it is real butter from cow's milk?" asked Baltzly.

"Yes," replied White.

"Then," said the customer, as a sad smile passed over his features, "then I don't want it. Cow's butter is no longer fashionable. I wanted some of this stuff called oleomargarine, made up of axle grease, second hand tallow and mucilage, which looks like butter, but which really contains the organism of a new kind of tape worm. I don't say I like that kind of jelly, but I was requested by a friend, who keeps a boarding house at a railroad station, to ship him a keg of oleomargarine. Sorry you haven't got the genuine article."

Allen White gazed after the retreating form of the lost customer, and then he said to himself: "Next time I'll tell the truth, if it bursts me wide open."—Texas Siftings.

The New Boy.

He was a brand new office boy, young, pretty-faced, with golden ringlets and blue eyes. Just such a boy as one would imagine would be taken out of his little trundle-bed in the night and transported beyond the stars! The first day he glanced over the library in the editorial room, became acquainted with everybody, knew all the printers, and went home in the evening as happy and cheery as a sunbeam. The next day he appeared, leaned out of the back window, expectorated on a printer's pate, tied up a cat by the tail in the hallway, had four fights with another boy, borrowed $2 from an occupant of the building, saying his mother was dead, collected his two days' pay from the cashier, hit the janitor with a broomstick, pawned a coat belonging to a member of the editorial staff, wrenched the knobs off the doors, upset the ice-cooler, pied three galleys of type and mashed his finger in the small press. On the third day a note was received, saying: "Mi Mother do not want I to work in such a dull place. She says I would make a good preacher. So do I, mi finger is Better; goan fishin'. Yours Till Deth do Yank us."—Boston Journal.

Overhead at bedtime up-stairs in one of the summer-resort hotels. Said she: "Yes, I think she intended it. She saw I was looking very well, and she has two daughters of her own; horrid things they are, too. They were there that night. She can't get them off, with all her money. Well, I came in; and my hair took me two hours, I assure you. It lay, just as I wanted it, along my forehead. She rushed up to me with a fan as big as a barn door, and commenced fanning herself as if she were worked by steam: 'My dear child, how nice you look. But how hot it is! Where is your dear sister?' It was a regular hurricane; my hair flew about in all directions. I caught a glimpse of myself in a glass; I was a fright. I might have been getting myself up for Ophelia in the mad scene. I could have choked the old cat. I know she meant it. One of her charming daughters had claret punch spilled over her light silk. It was ruined. That was some consolation, anyhow."

A steam buggy being made at Augusta, Ga., will have two wheels behind and but one in front. The machinery will be located in front, also water and gasoline tanks. The boilers are heated by two gasoline burners. The front wheel is extra large, and will bear the entire weight of the machinery. As it is the traction wheel, this will serve to good purpose, by weighting it firmly to the earth. The rear of the machine will be the same as an ordinary buggy, with ample room for several persons. The engines can be worked with ease by any one in the buggy, and can be guided in any direction at the will of the operator. Its average speed is estimated at a mile in three minutes.

THE FRANCHISE BILL.

On the Franchise bill Mr. Gladstone continues to defeat all opposition with unexpected ease, and the bill will probably be ready for the House of Lords this week, and there its rejection will be difficult, unless the discussion of the French treaty sinks the Government in estimation.

Agriculturalists tell us one can hear the corn snap as it grows in very hot weather. The sudden SNAP in prices of our COLOSSAL BARGAIN SALE has assuredly been heard far enough to bring crowds of buyers together—if we're to judge by the busy appearance of our Stores.

In this SALE we've excelled ourselves. We've a combination of excellence of goods and low prices, hard to get over. Mankind dearly loves a bargain—and gets it from us.

We'll here repeat the reason for our Clearing Sale: our buyer—Mr. T. Dolan—now in the Old Country, will purchase direct from first hands our Fall Stock. THE ANGLICAN CHURCH.

Toronto Diocese—Annual Meeting of Synod.

The annual session of the Synod of Toronto Diocese commenced on Tuesday the 10th inst. Service was held at St. James' Cathedral on the morning of that day, and an admirable sermon was delivered by Professor Clarke, from Philippians, II-4. The attendance was scarcely as large as last year. The service concluded as usual with a celebration of Holy Communion, the Bishop being celebrant. The music was excellent and was rendered by a picked surpliced choir of fifty members from the city churches.

At 2:30 p.m. the Synod met for the despatch of business at All Saint's School House. The Bishop then read his annual charge, from which we make a few interesting extracts.

At the outset he referred touchingly to the deaths of the Rev. T. P. Hodge, Chief Justice Spragge, and Prince Leopold. References was also made to the scarcity of suitable men offering for the holy orders, the two theological colleges failing to supply adequate numbers for the openings as they occur. The present clerical staff is 136, of whom no less than 19 are either retired and on leave or are engaged in tuition.

THE BISHOP'S ACTS

for the past year were as follows:—He held 66 confirmations, the number of candidates being 1290; delivered 116 sermons and addresses; administered the holy communion 30 times; consecrated two churches; ordained 5 deacons and 8 priests, and presided over a large number of meetings.

MISSION FUND.

The increase in the voluntary contributions for mission purposes amounted to $902.-66 over the previous year, the total being $15,357.29 distributed as follows, for Diocesan Missions $10,224.16; Domestic, $3,316.-95 and Foreign, $1,716.28.

DIOCESAN STATISTICS.

Under this head the Bishop alluded to the impossibility of reaching any correct conclusion as to the state of the Diocese, owing to the imperfect returns received from the clergy. However from the tables received, he said, a marked progress has been made in the work of the church throughout the Diocese. During the year 8 new churches and several additions had been built, at an aggrigate expenditure of $33,200. The number of communicants is reported as 10,496, although the blanks in returns number 22. Baptisms, 3,240. Marriages, 824. Burials, 1,780.

A RETROSPECT.

Since the Bishop was called to administer the affairs of the Diocese, five years ago, the clergy have increased from 105 to 126, and 25 new churches have been built. In 1879, the ordinary voluntary contributions to the Mission Fund amounted to $7,924.63, in 1884, to 14,757.72.

TEMPERANCE.

The Bishop very fully alluded to the work accomplished by the Church in temperance matters. There are now in operation 52 branches of the Church of England Temperance Society in 48 parishes. In the list we notice Peterborough, Ashburnham, Lakefield and Millbrook. The total membership returned is 5,615 of whom no less than 4,445 are abstaining.

The next business was the consideration of the various reports, all of which showed decided progress during the past year. This occupied the second day.

In the evening a very successful missionary meeting was held at which addresses were delivered by Mr. N. W. Hoyles, the Rev. Hartley Carmichael and the Bishop of Algoma.

The third day was taken up mainly in discussing the changes as regards free vestries and in advocating the formation of a sustentation fund so as to increase if possible the salaries of clergymen to $1000.

ECCLESIASTICAL COURTESIES.

At the evening session the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, moved the following resolution which was unanimously carried:—That a deputation, to be named by the Lord Bishop, be appointed to convey to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada, now in session in this city, the most cordial fraternal greetings of this synod.

In response to this, the General Assembly appointed a large deputation, headed by Principal Grant, who visited the synod on Friday afternoon and conveyed their sentiments of cordiality and heartfelt greeting both in a resolution and in a graceful and eloquent speech. It is needless to say they were most heartily received.

And to show that this is not merely a formal matter of courtesy, the Assembly also appointed a committee to confer with a similar committee appointed by the Anglican church, to secure if possible religious instruction in the public schools, and to take steps to further that most desirable end. The Synod closed on Friday evening after a pleasant and profitable session.

CANADIAN PRESBYTERIANS.

THE NEW YORK "SUN" COMMENDS THEIR VIGOROUS ACTION.

The New York Sun says the Presbyterians of Canada seem to be girding themselves for a vigorous forward movement, and their activity as shown at their General Assembly in Toronto presents a contrast with the course of some of the Presbyterians of New York, who have show a disposition to crowd into the fashionable quarters of the city on the ground that their Church appears to have no chance of success in the poorer neighborhood. The Canadian Presbyterians show a more aggressive spirit. They have pressenced in favour of a movement to introduce religious instruction in the Public Schools, and have demanded legislation against the desecration of the Sabbath, besides interesting themselves in political matters. Evidently they are not to be discouraged by the coolness of those for whose good they labour.

Moved by Mr. Nurse, seconded by Mr. Byers, that the Reeve, Mr. Riddell, be refunded the sum of two dollars expended for legal advice.—Carried.

Mr. Perrin introduced a by-law to suspend the public health by-law for a period of four months. Read three times and passed.

Moved by Mr. Perrin, seconded by Mr. Byers, that the Reeve and Clerk be a committee to prepare a by-law giving to Mr. Josiah Perrin the right of way to his farm through Mr. Corkery's, and to give Mr. Corkery the side line in lieu of the one given to Mr. Perrin.—Carried.

The petitions received at last meeting of Council and laid over for consideration were then taken up, and it was moved by Mr. Baxter that the South Monaghan Agricultural Society get a grant of $200 to aid in putting up a hall at Centreville, provided the terms and site are approved by this Council.

Mr. Baxter, failing to get a seconder, called for the vote on the question. Yeas—Mr. Baxter. Nay—Messrs. Byers, Perrin and Nurse.

Petitions dismissed on the same division.

Moved by Mr. Perrin, seconded by Mr. Baxter, that the Council do now adjourn to meet at call of Reeve.—Carried.

BELTSVILLE, Prince George Co., Md., 23-4t May 26th, 1883.

A man named Warren escaped from the London Asylum on Friday. During the evening he visited the police station and engaged P. C. Wallace in conversation. He chatted quite rationally, and excited no suspicions in the mind of that officer that there was anything wrong with him. However, a few minutes after he left, a messenger arrived from the Asylum to notify the police of his escape, and search was at once instituted, and at a late hour he was captured at the G. T. R. station.

Emperor William, during his stay at Ems makes every effort to appear to be in substantial health. He walks out frequently in public, but his stride is apparently feeble, and his constitution visibly impaired. He will remain at Ems twenty days. From Ems the aged Kaiser goes to Hainan, and thence to Baden, where he will be ten days, and will go thence to Gasten in Austria. He will sojourn among its hot mineral springs for three weeks. While at this famous watering place the arrangements will be completed for the coming confrance between Emperor William and Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. This interview will take place at Traun in Upper Austria.

The New Diptheria Cure.

In New York the other day a remarkable cure of diptheria was effected by burning liquid tar and turpentine, so that the patient could inhale the smoke. It was tried in Toronto last Friday night with good effect, the World says, the attendant physician being surprised at the change in the little sufferer.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph T. Inman, Station D, New York City

Price 25 cents a bottle.

Trades for Americans.

A careful inquiry was a short time ago instituted in Philadelphia, as to the relative number of foreigners and native Americans engaged in the trades and as skilled handicraftsmen of every kind. The result was startling. Foreigners, especially Germans and Scotch Irishmen, had shouldered our own people altogether out of almost every such occupation. The American boys could be counted on the fingers who were learning the trade of weaving in the great woolen and carpet manufactories. The same story was told in the cotton mills, at the stocking looms. Yet the wages paid to these skilled workmen are high and steady. The Scotchman or North Irishman earns from $15 to $20 per week in Philadelphia, owns his comfortable dwelling, and brings up his son to the same trade which his own father most probably followed in Glasgow or Londonderry. The American boy has not learned this sure, slow road to comfort from his father.

There was the same report from the manufacturers of paper, soap, shoes, clothes, furniture, shipbuilders, cutlers—every industry, in short; but two. The American boy of the class which does not enter the professions, is not to be found in the trades, partly because he is barred out by the trades unions, but more because he does not choose to go into them. To this general rule there are, however, two notable exceptions—printing and machine shops. Each of these trades is crowded with native American apprentices. "We turn away," said the superintendent of a great engine works, "hundreds of applicants in a year, for whom we can find no place."

Now here is a significant hint of national character. We are perpetually told that the American lad of the partially educated class refuses to learn a trade, and becomes a salesman or clerk on a miserable salary, from the snobbish, vulgar desire to be considered a gentleman. Yet the same young fellow in a printing office or machine foundry works harder and comes out of his daily drudgery more grimy and shabby than any other mechanic. It is no ambition for gentility that moves him in these pursuits. But they open to him possible short roads to success; they give his inventive faculties some play. It is only one man in a hundred, who, out of the composing room or press room, becomes editor or publisher, or who turns out to be a lucky Harrison or Winans in the machine shop. But each boy is confident that he will be that man. When he "goes into business" as salesman at $8 per week, he knows he will some day be an Astor or a Stewart. When he goes out to Colorado as a cowboy, he sees in a vision his own cattle grazing on a thousand hills.

Hence he turns his back on the trades in which there is no chance for sudden success, and by which the plodding German or Irishman, generation after generation, secures a steady limited competency. Our lad must put on seven league boots to go to his fortune, or he will not go at all. In a certain sense, therefore, there appears to be no remedy for this present condition of affairs. The leopard cannot change his spots nor the Ethiopian his skin, and the vivid inventive, sharp eyed American, fond of earning and squandering money in bulk, will never be brought to plod and save and enjoy life a pennyworth at a time, like his European neighbor who was not born prospective heir to a great estate. A certain grade of our skilled trades will always remain, it is probable, in the hands of foreigners. But one lesson our American lad must learn before he succeeds, and, as he is exceptionally sharp, he generally does learn it when he finds he does not succeed without it. That is, steadiness of aim.—Manufacturer and Builder.

Wanted Information.

Every little while we stumble upon the sign "Information wanted," and other indications of the same sort, showing that the great throbbing, anxious world is in need of information. It seems strange at first that with all our boasted advancement we still must admit this frightful lack of information. But we have found where it goes to, and thus a portion of the mighty problem is solved.

A boy we met on an overland train the other day, is the party who has absorbed it all. He is the guilty one, and he is to blame for the dearth hereinbefore mentioned. He was an animated interrogation point, dressed up. We must confess that we never saw anyone hunger and thirst after warm fried information, or cold sliced facts as that boy did. He wasn't a large boy and he didn't look healthy and hungry as most boys do, but he turned his great, soulful eyes upon us and squeezed knowledge out of us that we hadn't used for years. We took down from a shelf in memory's hall all sorts of moth eaten statistics and unique stories and things until we had been pumped dry and then went to work on a job lot of impromptu facts and home made statements and domestic lies, so that he wouldn't starve right there and then.

Oh, what a great octagonal yearning he had for all that we knew—and more too. What a fine, manly way he had of coming at it and exhausting our information and then looking hungrily at us and waiting until we could hunt up some more.

What a wild, insatiable mind that youth had. What a capacious tapeworm he was sole proprietor of—and what good care he took that the animal received its full quota of nourishment. We tried going into some other car, but he never failed to follow, and finally we were compelled to get off the train at Red Buttes. That walk of eight miles we believe saved our life.

Now, whenever we see the words "Information Wanted," we think of that guileless youth, and wonder who he is sinking a shaft on. We live over once more that dread day and our heart goes out to the unfortunate companion of that boy in a great wad of sympathy and commiseration, so to speak.—Bill Nye's Boomerang.

How To Do It.

"I should hate to have a husband who lowanced me every time I wanted to buy anything," said Mrs. Simms. "When I tell Simms that I want a little change to go shopping with he doesn't hum and haw as some men do. He just takes out his pocket-book and says, 'Certainly, my dear; how much do you want, a five or ten?'" "And what do you say?" asked Mrs. Smith. "Oh, I never say anything. He gives me the money right off without waiting for me to answer." "And how much does he give?" "A dollar generally—unless he has some change handy. But then it isn't the amount that I care so much about. It is the readiness with which he responds to my request that makes me think so much of him.—Boston Transcript.

The Good Wife's Philosophy.

The good wife hustled about the house,
Her face still bright with a pleasant smile,
As broken snatches of happy song
Strengthened her heart the while.
The grand man sat in the chimney nook,
His little clay pipe within his lips,
And all he'd made and all he had lost,
Ready and clear on his finger tips.

"Good wife, I've just been thinking a bit,
Nothing has done very well this year;
Money is bound to be hard to get,
Everything is bound to be very dear;
How the cattle are going to be fed,
How we're to keep the boys at school,
Is kind of a debt and credit sum
I can't make balances by my rule."

She turned her around from the baking of bread,
And she faced him with a cheerful laugh;
"Why, husband, dear, one would think
That the good, rich wheat was only chaff,
And what if the wheat was only chaff,
As long as we both are well and strong;
I'm not a woman to worry a bit,
Somehow or other we get along."

"Into some lives some rain must fall,
Over all the land the storm must beat,
But when the rain and storm are o'er
The after-sunshine is twice as sweet.
Through every strait we have found a road,
In every grief we have found a song;
We have had to bear, and had to wait,
But somehow or other we got along."

"For thirty years we have loved each other,
Stood by each other whatever befell:
Six boys have called us father and mother,
And all of them living and doing well.
We owe no man a penny, my dear,
We're both of us moving, and well and strong,
Good man, I wish you would smoke again,
And think how well we've got along."

He filled his pipe with a pleasant laugh,
He kissed his wife with a tender pride;
He said "I'll do as you tell me, love,
I'll just count up on the other side."
She left him then with his better thought,
And lifted her work with a low sweet song—
A song that followed me many a year,
Somehow or other we get along.

ME WAS INNOCENT.

But He Confessed to the Crime to Save His Life.

A special dispatch to the St. Louis Republicans states that a negro had confessed to placing obstructions on the Missouri Pacific railroad and been sentenced to the penitentiary for a long term of years. From officials of the road in St. Louis additional facts in connection with the affair were learned. The place at which the track was obstructed was called Pilot Point, near Denton, Tex. The obstructions consisted of a couple of poles laid across the the track and spiked down. No disaster occurred, as the discovery was made before the train reached the spot. As detailed in The Republicans at the time, the passengers on the train and the trainmen made a search in the vicinity, and found a negro who said he was hunting for some lost harness. His story was not credited, and he was committed to jail. The indignant people took the negro from the jail at night, and placing a rope around his neck prepared to lynch him. He stuck to his story until they took him out to the woods and actually threw the rope over the limb of a tree. Then he was told if he would confess he would be returned to the jail, where he gave a circumstantial account of the matter. Later he was taken before the grand jury and repeated his confession. In the meantime a man was sent from St. Louis to work up the case, and a very little investigation convinced him he was not guilty, but had simply made the confession to save his life. He dug deeper and soon brought out the bottom facts, and soon had the real perpetrators in custody. They were three little school children, the oldest one only 11 years old. They told the story of what they had done, and how they had done it "just to have some fun." Of course their story cleared the negro, and the children were too young to appreciate what they had done and were not punished.

A New Financial Scheme.

In Germany the cars on the railroads are not constructed after the manner of our American cars, but are divided into compartments, each compartment being intended for the accommodation of four persons. It is not an uncommon thing for a passenger, who desires to have a compartment, to subsidize the conductor to keep other passengers out. It also happens occasionally that after the conductor has been thus subsidized, he, nevertheless, violates his agreement by admitting other passengers into the compartment, and the party of the first part has no remedy against the imposition. A pretty shrewd traveler hit upon a device by which he could prevent the conductor from violating his part of the contract. He whispered to the conductor.

"I want this coupe to myself all the way to Frankfort, and I'll give you a thaler," and cutting a thaler bill in two, he gave one of the halves to the bewildered conductor, who asked:

"Of what use is the half of the bill to me?"

"It's of no use to you, my friend, just now, and the other half, which is of no use to me, I'll keep until we get to Frankfort. If you do not allow anybody else to come into the compartment during the trip, as soon as we arrive there I'll give you the other half of the bill. You can paste the two halves together, and it will pass for its full value. If, however, you don't keep your agreement; and run a mob into this car, I'll keep my half and have the satisfaction of knowing that you can't use your half. Do you see?"

This was a new wrinkle to the conductor, but he saw the point. He put a card marked "Taken" on the other seats, and the traveler was not disturbed. On arriving at Frankfort he gave the conductor the other half of the bill, and thus both parties got what they wanted.

We suggest that this scheme would work well in this country. We would like that some of our readers would try it on hotel waiters and report results. You have, no doubt, often noticed when you give a hotel waiter a dollar with the selfish purpose of encouraging him to wait on you with more alacrity, he generally turns up at another table the next day, and waits on you no more, or he leaves the hotel altogether. Give him the half of a dollar bill, with the promise of the other half at the end of the week, and see how he works. Politicians could work this scheme, and the second half of the bill could be given the voter after the election, provided he voted as he promised. Then, when buying from Mose Schaumburg an overcoat, "dot vill not vade, rip at der seams, und vill vear a year as goot as new, or you gets your money pack," it might be a good idea to try the German's scheme, and pay Mose the second half of the bill when the garment proves to be as represented. Think the matter over; there' something in it. —Texas Siftings.

How Vanilla Ice Cream Became Strawberry.

At a certain watering place some years ago a colored assistant was making the ice cream, and cut his finger which dripped about it. The order had been given for vanilla cream, that day, but the superintendent, in view of the emergency, called out "Change the order to 'strawberry,'" and strawberry it became, without any waste of the precious material.

The World's Prettiest Woman.

Keswick, in Cumberland, can boast of one charming possession in the shape of the prettiest woman in England. She is a barmaid at the Nelson wine vaults of that town. Her name is Edith Twenty-man, and she is reported to be as good and modest as she is beautiful. She has the gorgeous milk-and-rose complexion that is rarely seen outside of England, united with splendid eyes, full, dark and lustrous as those of a gazelle, pearly teeth, regular features, with rich dark hair, growing low on the brow, and a figure whose fine outlines were not to be concealed by the cut of her country made-gown. She is simply dazzling, and how such a pearl of beauty has been left hidden in this quiet little town is a marvel. She is well educated, paints in water-colors, and is perfectly free from all vanity and self-consciousness. Had she been born a French woman she would ere this have dazzled the public in some mute role in one of the great spectacular plays of the day. As it is, she will probably follow the example of her older sister, who was as beautiful as she is, and who married a good, honest fellow in her own station of life, and is now a comfortable matron with a houseful of children.

Three Ways of Decorating.

Our modern designer after nature goes to work in three ways. He makes a copy, a picture of his chosen object (which may bear some remote likeness to a proper ornamental form, as in the the opposite sketches the branches laden with crab-apples do the festoon from the antique); or he makes a botanical diagram of the parts of the plant or its flower and uses it as a "repeat;" or, worst of all, he takes anything that seems to him curious or striking and forces it, by hook or by crook, into some symmetrical arrangement. These two latter processes he calls conventionalizing. The picture-maker may "conventionalize" also; for he may drop his work at some preparatory stage, or may put a heavy black outline around it, or he may use a gold background; these and a number of other dodges being supposed to make a thing more ornamental. It is a sorry ornament that is thus turned out. It belongs nowhere. It is fitted for no position. It is a fraud and a sham, for it is not even intended to ornament anything in particular. If painted on a plate to-day, in may be sprawled on a ceiling to-morrow.—Roger Riordan in September Century.

He Saw.

"As I understand it," said the Chicago lawyer, as he leaned back, "you run a grist mill?"

"Yes, sir."

"It is owned by a stock company, and you have ten shares?"

"Yes, sir."

"The stock now sells at 95. You want to bear it down to about 80, and buy in a controlling interest?"

"Exactly."

"Very well. Your game is to report that the mill is unsafe, the machinery out of order, the wheat crop poor, the stockholders discouraged, and your belief that the concern will lose $10,000 during the next year. Then offer your own stock at 45."

In about a week the man returned, and when the lawyer asked him how it worked, he replied:

"I followed your advice. After doing some tall talking I offered my stock at 45."

"Of course. And you have cleaned 'em out?"

"No, sir! They bought my stock in before I could turn around twice, and I am $5,000 out of pocket!"

"Yes, I see—I see—I see. Humph! Of course, I see! Your game now is to feign insanity; go to the asylum for a few weeks, and have me appointed your guardian!"—Wall Street News.

Killing the Sutler.

A famous and favorite kind of sport, especially when we had been lying in camp for some time in summer, or were established in winter quarters, was what was known as "raiding the sutler."

The sutler's establishment was a large wall tent, which was usually pitched on the side of the camp farthest away from the Colonel's quarters. It was, therefore, in a somewhat exposed and tempting position. Whenever it was thought well to raid him, the men of his own regiment would make to the men of some neighboring regiment a proposition in some such terms as this:

"You fellows come over here some night and raid our sutler, and we'll come over to your camp some night and raid yours. Will you do it?"

"This courteous offer of friendly offices was usually agreed to; and great was the sport which often resulted. For, when all was duly arranged and made ready, on a dark night when the sutler was sleeping soundly in his tent, a skirmish line from the neighboring regiment would cautiously pick its way down the hill and through the brush, and silently surround the tent. One party, creeping close in by the wall of the tent, would loosen the ropes and remove them from the stakes on one side, while another party on the other side, at a given signal, would pull the whole concern down over the sutler's head. And then would arise yells and cheers for a few moments, followed by immediate silence, as the raiding party would steal quietly away.

Did they steal his goods? Very seldom. For soldiers were not thieves, and plunder was not the object, but only fun. Why did not the officers punish the men for doing this? Well, sometimes they did. But sometimes the officers believed the sutler to be exorbitant in his charges and oppressive to the men, and cared little how soon he was cleared out and sent a-packing; and therefore they enjoyed the sport quite as well as the men, and often imitated Nelson's example when he put his blind eye to the telescope and declared he did not see the signal to cease firing. They winked at the frolic, and came on the scene usually in ample time to condole with the sutler, but quite too late to do him any service.—September St. Nicholas.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1867 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the Pectoral a permanent cure was effected. I am now 64 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your Cherry Pectoral saved me.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. The boy was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Cherry Pectoral had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,

Faithful to Death;

OR, THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER.

CHAPTER I.

"Times are hard," said Farmer Vaughan to his wife; "there is no mistake about it. It is five years since we have had anything like a good harvest; in fact, Catherine, I may as well tell you the truth—I am losing money instead of making it."

"I was afraid it must be so," said his wife, with a sigh.

"It is so, indeed. This is June. Heaven knows how I have been longing for fine weather, praying and hoping against hope. If it comes now it will be too late; the great corn-fields on the hill are ruined already."

"I cannot tell what has come to the weather," said the farmer's wife, solemnly. "When I was a girl we had fine, long, dry summers; the hay was made, the barley mowed, the corn gathered; now there seems to be no warmth in the sun, nothing grows, nothing ripens. I wonder if it be true that the seasons are changing; one thing is quite clear to me—the summers I remember in my girlhood are not the summers of this present time at all."

The farmer shook his head despondently. The very brooks had become rivers; some of his finest clover meadows were under water; the corn was all mildewed that grew on the hill where the sun was warmest; the barley would not ripen; the long fields of oats were like fields filled with dirty weeds.

"I do not know what to do," he continued. "I made two thousand pounds the first five years I was here, I have lost twice as much during the last five years; in fact, Catherine, I have no more to lose. There will be nothing from the orchards this year."

"Nothing," was the dreary answer; "and yet, James, no spring ever brought fairer blossoms; the apple-trees were magnificent, and do you remember the blossom on the cherry-trees? The fruit formed, and I thought we should have the finest fruit in the country; then came the bitter winds and the sharp frost—who ever heard of frost in May?—and there was an end of all hope. We shall not have enough apples to pay for the trouble of picking them."

"We must do something," said the farmer. "Perhaps if we could tide over this year, the next may be better; but we must do something if we are to live at all."

"What can we do?" asked his wife. "I am quite willing to do anything in the world which will make money. What can we do, James?"

The farmer's honest face grew more troubled and more anxious.

"Everything seems to be alike," he sighed. "Larch Hill Farm was famous for its butter, cheese, and milk. Five of our best cows have died this year. It has been nothing during these five years but one continual run of ill-luck. I am tired of it, wife," and the farmer's head fell despondently on his breast. His wife dared not look at him; she felt so sure that he had tears in his eyes. Suddenly her face brightened, and she looked up.

"There is just one thing I could do, James, if you will let me?" she said. "Mrs. Caldecott was here the other day, and she told me that she had taken in a lodger,—a gentleman from London, and that he paid them three guineas a week for two rooms; she said it had paid their rent. If her rooms are worth three guineas, mine are worth more," and the simple, kindly woman looked proudly conscious of her superior rooms.

"You see," she continued, "our house has peculiar advantages. We are only a few miles south of London, and yet we are in the midst of the most beautiful scenery and of the most bracing air. I feel quite sure that if we advertise as the Caldecott's did, we shall get even a better lodger. Shall I try, James?"

The farmer looked up a little more hopefully.

"If you think it will be of any use to us, Catherine," he replied; "try it by all means."

"Ruth will draw-up the advertisements for me," continued the farmer's wife; "she will know how to word them best."

Her husband turned to her in sudden alarm.

"Mind, Catherine, not one word to the child that we are short of money. I would not let her know for the whole world that we had any money troubles; nothing saddens a girl so much."

"I shall not tell her, James, she is only just turned eighteen, and that is too soon for troubles."

"Far too soon," sighed the farmer. "Do you know, Catherine," he continued, "I have fancied that Laurence Rainton comes here oftener than he need do."

"Laurence Rainton!" repeated his wife, with an air of surprise; "oftener than he need do. Why, James?"

A slight, sad smile came to the farmer's face.

"What for?" he repeated. "Is it so long, Catherine, since we met by the mill stream lower down, and do you forget why we met?"

A bright flush came to the comely face.

"But we were sweethearts," she said; "and Ruth, why Ruth is not eighteen yet."

"But she is the prettiest girl in the country side," said the farmer. "I know no one like her, and she is the best too. If Laurence Rainton has had the sense to fix his heart on her, I shall not only be willing, but well pleased; he could not do better, and he would be a good match for any girl. He is the only son, and the Rainton's have owned the Dale Farm for many years. She would be well off, if she married Laurence."

"It seems only yesterday that she was learning to walk," sighed his wife.

"My dear Catherine, you were not eighteen when I first met you by the mill stream, and neither of us thought of youth."

"It seems different with one's children," she said, half sadly.

"I do not say there is anything in it," continued the farmer, "and I am not at all anxious for anything of the kind, but yesterday he was here three times, the day before he called twice, and he came again early this morning about some speckled eggs. Now, speckled eggs are all very well, but it is rather too much of a good thing, is it not?"

But Mrs. Vaughan was rather reticent, and would say no more, a fine, matronly bluah burned her face; her daughter's love affairs would evidently be more serious to her than her own had been.

The story of James Vaughan and Catherine his wife resembled that of many hundreds of farmers, since the sun refused to shine at the right time or the ground to yield good crops. He was a fine, handsome young fellow of twenty-one when he first took possession of Larch Hill Farm; he had a small fortune, and he invested the whole of it on the farm. He bought model machinery; he did the best for the ground; he built new sheds. He spared no expense, no time, no trouble; he read all that was written on agriculture; he took in the journals that treated of farming and cattle; he studied the art as lawyers study law or doctors medicine, and he was successful so long as the sun shone and the rain clouds were merciful. During this time he wooed and married the miller's pretty daughter, Catherine Blythe, a charming, blooming girl of eighteen.

Their wooing had not been of the smoothest. Catherine was pretty, and had many lovers; she could have married the rich old miller, who lived at the white house on the river, and who was reported to have thousands in the bank; she could have married a gay young cornfactor who had the chief command of all the markets round; she could have married a prosperous draper who lived at Aspendale; but the miller's daughter had given her heart to James Vaughan, and she would not hear of anyone else; so that their wooing was not all smooth, for Catherine's parents were ambitious. The young farmer used to meet his fair young love down by the mill stream until all difficulties were removed, then he married her. They had but one child, Ruth, and for some years they lived happily enough, then came the reverse of the medal. By dint of industry and perseverance the farmer had saved two thousand pounds, but then the bad times began; the sun would not shine, the grain would not ripen, the cattle would die of disease, the fruit would fall from the trees. Misfortune seemed to pursue him. He had paid his way, it was true, but he had spent all his hard-earned money, and now the time was drawing near when he would have to go into debt for his household expenses or—go without the necessaries of life.

His wife's suggestion seemed to meet the difficulty. If they could meet with a lodger who could afford to pay them pretty liberally it would save them from great distress.

The advertisement was drawn up in Ruth's neatest handwriting and sent to the "Times." It was the farmer himself who decided that it should go to the "Times."

"The richest people in England take the 'Times,'" he said. So it was sent.

For the first few days it remained unanswered. On the fifth day of its appearance came a letter saying that the writer had been ill with a nervous fever brought on by overwork, and the doctors had recommended him to spend some time in the country, and it was thought that a farmhouse would be most beneficial.

Terms were no object; quiet and cleanliness being the two things most needed. The letter was signed—"Eric St. John," and Ruth, who had read the letter to her mother, puzzled over the name. "Eric," she had not heard or seen it before. "Eric St. John." She repeated it once or twice while her mother pondered over the answer.

"I think," said Mrs. Vaughan, at last, "that we may ask five pounds a week; we shall have plenty of trouble with him if he is an invalid."

"It is a great deal of money," said the daughter, gently.

"Your father needs it all, my dear, and if the gentleman can pay it there is no harm in asking for it. We can try; if he objects we can lower the terms."

But Mr. St. John did not object, he seemed perfectly satisfied. He wrote to engage the rooms for two months, and Mrs. Vaughan showed her husband the letter with triumph."

"That will be forty pounds, James," she cried, "and if we are careful that will be a great help to us."

But they had better have lost farm, and lands, and house. They had better have died from hunger than have written the letter that brought Eric St. John to the house.

CHAPTER II.

No one could describe Ruth Vaughan; the word beautiful was not appropriate, pretty was out of the question,—she was far more than that. Sweet, fair, fresh and bright, with a soul as white and pure as a lily leaf: innocent and simple as a child, with no thought beyond the routine of home life. She was tall, slender, and shapely, no one, neither man, woman, nor child, looked at her face without loving her, trusting her and thinking how bright and fair she was.

The only face that hers resembled is one well known in the world of art,—the beautiful girl in the famous picture of "Les Huguenots," who wished to tie the white scarf on her lover's arm, the same beautiful, clear, pure face. Nature had been good to Ruth, and had given her a wreath of golden brown hair; not content with that she had given her the sweetest blue eyes that ever shone, and because they were so beautiful she had fringed them with long dark lashes. It was a treat to look at Ruth's eyes,—so glorious, bright, clear, and shy. Nature, who takes supreme delight at times in making the face of a beautiful woman, had given to Ruth a mouth so sweet, so delicious in its curves and lines, that a smile from hers was like the breaking of a sunbeam; it was the greatest treat one could have. Everyone who talked to Ruth tried to make her smile, because her smile was so pleasant and so fair to see. Nature had given her a complexion that a duchess might have envied,—so clear and fresh, with the daintest bloom; she had a voice that was as clear and sweet as the coo of the cushat dove.

Everyone who saw her first wondered that a country girl—a farmer's daughter—should possess such rare and refined beauty; but then there were little drawbacks. Ruth had the sweet, low voice of a cushat dove; but there was a touch of provincialism in her accent. She had beautifully-shaped hands, but they were coarse and reddened with daily work,—slight drawbacks that could easily have been remedied. She had known no life beyond the home life,—the whirl of great cities, the gaiety, fashion, excitement, and frivolity of life were dead letters to her.

When the leaves began to shoot,—when the primroses came,—when the pretty white lambs skipped in the meadows,—when the calves lapped the sweet new milk she took them,—when the chickens grew and the blue pigeons whirled and circled in the air,—when the fruit ripened in the meadow, and the corn stood in golden sheaves,—those were her seasons of happiness and pleasure.

The vanity that is so natural to young and especially pretty girls had not reached her yet. She was quite content with a plain print or muslin dress, and a hat without feathers.

She had no idea that she was considered the prettiest girl in the county, and that people often called at the farm for the pleasure of seeing her; she had no idea that young Laurence Rainton worshipped the very ground she stood upon, that the simple, honest young fellow looked up to her as to some beautiful queen, and would have been content to die for one smile from her. She had wondered why he came to Larch Hill so often; why he was so interested in the blue pigeons, which were hers, and never cared for the white ones, her mother's especial care; why he paid so much attention to her poultry, advising her what to give them and what to withhold; the same over her birds and her flowers. He must be wonderfully fond of such things. She was very kind to him, with a good-natured kindness that was death to the hopes of any lovers. He was one year older than herself, and a girl of eighteen is in reality always about five years older than a young man of nineteen. She never thought of him as a sweetheart, or even as a probable lover; he was a nice boy with whom she spent at times a pleasant half-hour over the birds and flowers. Why his face flushed when she spoke to him, why he trembled if she came near him she did not know, and, perhaps, cared less.

Then came a bright June morning; true, the clover meadows were still under water, and the corn was mildewed, but this morning the sun seemed to repent of his misdeeds and tried his best to atone; he shone with the brightest warmth. The birds, who had thought for some weeks that it was all over with them, cheered up and began to sing; the flowers, who were all despondent over the absence of their lover, raised their heads to salute him once more; the bees and butterflies took heart; even the rain-beaten trees and grass looked up again.

A fair morning. The blue pigeons were restless, and Ruth took them some corn. One of the prettiest sights in the world was to see Ruth feeding her pigeons; they knew her so well, and they were so tame that they perched on her arms, on her shoulders, even at times on the dainty golden brown head. This June morning they seemed to know that the sun had repented of its surliness, and they were wild with delight. How she enjoyed their happiness. She talked to them, sang to them; she gave them fresh corn; she caught them, kissed them, and let them go again.

"Oh, how I wish I were a pigeon!" said a voice near to her, and looking up she saw Laurence Rainton.

"How I wish that I were a pigeon!" he repeated.

Ruth laughed, the delicious musical laugh that made one feel inclined to run away with her.

"You would be a clumsy one, Laurence. You would not circle and soar as these do."

"I might if I were a pigeon," he said.

"Ah! but you are not," she replied. "Are you not glad to see the sun shining again, Laurence? It is weeks since we have had one fine day. My father says this year should be called the 'year of rain.' I hope it is over. I have thought a great deal about the Deluge and Noah's ark lately," she added, simply. "How dreadful it must have been—rain, rain, nothing but rain. Imagine the white dove out on the wild world of waters, with not even one branch to rest upon. I am glad that the world is never to be drowned again."

She believed as implicity that the rainbow was the perpetually recurring sign of God's promise as you, reader, believe in Heaven.

Laurence thought how beautiful and spiritual she looked. He felt himself a long way from her. He had never thought about the Deluge or Noah or the rainbow; yet in his own fashion he had suffered much from the incessant rain.

"It will take some days for the sun to dry the earth even now," he said.

She was so perfectly accustomed to his presence, and so completely unembarrassed by it, that she went on feeding her pigeons and singing just as if he were not there. Always the same song; it was her favorite. She sang it at all times, and in all seasons—a sweet, sad song, that told of the sorrows of someone who lived at "Bonnie Doon."

"Ye banks and braes of Bonnie Doon,
How can ye look so fresh and fair?"

In after years, when the cruel thorn had worked its worst, he knew how prophetic that song had been.

"Miss Vaughan," he said. She called him Laurence, because she felt that he was a boy compared with herself; but he never dared to call her Ruth. "Miss Vaughan, I have often wondered why you like that song so much. You sing it when you feed the pigeons, when you gather fruit or flowers, when you are in the dairy. Whenever I come you are always singing about Bonnie Doon."

She laughed the sweet, silvery laugh no one could resist.

"I did not know it," she said; "but it is my favorite song. My father likes it too; he is never tired of it. So soon as the gloaming falls, and he comes in from the farm, the first thing he ask for is 'Ye banks and braes,' but he always calls it Bonnie Doon; and do you know, Laurence, that his favorite name for me is Bonnie Doon?"

"It is a very pretty name," he replied, "even prettier than your own. I wish you would let me call you Bonnie Doon."

"No, no one but my father must ever do that," she replied.

Laurence went on,—

"It is such a sad song, and you are always so blythe and gay, the song is sad. How can the little birds sing while the mourner is so weary, fu, o' care?

"'My fause lover stole the rose,
But, ah, he left the thorn wi' me.'

"That part of the song will never come true to you. You may be weary and full of care in the years to come, everyone is at times, but you will never have a false lover, and your heart will never be pierced by a thorn.

"I want no lover at all, either true or false;" laughed the girl. "My mother says the happiest time of life is when one is young and free."

"But your mother had a lover," he said, insinuatingly, and she, most unconsciously, reechoed her mother's words.

"Ah!" she said, "my mother, that is different;" and then she went to take some corn to the white pigeons who were looking with jealous eyes at their neighbors. She left him sitting on the fence looking after her with longing eyes.

No, Heaven bless her! no false lover should ever come after her, he would be her lover staunch and true; the rose for her, and not the thorn. Heaven bless her! The tears rose in his honest eyes as he looked after her. He would be her lover, she should have no other; no man should ever trifle with her, play her false, or leave a thorn with her. Never; he was to be her lover, and, if ever any other dared to whisper one false word to her, dared to hurt even one hair of her head, he would slay him, yes, as surely as the sun shone in the blue sky above; as surely as the birds were singing, and the blue pigeons circling in the clear summer air, so surely would he slay any man who wrung a sigh from her lips or a tear from her eyes. But no one would, he should be her lover staunch and true. Only a short time and he would tell her how much he loved her, only a short time, and then he would ask her to be his wife, to go with him to the dear old farmhouse where the scarlet rowan berries gleamed like fire.

A short time. Just now she did not seem to understand. He was a whole year older than herself, but she seemed to think he was still a boy.

"Nineteen! one is almost a man at nineteen!" he thought.

She would treat him differently in time,—when she realised that he was a man and loved her with a man's love.

Yet, as he left the farmyard, he caught himself singing the words,—

"My fause lover stole the rose,
But ah! he left the thorn in me."

CHAPTER III.

Still noon on the same June morning, and Ruth has fed the pigeons. Then she remembers that she has roses to gather for the lodger's room. He is coming that day, and she does not like the idea of it. True, the money will be useful to her father; but she does not know what home will be like with a stranger in it. The stranger is to have the pretty little drawing-room,—her pride and delight,—a room that smells always of roses and lavender, with long French windows that open into a sweet old-fashioned garden. That drawing-room was the cherished delight of Mrs. Vaughan's heart; no other farmhouse either far or near had such a room. "Best parlors,"—even "dining rooms,"—in use are too rare; but no other farmer's wife had a drawing-room in that part of the country. It was such a pretty room, too, with a deep green carpet that looked like moss,—pretty light chairs, long white lace curtains, and an abundance of flowers; a few water-colors on the walls, and a few books. That was all; but the room was very pretty, and one could see every sweet old-fashioned flower that bloomed in the garden. The bedroom let with it was a large, old-fashioned, airy room, with roses looking all about the window-panes, and great bow-pots of dried lavender on the mantelpiece.

PROFITS OF TREE PLANTING.

What a splendid investment for the next and future generations may be made by tree planting may be seen from the following facts. The Seafield estate comprises 160,000 acres in Invernesshire, 80,000 acres in Banffshire, and 67,000 acres in Merayshire, the rental amounting to about £75,000 a year. Castle Grant, in Strathespey, is the old seat of the family, and around it are some of the best grouse moors in the Highlands. Callen House, Banffshire the favorite residence of Lady Seafield, is a very pleasant place and close to the sea. Balmacaan, in Glen Urquhart, is a large shooting lodge, and lies amid an excellent deer forest, which is let to Sir Henry Allsopp, who has sub-let it to Mr. Bradley Martin of New York. Tulchan and Advie, the well-known shootings of Mr. Rose, are on the Seafield property, and so are the noted forests of Abernethy and Kinveachie, let respectively to Lady Stamford and to Sir Greville Smyth.

The encumbrances on the Seafield estate amount to nearly £800,000, but the Strathspey woods will, in the course of a few years, enormously increase the income. It was estimated recently that in thirty years they will realise £50,000 a year not merely for one year, but regularly year after year. There are a hundred square miles under timber in the district, on the estates of Lady Seafield and the Duke of Richmond, principally the former. The grandfather of the late Earl commenced planting about 1820, and since 1855 the work has been done in a thoroughly systematic manner. In two plantings near Carr Bridge there are 35,000, 000 trees on 25,000 acres. The trees are principally larches, spruce and firs; but 150 varieties are grown on the estates, and there are large nurseries near Abernethy. Over 200 persons are employed it the forests, which are well worth a visit from any one interested in the subject.

WOE FROM WIGGINS.

Wiggins the insterological reprobate kindy gives five years notice of the little breeze predicted below. "I have now to announce that I have discovered the periodic time of the great Saxeby gale of Oct. 7, 1869 —the storm which almost annihilated the forests of New England and the maritime provinces, raining their timber interests. This period I find to be 5,461 days, so that it will be here on Sept, 19, 1889, and will be the greatest storm that will take place before the year 1900, Its greatest force will be on the afternoon of Sept. 20, when the forests on the eastern coasts will, in all probability, go down before it. It will be accompanied by earthquakes, and these will occur with great violence in the middle of October, in California and western Europe. Let no frail fishermen's bark then cast its shadow into the looking-glass of (what Horce calls him) the powerful god of the sea. Between that period and the present the heaviest storms which will occur are as follows: Sept. 20-23, 1884; Oct. 20-22, 1884; March 18-20-29, 1867."

APPLYING THE PROTECTIVE PRINCIPLE.

"The last time I saw you you were farming. How came you to go into the manufacturing business?"

"Why, the tariff is so high that all the farmers in our section of the country were becoming bankrupt, and I had to get out or go to the poorhouse."

"But they say overproduction has made even manufacturing unprofitable."

"That is true of a great many industries, but we applied the protective principle to our business and now we're making money."

"What do you mean by applying the protective principle?"

"We reduced the wages of our workmen 25 per cent."

NEW YORK JUSTICE.

William Conroy, the policeman who brutally murdered Peter Keeman last election evening will not be hanged, the Supreme Court General Term having reversed the judgment of the Court of General Sessions. Conroy was sentenced to be hanged on February 8, but the appeal stayed the execution of the sentence. The reversal is based on the absence of evidence to show that the element of deliberation was present in the crime. Conroy it is held, had no homicidal intent when he entered the saloon where he killed Keeman. The event was "purely casual" and resulted from "extraordinary mental disturbance caused by two glasses of bar-room sherry."

ARTIFICAL RAIN.

A design has been submitted to the Minister for Water Supply of a contrivance for bringing down rain. It is the form of a balloon, with a charge of dynamite underneath it. The balloon is to be sent into the clouds, and the dynamite is to be fired by a wire connecting it with the earth. The inventor, Mr. E. S. Haines, of Richmond, intends to try it in the dry districts of New South Wales.

AN IMMENSE CATTLE RANGE.

The Lake Voorhees cattle range of Wyoming is the greatest in the world, no doubt. It has fifteen thousand head.

The Soldier's Son.

It was a fierce and critical period of the war in the Peninsula, that Gen. Morillo, then commanding the fifth Spanish army, about 4,000 strong, passed down the Portugese frontier to the Lower Guadiana, intending to fall on Seville as soon as Marshal Soult should advance to the succor of Badajos. In the beginning of April, when the French were disheartened by the sudden news of the fall of that city, Morillo, issuing out of Portugal, crossed the Lower Guadiana, and marched towards Seville.

But the hopes entertained by the Spaniards of being speedily in possession of Seville were cut off by a piece of deceit. False information, adroitly given by a Spaniard in the French interest, led Morillo to believe Soult was close at hand, whereupon he immediately retired to Gibraleon.

The disappointment and failure in the execution of a favorite project, cherished for many months, irritated beyond control the naturally severe temper of Gen. Morillo. It was evening, and the division of the army under him were encamped some hours' march on their retreat. Preparations might have been seen for a military execution; and a couple of French prisoners captured in the last skirmish were, according to the cruel practice of many chiefs of those times, to be put to death. The captives were guarded by a file of soldiers, and the executioners, awaiting the word of command to draw up, were leaning on their weapons, and talking of the events of the last two days.

Just then, one of the inferior officers returning to his tent, after giving some order to the men, was interrupted by a boy, apparently ten years of age, who, seizing his hand, and speaking in an accent slightly foreign, besought him, with piteous entreaties, to procure him admittance to the general. The officer found, on inquiry, that he was the son of one of the French prisoners, a soldier distinguished for his eminent personal bravery, who had not been taken, even when overwhelmed by numbers, without giving and receiving many severe wounds.

"You shall see the general, boy, since you wish it," said the officer, in reply to the child's passionate entreaties; "but he will not grant your father's life. San Lucas! but these French dogs have given us too much trouble already."

They entered the general's tent. The child, as soon as Morillo was pointed out to him, rushed forward and knelt at his feet.

"What does this mean?" demanded the general.

"Spare him! spare my father!" sobbed the [illegible]

The offic[illegible]lationship to one of the prisoners about to be executed.

"Ah, that reminds me," said the chief, looking at his watch; "Pedro, nine is the hour. Let them be punctual and have the business soon over."

Again, with moving entreaties, the child besought his father's life.

"Did your father send you hither?" asked the general.

"No, senor, he did not."

"And how dare you, then"—

"My father has done nothing to deserve death," answered the lad. "He is a prisoner of war."

"Ha! who taught you to question my justice? Answer me."

"No one, senor; but brave generals do not always kill their prisoners"

"I kill whom I choose!" thundered Morillo; "and I hate the French. Boy, your father shall die; I have said it; begone!"

The officer made a silent sign to the petitioner, to intimate there was no hope, and that he must be gone. But the boy's countenance suddenly changed. He walked up to the general, who had turned away, and placed himself directly before him, with a look of calm resolution worthy of a martyr.

"Hear me, senor," said he; "my father is greyhaired; he is wounded; his strength is falling even now, though he stands up to receive the fire of your men. I am young, and strong, and well. Let them shoot me in his place, and let my father go free."

It was impossible to doubt the sincerity of this offer, for the face of the devoted child was kindled with a holy enthusiasm. A dark flush rushed to the brow of Morillo, and for a moment he looked on the boy in silence.

"You are willing to die," at length he said, "for your father? Then, to suffer pain for him will be nothing. Will you lose one of your ears to save him?"

"I will," was the firm reply.

"Lend me your sword, Pabla;" and in an instant, at one blow, the general struck off the boy's ear. The victim wept, but resisted not; nor raised his hand to wipe away the blood.

"So far, good; will you lose your other ear?"

"I will, to save my father! answered the boy, convulsively.

Morillo's eyes flashed. The heroism of the child compelled his admiration; but unmoved from his cruel purpose, he smote off the other ear with his still reeking sword.

There was a dead silence.

"And now, Senor?" said the boy, breathing quickly, and looking up into the general's face.

"And now," answered Morillo, "depart. The father of such a child is dangerous to Spain; he must pay the forfeit of his life!"

The maimed child went forth from the presence of this inhuman foe. Presently the report of fire arms announced that he had witnessed the execution of his father.

A Death-Blow.

"I cannot agree with my neighbor," said a citizen as he consulted a lawyer the other day.

"Build a fence fourteen feet high between you," promptly returned the lawyer.

"Yes, but it would shut out all my light."

"Can't you raise your roof so as to make his chimney smoke?"

"I'm afraid my foundation wouldn't stand it."

"Keep your piano going."

"I do, but he has an organ."

"Set the police after him for his ashbeaps."

"I have too many of my own."

"Let's see—let's see!" mused the puzzled lawyer. "Say, suggest to some of his friends to get up a surprise party on him!"

"By George! I'll do it! That's just the checker! I'll have the thing fixed this very week! Here's your $5, and I'm much obliged besides. Revenge is mine at last!"

He will occupy the old offices, Hunter street.

The Wolfe Street By-law.

As intimated in our last issue would be the case, judgment was given by Justice Rose, of the Queen's Bench Division, in the case of Laplante, quashing the by-law of the Town Council, to close up a portion of Wolfe street and allow the O. & Q. Railway to use it. This decision suggests the fact that the Town Council have no power to convey any street or highway to anybody or any corporation. The street is now partly occupied with the new railway freight sheds.

An Ashburnham Advance.

The Council of this vivacious village have a care for the comfort of the citizens. The residents of Elizabeth street have been pestered with dust, and have breathed it so long that they were likely to return to the dust from whence they sprang, when they laid their woes before the village fathers, who made a grant of $50, to be supplemented by the residents on the above street, and now it is regularly watered. At its last meeting the Council also passed a cow by-law and appointed a Board of Health.

A Splendid Chance.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that Mr. D. W Dumble offers for sale a number of Building Lots in various parts of the town on ten years credit. No money down, interest only to be paid for first five years, and thereafter yearly instalments with the right to pay at any time as may suit the convenience of the purchaser. This offer enables a poor man to use his money in erecting a building, and so he gets rid of rent, and secures a home for himself. Building will be cheap this year and no doubt many will take advantage of this very liberal offer. Besides lots in town, Mr. Dumble offers a number of lots in Ashburnham, and several park lots on the same terms. Call at his office and see plans, &c.

Double Scull Pull.

There were a pretty good collection of sports on hand to witness the double scull race between crews composed of Kent and Fanning and Hawkins and Cottingham, over the usual course on Little Lake, on Friday night. The water was perfect, and sharp at 7.30 Mr. John Brydon, starter, gave the crews a good send off, Mr. John McClelland acting as referee. Both pulled down the course pretty well abreast, but Kent and Fanning got around their buoy with a fair lead, which they increased considerably, and crossed the line six or eight boat lengths in advance, the other crew not coming up to the line. There was great interest in the contest, considerable money in outside bets having changed hands. The stakes were two fine medals contributed by the crews, of the value of about eight dollars each.

Electric Light Extension.

The lights furnished by the Peterborough Electric Light Company having proved so satisfactory the Company are encouraged by the promise of new patrons to put in another dynamo machine of twenty-five light capacity. Thus Peterborough will be able to boast of a fifty-light service, something which few rural cities, not to say towns, can come up to. Of course, the more lights used the greater, within reasonable limits, the reduction in price. The twenty-five new lights warrant the Company in making a reduction of not quite 50 per cent. where one light is used, and a further reduction where more than one light is used in the same establishment. Thus, in the matter of electric light, Peterborough is more cheaply served than any city in America, and the light is as good as any, and far better than many. In New York the lowest figure per light is 65 cents, and in Toronto 60 cents.

Our New Watchmaker, Mr. Hughan, comes well recommended, and we are sure any work entrusted to him will be done in good style. Office lately occupied by Elias Burnham, Simcoe Steet. 18-tf Challenge Accepted.

A day or two ago, Mr. Macfarlane Wilson of China Hall, received a crate of crockery, direct from the potteries, Staffordshire, England, consisting of eleven hundred pieces, comprising chamber sets and other fine crockery, and not a single article was broken. The professional baggage smasher had evidently been off on a holiday.

A Masonic excursion under the auspices of the Peterborough brethren will be made per steamer Golden-Eye, on Tuesday, June 24th, inst., St. John's day. The excursion will proceed down the river to Idyl Wild Park. The steamer will leave her wharf, at the foot of Wolfe street, at 7.30 a.m. Returning, she will leave Idyl Wild at 4 o'clock. Tickets, which are limited, 50 cents.

A Sunday Scorching.

At about eight o'clock on Sunday morning the fire alarm was rung for a fire in the upper stories of the block occupied by Flavelle's Flour and Feed Store. The fire which arose from the chimney being ignited was put out by the brigade which was promptly on hand. The ceiling of the rear part of the telephone flat was slightly burst. The water did considerable damage in the telephone rooms and in Mr. E. B. Edwards' law office.

Boat Club Regatta.

At a meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club, held on Monday evening, it was decided to hold a regatta on the Little Lake course, on Friday evening next, beginning at 6.30. The regatta will be interesting, as at least four four-oared crews will compete in a three heats pull. There will be from four to six entries in the double scull races. The canoe classes, double and single, will also be well filled. The prizes will be medals and silverware. The races will be exciting and interesting, and no doubt there will be a large attendance to witness the sports.

Ecclesiastical.

On Sunday Rev. Mr. Clark of Lakefield, preached in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last Sunday.

Rev. Philip Harding of Apsley, read the lessons and preached the sermon—and a good one too—in St. John's church on Sunday evening. The evening offertory voluntary played by Mr. Ewing was exceedingly fine.

Rev. Mr. Andrews of Victoria College Cobourg, preached in the Charlotte street Methodist church and Rev. Mr. Manning in the George street church in the morning, and vice versa in the evening.

C. & Q. Railway.

Everything seemed to be getting into good shape for the opening of the Ontario & Quebec railway for passenger traffic on July 1st. But the insatiable "sink hole" asserts its right to have a "say" in the matter. A press dispatch states that now that the road is about to be opened a sink hole appears, and everything is delayed. Now the trouble is at Kaladar. The track went down under heavy freight trains, and being raised to the grade again went down five feet. It has since continued settling, and there is now water over the track for a distance of 200 feet in a place where trees two feet in diameter were growing before the road was built.

Toronto University.

Our list of those who had passed examinations at the University of Toronto was incomplete, and therefore we give the following fuller list of successful Peterboroughonians:—For the degree of LL.B., D. J. Lynch; for 3rd year, C. J. Leonard; for the degree of B.A., A. Stevenson; for the 3rd year. J. L. Gilmour and W. Sanderson; for the 2nd year J. D. Graham, A. F. Chamberlain and E. C. Milburn. Of the above students, Mr. Stevenson took the prize in Meteorology, Mr. Gilmour, first class honors in Classics; Mr. Sanderson, first-class honors in Mathematics; Mr. Graham, second-class honors in Mathematics; Mr. Chamberlain, first-class honors in English, History, French and German and Mr Milburn, second-class honors in English, French and German and first-class honors in History. This speaks well for the boys and the Institute.

The Cricket Club Coach.

The Port Hope Guide has the following in reference to Mr. James Norley who has been engaged as "coach" to the Peterborough Cricket Club during the present season:

It is with much pleasure that we hear that James Norley, the professional at the College, has accepted a lucrative engagement with the Peterborough club for the months of July, August and September. Although he thus goes to Peterborough for a part of the summer, still he will not desert the College Boys entirely, for an arrangement is to be made by which he will "coach" the boys for two months and the Peterborough club for two months next year, and it is to be hoped, for many seasons after 1885 also. Norley's tuition has been of great value to the boys. Every member of the eleven bats in good style and the youngsters are also beginning to feel the worth of having one who knows how to superintend their play. We wish Mr Norley the very best luck and success with his new club, and hope we shall hear of him making large scores and bowling down lots of wickets.

Aquatic.

In the Belleville and Toronto papers appears the following challenge:

I hereby offer to back Mr. J. Mercer, of Peterborough, against Mr. Frank McGuire, of Belleville, in a rowing race from one mile to five in lapstreak skiffs, for from $300 to $1000 a side, race to be rowed on any course in Canada. E. Brown, Peterborough.

The issue of this challenge came about in this way. McGuire, who is an oarsman of some ability and, where surroundings are favorable, of great pretensions, indulged in a good deal of street talk as to his ability to "get away" with Mercer. Hearing this Mr. Brown, went to Belleville to arrange a match with McGuire, but that gentleman had as many excuses as the legendary fox of the school primer had tricks, and would not talk business. The challenge was issued to show the sporting public that the Peterborough party means business, and will let their man's muscle, not his mouth, decide which is the better of the two men.

Horticultural Society.

The annual exhibition of the Peterborough Horticultural Society will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday, Sept. 11th.

Fresh in on the G. & Q.

On Monday of last week a pitch-in of two trains took place on the line near Myrtle. There was one man, a stranger, who was looking for work, killed, and a considerable smashing of rolling stock resulted.

To the Ladies.

Don't fail to visit the "Golden Lion" for superb Millinery. Every table filled with most exquisite designs in Hats, Bonnets, Ostrich Feathers, Ribbons, &c., in every shade and pattern.

Missing Link.

The sink hole on the Link has been mastered by the construction of a practically floating bridge, which required the use of an immense amount of timber and lumber. Regular trains began using the line on Monday.

To Gentlemen.

Tailoring a great specialty at Fair, VanEvery, & Co's. A large stock of Scotch and Canadian Tweeds, Fine Worsteds, &c. A first-class cutter at your command and a good fit guaranteed. A large stock of Shirts, Collars, Ties, Suspenders, &c., at very low prices.

Park Music.

The Court House park is to be thrown open for band concerts, and Messrs. A. McNeil and E. Brown have succeeded in securing the lighting of them by the electric light. There will hereafter be two concerts each week—one by each band on Tuesday and Friday nights. The Fire Brigade band opens the series next Friday evening.

Baseball.

On Thursday last the Silver Star baseball club, of Peterborough, played a game with Lindsay club. The result was a defeat of the home nine, a result largely due to Callaghan, the catcher of the home team, disabling his hand, and to the pitcher's right arm being decidedly lame. For a first match, against an old organized club, the Stars did not do at all badly.

Garden Party.

A very successful garden party was held on the grounds of Mr. William Hamilton, Reid street, on Friday evening. The beautiful grounds were well lit, the Fire Brigade band supplied excellent music and a most delightful evening was passed by the large number present. The financial proceeds, in aid of the St. Paul's church mission fund, were very satisfactory.

A Moonlight Excursion.

A party of about fifty young ladies and gentleman went down the river on Tuesday night. The Golden Eye, which had the palace barge attached, and on which excellent music was provided for dancing, went down the stream as far as Hale's bridge and returned, without landing, reaching home about one o'clock. The excursion was a delightful one,

Bible Christian Stations.

At the Bible Christian Conference, held in the town of Bowmanville, last week, the ministers were stationed as follows in this district:—Campbellford, G. Dunkley; Peterborough, W. Joliffe, J. W. Batcher, superannuated; Little Britain, W. C. Beer, R. Mallet; Lakefield, R. Allin; Fenelon, W. Metherall; Lindsay, W. Limbert; Manvers and Cartwright, R. A. Tonkin, W. Down; Ashburnham, S. J. Thompson.

A Case for the Charitable.

In the western part of the town there is a pitable case, worthy of the attention of the charitably inclined. A woman (practically a widow) has six children to support, the oldest, 13 years old, being out to service. The remaining five are prostrated with scarlet fever, besides an illegitimate child a year old, which the woman took to keep for the sake of the pittance the mother paid. Now the latter has deserted the child and the woman is left with the waif on hand, and sick with the fever to boot. The house is destitute of food.

Belleville Races.

A cheap excursion will be run to Belleville on June 25th, per G.T.R., to give all an opportunity of witnessing the races under the management of the Canadian Trotting Circuit, which is affiliated with the American Trotting Association. As the Belleville track is one of the fastest and best in the Dominion, and in the hands of Messrs. Lingham, Lang & Colby the public will be assured of good, honest sport. Twenty-seven American horses are now entered, and the list is not closed. There will also be a bicycle race each day for gold and silver medals. This will be an excellent chance for our Peterborough wheelmen. Return tickets, $1.50; good to return on 26th.

Handsome Present.

Mr. Ed. Brown of the "Little Windsor," umpired the match of the Silver Star base ball club at Lindsay. Wednesday evening, previous at a meeting at his hotel he was presented with a handsome pair of slippers and the following address:

MR. E. BROWN,—Please accept those slippers with compliments of the "Silver Star" Base Ball club. You will oblige us by wearing them and your white coat to-morrow. If they should pinch—have them exchanged at P. Delair's.

Signed on behalf of the club,
THOMAS THOMPSON, Sec'y.

The slippers are a pair of ladies' prunella gaiters—largest size—and the elastic web at the ankles, beautifully bulged to about the size and shape of an elephant's ears. It is rumored that the umpire contemplates marrying a Lindsay girl and the boots with a little stretching may make a neat fit for the future wife.

Parade Hose Reel.

The Peterborough Fire Brigade have long felt the want of a parade hose reel for gala days, and for use on state occasions at home and abroad. They are now making an effort to procure one, and the generosity of the public will be tested in the matter of contributing the necessary funds. The boys decided to have a handsome fancy reel made in town. The project is sure to succeed, if a few big-hearted gentlemen like Mr. H. Calcutt can be found. He has generously given, free of charge, to the Fire Brigade the use of the Golden-Eye for a series of excursions on Dominion Day. Three excursions under the auspices of the Brigade will take place to Faucher's Summer Park, down the river. The fine band of the brigade will go with every trip. Tickets 50 cents per couple, good to return by any boat. On the last trip, if necessary, the Whistle-Wing will be used to assist the Golden-Eye. Here is a chance for a delightful day—good fishing, good boating, and a good object.

CROPS OF THE COUNTY.

Taking advantage of the presence of the members of the County Council in town, we interviewed them severally in reference to the present condition and prospects of the crops in the different municipalities comprising the county. The intelligence of these gentlemen and their opportunities for observing make their opinion of considerable weight. The following are summarized statements of their opinions.

ASPHODEL.

Fall wheat in general looks fair, though at the present time it stands in need of rain. Spring crops not so promising as they might be; also needing rain. The hay crop is bad, the frost having played havoc with the clover.

BELMONT.

Fall wheat looks well; it will, with a favorable season, turn out about a two-thirds crop. Spring grain is promising. Rye will not be one-half a crop and hay will turn out about half as good as last year. Frost did the clover great damage especially on light soils.

BURLEIGH.

Fall wheat not very promising, will yield under ordinary conditions about 10 bushels to the acre. Spring crops only middling. Hay is fair, but the frost has hurt clover as well as other grains. Hay will not be an average crop.

DUMMER.

Fall wheat is fair, very few fields ploughed under; some fields are very good. The crop throughout will be a fair average. Spring crops have suffered from the frost and need rain badly. Hay not as good a crop as last year.

DOURO.

Fall wheat only fair not as good as last year. The crop will be light. Spring grains of all kinds will be a short crop. Hay will also be a light crop. Rain is sadly needed.

ENNISMORE.

Fall wheat is not promising; half a crop will answer present expectations, though there are odd good fields. Hay will be a light crop, the frost having nipped the clover. New meadows, however, promise well.

GALWAY, ETC.

Fall wheat is at present looking well. Spring crops promise well but their future largely depends on rain. The hay crop lacking rain will be nothing to boast of.

HARVEY.

Fall wheat promises well; will be about half a crop. Spring grains are fair. Hay will be light, the clover having been badly touched with frost. Rain needed.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

Fall wheat is looking fairly; spring grains are light and without speedy rain will be a failure. The hay crop without rain soon will be reckoned with the failures.

OTONABEE.

Fall wheat is thin and late. Spring crops are not much to boast of, but may revive with rain soon. Hay will be lighter than it has been the last two years.

SMITH.

Fall wheat only middling, rather behind the mark; with ordinarily good season it will hardly be an average crop. Spring grain fair at present—needs rain. Hay poor and thin on old meadows, better on newly seeded fields.

A fresh stock of that Tweed, double and twisted warp, just the thing for boys, at Turnbull's.

Borough Brevities.

Work has begun on the enlargement of the Wm. Hamilton agricultural works buildings.

The half yearly meeting of the District Orange Lodge was held at Nassau Mills on Tuesday evening.

An O. & Q. train ran over a cow on the track on Monday. The cow was demoralised fatally and a flat-car derailed.

The local lodge of Sons of England has appointed a committee to look after immigrants on their arrival and assist in finding them employment.

Don't forget the cricket match on the Ashburnham grounds on Friday—between Peterborough and Toronto.

Saved Army picnic at Idyl Wild on Friday. The Golden Eye will leave at 7 o'clock with the Peterborough contingent.

The officials of the Board of Health have pronounced the town look-up an "unclean thing"—that is unhealthy. It will require an immense deal of renovation to make the public believe that there is anything healthy about a look-up.

Daniel or David Lang a young Scotchman who has been working at carpentering in town recently, announced the other night with a good deal of hilarity that he had fallen heir to $75,000 by the death of a relative in Scotland.

Arbitration.

Judge Senkler, of St. Catharines, appointed by Justice Rose, of the Queen's Bench Division, arbitrator in the case of Edwards vs. the O. & Q. Railway, took the oath before Warden Lang on Tuesday, and opened the arbitration at the Court House. A large number of witnesses were examined. Judgment reserved.

Street Watering.

The new watering tank made its first appearance on Monday. It is driven by Mr. John McLelan, and is a decided improvement on the old box tank. It is in the shape of a flattened tub, and being mounted on springs, it goes along as easily as a baby dray. It is possible to go a great deal faster with it, too, without danger of it being shaken to pieces—a good deal more ground can be got over, and more work done in a day. Mr. M. O'Donnell says he had rather draw the new cart full than the old horse-killer empty.

Lacrosse.

In local lacrosse circles everything seems dull. The boys have hard work to get a match on. They have failed with Orillia, Napanee can't come at once, but it is probable that a match will be arranged with the second twelve of the Toronto club for an early date. A match of our junior twelve with Norwood is also on the tapis. At a recent meeting, the club formally thanked Mr. Ed. Brown for offering the silver cup for competition. A committee was also appointed to settle terms and conditions of matches for the "little Brown jug." The Brockville Times contains the following description of the silver cup to be played for at the Oddfellows Demonstration in Brockville, on July 9th by the Peterborough and Ottawa clubs:

"The cup is placed on two supports of about ten inches in length with two lacrosse sticks crossed in the centre, which also serve as supports. It is enclosed in a glass case, and stands about 20 inches in height. One side of the cup represents a lacrosse player in the field, and on the other will be placed a suitable inscription. The inside is lined with gold and the outside decorated with the same."

Jacob H. Bloomer, of Virgil, N. Y., writes; 'Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured a badly swelled neck and sore throat on my son in forty-eight hours; one application also removed the pain from a sore toe; my wife's foot was also much inflamed—so much so that she could not walk about the house; she applied the Oil, and in twenty-four hours was entirely cured.'

Peterborough Cheese Board.

Second Fortnightly Meeting.

The second fortnightly meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board, was held in the board room here, on Tuesday, and there was a very large attendance both of sellers and buyers. Eighteen factories were represented, and the buyers present were W. H. Wrighton and W. C. Clarke, town; Mr. Grimmon, of the Hodgson house, Montreal; Mr. Brewer, of Watkins, Belleville (Warrington, Liverpool) and Dundas & Flavelle, Lindsay.

The cheese, which was of the first half of June, was supplied by the under printed factories, as follows:—

The cable price from Liverpool, ballotined, was 55 shillings. The entire lot which was competed for keenly by representatives of the best houses, was bought by Mr. W. H. Wrighton, at 9¼c., the value at these figures being about $10,000. The board is assuming large proportions, and is becoming an important local commercial institution.

The regular meeting of the board falling on Dominion Day, the next meeting was fixed for Tuesday, July 8th.

Concert.

We understand that the Ladies' Aid Society of the George Street Methodist Church intend treating the public of Peterborough to an "Old Folk's Concert," similar to the one held by the Metropolitan Church, Toronto. There will be a strawberry festival in connection with it.

BOWMANVILLE.

Bowmanville Oddfellows, held their first "decoration day" on Wednesday last, when the citizens generally turned out and nearly every grave in the cemetery had flowers placed upon it. Peterborough Oddfellows have appointed Friday, 27th inst., for the same purpose.

LONGFORD MILLS.

Messrs. Hall & Thompson, of Longford, have purchased what is known as the "Portage property" from Thompson, Smith & Son, at a cost of $30,000. It consists of a portage for logs from Lake St. John to Couchiching, a canal, 5,000 acres of land and extensive buildings.

EMILY.

On Monday morning last a year old colt owned by Mr. Robert Ford, of Emily, got on the railway track south of the Omemee station through a defective fence, and had one of its legs broken by a train running over it, and had to be shot in consequence. The colt was boarding on Mr. Henry Toole's farm.

BELLEVILLE.

On Sunday forenoon fire was discovered in the stables on Coleman street, occupied by J. K. McCargar and D. Losee. The flames had made such headway before the fire brigade arrived that nothing could be saved. Four valuable horses, including the well known stallion W. B. and the trotting mare Lady Duke, perished. Two buggies, a wagon and several sets of harness were consumed. Mr. McCargar had an insurance of $900, which will cover but a small portion of his loss.

BELMONT.

Mr. Richard Wilson, of Belmont township, a former resident of Seymour, died at his home on Wednesday of last week. Some weeks ago Mr. Wilson cut the instep of his foot with an axe, and was unable to work. The wound was bandaged for a few days, but after that time it was found necessary to secure the treatment of a physician. He dressed the cut and tied a bandage around the leg, but it did not seem to help the injury, and blood drops oozed from the leg above the knee. Mr. Wilson grew worse, and finally swooned away on Wednesday and died a few hours afterwards.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Dr. McMurtry, dental surgeon of Peterborough was in the village on a professional visit last week.

We are informed says the Herald, that the ladies of Christ church Omemee, intend providing a dinner or lunch for all who visit that village on July 12th. The number of Orangemen expected there on the 12th will exceed any celebration ever held on a similar occasion.

On Monday last Mr. Duffus, Architect of Lindsay, was in Omemee taking a diagram of the work required for the new iron bridge over Pigeon river. The new structure will be eighteen inches higher than the present one; eighteen feet in width and a four feet side walk on each side. The superstructure will rest on stone abutments and will be between 60 and 70 feet in length. Work will be commenced as soon as possible.

NORWOOD.

The O. & Q. station here was completed last week. It is the finest station on the line between this village and Perth.

The celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne this year in Norwood, so the Secretary informs the Register, will be the grandest ever held in this section of the country. At least six brass band are expected to be present.

The Messrs. Harper commenced work on Mr. J. Pettigrew's new brick residence on Thursday last. The building, when completed, will be a handsome one, and will add greatly to the appearance of that quarter of the village.

Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, we learn, has taken the erection of an elevator, at the Ontario & Quebec R'y station here, in hand, and is taking steps to have it built as soon as possible. The building will be 40 feet in width by 50 feet in length, and 75 feet high.

PORT HOPE.

Port Hope is to celebrate Dominion Day with great eclat.

The slander case, Dodds vs. Marshall, did not come on at the Assizes in Cobourg, being settled out of Court.

A match has been made between Mr. Henry Hamly, of this town, and Mr. Fitzgerald, of Toronto, for a three hundred yards race on Friday next, between 5 and 6 o'clock, in the Park, for $100, Hamly to have fifteen yards start. Fitz, old boy, you will have to step out pretty lively.

While Mrs. E. Philp was engaged in doing some work about her house on Friday last, she moved a step-ladder which Mr. Philp had been using in hanging pictures, but had temporarily left to attend to something else, when a small hatchet, which he had temporarily left on the ladder, fell on the fleshy part of her arm, making a deep and severe cut, which bled profusely. Dr. Corbitt was called, and dressed the wound, and we are glad to learn that Mrs. Philp has nearly recovered from the injury.

Owing to the inability of the plaintiff to prove the ownership of the Norseman, the case of Braun vs. Gildersleeve, was adjourned until next assizes. It appears the plaintiff bought a ticket at Rochester for Cobourg, during the season of 1882, but the steamer not calling at that port, Braun was landed in Port Hope on Sunday morning, and being without money he had to walk to Cobourg. Plaintiff is an old man, 75 years of age, and he claims he suffered injury from the fatigue from which he has not yet recovered. He sues for $200 damages.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Mr. Ferris is preparing to erect a large brick block on the site now occupied by his store and the post office. He has purchased Mr. Kennedy's property adjoining, covering a space from the front of 82 feet.

The first telephone to be introduced in Campbellford will probably be done by Mr. Chas. Smith. He intends to make the purchase so that he may have telephonic communication between his grist and flour mills and the railway station.

On Sunday last Mr. Edward Honey one of the most respected citizens of Percy township, passed away. He had been ailing for some time, but able to attend to his business. Last week he took cold through sleeping with his window open which turned to congestion of the lungs and resulted in his death on Sunday.

A little daughter of Mr. Larsen Young was struck on the forehead by a stone thrown by a catapult on Tuesday evening last, and knocked down senseless. She became convulsive and remained in that condition up to 11 o'clock. The stone was thrown by a son of Mr. Montgomery.

Mr. J. C. Cockburn the skillful marksman, in company with a few of his friends in Toronto, came to Campbellford on Thursday last, to give a quiet exhibition of what he could do with the rifle. The shooting took place on a chosen spot north of the village, resulted a bet that Cockburn could break 400 glass balls in hour. This feat he accomplished before a number of spectators, and astonished them by making a greater record. In 41 minutes he broke 416 balls. As a marksman Cockburn stands well with the best on the continent.

LINDSAY.

The square timber trade is looking up. Large quantities are being carried South over the Midland.

The material is being placed on the ground to open the switch from the Midland line into the yard of the Sylvester works.

The public eyes has during the last day or two been turned to the bell house being built on the roof of the block where the fire hall is located. The new alarm bell will be placed in the structure when finished.

The debris inside the walls of the convent building has been cleared away and the material to erect the scaffolding is on the ground. The object now to be attained is to get the roof on and the building closed in as speedily as possible.

The needs of this community, in the shape of a reliable public clock, will shortly be met. A handsome regulator clock of large size is to be placed on the wall of Dobson's block just around the corner on William-st.

The county council have made a grant of $1.50 per man to No. 5 company of volunteers under the command of Capt. J. W. Wallace. The grant will be to expend in assisting to procure helmets to be worn while at camp this season.

The suggestion has been offered that the town should take steps to provide a public park. The idea is a capital one and would prove popular. An excellent position for a park would be that property along the south side of Waverly-ave. west about fifteen acres in all. Mr. D. J. McIntyre, who owns a frontage along the best part of the property, offers, so we are informed, to make a gift of of his share to the town if the balance of the property is bought for a park.

COBOURG.

The woollen mills commenced operation again on Monday morning.

Mr. R. Scarff, east of this town, has potatoes that have been in full bloom the past two weeks. Very few are ahead of this.

There are at present only three prisoners in the gaol here, and to the credit of Port Hope be it said that not one hails from that place, although there are several up there who ought to be caged.

At the recent assizes here the case of the Queen vs. the corporation of Port Hope was tried. The defendants were indicted for having neglected and refused to rebuild a bridge over Smith's creek on Hope street within their corporation. The bridge, it seems, was destroyed some time ago, by a dam on the stream above it breaking away, and the corporation, in order to save the expense of rebuilding it, bought and made a roadway along the side of the stream, and thence back to Port Hope street. The jury found the defendants guilty, but His Honor reserved judgment until after the argument of a demurrer to the indictment entered by the defendant's counsel, and which was argued on Monday last.

BOBCAYGEON.

This is really a glorious village. Bass swimming across the main street ready to be hooked out for the pan. Wild strawberries growing within the corporation limits. The wild strawberry will not be so abundant as usual, but of a good size and quality.

A few of the summer visitors have arrived and numerous applications and engagements are booked. The heat of the last few days will have the effect of turning the toilers of the cities to thoughts of murmuring brooks, sighing trees, and rural felicity. And that is just the moment, says the sapient Smiff, when they think of Bobcaygeon.

The preparations for the Dominion Day celebration are progressing favorably and promise well. Whenever Bobcaygeon has undertaken to celebrate, it has always done so with marked success. Those now engaged feel that a reputation has to be maintained, and every exertion is being made to insure a big day's sport.

All reports of the hay crop are exceedingly unfavorable. The prolonged dry weather has completely stunted the growth. Some say at the present moment it is not worth cutting, and one gentleman, not by any means given to flights of fancy, said that unless he had rain, the grasshoopers might sit on their haunches and bite of the heads of the grass. This will be a serious loss, for it will probably necessitate a great reduction of the herds next fall, and it is upon the catle trade that this district must largely depend.

CANADIAN HOMES FOR CHILDREN.

Written for "Night and Day."

"Please, Mother, may I go to Canada?" was the question that greeted me as I entered into the playroom one evening after going the rounds up-stairs, tucking in "the chicks" and kissing them a last "good-night," ere their wee feet pattered into dreamland. I was "Holiday Mother," and felt very maternal when my big girls, some of them inches taller than myself, gathered round me ready for a story or for a nice quiet talk, as "Mother" felt inclined. "What of your friends, dear," I answered, smoothing back the soft brown hair; "would they be willing?" "Please, Mother, I've got no father nor mother, only an aunt, and she doesn't care where I go." How the child's words thrilled me—no father, no mother, only an aunt who didn't care. What a sorrowful story lay behind the half-unconscious wail of that little lonely heart! I looked at the bright dark eyes and pretty features, and shuddered at thought of the terrible possibilities of her life had she not found shelter in this peaceful Home. But she had been safely folded, thank God, and my heart bounded back into sunshine.

I hadn't much time for either grave or gay thinking, however, for the eager voice said again, "Please, Mother, tell us some stories about Canada, and please do ask Dr. Barnardo if I can go." Nothing loath, I talked to them of my fair land beyond the sea, with its wooded hills and well-tilled plains, its beautiful streams and broad blue lakes, its mighty forests and its towering rocks, whose strange weird echoes, like woodland elves mimic the wild bird's cry. I told them of the gorgeous hues of the autumn leaves after the frost-king's breath has touched them, and then of the soft, white mantle that, later on, when the leaves have fallen, is spread over the earth's brown figure by the kindly wintry sky. Then their eyes grew big with wonder as I described the curious bridges of ice built by clever Jack Frost over lakes and rivers, changing the merry flow of their summer waves into such still whiteness that the red men say, "The waters have gone to sleep."

But this was all like a fairy tale; and as I did not think it fair to hide from them the darker tintings of their emigration picture, I told them of short summers and weary winters, when all the poetry of life seems to be either parched with heat or shrivelled by cold; and then I spoke to them of work—not slavery—but honest, intelligent labour, and gave them clearly to see that dresses have no more chance in a Canadian than in an English hive. Good hard work is the order of the day, and commands good wages; and a girl who is active and willing, honest and true, is sure to find a comfortable home and kind-hearted friends. Her chances of success lie within herself, and will be measured by the brightness or stupidity with which she manages those ten good servants, her own young fingers.

Some of my girls pulled very long faces as the talk grew serious; and the Arcadia of their fancy began to wear a very commonplace, every-day look; while others brightened up, as if the thought of difficulties to be met and conquered only roused their girlish ambition; and the request was made again, more eagerly than ever, "Mother, do please ask Dr. Barnardo if we may go back with you.

Such girls as these, sent out with some knowledge of what lies before them, and their young hearts stirred with desires to be and do their best, are sure to do well; while the vicious and the idle are just as sure to lose all that may be left to lose. Canadian sunshine is bright and Canadian air is pure, but I never yet have heard that they have power to renovate corrupt hearts or reform evil lives. If, however, you sent out lads and lasses of pluck and principle, as well as muscle, who from force of circumstances can never rise higher than common servants here, let them do as they will, and, ten to one, in the years to come you'll hear such stories of success in life as might put the pen of many a fashionable novel to the blush.

"Heroes of toil are part of Nature's plan.
What man has done may still be done by man."

CHEESE MARKET.

REPORT OF UTICA AND LITTLE FALLS MARKETS

UTICA, N. Y., June 23.

Notwithstanding the heavy sales, there was some holding back to-day, which may help to swell the transactions next week. Factorymen claim that the drought is beginning to tell on the yield of milk, and it is probably true that if dry weather continues it will soon make a perceptible difference in make of cheese. To-day we have the largest transactions of any single day since that banner year. Private advices from New York claimed that the best stock must be brought to sell at 9½c. This kept the ruling down, but did not prevent a considerable amount of the better grade of stock from selling above that point.

Transactions were as follows: 34 lots, 500 boxes, at 8½c; 3 lots, 400 boxes, at 8⅝c; 85 lots, 10,635 boxes, at 9c; 7 lots, 576 boxes, at 9¼c; 31 lots, 1,380 boxes, at 9¼c; 140 at 9⅜c; 5 lots, 1,140 boxes, at 9½c; and one lot, 120 boxes, at private terms. Sales, 14,915 boxes; commissions, 1,542; total 16,457 boxes. Ruling price 9c. Corresponding day last year 15,859 boxes, ruling 10½c. Year before, 6,979 boxes; ruling 10½c.

LITTLE FALLS, June 23, '83.

From private advices, as well as from the published reports of last week's N. Y., market, everybody was prepared for lower prices to-day. The average decline here is a little more than one-half cent per pound. There was a large offering, dairymen appreciating the fact that still lower prices are threatening; buyers appeared ready to take the stock and trade was active, and prices were firm at the decline. It was a question in much doubt, till quite late which price, either 8½ or 9c. was to be the "ruling" rate or, as some term it, the "bulk price." As a large amount of cheese was bought at this "bulk price," it became a matter of much importance that this rate be fixed without question. But at the close the higher rate clearly had it, which will, of course, please the dairymen. Following are the transactions:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price.
9	634	8½c
41	3,142	8⅝c
43	4,035	9c
5	445	p. t
16	1,427	comm.
118	9,674
Farm Dairy	1,576
Total	11,250

FARM DAIRIES.—There was a very active demand for this class of stock and prices ruled well up with factories, 8½ to 9¼c., four lots at the latter figure; the bulk went at 9c.

ANTI-MASONIC SERMONS.

A series of sermons against Freemasonry have been inaugurated in Montreal in the Catholic churches. The Rev. Father Hamon, S. J., delievered a powerful address in the Church of the Jesuits, Sunday in denunciation of the order, on the ground that it was not Christian, having Pagans, Mahommedans, Protestants, and Catholics in its organization. Father Dowd read a letter in St. Patrick's on Sunday from Mgr. Fabre, stating that the principles of Freemasonry had spread rapidly in this province among Catholics, and especially French-Canadians. His Lordship called on all to separate themselves from the society.

A NURSE ROASTED ALIVE.

A nurse in the family of Mrs. Wm. Darling, of Pointe Claire, a summer watering place near Montreal, named Rachel Cunningham, was pouring some spirits into a lamp when it took fire and exploded, the flames catching her light clothes and enveloping her in a mass of living fire. Some gentlemen who heard her cries rushed in and placed blankets around her body, but the work of literally roasting her flesh off was complete and she died within an hour. Her sufferings up to the last are described as fearful. Fortunately the children, who were in the room with her, escaped.

THE BOAT CLUB REGATTA.

Two Hours Fun on the Little Lake Course.

The second of the series of proposed regattas, under the auspices of the Peterborough boating club took place on Friday evening over the Little Lake course. There was a fair attendance of spectators among which were several ladies and the lake was in the vicinity of the finish, covered with small crafts of all kinds. The first event was the first heat of in which the contestants were, F. Adams and Gus Lock, and G. Orde and W. Cashen. The former won this heat easily, the latter pair steering badly and going greatly out of their course. They came in second by about five or six boat lengths.

SINGLE CANOE PADDLE.

This was between J. Weller, A. Strathen and George Stevenson, (Ashburnham.) Down the course the race was a pretty one the trio keeping well together but on the home stretch, Stevenson pushed a head and finished with a good lead, Weller second. It is only fair to state that Stratton was greatly hindered by boats in the way, his canoe actually colliding with a boat at the winning line.

SECOND DOUBLE SCULL HEAT.

This was between Rutherford and Cox, and Cottingham and Hawkins. There was not much excitement in this heat as the latter super steered a very wild course, which left them considerably behind at the finish.

THE FOUR-OAR-OVER.

For this event two crews pulled, one composed of J. Dolan, P. Henry, W. Matthews and V. Eastwood—stroke, the other of J. E. Hawkins, Geo. Sidnfield, W. Lock and M. Cottingham—stroke. This struggle was a little closer than the other events and Cottingham's crew had to work pretty hard for their 3 lengths at the finish. The other crew which lost the toss for choice of shells, although not so well boated pulled a strong race.

The deepening darkness made it impossible to even start the "paw-off" in the double scull match.

These American Dandies Turnbull is showing, are grand goods to wear. Every farmer and mechanic should see them.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

PIC-NIC.

The pupils of the Norwood High School, on Saturday last, went to Healy's Fall's on a day's outing in that beautiful and romantic locality. Carriages for all the pupils and teachers were kindly provided by the popular head master, Mr. John Davidson, while the edibles were bountifully provided by the young ladies attending the school. Boating, fishing, croquet, etc., were joyfully engaged in by the happy party, the happiness of the gathering being much enhanced by the absence of the benedict species, and all felt very much improved by the recreation enjoyed. Mr. Davidson deserves much praise for the manner in which he entertained his pupils and assistant teachers.

STREET WATERING.

Norwood has taken another step towards evincing her enterprising spirit. Through the indomitable energy of Mr. Robt. Wilson, who always has an eye to the welfare and prosperity of the village and its people, a sufficient sum of money has been subscribed weekly to pay for the watering of our main business streets, a necessary duty during these trying dry times.

RAIN.

We had a copious shower of rain, accompanied by thunder, on Tuesday afternoon, which was very much needed, as garden and field crops in this neighborhood were suffering greatly on account of the long-continued drought. This timely rain has revived vegetation generally, as well as needfully cooled the almost unbearable atmosphere.

MASONIC FESTIVAL.

Norwood Lodge, No. 223, A. F. & A. M., celebrated the festival of St. John the Baptist on Tuesday evening last, by a social gathering of the members thereof with a number of invited friends. A splendid evening's entertainment was enjoyed. Mrs. S. Jones sang delightfully several solos, while Miss Butterfield, Miss Raddon, Miss Olive Stephenson, and Mr. Birt, also ably assisted in the vocal part of the programme. Mrs. K. Buck and Mrs. Pearce, as well as Mr. Birt, very sweetly rendered some instrumental pieces. Addresses and readings were given by Rev. Mr. Carmichael, Rev. Mr. Gibson, Dr. Ford, Mr. Richie, Mr. Hutchinson and Mrs. P. W. Stevenson and Miss Lily Ford.

The many friends of THE EXAMINER are pleased to see the paper in its enlarged form. It is regarded here as an able exponent of Reform principles, and as a home newspaper its popularity is daily growing.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

Continuation of Report.

THIRD DAY—THURSDAY.

The members of the Council assembled at the usual hour, but a greater portion, of the day was taken up by work in committee. In the afternoon two deputations were received and the members heard before the Council in support of the interests they respectively represented.

NORWOOD HIGH SCHOOL.

The deputation from Norwood was first heard.

Mr. Thos. Rork, ex-Reeve of Asphodel, stated the object of the deputation was to ask the County Council for financial assistance to pay the balance of indebtedness incurred by the erection of the Norwood High School building, the cost of which had been $8,600.

Mr. J. Coyle Brown, Public School Inspector, briefly supported the claims of the deputation.

Mr. P. W. Reynolds, a member of the deputation, stated that the building had cost $8,600. Of this sum $7,000 were provided for, leaving a balance of $1,600, and Norwood could not at present see how this balance could be met unless the County Council came to their assistance and dealt liberally with them in the matter of making a grant. Norwood certainly had a claim to financial recognition by the county. It maintained a first-class High School, no fees were charged, and consequently outside pupils from the county had all the benefits of its maintenance without contributing thereto. On his recent visit, the Provincial High School Inspector had examined the building and pronounced it a first-class building in all respects, as good for its size as there was in the district. He approved thoroughly of the general plan, and said the ventilation had been well considered, and was exceedingly satisfactory and a credit to the architect (Mr. J. E. Belcher), while the contractor (Mr. John W. Alford) had, faithfully carried into execution the excellent plans of the architect. The entire burden of building and maintaining such a building, thrown on a small municipality like Norwood meant a heavy financial responsibility, and he (Mr. Reynolds) hoped the County Council would take a liberal view of the matter and make a substantial grant.

On motion of Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. Stewart, the matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

COURT HOUSE PARK.

A deputation of citizens in respect to making proposals for opening and maintaining the Court House Park as a public resort, was next heard.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox, appearing as a private citizen and not as mayor, inquired if the County council still held good a previous resolution of the council respecting the park giving it over to a committee, with power to lease the park to the town council, Horticultural society or any other persons they thought proper for the purpose of beautifying it and throwing the grounds open to the public? He pointed out that the town should have parks as places of recreation and enjoyment. He thought that the meeting by the county council, of the views of the town would lead to the opening of two parks in the town.

Mr. Strickland said that his object in moving the resolution of last year had been to keep the park open to the public. He thought it extremely undesirable to have it closed. In his travels abroad he had noticed the care taken by the citizens in providing parks and beautifying their cities in a manner which conduced largely to making them desirable places of residence and afforded an inducement to other persons to select them as places of abode.

Mr. Cluxton also, warmly advocated the throwing open of the Court House park to the public.

On motion of Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Kidd, the matter was referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Burnham, Sanderson and the Warden.

CONDOLENCE.

On motion of Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Elmhirst, Messrs. J. Burnham, and H. Stephenson and Geo. Stewart were appointed a committee to draft a resolution of condolence with the families of the late Geo. Oliver Reeve of Harvey, W. H. Collins, Reeve of North Monaghan, and the same to be signed by the members of the council and county officials and forwarded to the respective families.

COUNTY SOLICITOR.

On motion of Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Burnham, Mr. F. B. Edwards was appointed county solicitor, and a by-law was directed to be prepared to confirm the appointment.

The council then adjourned.

FOURTH DAY—FRIDAY.

The whole of the morning was spent in committee work, and a part of the afternoon the council going into session, at four o'clock.

After routine, Mr. Burnham, chairman, presented the report of the committee on

EQUALIZATION AND ASSESSMENT

as below:

The committee on Equalization and Assessment of the municipalities comprising the county, beg to report:

That they have carefully examined the Assessment Rolls of the several municipalities and find them compiled with more care than heretofore, showing that the recommendation of the committee last year in respect to the very inaccurate condition of the Rolls, has had a beneficial effect, but the clerk states there is still room for improvement.

The committee find that there have been increases and decreases in the acreage of the different municipalities, as compared with the previous year as follows:

Increases—Asphodel, 22 acres, Methuen 535 acres, Dummer, 126 acres, Douro, 26 acres, Enniskmore, 111 acres, Galway, and Cavendish, 3763 acres, Otonabee, 79 acres and Smith, 321 acres.

Decreases—Belmont, 220 acres, Burleigh, 220 acres, Anstruther, 220 acres, Chandos, 10,240 acres, Harvey, 1,138 acres and North Monaghan, 9 acres.

Mr. Berry the decrease is accounted for by lots located in the Crown and heretofore assessed, having left off the roll, and the decrease in Chandos is owing to the clerical error of the clerk of the township in 1883, certifying that the resident and non-resident lands of the township were 10,000 acres more than they really were and the committee beg to recommend that the treasurer, credit the municipality with the sum of $30, which represents the excessive levy on the municipality, owing to such error.

Cavendish, appearing this year for the first time separately, the committee recommend that it be continued at $1.50 per acre.

That, as to the other municipalities the committee recommend that the basis adopted for the last year be the basis of assessment for equalization for the year 1884, as shown by the schedule herewith annexed.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. R. KIDD,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, June 20th, 1884.

On motion of Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Brown, the report was adopted and a by-law was duly passed confirming the report of the committee.

SCHOOLS.

Mr. Walsh, chairman, presented the report of the committee on schools as follows:

The committee on Schools beg leave to report:

That, no action be taken with reference to the petition of the trustees of School section No. three Dummer, by way of appeal for a by-law passed on the 26th day of April by the township of Dummer making certain alterations in the school sections of that township.

That, the Inspector of Public Schools be instructed to make a half yearly report to this council of the Public schools under his care in this form, an outline of which is hereto annexed.

JOHN WALSH,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, June 20th, 1884.

(The form alluded to requires the Inspector to fill out columns with the following headings:

"Day and date of visit of Inspector," "Length of time taken in examination of school," "Name of Teacher," "Grade of certificate," "No of female pupils present," "No of male pupils present," "Total number of pupils," "General standing of the school." "Condition and quality of buildings and equipment of schools" and "Remarks."

The report was adopted.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Mr. Moloney, chairman, presents the report of this committee as follows:

The Committee on Roads and Bridges beg to report:—

(1.) That since the county of Victoria have signified their intention of spending a sum of money—not more than $100—on repairs to the approach to Pigeon Creek Bridge, your committee recommend that the caretaker, under instructions from the County Engineer, keep the Peterborough end in as good repair as the county of Victoria keep their end of the bridge, and that the caretaker be instructed to remove any vegetation growing thereon.

(2.) That the report of the County Engineer, with reference to the Mud Lake Bridge, be adopted, and that the Engineer notify the Caretaker that he must pay more strict and prompt attention to his orders, and that in case of further neglect, the Engineer shall have power to remove him and appoint another.

(3.) That Mr. W. Hall be appointed caretaker of the Buckhorn Bridge at a salary of $10 per year.

(4.) That pending the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, no action be taken with reference to the Burleigh Bridge, the Engineer, in the meantime, to have the oversight thereof.

(5.) That Messrs. Moloney, Sanderson, Strickland and the Warden, with the Engineer, be a committee to examine Young's Point Bridge, with power to rebuild or take any other action they see fit.

(6.) That no action be taken with reference to painting the Lakfield Bridge.

(7.) That the special grant of $50 towards the rebuilding of Preston's Bridge over Deer River, in Belmont, given at our last session, be supplemented by a further grant of $50.

(8.) Your committee recommend that in future a supplemental report of the expenditure of special grants be added in detail to the Finance Committee's report.

(9.) That a special grant of $100 be given for the 9th line of Dummer.

(10.) That a special grant of $50 be given to build a bridge over Deer River, on or near the boundary line between Chandos and Wollaston, provided the county of Hastings make a like grant.

(11.) That your committee are pleased to observe that the Ontario Government are inclined to aid old townships like Dummer, in this county, as well as several old and well settled townships in the county of Victoria, in making and improving leading roads and hope that it will see fit to also aid other townships in this county.

(12.) That a special grant of $30 be given for the road running between lots 15 and 16, Douro, leading from Lakefield to Warsaw.

(13.) That the County Engineer be authorised to take down the old Nassau Bridge, to carefully store away the irons and flooring and good timbers, and to sell the balance of the materials thereof.

(14.) That the Reeves of the several townships be commissioners for the expenditure of the several sums granted, and that they report in detail.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN MOLONEY,
Chairman.

The council went into committee on the report; the special grant clauses were either amended or struck out, the members of the townships making strenuous efforts to have the report passed in its original form.

That the Clerk be instructed to notify the Clerk of the Peace of the County and the Police Magistrate of the town of Peterborough, that owing to negligence in not furnishing returns of list of convictions promptly for printing last quarter, this county is put to increased and unnecessary expense, and to request that these returns be provided at the proper time, and the difficulty thus remedied.

That the time for payment of any instalments of money due this Council by the township of Burleigh be extended until next January.

That $250 be granted to the Norwood High School in addition to the usual Government equivalent.

Your committee recommend that the memorandum hereto attached of accounts paid by your Treasurer on the authority of your Warden, or under contracts duly entered into, be confirmed.

A. R. KIDD,
Chairman.

On motion to adopt the report, Mr. Sanderson moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Moloney, that the report be referred back to the committee with instructions to amend the report by striking out the clause, giving a grant of $250 to Norwood High School building fund.

On this amendment the division was as follows:

YEAS — Moloney, McCliggott, Hicks, Crough, Mansfield, Stewart, and Sanderson.—7.

NAYS—Stephenson, Walsh, Burnham, Strickland; Kidd, Stephenson (W. H.), Brown and Elmherst.—8.

The Warden voted with the yeas making a tie and declared the amendment lost.

The motion to adopt the report was lost on the same division.

Mr. Strickland moved in amendment that the report be refered back to the committee with instructions to add a clause, giving $250 to each, the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and the Norwood High School on condition that pupils from the country be admitted free.

Mr. Strickland said that it was justice to outside pupils to make such a grant.

Mr. Burnham suggested that the sum was too small and he didn't think the Peterborough authorities would accept it. He was in favor of the principle of the motion, but would have to vote against the motion in its present shape. He thought the council at another session would be compelled by legislation to make a decent grant.

Mr. Kidd supported the motion which was lost on the following division:

YEAS—Mansfield, Strickland, Kidd, Stephenson (Norwood), and Brown—6.

NAYS—Moloney, McCliggott, Walsh, Stephenson, Hicks, Crough, Burnham, Elmhirst, Forster, Stewart and Sanderson—11.

Mr. McCliggott moved, seconded by Mr. Mansfield, that the report be referred back to the committee to amend by giving a grant of $200 to the Norwood High School.—Lost.

Moved by Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Kidd, that the report be referred back to recommend a grant of $500 to Peterborough Collegiate Institute and $250 to the Norwood High School, on condition that county pupils be admitted free.

The motion was lost on the following division:

YEAS—Burnham, Stevenson, Mansfield, Strickland, Kidd, Stephenson (Norwood), Elmhirst and Brown—8.

NAYS—Moloney, McCliggot, Walsh, Hicks, Crough, Forster, Stewart and Sanderson—8.

The council, thus having come to a dead lock, adjourned till the following day.

FIFTH DAY—SATURDAY.

Council assembled at 9 A.M. all the members present.

Mr. Kidd moved, seconded by Mr. Strickland, that the report of the Finance committee be adopted.

Mr. Moloney moved, seconded by Mr. Sanderson, and in amendment, that the clause giving a grant of $250 to the Norwood High School building, be referred back to the committee to be struck out.

Mr. Sanderson pointed out how liberally the county had dealt with this school in the past.

Mr. Stephenson, (Norwood), strongly urged the justice of the grant, showing how Norwood contributed largely to expensive bridges at points distant from that village, which paid its due share of the taxes incurred thereby. In reply to Mr. Sanderson, he pointed out that in the past year and the year before Norwood had not got any grant at all. As a matter of simple justice, Norwood should have the grant, outside the county equivalent for the Legislative grant.

Messrs. Kidd and Burnham supported the motion and the latter pointed out that, the county established this very school by by-law.

Mr. Moloney argued that making such grants would encourage the Legislature in making their support by the county compulsory.

The amendment was carried on the following division:

YEAS—Moloney, McCliggott, Hicks, Crough, Mansfield, Forster, Stewart, Fitzgerald and Sanderson—9.

NAYS—Walsh, Stephenson, Burnham, Kidd, Stephenson, (W. H.), Brown and Elmhirst—7.

The report as amended was adopted and a by-law to confirm it duly passed.

SCHOOL GRANT.

A by-law was passed levying a rate to furnish the following amounts to the several townships as equivalents to the Legislative grants:

Asphodel	$196
Belmont & Methuen	229
Burleigh, etc.	180
Douro	262
Dummer	276
Ennismore	276
Galway & Cavendish	138
Harvey	133
North Monaghan	104
Otonabee	495
Smith	365

YOUNG'S POINT BRIDGE.

A by-law was passed appointing Messrs., the Warden, Moloney, Sanderson and Strickland with the county engineer, a committee on repairing of Young's Point bridge.

COUNTY PROPERTY.

Mr. Sanderson, chairman, presented the report of the Property committee, which was read and adopted as follows:

The Committee on County Property beg to report:—

(1.) That the alteration in the Registrar's office be made as proposed by Mr. Belcher, if no objections are made thereto by the Inspector of Registry offices.

(2.) That matting be put down on the passages of the Court Room, and that the doors thereof be buffed with listing.

(3.) That a lavatory be fitted up in the barristers' room in the Court House.

(4.) That material be procured for building the continuation of sidewalk in front of Court House.

(5.) That Messrs. Sanderson, Moloney, Lang, Forster and Burnham be a committee to consider the question of heating the county buildings by steam or hot water, with power to obtain tenders and let contracts therefor, if they consider the same in the interests of economy.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. SANDERSON,
Chairman.

PETITIONS, ETC.

Mr. Stewart, chairman, presented the report of the committee on Petitions which was adopted as follows:

The Committee on Petitions beg to report:—

(1.) That no action be taken in reference to the communication of R. W. Phipps, Esq., as to forest preservation.

(2.) That a memorial be prepared as asked by the County Council of Peel in reference to the Public School Act.

(3.) That in answer to the questions forwarded by the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, in reference to the desirability of reducing the number of county councillors, and also of extending the law now applicable to incorporated villages, as to bridges over one hundred feet in length, to towns, your committee submit the annexed replies.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. STEWART,
Chairman.

[The questions referred to were answered to show that the committee were satisfied with the present number and constitution of county councils, and opposed to the reduction of the members. In respect to bridges the committee was satisfied with the law compelling county councils to erect and maintain bridges over one hundred feet in length in incorporated villages, and the committee suggested that all bridges over 100 feet in length be erected and maintained by the county council, but that this provision should not extend to towns, but to townships.

Mr. Moloney introduced a by-law to confirm the report of the Roads and Bridges committee, and the by-law was duly passed.

ASSESSMENT BY-LAW.

A by-law was introduced and duly passed authorizing the levy of a rate, to raise the amount of $17 466.72 for all county purposes, apportioned to the several municipalities as below:

Ashburnham	$ 440 00
Lakefield	300 00
Norwood	120 00
Asphodel	1914 70
Belmont	534 51
Methuen	98 98
Burleigh	56 30
Anstruther	25 42
Chandos	150 67
Dummer	1275 67
Douro	1353 47
Ennismore	974 10
Galway	92 02
Cavendish	11 56
Harvey	539 30
Monaghan	961 98
Otonabee	4299 30
Smith	3777 18
Total	$17,466 72

As supplementary to the report of the committee on Finance Mr. John Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Kidd, That in the matter of the debenture rates, inasmuch as it appears that the amount that it is provided shall be levied under Debenture By-laws Nos. 355 and 373 will produce a sum largely in excess of the amount required, that the clerk be instructed to levy such an amount only as will be sufficient to meet this year's sinking fund and interest, and that one-half only of the rate provided under By-law 454 be collected, for the reason that only one-half of the debentures authorized to be issued thereunder, have been issued and that the corporate seal be attached hereto to give it the effect and force of a by-law.

CONDOLENCE.

Although the report of the committee appointed to draft resolutions of condolence with the families of the late Messrs. Oliver and Collins was not brought before the council and adopted, the following expression was circulated and signed:

Whereas Almighty God has in His wisdom, been pleased to remove from our midst two highly esteemed co-workers and friends, we the undersigned members and officials of the County Council of the County of Peterborough, desire to express to their respective families, our sincere sympathy and deep sorrow in their bereavement. Those of us who have long known, both in public and private life our lately departed colleagues, can speak with especial knowledge of the honor and sincerity which characterized their public life and regret their removal while still in the prime and mature judgment of life, relying as our public career did, on the known integrity of their character. We know that the same thoughtfulness of their every day duties and amiable qualities in private life, will always remain enshrined among the regretful memories of the public.

(Signed) by all the councillors and by the County Officials.

COUNTY ENGINEER'S REPORT.

The Chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee:

SIR,—I beg leave to submit my semi-annual report on the county bridges under my charge:

PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE.

The guard rails of this bridge are in an imperfect condition, as well as the approaches, the approaches, and the entire bridge is overgrown with vegetation, which decays the flooring. Further than restoring an occasional loose floor plank nothing has been done to the bridge during the last twelve months. Pending the action of the township of Emily as to the repair of the approaches at the Victoria end, about a month since, some slight repairs were done to that end by the Reeve of Emily, and I am informed he is raising the approaches sufficiently high to prevent the overflow of the lake during high water. The rail should be immediately repaired, as well as the aprons and the swing, and the vegetation cleanly raked out of the joints of the flooring.

MUD LAKE BRIDGE.

The chains and anchors, referred to in my report of last January, were fortunately laid in position before the going out of the ice during the spring. As I understand from the report of Mr. Kelly, caretaker, and other eye-witnesses, that were it not for this emborasge precaution the bridge would have been torn away, as, since the construction of the bridge, it has not been so seriously tested. A gale from the north-west carried a large field of ice square against the bridge, which, for some hours, withstood the pressure, yielding but a few yards at the western end. The annual repairs to the guard rail have been executed and new apron approaches ordered to be formed, and where the bridge has lost some of its floating properties new floats must be inserted. The caretaker is now about straightening the bridge. The guard houses, which are at present loose and detached, must be thoroughly overhauled and repaired, to make it of any service.

BUCKHORN BRIDGE.

This bridge was in danger of being carried away during the spring from the accumulation of drift wood piled against it, several feet high. I have been informed Mr. Wm. Hall cleared away the jam and relieved the bridge. I would advise the appointment of a caretaker, who, for a small charge, would keep the bridge from damage from drift wood and river drivers.

BURLEIGH BRIDGES.

These bridges had some repairs executed thereto about three years since, which, to the present, have rendered them serviceable, but, next year, one of them at least, will have to be replaced by a new structure.

YOUNG'S POINT BRIDGE.

This bridge is in a dangerous and unsafe condition. Originally badly designed, and badly constructed of dead pine, it has been a constant source of anxiety and care. Some seven years since I reported it in this condition, when some repairs were done to it, and about three years ago a new pier was added to assist in its support. These have all done their work by lengthening the term of its existence, but now it is past repair, and I would advise that immediate action should be taken by your Council to erect a new iron structure in its stead.

LAKEFIELD BRIDGE.

This bridge is in good condition and is about one of the best superstructures in the county; it will require a coat of paint next year.

NASSAU BRIDGE.

This bridge has been satisfactorily completed, and the several contractors paid. The approaches thereto, which have been tendered for and let by contract, in accordance with plans and specifications prepared by me, have been well constructed under the immediate superintendence of the Reeve of Douro, Mr. John Moloney. Indeed, all the work of this bridge, some of which, especially the mid-stream pier, have been of a peculiar nature, reflects credit on the contractors of these respective parts. The old bridge is not yet removed. I would recommend that it be carefully taken down and the bolts and iron work cut out and sold, or stored for future use.

LOCKS BRIDGE.

The new iron swing bridge has been completed and is a good structure; it is operated by cog wheels and pinion, and opens and closes remarkably easily. The centre pivot pier and abutment, after the removal of the old bridge, was found to be simply a filling of loose stone and earth, totally unfit for the superstructure, and, after consultation with some of the members of the joint committee of the town and county, I decided to take the old pier and abutment down and rebuild the same with heavy ashlar masonry and cement. This was contracted for with Mr. Charles Wynne, and has been completed in a substantial manner. The joint committee examined, with myself, the works during their construction, and, on their completion, at a meeting of the committee, the accounts and contracts were submitted and approved.

DEER RIVER BRIDGE—BELMONT.

This bridge is situated on the boundary between the county of Hastings and Peterborough, and, in accordance with a resolution of the Council at its last June sessions, when it was received that the bridge be rebuilt, the cost thereof to be divided between the said counties, and to be erected according to the plans and under the inspection of the Peterborough County Engineer, I prepared the plans and specifications and advertised for tenders, and that of Mr. Wm. Boyd was accepted. The bridge has been built in a creditable manner, and paid for as provided for in the resolution above recited.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN E. BELCHER,
County Engineer.

June 17th, 1884.

The council then adjourned.

ONTARIO'S EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

A DAY WELL SPENT BY FARMERS IN VISITING IT.

On Thursday some 700 Grangers from the counties of York, Grey, Simcoe and Peel paid a visit to the Ontario Agricultural College Guelph. Upon arriving they drove to the College grounds, where they were met by the President, Mr. James Mills, and Professor Brown, who extended to them a cordial welcome. After partaking of lunch in a large, airy tent belonging to the institution, Mr. Mills and Prof. Brown, in short addresses, explained the objects and workings of the College. The remainder of the day was spent in examining the buildings and experimental plots, and the farm generally. Unfortunately the party visited the farm when nothing of importance was to be seen in the cattle sheds, Prof. Brown's recent live stock importations being still quarantined at Quebec, and the fat cattle, which were undoubtedly the finest lot ever shipped from Guelph, having been delivered yesterday for export to Great Britain. In the experimental field, however, there was plenty to interest and instruct. Experiments in crops are at present being carried on with the view to ascertaining the influence of different manures on the same crops and soil. A new and highly interesting addition to this department is the introduction of "rain gauges," lysometers, and earth thermometers, which record the temperature at different depths. One of the pleasing features of the excursion was the presence of a large number of the gentler sex, who seemed to enjoy themselves, and no doubt made a thorough examination of the departments in which they are more directly concerned. These excursions to this eminently successful college of agriculture are, no doubt, a source of great profit to the yeomanry of Ontario, as the presence of those there on Thursday, who have visited the College three years in succession would go to prove.

Great Industrial Fair and Semi-Centennial Exposition.

This being the fiftieth or Semi-Centennial year of the Incorporation of Toronto as a city, the Industrial Exhibition Association of that city have determined on making their next Annual Fair and Exposition, which is to be held from the 10th to the 20th of September next, of such a magnitude as will eclipse any of its predecessors. On account of the large number of applications already received from intended exhibitors, it has been decided to enlarge several of the buildings, and an immense programme of special attractions of a novel character is being prepared for the occasion. The Governor-General and the Marchioness of Lansdowne are to open the Exhibition on the 10th of September. Among the attractions already announced are an International Firemen's Demonstration, a Colley Show which will be of great interest to the farmers; Balloon ascensions, an Electric Railway, &c. The Manager, Mr. Hill, is to visit New York and other places next month in search of other special attractions of the latest and most interesting character. Special days have been set apart as the Farmers' Day, the School Children's Day, the Societies' Day, &c. The Prize Lists, containing full particulars of the great Fair, have been issued, and can be obtained from the secretaries of all Agricultural Societies and Mechanics' Institutes in the Province, or they will be sent to any one who will drop a post card to the secretary at Toronto. See advertisement in another column. A full programme of all the special attractions will be published about the middle of August. This will undoubtedly be the greatest event of Toronto's Semi-Centennial year.

Why suffer from weak nerves, want of appetite and general debility; letting the loss of sleep and rest impoverish the system and thin the blood, when such a really meritorious remedy as Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine may be had at any drug store. This article is recommended by the highest members of the medical faculty in cases of indigestion, general debility, loss of appetite, and nervous affections of all kinds. It is also specially beneficial to children and delicate females, and to business men, students, and those who have much brain work. We would say, Never be without it. It will strengthen you, keep your system in regular order, and enable you to successfully grapple with the work you have to do. It is pleasant to the taste, and contains nothing injurious to the most delicate constitution. Remember to ask for the Quinine Wine, prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and we are sure you will be satisfied that you have full value for your money. Druggists sell it.

Hunger is the best sauce and Crowfoot Bitters is the best appetiser.

APARTMENTS TO LET.

"Apartments to let!" read Miss Pamela Wilde.

She had paused before the neatest and trimmest, and comliest of little suburban houses. It was just two stories high; it was painted snowy white; it had bright green shutters; it boasted a verandah, and a huge old shady porch.

Moreover, there was a garden—a delicious diminutive patch of budding blooms.

"It's the very identical place for me!" she decided enthusiastically, standing like a small grey statue of approval in the sweet spring sunshine. "That is, if the rent isn't too high. But I'm very much afraid it is."

Nerving herself to equably endure disappointment, she pushed open the gate and went up the path.

Miss Pamela was called an old maid She had just climbed the hedge of thirty; if she was, she was the very nicest old maid that ever existed.

She had a plump little figure, a pair of blue sunshiny eyes, rosy lips, soft brown hair, and cheeks as pink as peaches.

How inviting everything looked, to be sure! The windows were open, and some birds hanging directly within, in their shining cages, were shrieking in shrill exultation; a placid and prosperous-looking cat reposed upon the doorstep; the treading of those stainless steps with dusty feet seemed desecration.

Miss Wilde rang the bell, a servant appeared in hurried response.

"My stars!" she exclaimed gleefully, and fell to surveying the lady before her, in an ecstasy of frank admiration.

"You have rooms to let?" queried Miss Wilde, slightly disconcerted.

The girl apparently considered an immediate answer superfluous. She could not have been a bad-natured girl, for her face was constantly deluged in grins of the most dazzling description; but she was decidedly a peculiar girl.

"No," she declared slowly, after she had taken a minute mental memoranda of the stranger's simple but stylish costume. "No, I hain't got no rooms to rent, but my missus, she has."

"Can I see your mistress?" demanded Pamela with some impatience.

"No," blinking obliquely at her visitor's bonnet, "You can't!"

"Why?"

"'Cos she ain't at home jest now. Did ye make it yerself?" with an upward motion of a grimy forefinger.

"Yes. Now will you let me see the rooms that you are to let?"

"Course, come in! Would ye mind walkin' upstairs afore me? I want to see how you've got yer polynase hung. I never kin git mine to hang eggsackly so!"

Miss Pamela laughed, and mounted to the floor above. The rooms were delightful. There was a parlor and a bedroom, both furnished simply but tastefully.

There were soft-hued carpets, and curtains of delicate-tinted cretonne, there were wicker-chairs, all tied with bright ribbon; there was a walnut desk, a toilet-table smoothed in pink allesia and dotted muslin, and a great tall lamp, with a globe of rosy transparency.

"What is the rent?" asked Miss Wilde nervously.

"—I don't remember, added the girl, smiling harder than ever; "you see, I'm absent-minded—I'm awful absent-minded. I'm that absent-minded, missus got me cheaper on account of it. Let me see, though. If anyone—called—about the rooms—I was to say to em——"

She broke off abruptly, and looked up at Miss Wilde, grinning quite ferociously.

"What was that I was to say to 'em?" she demanded serenely.

"I'm sure if you don't know, I don't," said Miss Pamela helplessly.

"Oh yes," exclaimed the girl, with a sudden gleam of recollection; "the dror—it's the dror."

She ran to the desk, pulled open a drawer, and took therefrom a sheet of paper, which she brought back in triumph. It was a statement of the terms, written by the landlady, also the stipulations—good references and no children.

Miss Wilde's brow cleared. The terms were low—decidedly low.

"I'll take 'em," she declared promptly.

"Missus left that there paper for me to show to folkses," explained the girl: "I'm that there absent-minded, ye know."

"You'll not forget to tell her I've engaged them!" said Pamela severely; "I must take possession the day after to-morrow, and I cannot possibly come out to see your mistress to-morrow. Give me a pencil and some paper and I'll leave a note for your mistress, which you can give her when she returns. Will you?"

"There!" when she had written out her acceptance of the terms named, and her unexceptionable references—"there! Now don't forget to give it to her."

"My stars, no!" nodding and smiling confidently. "Say! seen long glooves as them the fashion—eh!"

She stood and stared after Miss Wilde as that lady walked briskly down the path.

"Now, if I only could get my dress to look like hor'n! What's this paper? Oh, yes—I'm to give it to missus! Well, I'll put it safe away for fear o' losin' it."

And she stowed it carefully away in the slimmest, and narrowest, and most inaccessible drawer in the walnut desk, and forthwith forgot all about it.

Half an hour later, her mistress returned.

"Any one been here, Susanna?"

"No," with a cheerful grin—"not a soul!"

"Now, Susanna, you know how absent-minded you are. Try and remember."

"Lemme see!" ruminated Susanna, looking quite thoughtful. "No—honor bright," with a more cheerful grin than before—"not a solitary soul!"

"Well," said Mrs. Tobey, taking off her bonnet, "run over to the meat-market, and get a pound and a half of steak and two heads of lettuce. Make haste!"

Susanna's flapping sunbonnet had barely vanished round the corner, when there came a resolute ring at the bell.

Mrs. Tobey opened the door. A tall gentleman, clad in a light summer suit

Mr. Von Bergon named.

"An artist," he replied.

fective is due to madam's kindness."

"Oh, dear me!" said madam, all of a flutter, "are you sure the rooms are nice enough?"

"There is good light. There is seclusion. They are admirable. I shall take possession the day after to-morrow. Good-morning."

And exit Mr. Von Bergon.

Mrs. Tobey went down stairs and took off the pasteboard sign.

"Thank goodness, that's settled!" she declared fervently.

Thursday came—the brightest, balmiest, sunshiniest of mornings. The house had been scoured, and scrubbed, and polished to a marvelous degree of cleanliness. The windows glistened like silver, the bell-handle was a knob o' gold, the paint was positively glossless, the very flowers in the trim Dutch garden-beds looked as though they had had their rosy faces newly washed.

About ten o'clock an express wagon stopped at the gate.

"Mr. Von Bergon's things," explained the man, and forthwith began depositing them on the garden-path—trunks, easels, easy-chairs, boxes of books, models, paint-boxes, and canvases—all of which Mrs. Tobey and Susanna were surveying reverently, when a second express drew up in the spot just vacated by the first.

"New lodger's traps!" he announced gruffly.

"Lord alive, Susanna!" gasped Mrs. Tobey, "if he isn't married!"

"Where's the harm in that same, ma'am?" grinned Susanna.

"I am sure I understood him to be a single man. Though not that he ever said as much," she added conscientiously.

"These things don't look as if they b'longed to a man, sure!" said Susanna.

And they didn't. They were all on the garden-path now, jumbled in with the first load, and the express had driven away—a trunk, a wicker-work basket, a roll of music, a bundle of novels, a package of crewels and grey silks for "crazy work," and a bonnet-box.

"Here comes the gentleman," said Mrs. Tobey, as Mr. Von Bergon alighted from a fly at the gate.

"And here comes the lady!" groaned Susanna, with a fearful awakening of her torpid memory. "Oh, laud's sakes, how absent-minded I be!"

And sure enough at this very moment Miss Wilde came walking up the garden-path, almost side by side with Mr. Von Bergon.

"Good-morning!" she said, smiling. "Mrs. Tobey, I presume. I'm your new tenant."

She was looking quite youthful and pretty this morning in her gown of soft pearl-colored lawn, with the sun-hat to match, all trimmed with pink ribbons.

"You're welcome," said Mrs. Tobey. "Mr. Von Bergon did not say he was married——"

"What! what's this?" roared Mr. Von Bergon. "Married, ma'am? Who says I'm married, ma'am?"

"Isn't this lady your wife?" faltered Mrs. Tobey.

"No!" shrieked Miss Wilde.

"No!" thundered the artist.

"I am the new tenant," declared Miss Wilde. "Is it possible your servant did not give you the note I left for you, the day before yesterday, engaging the rooms?"

"No," gasped the landlady faintly. "She's that absent-minded, Susanna is."

And Mrs. Tobey fled in cowardly fashion.

"Let 'em fight it out!" she said, in the intervals of shaking the breath out of Susanna.

Left alone, the new tenants surveyed each other in antagonistic silence.

"Well, I guess I'd better be moving my things into the house," announced Miss Wilde resolutely.

"I guess not," retorted Mr. Von Bergon, wrathfully, "the rooms are mine."

"I am sure I rented the first," declared Miss Wilde, winking very hard to keep back the tears of disappointment slowly rising. "I am very sure I did, Mr.—Mr.——"

"Von Bergon," stiffly.

"Not—but now that I look at you I do believe it is—Henri Von Bergon! Why, I've got your photograph in my dear papa's album."

Down she went on her knees before her trunk, very much flushed and excited.

"Why, Miss—Miss—" he stammered.

"Wilde," she said. "Pamela Wilde."

"Not Andrew Wilde's daughter?"

"Yes," she avowed. "Look, here's your picture! Papa always told me it was that of his dearest friend."

"And, bless my soul if I haven't got yours somewhere about me! Wait till I open this satchel. There! your father sent it to me several years ago. You don't look a day older."

"Oh my!" blushing; "but I am. Papa is dead, you know, and I am teaching school for a living. This being vacation, I came out here——"

"And I tried to turn you out!" roared Von Bergon. "Heaven's alive! Andrew's daughter!"

"And I was so rude to papa's friend," said Pamela remorsefully; "I'll go right back to the city."

"You'll do no such thing. I'll go back. I'm a brute. I ought to be ashamed of myself."

"Oh, don't say that," remonstrated Pamela.

"See here," suggested the artist, coming up and taking both Miss Wilde's little grey-gloved hands in his; "suppose we both stay?"

"What?" gasped Pamela.

"The carriage is over there on the road yet. Let us drive back to the city and get married. I'm in love with you already. Say yes."

"Oh," said Pamela, "I couldn't."

"Why not?"

"I hardly know you at all."

"But your father knew me."

"That's so," said Pamela, brightening.

"Come, then."

And they went.

Mrs. Tobey and Susanna moved in the accumulation on the garden-path: and if those rooms weren't cozy and delightful, never rooms were before.

One day Mrs. Von Bergon, rummaging in the desk, found the note she had written to her landlady. She held it up for inspection.

"There is proof. I engaged the room first—I was right."

Her husband paused, with brush held suspended above her rosy face upon his canvas.

"You always are, my love," he admitted in meek adoration.

And Mrs. Von Bergon went straight downstairs, and hung Susanna's polonaise "eggsackly so."

"Susanna," she said solemnly, to that grinning and astonished damsel, "always be absent-minded. If there is anything laudable, anything conducive to supreme happiness, it is—absent-mindedness."

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

SCROFULA

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effectual an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as an Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 26, 1884.

Blackguard Journalism.

The hot weather has had the effect of making the Mail break out worse, if possible, than ever. For some time past the Tory organ has been only moderately brutal and blackguardly, but the other day witnessed a most villainous return to ordinary methods of argument. In discussing—or rather slandering the members of the Mowat Administration, the Mail makes use of this verbal filth :—

"The local Government is curiously composed. There are four of them mainly engaged in this inquiry, Messrs. Fraser, Hardy, Pardee and Mowat. Anyone may see the social equals and fitting companions of three of them any evening at the corners of the streets, spitting tobacco juice and talking Grit politics between horns of whisky. They are simply low fellows with a corrupt political majority in the Assembly. As for the fourth, it would be impossible, even in satirical literature, to find his equal in cunning, in cant, in hypocrisy, and in a talent for whining falsehood. How these people can impose, as they do, on decent citizens is a mystery that intelligent men explore in vain."

To which the Ottawa Free Press applies this vigorous language :

"The above is the weapon with which the Mail supports its argument that "Mowat must go." Corruption at the polls, corruption in the Legislature, the dispensing of patronage from Ottawa, and the employment of a gang of professional bribers, having failed to secure Mr. Mowat's defeat, the Mail, like a dog, turns to its own vomit and resumes the congenial task of mud throwing. A consistent arraignment it is too, even if it were true, to come from the organ of the Dominion Conservative party. We wonder if our contemporary ever saw a member of the Ontario Cabinet so drunk that for weeks he could not discharge his Departmental duties? Did it ever see Mr. Mowat or Mr. Blake so drunk at a pic-nic that their friends took them to a neighbouring hotel to sleep off their stupefaction, and a friendly orator requested to fill their places so that people who had come long distances to hear the leader of a great political party should not be disappointed. Drinking horns of whisky indeed! Whisky—whether frozen or liquid—should be a word expunged from the Tory vocabulary. The Mail had better remember that in this matter it lives alone in a glass house, and stone throwing is a pastime likely to be dangerous; for we doubt if it can be shown that the public moneys of Ontario were ever voted, in the form of a claim, to the mistress of a Minister in our Provincial Government. They are not thick kind of men. If the Mail would like a few unpalatable facts about some Cabinet Ministers on this continent, it may get them some day in a form it will little relish.

The Toronto World, an out-and-out N. P. organ, is also down on the disgraceful vulgarity of such language. It says :

"We have repeatedly drawn attention to the style of writing in the Mail when addressed to political opponents. The reference to the delegates at the Reform convention, the low-bred attacks on the Ontario Ministers, and the base attempt of the Mail to show that it is not Bunting, Meek and Wilkinson, but Mowat, Pardee, Hardy and Fraser, who are on trial for bribery and conspiracy, are fresh in the minds of all."

The World further points out the parties that are to blame for this "persistent violation of decency." The writer, the Mail editor, is described as a "literary snob and a social toady. Physically he is the very cut of the Yellowplush, or the Jeames of Punch. As for the strange lunatic turn that his writings take, there is only one rational explanation : he must be a confirmed victim to some drug like opium." It concludes its article with the following remarks :

"If the Conservative party is to be judged by the literary tone of the columns of the Mail, by the mental condition of its owners and chief writer, and the moral twist in the mind of its nominal head, then all we can say is, heaven help the Conservative party."

Individual members repudiate the Mail, but the party, as a party, clings to it. Sensitive Reformers may chafe under such language as the Mail uses, but, while it outrages common decency ; from a party point of view, it serves the Reform party by weakening the Conservatives. The thousands of men in Canada, whose allegiance to the Tory party is merely nominal, are becoming disgusted, and the thousands of men who belong to neither will steer clear of a party whose leader has so corrupted the moral nature of his followers, that they continue to own as their organ-in-chief, a conspicuous type of journalistic blackguardism like the Mail.

It is extremely probable that Cleveland, of New York, will be the unanimous nominee of the Democratic party for the Presidency of the United States at the coming meeting of the convention in Chicago. The delegates from the different States have been instructed to take this course. Now we may expect that Cleveland will get free newspaper biographies, similar in style to those with which Blaine has been honored. If he has done a mean thing the world will know it ; if he has done a good thing, it will be tortured into some great rascallity.

Our Rural Public Schools.

Considering both the amount of the public money—raised by direct and indirect taxation—and the immense educational interests involved, the importance of the efficiency of our Public Schools cannot be over-estimated. We are glad to see that the Committee on Schools of the County Council are beginning to manifest an active interest therein, and that, at the late session, they took steps to give that interest a definite and practical shape. As will be seen by reference to our report of the Council proceedings, the committee recommended, and the Council endorsed their suggestion, that the Inspector be required to prepare and present to the Council a half-yearly report "of the Public Schools under his care." The form according to which he is to report requires that detailed information shall be given respecting the date of each visit of the Inspector, the length of time spent at each visit, the name of the teacher, the grade of certificate held by him or her, the number of male and female pupils respectively, the general standing of the school, the condition and quality of the school buildings and their equipment, together with any remarks which an observant and faithful Inspector would be expected to make. The information thus gained will be of great value. Such a report properly made will not only furnish important information respecting details of the management and progress of the schools thus dealt with, but it will also furnish valuable data for intelligent action, which in default of any definite or reliable official information has hitherto been impossible. In counties where this plan is adopted it will lead Inspectors to take an active interest in their work, and will tend to make them more attentive to their duties, and thus relieve them of the temptation to interest themselves in matters outside the range of their official duties. The step taken by the County Council was urged upon them by the state of several of the schools, for in many sections there has been grave dissatisfaction with their condition in divers respects. The success of the new departure in effecting needed improvements, though apparently not at all doubtful, will be watched with interest. In towns and several county municipalities the system works well. The reports show to the trustees the nature of the work being done by their teachers. The good and successful teacher will thus have the results of his or her work placed before the trustees in an official and satisfactory manner. The good teachers will command higher appreciation and a better salary, while the inefficient and careless teacher, who, in the absence of any reliable record of the result of his labours, has been wasting the time of the pupils and the money of the section, will be weeded out.

John Wycliffe.

The present age is one noted for celebrations, memorials, commemorations and similar exhibitions. Whatever else can be said of this question, it can hardly be charged that they are deficient in gratitude. We look back with justifiable pride on the past achievements and glorious deeds of many of our forefathers, and as a nation we delight to honour the noble and the good, whose names are written high up on the roll-call of fame. The consequence is, that scarcely a year passes when the civilized world, or some portion of it, is not stirred with sympathy and quickened into action through some important anniversary or celebration.

Last year, intense sympathy was roused by the Luther commemoration. Much attention was drawn to the life and labours of "The solitary monk that shook the world."

Everywhere lectures, celebrations and commemorations drew attention to the herculean labours and glorious results which sprang from the noble achievements of Martin Luther, in the cause of civil and religious liberty. Owing to this, the masses undoubtedly realized more clearly what they owed to Luther, and had a better idea of the man himself, and the stirring times in which he lived. In this direction the secular press, as usual, bore a prominent part in disseminating useful information on the subject, and helping to form public opinion concerning Luther's real character, and the good he was able to effect, not for his own nation only, but for the world.

Again, popular feeling, in the English nation at least, is awakened by the quincentenary of John Wycliffe, justly entitled "the Morning Star of the Reformation." A brief sketch of his life may prove of interest just now to the numerous readers of THE EXAMINER. Already efforts have been made in England to commemorate this great and good man, and much attention has been shown to the subject by preachers and editors and newspaper correspondents. The five hundredth anniversary of his death, however, will not occur until the 31st of next December.

But this inconvenient date has caused many of Wycliffe's admirers to substitute the present month as the time for directing public attention to the man and his deeds. There is likely to be a deep interest shown in Wycliffe's numerous writings, as a result of the present celebration, and a complete edition of his works will, it is hoped, be shortly published. Until this is effected we are obliged, unfortunately, to trust to rather incomplete and fragmentary biographies for a right estimate of Wycliffe, and for a sketch of the times in which he lived.

John Wycliffe was born in the north of Yorkshire, on the banks of the Tees, in a little village named Spresswell, near Barnard Castle. The date of his birth is uncertain, being variously estimated from 1320 to 1324. Most biographers give the former date. At any rate he was born in the reign of Edward II., and died in the reign of Richard II., on the date before mentioned, 31st December, 1384. He first saw the light, therefore, at least one hundred years before the birth of Martin Luther. These facts attest the man's wisdom and power as a worker for the truth, at a time when thick darkness brooded over the land.

At this era Christianity in England was buried under a mass of ignorance, superstition and immorality. One hundred and fifty years after Wycliffe's death it was found that out of 311 clergy in one diocese, 168 were unable to repeat the ten commandments. Gross darkness and degrading practices extensively prevailed. There was a famine of living truth. Here and there noble men stood up boldly for pure practices and primitive teaching, as stars gleam upon black thunder clouds. But they could effect little. The Bible was, practically, an unknown book.

Then Wycliffe was raised up. Of his early days we know but little. He went to Oxford about 1335, and won the reputation of being one of the most learned men of his day. He became President of Ballol College, and afterwards Warden of Canterbury. At that time Rome demanded tribute money from England, and the claim was stoutly resisted, by none more earnestly than by Wycliffe, who took an active part among the opponents of the measure. This led to his expulsion from the College, but he was presented shortly afterwards to the living of Lutterworth, in Leicestershire. Here he preached and lectured and wrote—deep things for the scholars—simple things for the unlearned. Of course, he was not suffered to go on his simple way in peace. Twice he was summoned to London as a heretic, and in the end was anathematized, without measure or stint, as a setter forth of new doctrine. But, nothing daunted, he laboured on, disseminating truth and opposing delusive teaching by vigorous onslaughts. He selected and trained a host of zealous preachers to traverse the land and preach the simplest outlines of Christianity. He set a-foot a stirring reformation on the Continent. He strictly maintained the supremacy and sufficiency of the Holy Scriptures. The Bible he rigidly upheld as the only rule of faith and practice—a doctrine then strange, indeed, to English ears.

Above all this, he translated the Bible into English, and thus enabled it to be read and understood by the people. This is his crowning act. And when we remember that it had to be written out laboriously in manuscript, and in that way alone, could it be multiplied, we can have some conception of the immense difficulties in such an enormous task. Wycliffe died in December, 1384, from a severe attack of paralysis. More than thirty years after his death, by a decree of the Council of Constance, and to the eternal shame of its members, his body was disinterred, the bones burnt and the ashes cast into the river, and so cast into the sea. Fit emblem, indeed, of the doctrines he upheld and the mode in which, in our day, they are widely disseminated !

As a reformer, as a preacher, and as a translator, Wycliffe's fame has grown with the passing centuries, and his labours deserve our lasting gratitude. No nobler name adorns the annals of English history.

Editorial Notes.

Hon. A. Mackenzie, it is announced, will visit Manitoba about the middle of next month.

To show how well Sir Leonard Tilley has considered the operation of his wonderful blood-letting tariff, it may be pointed out that while foreign flour is admitted at fifty cents per barrel duty, the amount of wheat necessary to produce a barrel of flour is charged seventy cents.

The St. Thomas Journal thus observes :—"Goldwin Smith has proclaimed that only by such tactics as Sir John has practiced could Confederation have been maintained. Out upon such a dogma. The professor is confounding cause with effect. The dissensions which rend Confederation are the outgrowth of the dissensions."

The Mail professes to be greatly annoyed because Hon. Mr. Blake did not discuss several Tory scandals which that model sheet suggested as proper subjects for his speech at the Bowmanville pic-nic. The explanation is simple. Hon. Mr. Blake has no longing to have the published report of his speech, if he dealt truthfully with such scandals, suppressed as indecent literature.

All of Guitteau didn't die when that gigantic fraud was sacrificed by the hangman to his longing for notoriety. His soul goes marching on :—J. A. Macdonnell wants $10,000 damages from The Week because it says his unsuccessful tilt with Mr. S. H. Blake "adds one more to the many reasons why a name redolent of so much ungentlemanly and questionable conduct should no longer remain on the rolls."

Why are the Mail and other Tory journals so anxious to have Mr. Blake speak on "Canadian Independence"? The only reason, outside of innate depravity, that suggests itself to us is, that Mr. Blake's public career, in its straightforward honesty, has no weak points for them to attack, and therefore an attempt is made to goad him into something which will give them a chance to air their sham loyalty and furnish a topic of abuse of the Hon. Mr. Blake.

The Ottawa Free Press says :—"The Peterborough Review returns to the discussion raised by our article upon 'India's competition in wheat growing,' and now advances the claim that the enormous cotton industry of Great Britain was successfully built up by artificial means till it was strong enough to run alone.' The statement is absurdly untrue. * * * * * *

Its great development by leaps and bounds was inaugurated with the advent of free trade. The industrial statistics of Great Britain prove this beyond preadventure.

The validity of Sir John's License Act is shortly to be settled so far as the Supreme Court of Canada is concerned. The following questions have been submitted by order of the Privy Council :—First question : Are the following questions, in whole or in part, within the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada, namely : first, the liquor act of 1883 ; second, an act to amend the liquor act of 1883. Second question : If the court is of opinion that a part only of the said acts are within the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada, what part or parts of the said acts are so within such legislative authority ?

There has been an attempt at Kingston to boycott the man that hanged the Picton murderers, his fellow-workmen refusing to work unless he were discharged. Now, there is something silly as well as unfair about this. This man only performed an unpleasant, but still, a very important duty to the public and the state. The logical sequence of the argument implied by the action recited, would be to allow red-handed murderers to go unhanged and the country to be over-flown with assassins. After all, the hangman is only the sheriff's deputy—the sheriff pro tempore—for this official is by law the hangman. Another sickening fact is the weak-minded sympathy felt for murderers. Unless a wretch, whose hands are red with the blood of a fellow-man, enjoys a halcyon anesthesia in his swinging off to Paradise, a terrible howl of "brutality" is raised. It is, however, conveniently forgotten that this self-same fellow has taken little thought as to giving his victim a painless death. He has hit, stabbed or shot, as his murderous instincts dictated, careless of the lingering death and days or weeks of agony he inflicted. But the red-handed reprobate must have the penality of his crime paid with the most painless delicacy—must travel the bumpless highway to Heaven without a pang, and with every possible spiritual assistance, while his victim was, perchance, hurled into another world, with all his imperfections on his head, and without a minute's space for repentance or prayer. Out upon the bogus philanthrophy that has only caresses and an euthanasia for the criminal, and no memory of pity for his bruised, battered, mangled victim.

News Gathering a Generation Back.

In a recent interview, James Watson Webb, of New York, said: "There has been a great advance made in the collection of news since I took charge of the Courier and Enquirer in 1827. I compelled the Advertiser, Mercury and Gazette, the other three newspapers, to put on extra boats for the collection of news from incoming vessels. When they built a pile boat I put my own boat, the Eclipse, beside theirs, and told the captain to go wherever it went, if to the bottom. I thus was sure of getting all the news they did. Then I launched my big steamer, the Courier and Enquirer, and cruised about the outer bay; and by getting the news in advance compelled them to buy it of me. Then I spent $6,000 a month on a horse express to Washington. The news of Monday, that previously was not published in this city until Thursday, I printed on Wednesday. Then the telegraph and railroad came along and knocked my express all to pieces. I was for thirty-four years at the head of that newspaper."

The German medical journals are discussing a new medical agent, recently discovered by Professor Fisher, of Munich. In the course of a long series of investigations concerning the nature and action of quinine, he found that by means of certain chemical transformations, a substance can be obtained, in the form of a white crystaline powder, from coal tar, which greatly resembles quinine in its action on the human organism. He has given this new agent the name of "kairin." The chief effect produced by it appears to be the diminution of feverheat, and in this respect it bids fair to be useful. It is even hoped that it will render the use of ice in fever cases unnecessary. Kairin is also said to be less unpleasant to the stomach than quinine.

John Moranda played the hero successfully in Salt Lake City for a week. He carried one arm in a sling and said that he had hurt it by a fall. Then his confederate, William Naylor, came forward with a thrilling account of having been robbed by highwaymen, who would have murdered him had not Moranda gallantly fought them off. "He's so modest that he lied about his arm." Naylor added, "It is wounded by a bullet. The scoundrels took my last dollar, but as soon as I get a remittance from New York he's got to take his reward." Both men were lavishly entertained while pretending to wait for the several hundred dollars before the time came for disappearing.

Henry Villard, the Northern Pacific millionaire, ran away from his father's home in Germany while a boy, and landed at Castle Garden with no friends and but little money. Little German boys should paste this item in their hats, and also paste a piece of cardboard in the seat of their pants, in case their fathers should see the item.

A keen student of human nature must have written the following: "When you see a young man sailing down street shortly after midnight with his collar mashed down his neck, you can make up your mind there's a young girl crawling up-stairs not far distant with her shoes under her arm and an extinguished lamp in her hands."

"What do they have that fish up there for?" asked the visitor at the State House, looking at the ancient cod which hangs from the ceiling of the House chamber. "It's an old superstition," replied the Boston man, "that the fish has a sort of a repressive influence over the legislators." "And yet," suggested the visitor, "if I am not mistaken all of your laws are cod-defied." The Boston man fell into a swoon, and when he came to he promised never to try to gull a country man again.—Bos-

Commercial travelers or drummers sometimes meet with a questioner who paralyzes them. A certain Boston drummer felt all tore up when, in his boarding-house, at the dinner table, recently, his little 9-year-old sister from the country innocently asked him: "When are you going peddling again?" What to him was love or hope? What to him was joy or care? He stepped on a plug of mottled soap the girl had left on the topmost stair, and his feet flew out like wild, fierce wings, and he struck each stair with a sound like a drum, and the girl below with the scrubbing things laughed like a fiend to see him come.

Because his girl went back on him, a North Carolina dogen named Comfort committed suicide by swallowing a paper of pins. It may be he found some comfort in pinning his grief to the lining of his stomach. Some people are soft enough to make a pin cushion of.—

Rev. Charles H. Eaton, lecturing upon "Marriage," said: "There are three elements that combine to make a true marriage—health, love and sympathetic companionship." There is another little element that goes a great way—a good bank account.

A queen bee lays in the height of the season from two thousand to three thousand eggs in twenty-four hours.—The man who will discover how to graft a queen bee on a hen will make money enough to buy out the whole continent in six months.

A flock of 2,000 sheep that had been driven from Southern California to Eastern Colorado was found to have lost nothing in flesh, despite the fact that the drive occupied five months.

In six months 7,058 books in the German language have been published, making an average of forty-five works a day.

As both England and France have a short wheat crop, the prospect of good prices for their grain encourages the farmers of the United States.

Proud Mr. Blobbs: "If my boy ain't goin' to be President, signs don't count. Why, that boy'll run away from school every day to go a fishin'."

"Yes," said young Symonds, "it's rather provoking when you get to your journey's end to find the girl you have flirted with is your laundress' daughter."

The readiness with which the foot of the modern man taketh him to the club would go far to prove that man is by nature club-footed.—Rome Sentinel.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS AND PROGRESS.

It is encouraging to note the many signs of life and progress in this part of the work of the Church of England in the Diocese of Toronto. The pretty stone church of St. John's, Lakefield, has lately been greatly improved in its interior, including new choir, stalls, pulpit, and reading desk. Several ladies of the congregation received the honor of a vote of thanks at the Easter vestry meeting for their beautiful and artistic work, both whith needle and paint brush, which has added very materially to the graceful and churchly appearance of the building. A new stone porch and belfry tower (the latter to cost about $400, and to be erected as a memorial to the late Col. Strickland) are now in course of erection. The parish is also prospering financially, about $1300 having been raised for various purposes during the last year, and the congregation have been able to raise the stipend of their clergyman, the Rev. John Farncomb, by $100. The services at St. Mark's, Warsaw, the only out station attached to Lakefield, are well attended. The energetic church warden, Mr. A. F. Choate (mainly, if not entirely, by his own personal labours) has lately carried through an extensive improvement of the interior of the church, the effect of which is very tasteful, and highly appreciated by the congregation.

BAILLIEBORO'.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It has been such extremely hot weather that to send you the news has been almost too much of an exertion. This part of the country is suffering from the want of rain, and, if none soon falls, the crops, which have been looking so well, will be very short, as they are beginning to curl and look blue. We had one shower last week, but it was very erratic in its course, not being over three miles wide at most.

The Saved Army are attracting attention in our village; they were out from Fort Hope once, and had a good meeting. The next night they were expected to come, but they did not turn up. The streets of the village were crowded, and one gentleman improved the occasion by preaching to an attentive congregation from the steps of the corner store. However, we expect them on Friday evening next, when there will likely be a crowd.

Our village is improving fast, new houses and shops are going up on all the streets, and old ones are being improved by a coat of paint.

Our carriage works must be doing a large business, as one sees a new rig nearly every day.

Our Methodist friends are going to have their anniversary on the 29th, and tea on the first, and they expect a good time.

The subscriptions for getting our band new instruments is being largely signed, so that by fall we expect to boast of a band second to none other.

Our Agricultural Society is getting along famously—over one hundred members—and with such an agricultural country around, and good management, should get up a grand show. They take members from the five townships, I believe.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

According to public notice, a meeting of the directors and members of the South Monaghan Union Agricultural Society was held in the Town Hall, Baillieboro', on Saturday evening, which was well attended. After some preliminary remarks from the President, Mr. R. Parker, the minutes of last meeting were read and approved of. On motion of Mr. Lucas, seconded by Mr. Fisher, Mr. Andrew King was appointed a director for Hamilton township, south of Rice Lake. What will be the boundaries of the Society was then taken up, and on motion by Mr. Lucas, seconded by Mr. Parker, the union consists of the five townships of South and North Monaghan, Cavan, Hope and Hamilton. Members fees, $1.00; after the 15th of August, $2.00. The President reported one hundred members. It was decided to give an entertainment in the Town Hall, the proceeds to augment the prize list. At the suggestion of the President, a committee will be struck at next meeting of the directors for the purpose of getting up special attractions for the show days. The directors will meet on the first of July to prepare the prize list, and other business.

GOVERNMENT ROAD.

Work on the Government road was resumed on Monday. Mr. Tucker, with a strong gang of men, commenced at the boundary line of Chandos and proceeds onwards to the terminus at Wood's Corners. Mr. F. Elmhirst commenced at lot 38 on 12th concession, through Capt. Bridgewater's lots, 39 and 39, on the 13th concession of Anstruther. Eels' Creek will be spanned by a good substantial bridge. The road throughout passes through a level and good agricultural country, and will be so far completed as to become available for traffic this winter.

Mr. A. Fisher, of the Toronto Globe, says: "I take great pleasure in recommending Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure to the public. I have suffered with Dyspepsia for some time, and have tried several remedies without receiving any benefit. Being recommended to do so, I used one bottle, and must say that I find the result perfectly satisfactory, not being troubled with this distressing disease since, and would recommend others similiarly afflicted to purchase a bottle at once and try it, as I am satisfied they will receive benefit from its use."

LIDY.

"Oh, Daddy!" called a clear girlish voice.

"Yes, Lindy; what's wanted?"

"Ma wants to know how long it 'll be 'fore you're ready."

"Oh, tell her I'll be at the door by the time she gets her things on. Be sure you have the butter and eggs all ready to put into the wagon. We 're makin' too late a start to town."

Butter and eggs, indeed! As if Lindy needed a reminder other than the new dress for which they were to be exchanged.

"Elmer and I can go to town next time, can't we, Ma?" she asked, entering the house.

"Yes, Lindy; I hope so," was the reply. "But don't bother me now; your pa is coming already, and I haven't my shawl on yet. Yes, Wilbur; I'm here. Just put this butter in Lindy; I'll carry the eggs in my lap. Now Lindy, don't let Elmer play with the fire or run away."

And in a moment more the heavy lumber wagon rattled away from the door, and the children stood gazing after it, for awhile, in a half-forlorn manner. Then Lindy went in to do her work, Elmer resumed his play, and soon everything was moving along as cheerfully as ever.

After dinner, Elmer went to sleep, and Lindy, feeling rather lonely again, went out-of-doors for a change. It was a warm autumnal day, almost the perfect counterpart of a dozen or more which had preceded it. The sun shone brightly, and the hot winds that swept through the tall grass made that and all else it touched so dry that the prairie seemed like a vast tinder-box. Though her parents had but lately moved to this place, Lindy was accustomed to the prairies. She had been born on them, and her eyes were familiar with nothing else; yet, as she stood to-day with that brown, unbroken expanse rolling away before her until it reached the pale bluish-gray of the sky, the indescribable feeling of awe and terrible solitude which such a scene often inspires in one not familiar with it stole gradually over her. But Lindy was far too practical to remain long under such an influence. The chickens were "peeping" loudly, and she remembered that they were still without their dinner.

As she passed around the corner of the house with a dish of corn in her hands, the wind almost lifted her from the ground. It was certainly blowing with greater violence than during the morning.

Great tumble-weeds went flying by, turning over and over with almost lightning-like rapidity; then pausing for an instant's rest, were caught by another gust and carried along, mile after mile, till some fence or other obstacle was reached, where they could pile up in great drifts, and wait till a brisk wind from an opposite direction should send them rolling and tumbling all the way back. But Lindy did not notice the tumble-weeds. The dish of corn had fallen from her hands, and she stood looking straight ahead with wide-open, terrified eyes.

What was the sight that so frightened her?

Only a line of fire below the horizon. Only a line of fire, with forked flames darting high into the air and a cloud of smoke drifting away from them. A beautiful relief, this bright changing spectacle, from the brown monotony of the prairie.

But the scene was without beauty for Lindy. Her heart had given one great bound when she first saw the red line, and then it seemed to cease beating. She had seen many prairie fires; had seen her father and other men fight them, and she knew at once the danger her home was in. What could she, a little girl, do to save it, and perhaps herself and her little brother, from the destroyer which the south wind was bringing straight toward them?

Only for a moment Lindy stood, white and motionless; then with a bound she was at the well. Her course was decided upon. If only time and strength were given her! Drawing two pails of water, she laid a large bag in each, and then, getting some matches, hurried out beyond the stable. She must fight fire with fire. That was her only hope; but a strong, experienced man would have shrunk from starting a back-fire in such a wind.

She fully realized the danger, but it was possible escape from otherwise inevitable destruction, and she hesitated not an instant to attempt it. Cautiously starting a blaze, she stood with a wet bag ready to smother the first unruly flame.

The great fire to the southward was rapidly approaching. Prairie chickens and other birds, driven from their nests, were flying over, uttering distressed cries. The air was full of smoke and burnt grass, and the crackling of the flames could plainly be heard. It was a trying moment. The increased roar of the advancing fire warned Lindy that she had but very little time in which to complete the circle around house and barn; still, if she hurried too much, she would lose control of the fire she had started, and with it all hope of safety.

The heat was intense, the smoke suffocating, the rapid swinging of the heavy bag most exhausting, but she was unconscious of these things. The extremity of the danger inspired her with wonderful strength and endurance. Instead of losing courage, she increased her almost superhuman exertions, and in another brief interval the task was completed. None too soon either, for the swiftly advancing column had nearly reached the wavering, struggling, slow-moving line Lindy had sent out to meet it.

It was a wild, fascinating, half terrible, half beautiful scene. The tongues of flame, leaping above each other with airy, fantastic grace, seemed, cat-like, to toy with their victims before devouring them.

A sudden, violent gust of wind, and then with a great crackling roar the two fires met, the flames shooting high into the air as they rushed together.

For one brief, glorious moment they remained there, lapping the air with their fierce, hot tongues; then, suddenly dropping, they died quickly out; and where an instant before had been a wall of fire was nothing now but a cloud of blue smoke rising from the blackened ground, and here and there a sickly flame finishing an obstinate tuft of grass. The fire on each side, meeting no obstacle, swept quickly by, and Lindy stood gazing, spell-bound, after it as it darted and flashed in terrible zigzag lines farther and farther away.

"Oh, Lindy!" called a shrill little voice from the house. Elmer had just awakened.

"Yes, I'm coming," Lindy answered, turning. But how very queer she felt! There was a roaring in her ears louder than the fire had made; everything whirled before her eyes, and the sun seemed suddenly to have ceased shining, all was so dark. Reaching the house by a great effort, she sank, faint, dizzy, and trembling, upon the bed by her brother's side.

Elmer, frightened and hardly awake, began to cry, and, as he never did anything in a half-way manner, the result was quite wonderful. His frantic shrieks and furious cries roused his half-fainting sister as effectually as if he had poured a glass of brandy between her lips. She soon sat up, and by and by color began to return to the white face and strength to the exhausted body. Her practical nature and strong will again asserted themselves, and instead of yielding to a feeling of weakness and prostration, she tied on her sun-bonnet firmly, and gave the chickens their long-delayed dinner.

But when, half an hour later, her father found her fast asleep, with the glow from the sky reflected on her weary little face, he looked out of the window for a moment, picturing to himself the terrible scenes of the afternoon, and then down at his daughter. "A brave girl!" he murmured, smoothing the yellow hair with his hard, brown hand—"a brave girl!"—Charlotte A. Butts, in the August St. Nicholas.

THE TABLES TURNED.

A Cabman Charges Gov. Stanford $500 for Five Miles.

A Communistic person identified with the dangerous classes of the Comstock, and notorious for his contempt of vested rights, has just returned from a visit to San Francisco. This morning he endangered the good name of the Chronicle by entering its editorial room. The Nihilist declared that he had "a good thing on Stanford and Steve Gage," but he supposed the Chronicle, like the rest of the corrupt and time-serving press, would be afraid to publish it.

"Tell your story," said the editor with dignity, gazing inquiringly at the boot of the Socialist, which was resting upon the editorial table. The boot remained there, however, while the following ridiculous narrative was delivered:

"It's fine weather at the bay, and everybody who can afford it takes a spin occasionally out of the dust and heat. Last Saturday Stanford and Gage were walking along Kearney street, and when they got to the corner of Bush the Governor took off his hat, wiped his brow, and remarked:

"Steve, it's too hot for anything. What do yon say to a breath of fresh air?"

"Have we time?" inquired Mr. Gage, pulling out his watch. So did the Governor, who replied:

"There isn't anything very pressing for a couple of hours, I guess, and we may as well take a spin out in the park. It isn't worth while to have out my horses. Let's take a hack, and then we can enjoy a walk when we get there. It'll be better than riding around the drives."

So they got into a coupe and were driven out to Golden Gate Park. At the entrance the Governor and Gage alighted.

"What's the fare?" asked the Governor.

"Only $15, Guy'nur."

"What!" yelled Stanford and Gage in the same breath.

"Fifteen dollars," repeated cabby, unbuttoning his coat and spitting on his hands.

"But, my good man," protested the Governor, "such a charge is exorbitant. The law confines you to a reasonable price for your services, and you can be arrested and punished for such violation of the ordinance."

"Hang the law," growled cabby. "My money bought and paid for this hack an' hosses, an' as Guv'nor Stanford said in his letter to the New York Chamber of Commerce, 'the essence of ownership is control!'"

"Hem!" coughed the Governor, looking slyly at Steve, who began to grin. "That's all well enough when applied to my railroads, but—but—er, now if you charge us $15 to bring us to the park, what on earth would you charge us to take us to the Cliff House?"

"Five dollars."

"From here?"

"No; from the city."

"But it's twice the distance!"

"Yes, but it's a competitive point. Fifteen to the park, five to the Cliff. No hoggin' about it. Through rates to the Cliff, local rates back to the park added—just as you fellers do when you charge $300 for drawing a car-load of stuff from New York to 'Frisco, and make it $800 if you drop a car at Elko, about 500 miles nearer New York."

It was Steve's turn to cough and the Governor's to grin.

"Well," said the Governor with a sigh, "take us to the Cliff."

At the Cliff House the Governor and Stephen drank their beer and smoked a cigar, and listened to the barking of the seals, and filled their lungs with sea breeze. Suddenly Steve clapped himself on the leg and cried out:

"By Jove, Governor! I forgot that load of coal of Smith's that the Sheriff is to sell at 3 o'clock. It's 2 o'clock now. If we miss that a chance to save at least $1,000 will be gone."

"Good heavens!" cried the Governor, snatching out his watch, "let's hurry back at once. Driver! Oh, driver!"

"Here, sir," answered cabby, who had been leaning over the balcony parapet, within earshot, "here, sir."

"We want to return to town immediately," cried Gage.

"Ya-s, I s'pose so," said cabby, slowly chewing a straw, "but I'll take my pay in advance, if it's all the same to you gents."

The Governor growled somewhat between his teeth, and tendered him $5.

"'Taint enough," says cabby contemptuously.

"In Heaven's name, how far will your extortion go?" shouted the Governor. "How much do you want?"

"Five hundred more," calmly replied the hackman.

"Hey?" shrieked Steve and the Governor.

"Five hundred and not a cent less," replied cabby.

"How, sir—er—damme, sir! how do you dare ask such a price for driving two gentlemen four or five miles?" spurted the Governor.

"I base my charge on 'what the traffic will bear, same as the railroad does,'" replied the hackman with a grin. "If taters is sellin' in Los Angeles for 50 cents a bushel, and at $3 a bushel at Tuscon, you fellers charge the poor devil of a rancher $2.50 a bushel to haul his taters to Tuscon and gobble all the profit. Now, I ain't as boggish as that. I heerd Mr. Gage say if he could get into town by 3 o'clock he could make $1,000. As there ain't no other hack here I'm as good a monopoly for this wunst as any blasted railroad on earth; but ain't so greedy. I don't want all you can make by usin' my hack. I'm willin' to get along with half."

With a dismal groan the Governor and Steve emptied their pockets and counted out the money.

"Now, see here," said cabby, as he closed the door of the hack on his victims, "I've done for wunst what you roosters, day in an' day out, have been doin' for years, an' made you millions by it. I happened to be able to give you a small dose of yer own medicine for wunst, an' I don't want you to do no kickin'; I know you kin send me to jail for runnin' my business on your principles, but if you jails me, I'll have to have yer blood when I get out, an' don't yer forget it."

Hereupon the hackman clapped the door to with a bang, and climbing to the seat drove at a rattling pace to the place where the Sheriff was about to sell out poor Smith. Smith was a coal-dealer who didn't have special rates.

When the Nihilist had finished this absurd and libelous tale he took his feet off the editorial desk, laughed hoarsely, and departed for the nearest saloon.—Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle.

An exchange says that a young Chinaman in New York spends several hours a day over his English grammar. Some one should speak to the young Chinaman upon the folly of such labor. If he masters the English language according to grammar, it will then take him some time after that to learn to talk so that half his English speaking customers can understand him. A grammar is of no account in a laundry in this country.

PETERBOROUGH, June 26, 1884.

The receipts of grain are very light, and wheat is on the drop. Spring wheat has been selling lately from $1.12 to $1.15 to the mills, would sell for less than that now. Fall wheat from $1.00 to $1.06. Goose wheat nothing doing. Barley nothing doing. Oats few offering, may be quoted at 35c. to 36c. Wool, less offering, ruling price 17c. On the market prices are about the same. Better from 14c. to 15c. Eggs, less plentiful, 13 to 14c., the latter prices obtained in a retail way. Potatoes in better demand, have been selling from 70c. to 80c., bags—likely to go higher. Other commodities unchanged.

Little Jack—She gave me one too. Here it is. It's just as big as yours.

Little Jack—But it don't seem like a festival!

Little Nell—Why don't it?

Little Jack—There's too many strawberries.

AN UNLUCKY DAY.

"I don't believe in this nonsense about Friday being an unlucky day," said Mrs. Minks.

"Don't you, my dear?" replied Minks, who was a little out of humor. "I believe in it though. Friday you will remember was the day I was foolish enough to ask you to marry me."

"Ah, yes," Mrs. Minks responded, "so it was, and I was foolish enough to accept you. Yes, Friday is an unlucky day."

No Disappointment.

Disappointments of one kind and another crop up all along life's pathway, for unfortunately it is the unexpected that always happens. There is at least one article of acknowledged merit that never disappoints. PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR is sure to remove the worst corns in a few days, and as no claim is made that it will cure anything else, it cannot disappoint. If you have hard or soft corns just try it. Beware of the article "just as good." N. C. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

A HANGMAN BOYCOTTED.

The fellow-workmen of the Kingston man who officiated as hangman at Picton recently, on his return refused to work with him and demanded his discharge, which was acceded to. On Tuesday night several suspicious-looking characters, armed with sticks, were noticed loitering about the man's dwelling, but on being observed they skulked off. It is believed they meditated making an attack upon him.

A LARGE LIBEL SUIT.

Hon. Mr. Mercier leader of the Reform opposition in Quebec, has commenced an action against La Minerve of Montreal, for $25,000 damages for libel contained in an editorial reflecting on his conduct in connection with the charge of bribery brought against Hon. Mr. Mousseau, the man whom Sir John appointed a judge while a politically criminal charge was hanging over him.

LIFE IS UNCERTAIN.

Mr. Geo. Kelsey, J. P., Dunchurch, McKellar township, was killed by an accident in his saw mill on the 17th. He was cutting narrow flooring when one of the strips caught on the circular saw, flew and struck deceased on the forehead, fracturing the scull, and laying bare a portion of the brain. He never regained consciousness, and died about six hours afterwards.

Very Remarkable Recovery.

Mr, Geo. V. Willing, of Manchester, Mich., writes: "My wife has been almost helpless for five years, so helpless that she could not turn over in bed alone. She used two Bottles of Electric Bitters, and is so much improved, that she is able now to do her own work. Electric Bitters will do all that is claimed for them. Hundreds of testimonials attest their great curative powers. Only fifty cents a bottle at Taylor & McDonald's.

INCUMBERED PROPERTY.

"I hear that you are to marry a wealthy American girl," said one nobleman to another.

"Ya'as," replied his lordship.

"You must allow me to congratulate you. Are there any incumbrances on her property?"

"Ya'as, the lady."

Jabesh Snow, Gunning Cove, N.S., writes: "I was completely prostrated with the asthma, but hearing of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I procured a bottle, and it done me so much good that I got another, and before it was used, I was well. My son was cured of a bad cold by the use of half a bottle. It goes like wild-fire, and makes cures wherever it is used."

VERY IGNORANT.

Applicant—"I don't know anything about civil service. I was a hotel waiter."

Seven men were executed on Saturday at Jerez, in Spain, by the garrote, for Black Hand Socialist outrages. The sentence of five others has been commuted to imprisonment for life. One has become insane, and one, who turned informer, has committed suicide. The garrote is a mode of execution practised in Spain and the Spanish colonies. The criminal is seated, and leans his head against a support prepared for it. An iron collar closely encircles the throat, and the executioner turns a screw, the point of which penetrates the spinal marrow where it unites with the brain, and causes instantaneous death.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from mineral or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes: "AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so on every occasion offers.

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro."

"31 South St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable.

J. T. HAYES."

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

The REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

Faithful to Death;

THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER.

Everything was as clean and bright as human hands could make it; only one thing was left to do before Eric St. John appeared, that was to fill the old-fashioned china vases in the drawing-room with roses.

"Do not forget the flowers, Ruth," said Mrs. Vaughan, "nothing makes a room look so homelike and cheerful as plenty of flowers."

So that now the pretty pigeons were disposed of she must attend to that. Going into the garden with a pair of scissors and a basket she found that Laurence had not gone home as she thought, but was waiting for her there.

"I could not go until I had said 'good morning,' Miss Vaughan," he said; and Ruth laughed.

"It must be very important," she replied, "considering that you are sure to be back this afternoon or to-night."

"And what shall I come for?" he asked.

"Speckled eggs, or——"

Then the words died suddenly, for they both heard the sound of carriage wheels in the stone courtyard.

"That is our lodger, and the roses are not ready," said Ruth. "I must be quick. You must go, Laurence. I told you our lodger was coming this morning."

"Only a short time longer," thought Laurence, as he vaulted lightly over the low hedge, "and my beautiful love shall be able to do without lodgers. How I hate the thought of it."

No thought of the lodger himself disturbed him. He naturally supposed that the lodger would be an elderly man, very tiresome and very cross, just recovering from a long illness, and he pitied the fair, bright girl who would have to wait upon him. His face burned, too, as he thought of the indignity of it—his wife who was to be waiting upon a lodger. It would soon be over; but, ah me, if he had known all he would have wished that she might have died there amongst the roses; it would have been so much better for her. Quick as she was, Ruth found herself too late. When she reached the drawing-room with the basket of white and crimson roses in her hand, he was there.

She saw a tall figure standing against the window, and she saw poor child one of the most beautiful faces ever given to man, turned to her with a smile—a smile that dazed her as the light of the sun at noonday had ever done.

"The Goddess Flora," said a laughing voice, weak and faint, despite the laughter.

"I beg your pardon," said Ruth, advancing boldly into the room, "my mother wished me to place these flowers in the room before you came. She said it would make it look more homely."

"Shades of Lady May Carleton," he murmured to himself, and she had not the faintest idea what he meant.

"Your mother is very kind, and very sensible," he replied; "there is nothing so pleasant as flowers in a room."

"Except," she added, brightly, "flowers out of a room. I like them in the garden best."

Then she realized the fact that they were still looking at each other; their eyes had met when she first entered the room, and they were still looking one at the other.

"The most beautiful face ever given to man," was the thought that first went through her mind, and she never saw beauty in any other. It was an effort to look away from him.

It was a face that should have been labelled "Beware," for no woman looked at it without loving it. Dark, beautiful, proud, yet with tender light about the handsome mouth and a tender light in the ardent eyes. He seemed even with one glance of his to absorb her whole heart and soul as the sun drinks up one drop of dew.

"I beg pardon," he said, almost abruptly. "Am I in the way? I should go to my room, but I am tired and weak."

In one moment she had dropped the white and crimson roses and stood by his side.

"You must rest on the couch here, and I will get you something," she said. "You look ill."

"I have been very ill," he replied. "I never thought I should see the green fields and trees again. Thank you, I will wait here if you will be so very kind as to order some milk for me."

"I will go for it," she said simply. "I am to help my mother wait upon you."

It was worthy of note that when she had gone the young man sighed, then smiled, then muttered to himself the well-known lines, "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do."

"Verily," he added to himself, "my lines have fallen in pleasant places. I do not remember to have seen a prettier face than that; and what a voice! sweet as the coo of a cushat dove. I had dreaded the monotony of a farmhouse, but there will be something to enliven this."

Ruth returned with the glass full of sweet, warm milk. She found the lodger lying back on his pillows very weak and ill. It seemed quite natural to her to slip her hand underneath the pillow and raise the sick man's head so that he could drink the milk. As she did so the dark eyes looked full into her own, and something—what was it?—stirred in Ruth's heart that had never stirred there before.

"I am very fortunate," he said, "to have so kind a nurse. You are very good to me; but shall I not tire you if I ask you for all I want?"

"No," she replied, simply. "That is, unless you want very unreasonable things, and want very often."

He smiled at the simplicity of her answer,—indeed, it was her utter simplicity that formed her greatest charm in his eyes, then and always.

"What a Paradise this is for flowers," said Eric St. John.

"You have no flowers like these in London," said Ruth, with the calm superiority of one who knows that the fact cannot be controverted.

"No," he replied; "at least they do not grow there. The finest flowers in England are sent to London, I believe?"

"I pity those poor flowers!" she said. "We have a neighbor living over the hills there who cultivates flowers for the London market,—lilacs and violets, mignonette, lilies and roses. He gathers them in the early morning while the dew lies quite wet upon them, and sends them away. They are packed in great hampers of cool moss, and sent by train. I often wonder if they feel the change from those dewy uplands to the smoke and heat of London. I am sorry for them; I always feel as though they were going to prison and to death. I have a curious fancy about flowers," she continued; "it is that they live and can feel."

"Many people have that fancy," he replied.

"I know it is absurd," continued Ruth; "but if I see people throw flowers into the fire it gives me a shock. When they are cut from trees the same; I have never thrown even a dead flower into the fire in my life."

Eric laughed, but the beautiful eyes were full of tender wisdom, and the sweet face was full of serious wonder.

"Will you show me all your favorite flowers to-morrow?" he asked.

"Yes," she replied; "it it will please you!"

"I am sure it will please me," he said. "I shall learn many lessons from you. You know all about flowers, and birds, and trees, I am sure."

"I have had nothing else to think of," she said and he thought what a contrast her simple, innocent life presented to his—spent amongst books.

"Will you teach me some of the many pretty secrets you must know?" he asked.

"Yes," she replied, gravely; "if you wish to learn."

"I do wish to learn," he said. "There comes a time in every man's life when he tires of the artificial and longs for the natural, and that time has come for me now."

"I am very glad of it," says the beautiful Ruth, with an air of sweet, grave wisdom that charms him; and Eric St. John promises himself that he shall talk to her soon again.

CHAPTER IV.

"Why does your father call you Bonnie Doon? It is a very pretty name, but what does it mean?" and Eric St. John, who is smoking a cigar as he leans over the fence and watches Ruth feed a tribe of fluttering pretty little chickens, looks despite his illness, very handsome.

She smiled at him over the little fluffy heads.

"You know the song, 'Ye banks and braes of Bonnie Doon?'" she said. "My father thinks that no one in the world sings it so well as I do, and when he is pleased he calls me Bonnie Doon."

"It suits you exactly," said the critic, "simply because it is unlike every other name, and you are unlike everyone else."

She blushed at the words, and found some difficulty in making a little chicken eat its rice.

"I thought," continued Eric St. John, "that I knew every variety of the human species called 'girl,' but you are quite a new revelation."

"Am I?" she asked, simply; "I did not know."

"No; that is just the charm," he answered, quickly. "You do not know, and most other girls do know."

He had nothing to do just then, and he did not see why he should not amuse himself with this dainty, delicate young beauty. It seemed to him that he had discovered her in the southern farmhouse just as one finds a new and rare flower in some unexpected place.

"There are many things," he continued, "that you have not the faintest idea of; for instance, do you know that beautiful waving hair of yours looks as though it had caught the very gleam of the sunlight? Do you know that some great ladies in London would give all they have and possess in the world for your bloom of perfect carnation and white? You do not know that your eyes have caught the blue of the Italian heavens, and that the long black fringe which shades them makes them the most beautiful eyes in the world?"

"No," she replied; "I did not know any of these things."

"You ought to know them. These gifts are your weapons. You will have to fight with them."

"I do not understand," she replied.

Then two little round balls of chickens began to fight, the most laughable and comical sight in the world, and Ruth ran after them; a motherly hen or two joined in the fray, and she had some difficulty in quelling it. She went back flushed and breathless, laughing over the captured chicken. Eric was still there, handsome, indolent, and happy.

"Do you like feeding chickens?" he asked. "Do you like this kind of work?"

She looked at him with that sweet, serious gaze.

"I have never thought," she answered, "whether I liked it or not. It was the thing that lay before me—obvious duty, and I have never given a thought to any other kind of life or work."

"How old are you, Bonnie Doon?" he asked, and she answered, shyly—

"Eighteen."

"I wish," he continued, "you would let me call you Bonnie Doon. The name has taken my fancy. It seems to be part of all these pretty surroundings; I hear the ripple of the green boughs and the whispers of the wind over the long grass in it. May I call you 'Bonnie Doon?' You see," he continues, more as though he were arguing the question with himself than with her—"You see, you wait upon me so kindly and so nicely—you might be a fairy, you are so light, so quick, so deft in your movements—and it seems really almost absurd to say Miss Vaughan. Ruth is a beautiful name, one of the sweetest given to women, but the use of it would be perhaps a trifle presumptuous; but Bonnie Doon—sweet Bonnie Doon, with a touch of the heather and a breath of the braes in it, is quite irresistible. What do you say?"

"I am quite willing," she replied, and he said to himself that her freedom from all affectation and all coquetry was a charm as great as her beauty.

Eric St. John had been at Larch Hill Farm a week then, but this was the first time he had left the house. His illness had been a terrible one; he had been in the very arms of death, and even the little journey from London to Aspendale had wearied him beyond measure. The first few days he had not been able to rise, and Mrs. Vaughan had nursed him with the greatest care; then he had risen, only to lie on the couch in the pretty green drawing-room, and then life was a different thing.

One must be worn and tired of the noise, the roar, the unceasing confusion of London to realise what this sweet brooding silence and rest meant to him; to lie there while the summer wind parted the long white curtains, and came in laden with the breath of sweet roses and hay from the meadows, musical with the song of a thousand birds, was a revelation to him. And then Ruth began to wait on him; she brought him fruit and flowers. When he felt most weak and incapable, she appeared suddenly with tempting jelly soup, chicken,—always by some strange chance the very thing he needed.

It was such a pleasure to look at her beautiful face, to look at the sheen of her golden hair, and watch her quick, graceful movements; he liked the sound of her voice, so sweet and clear; he liked her to wait upon him, but what puzzled him first was who the farmer called Bonnie Doon.

From morning until night that name sounded through the house,—

"Bonnie Doon, Bonnie Doon, I want you!" and when the invalid found that it was the name given to his beautiful young nurse he was delighted with it.

This bright July morning was the first time he had ventured to leave the house. He walked as far as the white fence, where Ruth stood feeding her chickens. He was almost frightened at his own weakness; he had to lean against the fence, he could hardly stand or walk.

"How fever takes away a man's strength, Bonnie Doon," he said. "Would you believe that three months since I belonged to one of the best athletic clubs in London, and was considered a shining star; now I could hardly throw a stone at one of your chickens!"

"It will all come back to you," she said, "if you are patient."

"I am patient enough," he replied. "I like this life; there could be no greater contrast between this and my London life."

She looked at him shyly.

"What are you?" she asked. "I mean what do you do in London?"

He smiled to himself at the simplicity of the question.

"I am a barrister," he said; "indeed I may describe myself as a barrister with great expectations. I have plenty of briefs, and I work hard—very hard. I want a name of my own. That is laudable ambition, is it not?"

"You could not have a name belonging to anyone else," she said.

"Yes, that is possible, Bonnie Doon; someone else's name will come to me if I live long enough. I want to make one for myself and I was succeeding bravely enough when this fever came. I had forgotten there were limits to human strength, and I had studied all night, after working all day. I deserved a fever, did I not?"

"No," she replied; "but you must be careful for the future. Fame does not matter much when one sleeps under the white daisies."

"I want to make a name for myself, and I succeeded," he continued; "but I have worked hard, and this place seems to me a garden of Paradise after London, and you," he continued, with a gay smile—"you are its Eve. That is an old-fashioned compliment, but I mean it."

She blushed and laughed. Eric St. John was beginning to admire those sudden deep, beautiful blushes, and to say those words which he knew would bring them."

"In London," he continued, "I live in what the Londoners call chambers; I have three rooms, and I never see a tree. I see hundreds of people; I hear the most wonderful stories; I conduct some strange cases, and life there seems all a whirl; no time for anything. On my table I find every morning cards, letters, invitations; it pleases the people of the great world to seek me, not on my own account, but because of this name belonging to someone else that must one day be mine. I work hard, then at times I go out; I dine at great houses, I go to grand balls, I spend some evenings at my club,—such a different life to this."

"Perhaps," she said gently, "you will soon tire of this."

"Tire of the sunlight, the green fields, the rustling of those great, green boughs, the music of the wind, the smell of the newly mown hay; no, I don't think so; I go into the country sometimes, I visit country houses, but I have seen and known nothing that I like better than this. I think," he added, with an air of meditation; "that I am an ambitious man."

"Ambition is the sin by which the angels fell," she said, slowly.

"True! but there are different ambitions, Bonnie Doon, and I hope mine is a good one. I want a full life, I do not want to have wasted time, wasted talent on my hands; I want to feel satisfied with my life when I come to die; I want to have worked well, to have succeeded, to have won favor and wealth, to have occupied a good position, to leave behind me a name 'both proud and fair,' do you think that false ambition, or true?"

"I am quite unable to judge," she replied, with a quick shake of her beautiful head, "does it satisfy all your wishes and desires?"

"Yes, I think so," he replied.

She had fed the last chicken by this time, and was standing talking to him with the empty basket in her hand.

"What do you wish for in this life, Bonnie Doon?" he asked.

"I have not begun to think about it," she said. "I am waiting for my life to begin."

It seemed as though the wind caught the words and carried them away, gave them to the great, green trees, to the flowers, to the birds, words that were pathetic in their simplicity—that were prophetic.

"I am waiting for my life to begin." How many of us have stood so waiting on the shores of the sea of life? Waiting! not knowing what life would bring! Hoping, longing with vague, sweet desires for which we had no words.

So Bonnie Doon waited, but the spell was upon her—her fate was foreshadowed; the thorn was growing with the rose for her.

"I am afraid," he said, "that I have tired you; how selfish men are; I have been talking all about myself all this time."

"I am very glad," she said. "Do you know Mr. St. John, after all you have told me, I feel as though I had known you all my life!"

CHAPTER V.

Another bright warm morning. The farmers are beginning to cheer up; it is just possible that if this weather lasts they may save the remnants of the corn—they cannot possibly pay the expenses of cutting it—but even this little hope is better than none.

A busy morning at the farm; they have been astir and hard at work since five. Mrs. Vaughan has taken the lodger some new milk, warm, frothing, delicious so good that he decides in his own mind he will become a milk drinker and give up everything else. Then his mind misgives him when he remembers the fluid called milk in London, which bears no likeness whatever to this.

A tempting breakfast was laid for him in the pretty green drawing-room—new laid eggs, fresh golden butter, and bread such as Londoners only see in a dream. He felt better this morning, stronger, and he longed to be out in the beautiful air. The farmer had gone to market, Mrs. Vaughan to Aspendale. Ruth came in to see what more he wanted, and found him looking as bright as the morning itself.

"What are you going to do, Bonnie Doon?" he asked.

"So many things. I can hardly remember them all," she replied. "In the first place I have to gather all the raspberries that are ripe for making jam."

"That will be delightful. May I help you?"

"They will stain your fingers and make your hands rough; but you can come if you like."

"Show me your hands, Bonnie Doon," he said, laughingly. "You seem to be always busy with fruit and flowers."

She held them out to him; pretty shaped hands, but reddened and coarsened by hard work.

"They have seen some service," he said, laughingly; but he thought to himself it was a thousand pities that such dainty graceful beauty should be buried in a farmhouse—that a girl with a face so exquisite should have red, rough hands; but he said no more.

"I have a letter to write," he said; "then I will join you. I know where the raspberry trees grow."

"At the end of the garden near the field," she said, and Eric laughed.

"I have visited them before," he said; "I know the flavor of your raspberries."

He sat down to write his letter, and he wrote it impatiently enough; for, strange to say, a pair of blue eyes were looking at him from the white pages, and a sweet voice was in his ears. The words did not come clearly; the pen was bad,—the ink was thick. "I am not in the humor for writing to-day," he said, springing from his chair. "Lady May must wait." And Lady May did wait, for he had literally nothing to tell her.

He lost no time in hastening to the raspberry trees. She was standing there, and as he came near her he heard the words of her favorite song. "How could they sing, those little birds, while she was weary, fu' of care?" Strange to say, although he heard it so often, he never tired of it, to him the song was always sad, fresh, and sweet. In after years he would rather have gone through fire than have heard one note of it.

"One may always find you, Bonnie Doon," he said, "as one traces the birds, by your song."

"I love singing," she answered, simply, and then Eric St. John, the eminent barrister, the heir of Sir Arnold Wynstay, of Grange Court, the exclusive and proud man of fashion, began to gather raspberries as though he were working at so much an hour for his daily bread.

Once or twice he laughed at himself, but the whole scene was a beautiful summer's idyll to him—he was gifted with a poet's soul. The long stretch of green meadows shaded by tall spreading trees,—the deep pools of water where the cattle drank,—the odor of the flowers—the song of birds,—the luscious red fruit, the exquisite face of the young girl,—were all so many sources of intense pleasure to him.

"It is many years since I gathered a raspberry," he said, and Ruth answered that she thought it one of the finest fruits, but added that the cultivation of it was much neglected.

"People give strawberry parties," she said, "and they think so much of strawberries and cream; raspberries are quite neglected, yet raspberries and strawberries always seem to me like brother and sister."

He laughed at the pretty contrast, but they discussed the question so earnestly that they did not hear approaching footsteps.

The fact was that for the first time in his life Eric St. John was interested, really and truly interested, in the character and life of a young and beautiful girl.

He knew women of the world by heart, he had long been tired of them, but this simple, beautiful girl, with her sweet voice and innocent heart, was a revelation to him. He liked to look at her, to watch the dainty, changing color, to watch the light in her eyes; he liked listening to her simple, honest thoughts. He was standing by her side now, looking at her with ardent eyes, when the interruption came.

"Good morning, Miss Vaughan," said a voice, in which love and jealousy, pleasure and pain were strangely intermingled. "You are busy this morning."

Ruth raised her head and saw Laurence standing looking at her with a darking face. Why need she blush burning red, stammer and falter as she answered him; was it because, all in one moment, she remembered that last year he had helped her to gather the raspberries?

Eric St. John looked at the new comer with a good-humored nod: Laurence glared at him in return; a sudden, horrible fear clutched the poor boy's heart with such force it almost killed him. Surely, this tall, handsome man, who looked so perfectly at home and at ease, could not be—the lodger.

Ruth knew very little of the forms and habits of good society, but her own refined instinct told her, as these two would probably see each other often, they should know each other's names.

"Mr. St. John," she said, "this is Laurence Rainton, the son of an old friend of my father's."

"And your lover," thought Eric, if one may judge from his face.

How he admired her simple, courteous manner, while Laurence thought to himself that no queen ever had finer manners. He took off his cap and bowed with elaborate politeness to the "lodger," but in his heart he longed to shoot him. What right had this man, with the beautiful face and proud bearing, with the girl he intended to marry? The first fiery pain of jealousy shot like a burning arrow through his heart—the heart that was destined to suffer so terribly.

"Can I help you, Miss Vaughan?" asked Laurence, quite determined to show this lordly man that he was on intimate terms with "Bonnie Doon," and that his presence would make no difference at all.

"We have gathered all that are ripe," she answered, and at the sound of that little word "we," poor Laurence's face grew pallid with jealousy.

Then, in his charming, languid fashion, Eric asked if he should carry the basket to the house for her, with just a faint idea, perhaps, of showing Laurence that he also was on very friendly terms at Larch Hill.

"Miss Vaughan need never raise her hand while I am here to do her service!" cried Laurence, seizing the heavy basket as though it were a feather.

"There, Bonnie Doon!" cried Eric, "you see the age of true gallantry is not over yet."

"Bonnie Doon," thought Laurence. "How dare he call her by that name? He has not been here more than a fortnight, and he calls her Bonnie Doon. I hate him!"

Laurence marched first with the basket of fruit, the others followed.

"Where shall I take it, Miss Vaughan?" he asked.

"Into the stone passage," she replied.

And when he returned he found the lodger had lighted a cigar and had found a seat amongst the roses. He could not bear it. He loved Ruth with his whole heart, he had never thought of her as belonging to anyone else; he had never thought of a rival, and here, in the very heart of her home, sitting even in the midst of her rose trees, was the handsomest and proudest-looking man he had ever seen. He could not bear it.

"Miss Vaughan," he said, "I came over to bring you some cuttings of the scented geraniums that you admired so much, perhaps you do not want them now."

"Why not now?" she replied, opening her beautiful blue eyes in wonder,—"why not now, Laurence; I want them as much as ever I did?"

"I have brought them," he said, curtly.

"Thank you. Perhaps you will help me set them; I am so busy this morning, I shall be glad of help," she said, with a smile that left Laurence hopeless and bewildered.

When they were in the garden again and alone, busy with the geranium cuttings he turned to her with a sudden fierceness that startled her.

"That fellow is a swell," he cried.

She looked at him in wonder.

"What do you mean?" she said calmly.

He had the grace to look just a little ashamed of himself.

"What do you mean, Laurence?" she repeated, with a little determined accent that embarrassed him.

"I mean that lodger of yours," he replied.

"He is not my lodger," she said with some dignity, "and I do not know what a swell is."

"He is a gentleman, an aristocrat," he cried, fiercely. "I can tell by his—his white hands, and his insolent manner."

"Whatever he may be he is not insolent," said Ruth, "and of course he is a gentleman; we advertised for a gentleman and we have got one, a poor man could not have taken our rooms; now, Laurence, you need not destroy the geraniums because our lodger is a gentleman."

She had not the faintest clue to his anger, she did not understand his love or his jealousy, and she was astonished at this angry outburst from her good humored companion.

"I hate swells," said poor Laurence, with a clumsy attempt at excusing himself.

"I have told you," said Bonnie Doon, "that I do not know what a swell is. Swell seems to me a very absurd word!"

"A swell," cried Laurence, "means a gentleman. It may be an absurd word, but everyone in these days uses it."

"It is not much to your credit to say you hate gentlemen, Laurence," said the beautiful young mouitress; "it would be better if all men were gentlemen, at least in manner and in heart!"

"I do not mean that," cried Laurence, repentantly. "I mean that a swell is a man who pretends,—who want gentleman, but is not one."

ENNISMORE'S ANNUAL OUTING.

Midway Picnic at Mud Lake Park.

The annual midway—as to time between May 24th and July 1st—picnic and holiday of the Ennismore Roman Catholic Church, Rev. Father Keilty, pastor, took place on Thursday June 19th and, in every way it was an unsurpassed success. From early morning picnickers began to arrive at the grounds and by noon the commodious park was thickly sown with people, who seemed bent on making a day of it. In the afternoon the crowd was largely added to by large numbers from town who continued arriving as late as five o'clock. About half past ten the longed for "music" from Peterborough arrived, the band consisting of Messrs. James Martin, violin, J. W. Batcher, piccolo and Frank Clark, banjo, while Mr. Sid. Martin performed the duties of "caller off." And it was little rest the musicians got that day. As soon as they arrived they were taken possession of, tuned up and started off; on went the dance and it was kept up with unrelaxing vigour, one set no sooner quitting the platform than another took its place and the planks were kept hot with the rythmical pulsations of the "many-twinkling feet," the thermometer skirmishing about in the nineties making no difference with the industrious agility of the youthful dancers.

THE DINNER.

At twelve o'clock the splendid dinner prepared by the ladies of the congregation was called on, and there was a grand rush for the tables; the weaker were likely to go to the wall, when Father Keilty interfered and requested the Ennismore people to wait with patient hunger till their guests—visitors from a distance, were supplied, when there was less rush and everybody in turn was abundantly fed. Too much praise cannot be given the ladies who worked most energetically and untiringly to the end that all should enjoy a bountiful and savoury repast.

BASE BALL MATCH.

At two o'clock, the base ball match took place between teams from town composed as follows: J. Salisbury, captain, W. Lannin, Jos. Henderson, James Craig, Jas. Armstrong, A. Elliott, W. Logan, H. Alford and W. Marks. The other team was: W. Lynch, captain, W. Metheral, Jas. Menzies, W. T. Spences, W. Breakenridge, A. Moore, W. Watson, H. Robertson and J. Bell. The game was umpired by S. Callaghan, and Mr. Joseph Mills acted as secretary. The weather being extremely hot, only five innings were played with the following score:

Salisbury.....	2	3	6	0	1	—	—	12
Lynch.....	0	2	1	0	2	—	—	5

Thus the former nine won the match by 7 runs and the ball presented by the picnic committee.

At the conclusion of this match the

SPORTS AND GAMES

for which Messrs. E. Brown and A. Elliott acted as judges, came on. The first event was the 100 YARDS RACE.—For this there were five entries, but J. Reynolds of town won easily, W. Moore coming in a good second.

THROWING LIGHT WEIGHT.—For this there were ten entries and close competition, several of the heavy weights of Peterborough unsuccessfully striving for the prizes, which fell to 1st, J. Callaghan, 2nd, J. Clancy.

RUNNING LONG JUMP.—6 entries, 1st S. J. Callaghan, 2nd J. Callaghan.

RUNNING HOP STEP AND JUMP.—4 entries, 1st S. J. Callaghan, 2nd John Blanco.

THE DANCING.

IRISH JIG.—First prize Katie Hickey, (a young girl) and second James Wallbrook.

CLOG DANCE.—There was in this event lively competition or a least a large number of competitors, among which Miss Twoley a rural Fanny Elsler, and a most promising dancer, took first prize, Mr. Carew next.

While the contest had been going on there had been symptoms of an approaching thunder storm, a high wind prevailing: therefore the boat races for which several entries had been made, were declared off. Just as the last clog dance ceased the big rain came dancing to the earth in a very heavy downpour and there was a general scamper. The majority took to their vehicles and started for home or took refuge in Bridgenorth where the hotels and many of the private houses were filled to overflowing with the drenched picnicers, for those unprovided with umbrellas, and they were the majority, were soaked through and through with the heavy downpour. Thus effectively was dismissed and broken up one of the most successful picnics ever held under the auspices of the congregation.

It would'at do to omit mention of the Chemong Indian Brass Band which supplied excellent music at intervals during the day. Some of the selections were very finely played.

And to also show how unequally distributed good and evil are in the world, it may be mentioned that all the hotel-keepers of Peterborough with one or two exceptions and every insurance agent of the town were on the grounds, only counter-balanced in moral excellence by two newspaper reporters.

The net financial proceeds of the picnic were between $500 and $600.

A good story is told of a young married man who during his "courting days was very bashful." One day he was invited to attend a tea-panty at the house of a pious uncle of his sweetheart, and when seated at the table the hostess requested him to ask a blessing, which so "broke up" the already bewildered young man that he unconsciously stammered out, "I dont care for any, thank you."

It is not what you eat but what you digest that makes you strong. Unless the food taken is perfectly dissolved, assimilated and converted into pure blood, general nervous and physical prostration inevitably result; the whole system is impoverished; degeneration of the organs and tissues follows, and if there be hereditary predisposition to scrofula or consumption it will surely be developed and the constitution gradually broken down. The foundation of good health and a sound mind is a vigorous stomach and perfect nutrition. Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya is Nature's own remedy for derangements of the digestive organs, purely physiological, harmless, and positively certain to restore nervous and muscular force.

ICE CREAM-ATORY.

It is a very cold day when ice-cream gets left.

As ice-cream weather approaches the dirtiest young man becomes colder in his approaches.

The Boston Post informs young men that no girl who is really in love ever calls for a third dish of ice-cream.

A Dobbs Ferry girl who was to have been married next month has postponed the nuptial until after the ice-cream season.

A New Jersey youth recently cut his sweetheart's throat. Thoughts of the approach of the ice-cream season lead to direful results.

When a girl is in real downright love, clear up to her eyebrows, she loses her appetite so that she can't tell hydrant water from soda water, and cold soup ends are just the same to her as the finiest ice-cream at a quarter a dish, only you must feed it to her with a spoon.

The girl of discretion doesn't even hint at a fondness for ice cream until she's got her fellow well hooked and hauled into the matrimonial net. Then she makes every warm day hot for him if he doesn't show a proper sense of his duty to support the poor struggling confectioner.

Milk, in the manufacture of ice-cream, is first boiled and afterward partially congealed. In the boiling a lacteal acid of bacterium is set free that, uniting with a hyposulphide of butyric oxide, again solidifies as a bi-sulphide of stramakake in the congealing. This when taken into the system, produces peritoneal cramps, frequently ending fatally. (Show this to your girl.)

The Oil City Blizzard is responsible for the statement that strawberriest and cream makes girls "freckled and causes them to toe in."

If it Were Possible

to get the testimony of the multitude who have used The Shaker Blood Syrup for spring debility, languor, lassitude, and the general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which everyone feels during the season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that the Shaker Blood Syrup contains more real medicinal value than any article now before the public. Hundreds, in spite of their prejudices, are taking The Shaker Blood Syrup, and now honestly declare it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public, and they are quite right, and this sentiment must and will extend just as fast as people will allow themselves too be influenced by facts and by the testimony of those people who have tried it and know whereof they speak. In presenting The Shaker Blood Syrup to the public we suffer, because people have been so often humbugged by the weak decoctions with which the country is filled. It is often difficult to make people believe what an advertisement says, because of the evil influence produced by those unreliable, worthless preparations. It is true that honest people are constantly suffering from the effects of dishonesty, and this will probably always be so, but it does not require any remarkable ability to see how the real worth of The Shaker Blood Syrup impresses itself upon people. Our reputation rests upon the value of this medicine, and we are proud of the record it is making. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Druggists.

THE FAR SPEAKING TELEPHONE.

That it is possible to carry on conversation through telephone at a distance of 1,200 miles has been actually demonstrated in Cincinnati. An instrument was placed in the operating room of the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Company and another in the cellar. They were first connected with wires to and from Chillicothe, a distance of nearly 200 miles. Conversation was heard distinctly. The distance was gradually increased until Baltimore, 1,200 miles away, was reached. The same result followed. The tones of voice were quite distinct, and there appeared to be absolutely no loss by induction though fourteen telegraph wires alongside were in full operation.

The Electric Light

Is a matter of small importance compared with other applications of electricity. By this agency Polson's NERVILINE is made to penetrate to the most remote nerve—every bone, muscle and ligament is made to feel its beneficent power. Nerviline is a wonderful remedy, pleasant to take, even by the youngest child, yet so powerfully far reaching in its work, that the most agonising internal pain yields as if by magic. Neglect no longer to try Nerviline. Buy to-day a ten cent trial bottle and be relieved from all pain. J. Wilson, druggist, Goderich, writes: "Nerviline gives good satisfaction." Sold by druggists and country dealers everywhere.

WITHOUT ARGUMENT.

He was a young lawyer, and was delivering his maiden speech. Like most young lawyers, he was florid, rhetorical scattering and weary. For four weary hours he talked at the court and the jury, until everybody felt like lynching him. When he got through, his opponent, a grizzled old professional, arose, looked sweetly at the judge, and said:

"Your honor, I will follow the example of my young friend who has just finished, and submit the case without argument."

Then he sat down and the silence was large and oppressive.

During the past few days a large drive of timber, consisting of about 70,000 pieces, has passed down the river; and the Little Lake, inside the boom, has its surface completely covered and hid from view by a floating film of detached forest—cedars, swivigs, ties. Ontario's Prize Farms.

John J. Hobson of Mosboro, and N. A. Patterson of Ameliasburg, the judges of the prize farm competition inaugurated by the Agricultural and Arts association, began their labors in Victoria county on Tuesday. On Wednesday they were in Peterboro', Thursday in Northumberland, Friday in Lennox on Saturday in Frontenac, finishing at Kingston.

At it Again.

The celebrated legal tilt between the county and the Grand Junction is again before the courts Mr. Bickford paid up the costs, and is making a charge at the county again. The case, which was set down for trial at the session of the court in June, has been postponed till the Fall Assizes in Toronto. Mr. E. B. Edwards, County Solicitor, on behalf of the county, is taking measures to fight out the issue "to the bitter end." The county has the prestige of two or three victories to encourage it.

Cheese Boards.

Belleville, by the mouth of the Intelligencer, is clamouring for the establishment of a cheese board. The City of the Bay should come to Peterborough on July 8th and see what a successful board we have in operation here. Cheese makers who attend it get top prices without undue parley, and everything goes on satisfactorily. If the dairymen of Belleville lack the enterprise to institute an Association let them join that of Peterborough. They could be represented at the cheese board meetings here, if they found it inconvenient to attend personally, by having a proxy, and the cheese could doubtless be delivered at any point along the Grand Junction. The Peterborough cheese factors are alive to their own interests, yet we don't doubt they would be willing to incidentally assist their neighbors.

WILLOW AND WICKET.

Peterborough versus Lakefield.

A match game took place on the Ashburnham grounds on Tuesday between eleven of the Lakefield and Peterborough clubs. The result was a hollow victory for the home team, the latter winning in one innings, with 92 runs to the good. Peterborough walked in first with the willow and did not retire till the telegraph showed a total of 143 runs. Of this number Davis secured 17 well-earned runs. Cooper kept him company till he had tallied eleven. Stratton's seventeen completed of one three, three twos, and the remainder, carefully played for, ones. Miles Hamilton added sixteen to the score, while Max. Hamilton only lacked one of double figures. R. B. Rogers' tally of 44 (not out) was the event of the innings. This was composed of two fives, one four, five threes, three twos and a comfortable padding of ones. The remaining players contributed fives and twos, not a single cypher standing in the score book. Lakefield went to the wickets with a contract of 144 to win before them, but the last wicket fell for the small score of 33, to which Symonds contributed 20. Of course the visitors followed their innings, the second proving even more disastrous than the first, the total tally being only 18. Their total for the two innings was 51, giving Peterborough a majority of 92. It required 325 balls from Lakefield's four bowlers to topple Peterborough's stumps, while Lakefield was disposed in two innings with 26 overs, or 175 balls. Below is the score:

Cricket.

There was great disappointment over the failure of the Toronto Cricket Club to keep their engagement to play the local club here on Friday. It seems that this is the third time that the city club has broken their engagement on the eve of a match. One or two disappointments of this kind is excusable, and there may be some valid cause for it, but when the breaking of appointments becomes habitual, from, it must be assumed, mere caprice, it is a little more than good nature can bear,

Silver Spurs to Aquatic Speed.

Two enthusiastic and liberal members of the Boating Club have procured and offer for competition two beautiful and valuable gold lined silver cups, to be competed for by double scull crews, from the membership of the club. It is probable that seven or eight pairs will enter, the races will be rowed in heats, and thus the sport be spread over several evenings. The first heat will probably take place the same evening the final heat in the regatta double scull pull takes place—some night next week.

Worth Knowing.

While prices are generally high all over the country it is refreshing to learn that at least one store in Peterborough has placed prices to suit the times. At China Hall you can buy a handsome glass set, 6 pieces, for 35 cents, a handsome butterdish for 10cts., a large complete for 25cts., six chimneys for 25cts., white tea set, 44 pieces for $2.00; colored tea set, 44 pieces, $2.50; chamber sets from $1.00 up; half dozen nice goblets for 30cts.; handsome China tea sets from $4.50; best quality cruets only only $2.50; knives, forks and spoons lower than ever. Do not fail to visit "China Hall," the palace store of Peterborough. 26-tf

Summer Millinery to please all tastes, at Turnbull's.

A Splendid Chance.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that Mr. D. W Dumble offers for sale a number of Building Lots in various parts of the town on ten years credit. No money down, interest only to be paid for first five years, and thereafter yearly instalments with the right to pay at any time as may suit the convenience of the purchaser. This offer enables a poor man to use his money in erecting a building, and so he gets rid of rent, and secures a home for himself. Building will be cheap this year and no doubt many will take advantage of this very liberal offer. Besides lots in town, Mr. Dumble offers a number of lots in Ashburnham, and several park lots on the same terms. Call at his office and see plans, &c.

Invited to Sturgeon Park.

The Lindsay Post in commenting on the proposed pull between Mercer and McGuire of Belleville, in ignorance, doubtless, of the fact of the latter's square backdown, makes the following remarks about the local champion:

"Mercer's friends in Peterborough—and he has many—are ready to back their man. They may do so safely. Mercer shows probably the best form of any amateur in Ontario. He is lithe, active and supple; pulls a long clean, well-gripped stroke, showing a style free from habits and favorable for speed. Physically speaking he has been built for an oarsman, loin, thigh and legs being—to use the phraseology of the turf—imported Clyde, with the chest, arm and wind of a thoroughbred. Put your ducats on Mercer, boys. If the course is not fixed in a week or so we suggest that the race be made one of the attractions at the great regatta to be held this summer at Sturgeon Point.

Fraternal Sympathy.

An item in the Omemee Herald furnishes presumptive evidence that the editor of our village contemporary "slings" the editorial quill with his foot, as witness the following paragraph:

"Owing to the editor of the Herald having slipped on Thursday forenoon and sprained his right ankle, the paper is in consequence, a little late."

We sympathise, with our editorial brother that he should be called on to talk in that strain on the seventh anniversary of his paper's birth. Last Friday, the Herald entered on its seventh year. Having thus reached the age of moral responsibility we may expect the Post to handle the Herald without gloves—but, pray, forbear, this hot weather. We congratulate the Herald on this era in its existence and wish it continued success in everything except its atrocious politics, for, in all other respects, it is a creditable rural journal.

Saved Army Pic-Nic.

The steamer Golden-Eye left her wharf on Friday morning with a detachment of about 200 from the army here, to attend the grand pic-nic at Idyl Wild. The pic-nic was a great success, about 3,000 persons having been on the grounds. The local detachment arrived home about 7.20, well pleased with the day's pleasure.

The Park Concerts.

Now that an electric light has been placed in the Court House Park, we have plenty of music there. On Wednesday evening of last week the City Band rendered a fine programme. On Friday evening the Fire Brigade Band gave a concert, which was listened to by a very large number of pleasure-seekers. The selections were delightful, especially the "Dream Faces" waltzes, the vocal accompaniment to which, evoked much applause.

Hunter Street Fire.

About four o'clock on Friday morning the Dr. O'Sullivan cottage and the stables attached, on Hunter street, occupied by Mr. L. F. Carpenter, took fire and were burned to the ground. A stable in the rear belonging to the Hatton estate was also burned. There was some delay in getting on water. The hose was first attached to the Hunter street hydrant, but, the building being out of the water works by-law limits, they were removed and attached to the steamer at Hunter street creek. Mr. Carpenter's furniture was largely saved, but he lost, he asserts, about $500 worth of scions, seedlings, tools, etc. No insurance. There was no insurance on Dr. O'Sullivan's cottage or stables, but the Hatton estate stable had an insurance of $100. The fire is supposed to have been of an incendiary origin.

Masonic Excursion.

The Masonic Excursion to Idyl Wyld on St. John's Day, Tuesday, was a delightful success. Between 200 and 300 went down the river on the Golden Eye, arriving after a pleasant trip at 12 o'clock. A delightful afternoon was spent at Idyl Wyld. In addition to dancing on the boat there was dancing at the hall of the Hotel. In the afternoon the steamer Dora brought a large party from Keene. There was also excellent fishing, Mr. Charles Doebler of Port Hope was also present, capturing a 17½ lb. maskinonge. In hauling the monster in, Mr. Doebler, who is an enthusiastic fisherman, met with a painful accident. The hook giving way the fish was likely to escape, when Mr. Doebler made a clutch at the head with his right hand and caught a grip in the fish's mouth. The latter returned the grip, which if it was not a Masonic one, was full of sharp teeth and cordiality; the hand was badly lacerated. The party started for home at 4 o'clock, exchanging cheers at parting with Com. Calcutt, who remained at Idyl Wild and with the Keene party, reaching home safely at 9o'clock.

Dominion Day.

Canada's natal day will be celebrated in grand style in Peterborough this year, under the auspices of the Boating and Cricket clubs. Excellent arrangements have been made. In the morning an exciting lacrosse match will be played between the home team and a twelve of the Torontos—a struggle well worth seeing. In the afternoon there will be splendid sports and games in the Drill Shed grounds, at which about fifty first and second prizes will be competed for. These contests will be entirely amateur, none of the prizes being money prizes; the programme will be faithfully carried out, and the slightest element of the "hippodrome business" will not be admitted. In the evening a promenade concert will be held in the Drill Shed, when the prizes will be presented. A grand display of fireworks—the best ever made in Peterborough, as to grandeur of effect—will follow, under the superintendence of Prof. Hand. A brilliant torchlight procession will be the grand finale. The City Band will furnish music for the day. Next Tuesday will be a big day in town. Come and enjoy it.

Fire Brigade Excursions.

On Tuesday next, Dominion Day, through the liberality of Mr. H. Calcutt, who has kindly placed the steamer Golden-Eye at the disposal of the Fire Brigade, the latter will run three excursions to Faucher's new summer resort, at Wallace's point. The place has been fitted up beautifully, and in addition to fine fishing and boating, the grounds are provided with all the requirements of pic-nic grounds, such as swings, seats, tables, etc. A first-class hotel is on the grounds, containing a commodious ball room, in which, as well as on the boat, a fine quadrille band will be playing throughout the day. There will be also sports and games, such as running, club swinging, boat racing, tug of war, etc. The Golden-Eye will leave Peterborough at 8 a.m., 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Tuesday next. On the home trip there will be a grand display of fireworks from the deck of the steamer. If required, the Whistle-Wing will assist in bringing the crowd home at the conclusion of the day's pleasure. Tickets for the round trip, 50 cents per couple. Proceeds in aid of the parade hose reel fund of the Brigade. This is one of the best days programme of sports ever presented. Let every body go and enjoy the occasion.

A Big Building Improvement.

Work will be begun at once, from plans prepared by Messrs. Denison & Rogers, for the restoration and elevation of the Stevenson block, corner of George and Hunter streets. The most conspicuous portion of the new plans is a round tower, on the corner, twelve feet in height above the cornice, and surmounted by a conical spire, ending in a wrought iron finial, the whole thirty feet high. It is understood that Mr. John McClelland will place an illuminated clock dial in the tower. The block will also be covered with a twelve feet, slated mansard roof, with circular headed dormer windows. All the other windows will have new caps, as well as the pilasters, and the whole brick work will be colored and tuck-pointed. The same general plan of restoration will be applied to the block extending to and including the building occupied by Mr. Best, and owned by Mr. Cluxton, as well as the building occupied by Mr. Erskine, Hunter street. This building will be extended as far east as Mitchell's grocery store, by an arch thrown over what is now a lane, and the old sash windows will be replaced with plate glass. The entire improvements will be a vast change, and will make this block one of the finest on George street.

CONGREGATION DE NOTRE DAME.

"Musical Review" at the Convent.

On Tuesday last, at the close of the summer term a review of the music pupils of this educational institution was held in the presence of his Lordship Bishop Jamot, some of the parents of pupils and invited guests. The exercises consisted of performances by the pupils, beginning at the youngest and going on up to the most advanced pupils.

The result was such as to demonstrate the excellence of the musical instruction at the convent, both vocal and instrumental. Though of course the capacity and talent of different pupils vary, yet the proficiency of some who have been only a few months at lessons, is in some cases wonderful. Especially noticeable was the performance of little Miss McMullen an infant of only 6 years, who rendered her selection of "First Notes in music," with, it is true a good deal of staccato but still with a good deal of ease and precision. The programme led onward and upward through different grades of proficiency and different styles of music to the intricate, brilliant and difficult music of Rossini's "Semiramis," rendered with unusual spirit, freedom and brilliancy, by Miss Annie Delmeye, the gold medallist of the musical department of the convent for this year. It is not necessary to further particularize, for the following copy of rendered at the review will show persons acquainted with music, the nature of the afternoon's entertainment:

Chorus ..... "'Tis the hour for music," solos by A. Dunn and M. Tierney.

"Semiramis de Rossini ..... A. Delaney.

Miss Alphonsine Lemay repeated an address of welcome to his Lordship to which he briefly replied, expressing the pleasure he had found that afternoon, applauding the pupils for the excellent manner in which they had acquitted themselves and paying a high compliment to the efficiency of the instruction imparted by the sisters.

"God save the Queen" brought the proceedings to a close.

LACROSSE MATCH.

The Norwoods get away with the Junior Dozen of the Home Club.

Last Friday a match game of Lacrosse was played between a junior twelve of the Peterborough Club and the first team of the Norwood Club. The game was played in Norwood, and the home team went out on Friday night. The long trip, loss of sleep, and the hot night, put the boys in bad trim for playing the next day, as the result shows.

At 3 o'clock the teams drew up on centre field, as follows:—

Peterborough.		Norwood.
H. Neil	Goal	S. Hendron
E. Rogers	Point	M. Higgins
W. Walsh	Cover Point	F. Brennan
A. Mercier	Defence Field	R. Stewart
A. Rogers	" "	P. Clark
J. Carveth	" "	W. Stephenson
S. Haapa	Centre Field	R. Patterson
R. Begley	Attack Field	J. Stapleton
P. Moscripp	" "	A. McFaul
D. Dyell	3rd Home	A. Robertson
J. Sherlin	2nd Home	F. Pearce
H. Myers	1st Home	J. McKelvey
J. Sheehy	Field Captain	J. Harper
G. S. Perks	Umpire	W. Morrow
	Referee	G. W. Ritchie.

There was very little incident in the contest, as the first game was won by Norwood in a little over two minutes, an event that was not very creditable to either team as far as play was concerned.

The second game was a little better contested, the home team making amends for their careless play the first game, though there was no conspicuous advantage to either till Heaps, with a good low shot, at the end of 23 minutes, gave the second game to Peterborough.

The third and fourth games went to Norwood in 27 and 20 minutes respectively.

After play was concluded, the home team was entertained at supper at Brennan's Hotel.

The result of the match, though a little humiliating to our boys, will have one good effect: it will stimulate them to more diligent practice, which of late they have somewhat neglected.

Borough Brevities.

Remember the lacrosse match between Toronto and Peterborough on Tuesday next, Dominion Day.

The Peterborough wing of the Durham Field Battery left on Monday and Tuesday for the camp at Kingston.

The Ontario & Quebec railway line west from Havelock, will be open for passenger traffic on July 1st.

The local lacrosse club is paying a little better attention to practice. There was a first class practice on Tuesday evening.

The Sanitary Inspectors, have reported EIGHTY-TWO nuisances to the board of health since their appointment. After July 1st nuisances will have short shrift.

The closing ceremonies of the school of the congregation de Notre Dame will take place Friday afternoon when the prizes will be distributed.

Another attempt was made to burn the market building on Sunday morning early. The fire was seen by Mr. James English and put out.

The fireworks display on Tuesday night will cost more money and will be worth more to see than any display ever made in town.

Three cases of selling liquor after legal hours dealt with Tuesday. Messrs. Faucher and Dunowere fined $20 each and the case of the Grand Central enlarged till Saturday.

A local tea peddler, whose horse, while travelling in the country the late "hot spell," got sun-stroke, thought bleeding would be a good remedy. But he applied venesection with more vigor than judgment and the horse bled to death.

Norwood is a long way "off" when it telegraphs to the Toronto papers that, that village beat Peterborough Lacrosse Club. It was only the second twelve, and contained five men at that who never played in a match before. The first twelve, the idea!

Peterborough Interested.

The loss from the fire which destroyed the mills of the Midland and North Shore Lumber Company on Thursday at Parry Sound amounted to about $100,000. It is largely shared by Messrs. Cox, Ullyott and Bertram, on whose behalf Mr. N. Shaw is appraising the amount of loss. The insurance was $40,000.

Decoration Day.

Next Friday being devoted by the Oddfellows to decorating the graves of deceased brethren in Little Lake Cemetery, the business men have consented to closing their places of business on that afternoon. The procession will form at Peterborough Lodge Rooms at 2 o'clock and, preceded by the Fire Brigade Band, will march to the Cemetery and invest the graves of deceased brethren with flowers, with the same beautiful ceremonies that marked the occasion last year. During the afternoon busses will run between the town and cemetery, at street car fares—five cents each way. Parties willing to contribute flowers, wreaths etc., will kindly leave them at Bro. Harry Long's confectionery store, George street, during the morning of Friday. Those of the general public, outside the order, who have friends at rest in the Cemetery, are requested to join the brethren in the pious work of decorating the last resting places of the beloved dead.

DECORATION DAY.

How the Oddfellow Order Observed it Here.

The Second Occasion Signalized with Unsurpassed Success—Public Sympathy with the Ceremony—Outsiders Join in the Floral Offer—An Immense Attendance of the public—Delightful weather

Last Friday was emphatically Oddfellows day—set apart as the day for the second observation of the graceful and grateful ceremony of bedecking with flowers the graves of departed brethren. The day, or rather the afternoon of it, seemed to be completely given up to the occasion. The entire town was en fete. At two o'clock the business establishments closed their doors, crowds of people in holiday attire thronged the streets, and there was a general movement in the direction of Little Lake Cemetery. At the appointed time the brethren assembled at the rooms of Peterborough Lodge, where, after the usual lodge ceremonies, was formed, and, as it passed down George street, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, each member of the procession bearing in his hand or hands one or two beautiful bouquets of cut flowers, with his breast also decorated with a nosegay and a ribbon badge or official jewel, the walks on either side thronged with accompanying spectators, the scene was a most impressive one, and demonstrated how the idea of decoration day and the solemn ceremonies and associations surrounding the occasion, had taken possession, not only of the minds and fancy of the brethren of the order, but of that of the general public. The following was the order of procession:

THE PROCESSION

Band,
Marshalls,
Members,
Guards,
Scene Supporters.
L.S.V.G.,
R.S.V.G.,
L.S.N.G.,
R.S.N.G.,
Wardens,
Conductors,
Secretaries,
Treasurers,
V.G. Grands,
Noble Grands,
Past Grands.

There was a thorough mingling of the members of the two lodges in the procession, without distinction.

AT THE CEMETERY.

The scene on reaching the cemetery was a striking and solemnly animated one. Over the main and side gates a triple arch of evergreens had been thrown. Beneath the central arch was hung a small gilt placard reading, "Rejoice in Him," and underneath that a streamer bearing the words, "Blessed are the Dead Who Die in the Lord," and on the cemetery face of it, "The Memory of the Just is Blessed," and under all was hung, beautifully reproduced in flowers, the symbol of the order, the three links. The motto over the side gate on the left was "Glory to God in the highest," and over that on the right, "Abide in Me." The cemetery grounds were thronged with people, as many, at least, as two thousand persons having been present. The appearance of the cemetery was superb. Fronting the gates, on entering the grounds, was the fountain, its basket crowned with a wreath of gorgeous flowers, its bright waters sparkling in the cloudless sunshine, while away on every side stretched exquisite expanses of shaven sward, with a turfy pile, like emerald velvet, dotted with sacred mounds, in the neatest of order, as though tended with the most loving care, blooming flowers glowing every where, while, over all, the luxuriant leafage of June upreared its grateful shade.

The procession passed through the main gate and up the terrace, past the fountain and under the dense shadow of the pines that hung over the broad drive, to the west of the Chapel; the files, turning right and left, proceeded till the heads met opposite the point of entrance, the whole forming a hollow ellipse, facing inwards, and enclosing the band and officials. Led by the band, the brethren sang, in most solemn and impressive manner, the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," which gathered a new solemnity as its tones echoed among the tombs, that seemed thrown about like thickly scattered stepping stones in the river that separates the unknown world from this. After the song, the chaplain of Otonabee Lodge, Bro. W. J. Minore, invoked, in the words of the ritual, the Divine blessing on the proceedings. The procession reformed and then proceeded to visit the graves of the departed, two of the brethren leaving their wreaths, crosses or bouquets on the graves, with the words, "In grateful remembrance of Brother ——— we deposit these flowers upon his grave." These brethren falling out, the procession would pass on, while they dropped in the rear, and this was repeated till all the graves in the cemetery were visited in succession. The only addition to the Oddfellow mounds in the cemetery this year was the grave of Dr. Bennet. Below are the names and order of the graves visited and decorated:

Brother Sheriff Conger, Otonabee Lodge.
Brother Col. McDonald, Otonabee Lodge.
Brother Sheriff Hall, Otonabee Lodge.

CONCLUSIVE CEREMONIES.

While the ceremony of decoration was going forward, the Fire Brigade Band stationed near the ground, performed a couple of sacred selections in their usually excellent manner; after finish the Hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," the band, by request of Bro. Sheriff Hall, played a funeral march, and the procession moved off in the same order as on the march to the cemetery, the band playing the beautiful dirge, "Rest, Spirit, Rest," as the cortege left the cemetery. The procession was reformed and marched to the Oddfellows' Hall, where the members were dismissed and refreshments served to them. Thus ended the ceremonies connected with the decoration of the graves of departed brethren, which, we are glad to say, are becoming more and more popular every year.

Closing Exercises of the Institution.

PRIZES LIST AND DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

The closing exercises of this popular institution of learning were held on Friday afternoon, at the Convent. There was a large attendance of pupils and the general public, and the proceedings were of a particularly pleasing character.

At a few minutes past two o'clock the proceedings were commenced in the examination school room in the second story of the building. The dais on which the pupils were ranged during the examinations was tastefully decorated. The fair pupils, when grouped in front of the audience, looked remarkably charming in their dark, white costumes.

At half o'clock His Lordship Bishop Jamot and [illegible] Father Keeley, [illegible] and took seats in front of the platform.

The programme consisted of a French [illegible] Queen on the [illegible], which was followed by a [illegible] which was [illegible] by a [illegible] "We [illegible] Joy to [illegible]" [illegible] by Misses [illegible] Dunn and Mr. Dunn.

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 3, 1884.

The Editor's Tea Party in Stepney.

(By Miss Millie Sanderson.)

Seldom do those who make a feast accept so literally the Master's selection of guests as did the Editor at the Edinburg Castle on Thursday evening, February 21st. Highways and byways, lodging houses and "furnished rooms," courts and alleys, had been visited in the distribution of the printed invitations; and in response, "the poor and the maimed, the halt and the blind," came flocking in from all directions.

An early arrival gave opportunity for watching the fast-gathering, hungry-looking crowd, many of whom, having failed to obtain the coveted invitation, were clamorous up to the last moment for tickets of admission.

At last the beautiful new hall was lighted up, and with charming effect, the height of the electric galaxy tending to subdue the somewhat dazzling brilliancy of the light.

Capital arrangements had been made for distributing mugs for the tea, and well-filled paper bags containing generous supplies of bread-and-butter and cake; indeed, everything indicated that clear heads and willing hands, as well as warm hearts, had been actively engaged in this "labour of love."

The band belonging to the Boys' Home had their seats in the gallery, their handsome uniforms and highly-polished instruments making a very pretty background to the scene. A bugler, taken from their number for special duty, took his station in front of a group of Labour House lads, whose blue collared white blouses made the platform quite a picture, too. By the way, I do not know just how the Editor feels about those bright little fellows who gave us such stirring music on Thursday night, but if he is proud of them and of his sturdy-looking Labour House lads, he may well be pardoned. A bugle call from the platform summoned the large staff of helpers for working orders. These understood, and the signal given for admission of the guests, the scene became one of exciting interest. Outside a strong barricade had been built, through which only one could pass at a time, and towards this entrance the happy possessors of tickets eagerly pushed their way. Half-a-dozen policemen were fullly occupied in managing the crowd; but as the interest of the evening lay with the favoured ones who filed in quickly and soon filled the centre seats of the hall and the lowest row round the sides, I shall not dwell upon the many left outside, in darkness and disappointment, because the invitations had been limited to sixteen hundred of the really homeless.

When the seats were full, with the exception of a few at the back for late arrivals, grace was sung. Whether the venerable founder of Methodism would have thought it sung "with the spirit and the understanding also," I cannot say, but he certainly would have been more than satisfied with the vigour of the rendering. A few bright words of counsel, as well as of welcome, from their host, called forth a deafening response, and then the cheerful din began in earnest. The mugs were passed first, and though a few restless spirits effervesced to the extent of balancing their mugs on their thumbs and on the tips of their noses, the order was remarkably good. Then the cake bags were distributed, and it was almost painful to see the hungry eagerness with which they were clutched by little bony fingers, as if the whole thing was really too good to be true: or perhaps like true philosophers, they "hold their bliss at bay," in order to prolong the joy. The tears would come. 'Twas well worth crossing the Atlantic just to see those sixteen hundred dirty, ragged, forlorn-looking boys and girls, many of them hatless and shoeless, enjoying their tea that night. One little fellow with a broken arm—who would never have got even a glimpse of the feast had not Dr. Milne, the kind-hearted medical officer of the "Homes," lifted him above the struggling crowd and over the barricade and deposited him in triumphant possession of his ticket, safely inside—was especially happy over his store of good things. Some of them, I daresay, had never before been really satisfied with food; but there they fairly revelled in luxury—plenty to eat and drink, ladies and gentlemen to wait upon them, and spirited music from the band in honour of their presence.

Tea over and thanks returned, silence was soon restored, and then their kind entertainer spoke to them of what had been done for many hundreds of boys and girls as destitute as themselves, and cited instances to show what a help and blessing the training and influence of the Home had proved to many a lad who must otherwise have sunk, very soon, in the mire of utter depravity. An extract from a letter by one of his boys, now on a farm in Canada, gave pleasing evidence of the gratitude felt by one who has been thus helped towards becoming an honest and respectable man.

Knowing the character of his guests, their host gave them several opportunities for expressing their sense of enjoyment, thus providing an admirable safety-valve for emotions that otherwise might have become uncontrollable. One lady very graciously contributed to their pleasure by singing a selection from Sankey's well-known hymns, in the chorus of which all were permitted to join. Their rousing vocal-and-foot accompaniment to the strains of the band was also a great source of relief to their pent-up feelings, which, however, broke out most tumultuously on the promise of "two oranges and a bright new silver sixpence to each well-behaved boy and girl present." When the cheering ceased, Dr. Haywood Smith spoke to them with wise brevity about the beautiful electric light, and how they might resemble the little luminous globes if the Spirit of God were shining within. Then came an earnest offer of a "helping hand" to every boy who really wished to turn "to the right about" on his old life, and march towards something better.

The fine appearance of the band and of the Labour House lads must have added force to their host's appeals, and stirred up additional longings in many a little heart. Seven additional rises in rapid succession [illegible] were taken; of these, FIFTY-EIGHT were admitted for the night, pending later and stricter inquiries into their real condition. The rest were dismissed as not being so utterly destitute, but with the promise of attention if they applied at the Home in Stepney Causeway. I spoke to several of the lads, whose destitution seemed most pitiable indeed. Some wanted to be sailors, one thought he would like to be a brush-maker, two or three others wanted to go out to Canada and learn to be farmers, and one little fellow of fourteen spoke up with true boyish eagerness, "Well, ma'am, I dunkher hear much wot I dez, so long's I gets into the 'Ome and has a chanst for sumthink." Each earnest brown eyes looked up eagerly into mine as he said it, and then told me he didn't "live at 'ome, 'cause me father's dead, and me stepmother is 'ard on me, she is," that I could'nt help hoping he would be one of the really rescued ones.

Another offer of help had been made to a class of boys who could not be admitted into the Home, but who might be assisted in various ways towards earning an honest living. These also were directed to apply at Stepney Causeway. Coming back to the entrance into the main hall, banks of oranges lined the passage, and at the foot of the stairs a gentleman stood on either side distributing the shining silver coins, the possession of which for his very own transformed more than one poor urchin into a momentary millionaire. "What shall you do with it?" I said to a wee, bare-footed, curly pate, whose overflowing joy made him dance up the steps, "Give it t' mother, mum;" and the blue eyes fairly shone with delight. How he behaved further on, when two golden oranges were added to his treasured sixpence I cannot say, as I lost sight of him in the crowd; possibly a sense of care for the safety of his new-found riches served to subdue his gladness.

At a much earlier hour than is usual on such occasions, the happy guests took leave; the boys of the band marched off with their leader on the double quick; the great hall, so lately ringing with jubilant sounds, became silent and deserted, and so ended the Editor's first tea party for 1884. From the first to last it was a scene of thrilling interest; and I feel sure none present could fail to recognise and appreciate the glorious work of rescue which is being accomplished by the various departments of "Dr. Barnardo's Homes."

HANLAN'S WELCOME.

Since Hanlan arrived in Sydney, six weeks ago, he has been publicly receptionized, lionized, dinnered and patronized, until the business has become surfeiting. The postmaster-general, Mr. J. W. Trichett, (not old Ned), the sheriff, Mr. Charles Cowper and others have fated and feasted him till his digestion must have been sorely taxed, while his lungs have been constantly kept in play by innumerable speeches which he has made.

Mr. Alex. Robinson, of Exeter, in writing about one of the most popular articles, and one that has done more good to the afflicted than any other medicine has during the short time it has been in existence, says: "I have used four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and have been cured of Dyspepsia that troubled me for over ten years. Part of of that time I had it very bad, and was at considerable expense trying to get relief; but this excellent remedy was the first and only relief I received."

EASY TO LIVE IN LUXURY.

The news that George Stephen, the Canadian Pacific Railway magnate, has had a magnificent $4,000 piano built for him in New York is calculated to interest the taxpayers, whose burdens were increased $5 a head all round, or $25 for the average family, to put money in the pockets of the monopolists. It is very easy for people to put up million-dollar mansions and buy four thousand dollar pianos with the resources of the country at their command.

A NEW JERSEY SENSATION.

Much excitement prevails in Hammonton, over the discovery of the bodies of twenty-one children, buried in a small plot on the outskirts of the town at the Mission Home, a sanitarium opened several years ago by Miss Nevison, a middle-aged woman, for the purpose of taking young children to raise out of charity. It is stated that improper food and care caused the death of twenty-one out of twenty-three inmates.

Natural Ice Reservoirs.

In many countries ice is obtained from natural ice houses, wherein, while the ordinary temperature outside is 80 degrees, ice is still forming. Such a marine or cavern has been found in New Jersey, and near Lincoln, Vt, there is a glen in which snow and ice lie all the year round. One of the most remarkable of these ice caverns is that of Dobschan, in Hungary. It is quite near the town, and is approached through a narrow winding limestone valley called "Stracenser Thal." It is in the interior of a mountain, having a general direction east and west. The entrance is near the top, and extremely narrow, and was only discovered by accident. Once inside, a remarkable scene is beheld, the ice, which seems formed in many layers, having assumed all the peculiar shapes that characterise the limestone caves of our own country. The total rock and ice surface in the cave alone occupy about 21,000 square feet.

The cave is divided into two parts, upper and lower. In the upper part the roof is of limestone and the floor of solid ice, and it is divided into two great halls of wondrous beauty. The roof of the largest hall is supported by three enormous pillars of clear ice, one of which is hollow, and through which flows a stream from above, producing strange echoes and reverberations. All about are fantastic forms of ice resembling human beings, pulpits, monuments, and so on, giving to the cave a most grotesque appearance. In one end the ice forms an exact representation of a large cascade, as if a rushing stream with its spray had suddenly been frozen solid. Descending to the lower room, the passage is 600 feet in length, and by following down through the ice you come to the natural outlet of the water.

"In all countries such caves have been found. So extensive is the ice cavern on the Peak of Teneriffe that it affords a permanent source of supply, and even vessels are loaded with its ice. This ice is columnar in shape, and does not melt easily, and so can be transported without great loss. Near the village of Stelitze, in the Carpathian Mountains, there is one of the largest ice caverns in the world, and, curiously enough, it freezes in the summer and melts in the winter. For instance, in midsummer the roof is entirely covered with icicles, but in winter they disappear, and by Christmas time the cavern is dry and warm compared to the outside world. Ice begins to form as soon as the spring opens. In some deep mines ice forms at certain periods. This is the case in some of the salt mines in the Ural Mountains. Great cavities are formed in the gypsum, and in the winter they are filled with clear water, but in the summer they are frozen solid.

"We have similar cases nearer home. In this State there are several ice wells, and an ice cave has been found at Decorah, Iowa."—Inter Ocean.

Sounds Like Victor Hugo.

The St. Petersburg Novoe Vremia, the newsiest and most enterprising of the Russian papers, has connected its office telephone with that of the general telephone of Paris, in order to talk occasionally with the representatives of the French literary world. On New Year's day Victor Hugo spoke to the Novoe Vremia by telephone as follows:

"Hello! Hello! There was a year and it is no more. It is swallowed up by eternity. What is the year, and eternity? A cent (sou) and a milliard, a drop and an ocean, a grain of sand and the Himalaya mountain. Let us consider the point—but useless—we can understand nothing of it. It is a darkness of chaos, a mystery of an abyss. The old year has passed away, but where? Nobody knows. A new year comes, but whence? Nobody can answer. Where is the beginning? Where is the end? No answer. The sage rubs his forehead and exclaims: 'Oh!' The poet strikes his forehead as a rock, and exclaims: 'Pshaw!' And in that 'pshaw!' there is some enlightenment. He contemplates—what? The past and the future. What does he see in the past? Darkness. In the future? Darkness. There is darkness both right and left. He is frightened, he is moved, he searches for—what? A middle ground. He finds it; it is the present. It is bad; more than that, it is miserable; more than that, it is infamous. Let it be; it is a matter of course; it does not amount to much. It will be better. When? The poet does not know; yet he is satisfied. Why? Because he believes—in what? In the good. The good shall triumph. Boborikin [a Russian novel-writer] will stop writing his novels. Baal will fall in ruins. Ahab will return to Naboth his vineyard. Messalina will turn Vestal. The Man of December will fall. Attila and Tamerlane will play with flowers. Diogenes will clean his nails and will put on the best linen. Rostopchin [who burned Moscow in 1813] will rebuild Moscow. Zola will buy a wash-basin and will admit the ideal. Everything will be bright and beautiful. Virtue and God will shine everywhere. The poet is moved. He sees blue sky. Honoranium—three francs per word. Salut et fraternite.

VICTOR HUGO."

This short contribution cost to the journal 900 francs, or $180. The second telephone contributor to the Novoe Vremia was Emil Zola. He began to dictate a new novel. "One could not listen to it without blushing," remarks the journal. "We will give it in full to our readers as soon as our contributor is through."

Your regular French heel will convert the waviest, floatiest Andalusian walk into a camel stride or donkey jolt in very short order. Dr. Ladelle claims that prussic acid is an antidote for poisoning by strychnine. The enthusiast who undertakes to prove this runs more or less risk. He must first be thoroughly poisoned by strychnine, or else the prussic acid will not affect a cure. In case he has not taken enough strychnine, the prussic acid will act on its own account. The poison has two chances to the enthusiast's one.

His father, a Berlin banker, who came in between these two famous personages, used to say, "I should like to know who I am. Divinity That Hedges About a Mikado.

The 3d of November is the birthday of the present Mikado, and I had the good fortune to be here in Yokahama on that occasion. It is not now accounted a rare honor to see the Mikado here, and the event, unless it occurs on some festival day, creates but little excitement. I cannot help contrasting all this with the seclusion enforced scarcely more than a decade ago, when no subject could get hope to look upon his sovereign unless he ministered to him in the capacity of an immediate servant; when the very chinaware from which the Mikado ate his meals was destroyed in order that no mortal might obtain possession of it, and use it for his own unhallowed purposes. Japan has receded, or rather advanced, a long way from those days of punctilious etiquette, and no one ought to be more thankful for this than the Mikado himself. By this I do not mean that the Mikado mingles with his people in anything like the sense that a President of the United States does; but he goes and comes in a superior, isolated way as he pleases, and on certain set days of the year exhibits himself to the populace under circumstances of special ceremony. Chief of these, perhaps, is his own birthday, when he reviews the imperial troops at Tokio. Then he dons his most magnificent robes, surrounds himself with an unusual display of Japanese royalty, and invites the foreign representatives to be present as his guests. In thus graciously permitting his subjects to survey his royal person the Mikado does not surrender his claim upon the reverential regard of his people. He simply defers to the quality of royal liberty which prevails among most civilized nations. He still expects and receives a nominal homage that is almost servile. I suppose Shintooism was made to supplant Buddhism as the State religion, in order to bolster up imperial authority, among other things, so as to counteract any unfavorable results of this royal exposure. According to the philosophy of this religion the Mikado is of divine ancestry, and, therefore, cannot err. It is a significant fact, however, that the Mikado is so careful and conservative in his official conduct as though his authority was contingent wholly upon the exercise of worldly wisdom on his part. In other words, though he is still an absolute monarch, these sixteen years of his administration have built up a public sentiment which he is bound to respect, and which none of his predecessors had to deal with. The while, therefore, that he has the reputation of being a liberal, well-disposed sovereign, there is in everything a substratum of policy and cunning, born of consciousness on his part that there are some things which he dare not do.

To Raise Plants.

A lady, whose beautiful plants are the delight of her life and the envy of all her acquaintances, revealed the secret of her success for the benefit of the readers of the Evening Post the other day. The soil is, she says, about two-thirds good garden soil, and the rest is sand. It is kept light and loose about the roots; they are watered as they appear to need it, and not according to any particular rule; but the chief reason for their wonderful growth and bloom is this: "When any of the leaves wither and fall, instead of picking them up and throwing them away, I make little rolls of them and tuck them down in the earth and let them decay; and this is the only fertilizer I have ever used. This," she added modestly, "seems to be nature's way. And the plants that have the afternoon sun only, grow and rival those that have the morning sun."

Thackeray and Dickens.

It is well known that one of the greatest annoyances to which writers of repute—novelists more especially—are subjected is the continual application made to them by would be authors for their criticism and advice. The more eminent the writer, the more numerous, as a rule, the applicants. It is pleasant, if somewhat surprising, to find that busy men, like Charles Dickens and Thackeray, overwhelmed with work of their own, would never turn a deaf ear to appeals of correspondents.

The following letters, which are now published for the first time, are typical of their writers. The first that of Dickens, is a kindly and diffident expression of adverse opinion, characterized by great consideration for the feelings of the inquirer:

"TUESDAY, 16th August, 1859.—SIR: I have read your poems, and I regret to assure you that I cannot by any means suggest any way of rendering them remunerative to you. I am truly sensible of the confidence you repose in me, and I must not be unworthy of it. They are, I do not doubt, exceedingly meritorious, with a private and personal reference to yourself and to the circumstances under which they were produced, but with such reference the public has nothing to do; and I am bound to tell you that I think they do not address the public from any vantage ground of their own which has power in it to separate them from millions of verses that are impatient of obscurity. If I give you pain, you will, I hope, at least believe that it would be a far easier and more responsible task to me to gloss it over with some evasion; but I respond to your trustfulness by giving you my sincere opinion. I do not in the least suppose it to be infallible. Faithfully Yours,

"CHARLES DICKENS."

The next letter is to the point. Like most good advice, no doubt it was neglected, and the wind was ground as strenuously as ever:

"KENSINGTON, W., June 2, 1860.—DEAR SIR: I scarcely knew what to say to you; save what I have already told you, I am at a loss. However, I can only entreat you to abandon your literary aspirations. You would never write your way, at present at any rate. Besides, your grammar is defective; your style is bad; your composition is very bad. And my profession, in truth, is not fitted for a man possessed of bad health. Pray seek some light employment. Do not grind the wind.

Truly yours, W. M. THACKERAY."
—Pall Mall Gazette.

Capital Punishment in France.

In France the monarch or chief of the Executive has always exercised the prerogative of mercy independently of Ministerial control. M. Grevy finds it a painful privilege, and whenever a malefactor is doomed to death he goes over all the evidences on which he has been condemned, and really reargues his case. He does it so well that few murderers have lost their heads since he became President. Napoleon III. had a kind disposition, and would have been glad to make, if he could have done so, full and frequent jail deliveries; but he was afraid to vex judges by exercising his power to pardon in capital cases. The chief use that he made of it was to try and gain over the lawyers who obtained audiences of him for the purpose of getting him to remit sentences of death passed on their clients. It was in interviews of this kind that Maitre Lachaud, who had often occasion to ask them, drifted into imperialism.

The Denver (Colorado) News records that an English company, with a capital of $1,000,000 has purchased the ranges, stock and water right owned by General W. B. Wilson on Republican river. The property contains 135 square miles under fence, with full water rights secured, besides an almost unlimited amount of free range. There are 9,000 head of stock in the herd.

President Arthur prepares much of the fatigue and lumbago of the arm one must undergo in shaking hands with so many people by doing all the shaking himself. He never allows the visitor to seize his hand first, but takes the outstretched hand himself and can thus let go when he pleases.

Is It Wrong To Kiss?

"Is it wrong to kiss?" asked a timid maid
Of the clergyman who came that bonnie face to grace.
But ere answer was got, save the parson alone
A rosebushy gap in they kissed her cheek.

She asked the sun, but he only turned
His sunny face from the unseen sky,
And looked out for that he'd rather Than anything else kissed her eye.

She asked the wind as it came from the south
The solemn question. The answer came,
For a zephyr sprang up and kissed her mouth
And ruby red lips till they seemed aflame.

She asked a youth who had chanced along
And the moral question was solved in a trice;
For he answered: "O, maiden, it may be wrong,
But—there he proved it—"it's very nice!"

If she can read sun, and cast south wind
Has unanswered by bird or bee,
Where the heart is maple, and lips and mind
Are not reluctant, why shouldn't man?

The Last Female Craze.

The rapidity with which one wild idea can chase another in and out of a warm corner in the feminine heart is illustrated in the passion which has developed for working in brass among the ladies of Pittsburg. It is hardly a year since the crazy quilt was at its height as a popular lunacy. Christian ladies, whose conduct in all else was go straightforward a plumb could not have corrected a solitary line, did not hesitate to steal, lie or cheat that their store of silk patches might be increased. They traded with each other and boasted like horse dealers when they got the better of the bargain, they begged cravats and hat linings of their gentleman friends, they cajoled deckhands in dry goods stores, and stopped at nothing when patches were in view. And yet, after all this work, the crazy-quilt has been dropped with forty million unfinished ones in the country and possibly fifty completed, for a little bit of brass.

Pittsburg has been slow in taking up the new idea. Brass pounding—repousse work, they call it—was popular in an amateur way one year ago in New York and Philadelphia; Cincinnati and Cleveland had the disease six months ago, and it was only when it got east and west that Pittsburg succumbed. Now the avidity with which it is taken up indicates a strong desire to make up for lost time. In a way this brass pounding is art work, and it is plainly several degrees higher in the scale artistic than the crazy-quilt. It is simpler, more easily mastered, and more satisfactory than any branch of painting, and for these reasons it is popular on sight with people ambitious to acquire a reputation for being artistic.

The outfit required for a brass-pounder consists of a sheet of brass, a hammer, a set of tools, a sheet of carbon paper, and fingers that don't object to being mashed. The brass is almost as thin as paper and as tough as it can be made. It costs 40 cents a pound, and that quantity will furnish material for a month of hammering. The tools come in sets of from three to nine pieces. The principal ones are a chisel-like concern for marking outlines, a straight punch for making single marks, and a die-faced affair that gives the roughened appearance to the background. The others are modifications of these. A complete set can be had for two dollars. The hammer is of the machinist's pattern, and costs 75 cents, the carbon paper costs 12½ cents, the patterns are worth anything one chooses to pay, and the fingers, financially considered, vary according to the physicians employed. The total expense for starting up as a brass-pounder—barring the tuition fees—is $3.87.

In beginning operations the sheet of brass is securely tacked to a board, the carbon paper is laid on the brass and the pattern over that. With a stylus—or a crochet needle if there is no stylus on the premises—the pattern is traced out, the carbon paper conveying the marks to the brass. The pounding then commences. First the outline is punched out plainly. This done, the brass all around is pounded down with the die until it presents a roughened appearance. The main features in the pattern are left untouched and stand out like relief work. The effect when finished, is of a brass casting, a casual examination never suggesting that the brass is only a thin sheet.

The articles made in this manner are sconces plaques, crumb-trays, or anything when the reverse side is not to be exhibited. At the school of design there is a large class, and the private classes in the two cities are almost countless.

The noise made by the operation when half a dozen energetic young ladies are at work is deafening. The people in the Penn Bank thought a boiler yard had been established in their midst when the School of Design went into the brass business and there were stories told of distracted men hiding in the cellar while private classes were in blast. One young lady who was busily engaged in rubbing a vile-smelling compound on a plaque she had just finished and was bringing it to a high state of polish, illustrated the noise with the remark: "The worst thing about this is that we can't talk; one can't hear their own ears." The pounding of brass is popular, but the craze will be short lived. Six lessons make an expert, and it is so simple that anbody can learn it. The result must be a deluge of brass ornaments. In six months the parlor in Pittsburg that can't show brass work will be the exception; it will be as common as chromos, and like chromos, will be banished to the servants quarters.

"Could Beat 'em All Writin' Bad."

The Lowell Courier is responsible for the following story in regard to old Governor Mattocks, of Vermont (grandfather of Commissioner Mattocks, of this city), who when in congress boasted that he could "beat 'em all writin' bad." The nearest, says the Courier, he ever came to making a political harrangue was once when his friends gathered around him to congratulate him upon his nomination as governor of the state. He was in a tight place, for he was compelled to reply. His speech was as follows:

"Boys, I thank you; and now, if you will elect me governor, I will tell you what I will do. I will appoint two Thanksgivings and no Fast. Good-bye."

Still, he wasn't often at a loss to find something to say when something had to be said. One New Year's day morning as he was bathing and preparing for breakfast, he unfortunately leaned against the door at the head of the stairs leading to the kitchen. The door gave way, and the maids of the household, while busy preparing the morning meal, were astounded to see, rolling and tumbling into their presence a chubby, fat, old gentleman in a most unpresentable attire. But his wits were with him. "Ladies," he exclaimed politely, "I wish you a happy New Year;" and then bounded upstairs again four steps at a time.

GRANGERS IN NEW YORK.

How They are Entertained—Speech-making of the Whips (?) and Ags Black.

Now, when you come to think how many affable, well-dressed gentlemen and fascinating ladies there were in town who came to see, hear, and look about for them, and their very wishful to get acquainted with them, and give them an insight into the by-ways and eccentricities of life in a great metropolis, you will believe me when I say that a great many of these visitors went to their homes with odd recollections of their day in town. To be sure, some of them will live long lives and drop into their graves without ever having told the truth about how they got rid of so much money while they were away.

Let us suppose that one of them (there must have been hundreds just like him) was walking up Broadway, dazed with the bustle, confused by the clatter and joyous over his good luck in being among so many people and on the eve of such grand sights. He is missing naught of what goes on around him. Suddenly the man in front of him stoops down and picks up something. It is a glove. The countryman looks at him to see what he picked up.

"Hello!" says the man, "here's a ring in this finger. By Jove! it's a bang-up gold ring. Some lady has slipped her ring off without noticing it in taking off her glove, and then she's dropped the glove."

The countryman looks at the ring. It looks like a beauty. It might just fit his Sallie's finger. Confound it! why does he never pick up anything?

"Look a-here, young feller," says the city man, "here's a gold ring. I'm poor as a church mouse; haven't got a cent. The stores is all closed and I can't sell this. Gimme fi' dollars for it and say no more."

Done—and the countryman has got a Brady ring. On the next block another very similar incident occurs. A countryman is plodding along and gawking about. He bunks into a man who has stopped to pick up something. It's a big fat wallet. The city man opens it and peeps into it. The countryman can see by the expression on the other's face that the wallet is full of bills, though he doesn't happen to see the bills.

"By thunder!" says the lucky finder, "some countryman's in a hole. Lost his pocket-book and a big hunk of money. It's too bad—too bad; and I've got just ten minutes to catch the boat at the battery. The poor devil ought to have his money. Tell you what I'll do. Give me ten dollars and keep the wallet till you see to-morrow's Herald, and then you give it to the man that lost it. He'll advertise it sure and you'll get $20, or maybe $50 reward."

Done—and the countryman had got a wad of paper rolled up in a one-dollar greenback.

Perhaps the next countryman among our guests drops into a Bowery museum. Why shouldn't he? He never saw a band of real Popocolopet cannibals from Patagonia, or a fat woman weighing 600 pounds, or a boy who can do with his feet whatever others do with their hands—and all this can be seen for ten cents. So in he goes and sees the Thompson street band of darkey cannibals, the diseased woman and a boy with bare feet, who does not do anything with those members, though maybe he will if the countryman waits and watches long enough. In the meantime a very genial gentleman, with a voice like a foghorn, invites the countryman to see what another gentleman has just drawn for fifty cents. There is a case full of silver-plated ware and a gold chain, a gold watch, a diamond pin, and I don't know what all, and the other gentleman has drawn ticket thirty-two. Ticket thirty-two? Why, ticket thirty-two is the diamond pin—well, the gold watch is there yet.

"Take an envelope out for fun and see how your luck is running. It won't cost you anything. What, 108! Why, that's the gold chain. Take a try in earnest; only fifty cents."

The countryman pays fifty cents. He draws out an envelope. Perhaps it is one that sticks out a little; perhaps it is one he accidently saw the gentleman pull out to show a bystander in order to prove that the number on the gold watch was really in one of the envelopes. If he pulls ou either of these he will find a blank in his envelope. If he is stupid and pulls out another one, the gentleman who presides will seize it with an "Ah, now let's see what you get," and will change it so deftly that you won't see him do it and—the countryman gets a blank. If he tries again and again he will spend four or five dollars to carry off a seventy-five-cent plated butter dish, perhaps. But maybe the next countryman is shy of the envelope game. That doesn't matter. Onr city people can please any taste or interest any form of curiosity.

Doubtless a thousand at least of the rustics found themselves in pleasant converse with a man who adroitly sounded them to find out whether they ever played cards for money or not. The pleasant pumpers were gambling-house "cappers." They get a percentage on the winnings from whomever they bring to the tables. They are not violent. They do not drug a man or carry him by force, nor do they urge a man to play if he says he does not understand cards. That's all the talk of those who do not know what they are preaching about. The capper is the least offensive variety of city sharks. He asks you to come around to "the club," then takes you to a hell where is played either what is called a square or a "brace" game. I never staked a cent in a gambling-house in my life, but I have often been in those places, and once I saw a capper bring in a jolly, half-tipsy country merchant with a roll of bills as big as a woman's fist. I saw him lose $400 and then offer to treat the house. The boss gambler would not permit this, but sat up the wine himself. Then the man set down to play again, and the gambler would not let him do so, but sent a capper out of the house with him to see him safe to his hotel. Perhaps you think this highly moral. Well, it was morality of the highest gambling-house standard.

"Why did you not let him keep on playing?" I inquired of the boss gambler.

"Oh," he replied, "he had nothing but small bills left. No use cleaning him out and having him complain to the police. As it is, he has gone away feeling good toward the house."—New York Letter in San Francisco Chronicle.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE SON: "32 Cedar St., New York, Oct. 31, 1883.

"Gentlemen: My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the inclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the SARSAPARILLA in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have here tried to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1883. Yours gratefully,

HIRAM PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 3, 1884.

Far-Fetched.

Our down-street Tory contemporary is accustomed to go far down, both morally and in respect of facts, for the sake of slandering a political opponent. But the most far-fetched is an attempt in a late issue to cast a slur on Sir Richard Cartwright. Finding nothing in that gentleman's public career vulnerable to attack, the Review descends to the extreme resort of trying to make him responsible for the alleged short-comings of his ancestors. It is mentioned that some of the first U. E. Loyalists who came to Canada were slave owners, and that Sir Richard's ancestors were among the number, and on this is based a most virulent attack on that gentleman. This is indeed far-fetched, and is worthy of only the contempt of every sensible man. Long descent is entitled to a certain degree of respect, but it is not all. Some of the bluest blood of England flows from a very muddy source; many of her noblest names can trace back their descent to the illegitimate offspring of some royal harlot. The Review editor may plume himself on his illustrious ancestry thus making room for the facile possibility, that, like potatoes, the best part of him is under ground—but that will not make an observant public less able to discern the sneaking animus that prompts him, in default of any tangible grounds of attack, to attempt to cast odium on an honored statesman's name by raking up the peccadilloes of his remote ancestors. The point in the Review's attack least open to objection, is where the editor claims kinship to the "ancestral monkey." Here he is on safe ground and may speak from a personal knowldge of his sympathies and inclinations. The stingless and silly attempts, as shown in the attack referred to, to annoy Sir Richard Cartwright, find their allied prototype in the shallow and pointless, but sometimes annoying, trickery of the mischievous monkey; no one would think of seriously noticing one more than the other; a metaphorical kick to the former, and a literal cuff to the other, would be a fitting end to the matter.

Power and Policy.

The Conservatice papers hint that the criticism by the Reformers of the ruinous acts and policy of the Conservative government, is merely an expression of the desire of the Liberals to gain power. This is true, and yet not true. In the sense in which Tories regard power, a position that enables the possessors to rob the country for their own advancement, for party purposes, and to enrich the base tools of an unscrupulous grabocracy—in this sense it is not true. In the sense that they wish to overthrow the present reign of misrule and replace monumental incompetency, colossal corruption, nameless extravagance and waste of the country's resources, with capable and honest government, it is true. The Reformers for the country's good wish to have the present government replaced. This, of course, in the present party division of the country, involves the accession of the Reform party to power. In this sense the Liberals desire power. They have not reduced the profiting by the possession of place, to a fine art like the Tories have, therefore they have not the morbid thirst for the Treasury benches that characterise our good Tory brethren. And it is asserted tauntlingly that the Reformers have no policy. Their political opponents have so managed the affairs of the country that the policy of any political organization, desiring the good of the country, is self evident. Broadly stated, it is policy enough to oppose the existing governmental one with, to say that the policy of Reformers, consists in proposing to do all that the present government is not doing. A man in a position of trust is betraying that trust, and robbing his client. On being remonstrated with, he would, to employ the logic of Conservative papers inquire. "If you don't approve of my course suggest something better—let us hear your policy." The self-evident answer would be to propose to do what he is not doing—to honestly fulfil a trust, to work for the interest of the client and, in fact play the part of honesty and rectitude. Beyond this however, the Reform party have put on record a policy both in the House and on the platform, which may be briefly outlined thus: The right to make our own commercial treaties; the public lands for the people and not for shrewd speculators; a tariff that will equitably distribute the incidence of taxation, that will not enrich one class at the expense of another; removal of customs duties from raw materials and the necessaries of life; reform of the Senate and all that that implies; the restoration of economy in the expenditure of public money; a close scrutiny of monopolies; respect for guaranteed provincial rights; an end of the political immorality, corruption and wickedness in high places, that is weakening the moral sense of the people and deadening the public conscience to regard party wickedness as a mere venial sin; in fine, in a general sense anything opposed to the present ruinous policy that enters into the management of the public affairs of Canada.

France and China.

A recent despatch informs us that the difficulty which has arisen between France and China regarding the possession of Tonquin has at last been settled.

It will be remembered that for some months past French forces have been engaged in marching through that territory, capturing town after town, and driving the Chinese quietly before them. The representative of China made such serious threats that all Europe was alarmed, but France, undeterred, pursued her object, and has at last pluckily attained it, through presistent determination and almost without bloodshed. The Chinese Government has agreed, by the Treaty of Tientsin, to evacuate Tonquin, and establish freedom of trade with France.

The treaty virtually cedes to France the undisputed possession of the whole sea-board on the south and east of the peninsula of Indo-China. The eastern coast constitutes the Kingdom of Annam, a fertile valley watered by the Song-Koi, or Red River. The region ceded contains, it is said, some twenty-two millions of inhabitants, and embraces over 260,000 square miles of territory.

The plan which France proposes to take in dealing with this vast territory, which lies close to the French settlement of Cochin China, is to be similar to the method of government adopted in our own Dominion. A governor-general will reside at Hue, the capital of Annam, and there will be provincial governors at Cochin China and Tonquin. The provinces will, in fact, retain their own administration individually, instead of being subject, as was formerly the custom, to a rigid centralization, after the French pattern. This, certainly, is a great compliment to England and to English rule in India, and one can only wish the experiment hearty success. It is one thing, however, to conquer, and another to keep order, enforce law, and gain the affections of new subjects.

It will be a great gain if France can substitute order and law for the widespread anarchy and confusion that have prevailed in southern China. Not only will it aid the country itself, but it will tend to promote the extension of foreign traffic.

It remains to be seen whether France will not find this recently acquired territory a huge white elephant. The country will have to be occupied with French troops. To meet the cost of the warfare already undertaken, and to recoup her for the indemnity she has abandoned, France will be compelled to adopt differential duties, which, if too high, will exclude foreign trade and leave little profit for herself. Moreover, there is another difficulty. It is asserted that extreme and unwonted atrocity has been the characteristic of the invaders hitherto in their dealings with the natives. No foreigner, it is said, is safe outside the range of French guns. If so, this may lead to native reprisals and other serious complications in the near future.

Besides, the proximity of this newly acquired territory to our own possessions in India may yet lead to trouble, or, at least, serious inconvenience. Between our possessions and this dependency there are only the weak kingdoms of Siam and Barmah. For the future these lands must be maintained as a neutral zone between such near neighbours. The further progress of France must be carefully watched and all encroachments jealously guarded. We must for the future look on French efforts here just as we do on the progress made by Russia in the direction of Afghanistan.

The advantages gained by the cessation of a war most injurious to British interests in China are, therefore, it will be seen, slightly counter-balanced by such considerations.

If to these are added the prestige this will lend at present to France, especially in the East, and the leisure and freedom it will give the government to press their designs both in Africa and Madagascar, we can readily perceive all this means greater difficulty for Gladstone to overcome in the present European Conference.

That he may be able to counteract their designs and keep the Suez Canal as it is at present, largely under the sway of England, we must all fervently hope.

Turnbull is clearing out the balance of his Summer Millinery, at prices that should please all who want to buy. For bargains in choice millinery go to Turnbull's.

Mr. Thomas Farrow, Tory M.P. for North Huron, has secured a position in the P. O. Department for his son, who, it is asserted, was not required to pass the examination required by law. The "special qualifications" which enabled him to rise superior to any provision of the law in this respect are found in the person of Farrow senior, who unblushingly declared in the House during the session of '82 that the N. P. enabled the hens to lay bigger eggs and the hogs to put on more fat. But it appears in some cases, certain qualifications are demanded. When a Tory politician, or parasite of a Tory politician, has, by embezzlement, or some similar malfeasance in office, lost his place, that is considered a qualification. We all remember the E. St. Onge Chapleau who was dismissed because he gave departmental secrets to tenderers for contracts. That crime qualified him for office and he was appointed to a Northwest Shrievalty at a good fat salary. Now Mr. Audet, a pet of Hon. Mr. Chapleau, has filed his qualifications and got his reward. He was, as the result of an investigation into a charge of misappropriating the funds of the 65th Battalion, discharged from the command. He has received the appointment of Keeper of the Dominion Records at a salary of $2,200 a year. If he could now manage "to get away with," say, $32,000, he might be made a Minister.

Editorial Notes.

The Hamilton Whip Company has collapsed. The N. P. failed to give it enough snap.

The Stratford workshops shut down on Thursday night. Not only have the men been on short time for months, but now they have a forced holiday. Alas, poor N. P.!

A considerable amendment has been made to a canon in the Ontario Synod which will forbid a clergyman taking part in the meetings of the Salvation Army.

A report was submitted to the United States Senate recently showing that the gross earnings of the Suez Canal last year were thirteen millions. The dividends were about 13 per cent.

No less than fifteen United States railroads have gone into the hands of receivers since January 1st, and how many others will have similar experience before the year is up remains to be seen.

Her Majesty in Council has granted an order for the reference of the Ontario Boundary Question to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. The petition from Ontario and Manitoba making the request was laid before Her Majesty in Council on Friday. The hearing of the question was fixed for the fifteenth of July next.

The London Advertiser says of the Bible in the public schools, after all, the question arises:—Where is the proper place, and who is the proper teacher? And we doubt if any other answer can be given than this:—That within the circle of home, and under the influence of the church, religion can be best taught, and that no secular school teacher can do the work like a christian parent and christian minister.

There are two classes affected in a widely different manner by the policy of the present taxationist party, the tax-payers and the tax-eaters. The former are the consumers and the latter are the monopolist, cotton lords, civil service employees, railway magnates and the huge army of political hangers on, all pumping at the public purse. They discount the horse-leeche's amiable daughters. Instead of crying "give," they grab.

The children of the N. P., like the good little boys in the Sunday school books, die young, says the Hamilton Times. The Londonderry Steel Works, the Toronto Bolt Works, the St Croix Cotton Works, etc., have gone by the board, and now that much petted infant, the Montreal Silk Works, has given up the ghost. It is the old story—dependence for success upon the tariff instead of dependence upon careful, economical management and the needs of the market.

Sir Leonard Tilly and Sir Charles Tupper are ungrateful men. They have been telling in the Old Country that Ottawa is an unhealthy place to live in. After they have staid there for years and made themselves rich—especially the latter—at the public expense, it seems to be the basest ingratitude for them to slander the place. It is to be recollected that it is largely due to these two men that not only Ottawa, but Canada is made unhealthy in a financial sense.

Mr. John A. Macdonell, the political lawyer who tried so vigorously to un-bench Mr. S. H. Blake, Q. C., has at least the merit of modesty. He only demands damages of $10,000 from the Toronto Week for injuring his professional reputation. This is a very modest sum considering what Mr. Macdonell's profession brings him. Why, he charged, and the Government paid him, $600 for passing the title of the Hamilton post-office site, what many a man composed of ordinary clay and with a good deal more brains, would have been glad to get $20 for. Judged by the fees he charges and gets, the claim for damages should have been at least $50,000. Judged by the possibility of injuring his professional reputation they should have been laid at $00,005.

SABBATH DESECRATION.

A SWEEPING RESOLUTION PASSED BY TORONTO METHODIST CONFERENCE.

At the session of the Toronto Methodist Conference on Tuesday the report of the Committee on Temperance, advocating prohibition, was adopted. Resolutions were passed to memorialize the Governor-in Council to provide at the next general election for taking the votes of electors on the question of prohibition; also to memorialize the General Conference to enact a law ordering the use of unfermented wine in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The report of the Committee on Sabbath Observance was adopted, protesting against the running of trains, ferries, street cars or printing presses on Sundays; also the mocking farce of Sunday funerals, with parades, and in fact all Sunday parades and marches. The committee also expressed regret that in the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway those in authority permitted the continuance of the work on Sundays. They suggested the appointment of a committee of three ministers and three laymen to confer with the Dominion Government for the enactment of laws carrying out the wishes of the Conference. During the discussion Salvation Army parades were denounced as intolerable nuisances.

THE MORMONS COMING.

CONTEMPLATED EXODUS FROM UTAH TO THE NORTH-WEST.

An Alleged Understanding with the Canadian Government to Take Up Land and Practice Polygamy.

A Chicago correspondent writes:—"I have just had an interview with a prominent lawyer of this city who acts as counsel for the Mormon church in Utah. He has been entrusted with many delicate matters by them, has been several times out to Salt Lake city, and knows their whole business thoroughly. He says it is their intention if the United States Congress passes and enforces an anti-polygamy bill to make an exodus out of Utah into the Canadian North-West Territory, provided they can make suitable arrangements with the Canadian Government by securing themselves in their religion and in their polygamous practices.

Them claim that they have had indirect assurances made to them that the Canadian Government will give them favorable consideration, and it is likely that a delegation will leave Salt Lake City for Canada in a few days. They will propose to the Canadian Government to take up a large section of country, induce immigration, make it blossom as the rose, as they have done in Utah, and that they will be peaceable and law-abiding citizens in every way, provided they are given liberty in matters of their own religion and in regard to their views of marriage.

HEALTHFUL SUMMER SPORT.

THE ART SWIMMING AND HOW IT IS ACQUIRED

"What do you think is the most healthful of all the summer sports?" asked a New York Journal reporter of an elderly physician the other day.

"Swimming, of course!" he said promptly. "It is useful, cleansing, healthful and very enjoyable. What more would you ask?"

"But there are many who do not know how to swim and who are not able to pay for a teacher," said the reporter.

"That is all nonsense, my friend," said the physician. "Any one can learn how, with an outlay of fifty cents for a bathing suit. I'm am speaking more particularly of the women and girls. Most boys know how, and if they do not they ought to be ashamed. But girls do not as a rule, although I would wager that nine out of every ten would like to.

"The way to go about it? Well, in the first place, there is the bathing suit, which should be made of some light cotton material. One piece, combining blouse and trousers, is all that is required. The garments should have short sleeves, and be cut rather low in the neck. A broad band attached to a rope a yard long is necessary to fasten about the body. First, the swimmer scholar must learn the motions thoroughly; observe the movements of an expert swimmer, then practise in your own room until you have them perfectly. The movements should be done very slowly at first. Learn the hand movement by folding the hands palm to palm, bringing them up to the chest, parting the water with them still closed, then turning the palms outward and pushing the water back. If this movement is practiced several times before going into the water, swimming will come much easier."

"Two going together may be of great service in teaching one another. Strap the band mentioned above about the centre of the body, so as the rope will come in the centre of the back; then let one hold the rope as a support while the other learns the motions. A dozen lessons should be sufficient, but it is very necessary to watch a good swimmer. The strokes should be long and steady, made with a slow, even movement.

"Do not attempt diving without a teacher, as it is injurious if not done properly.

"If you bathe often, put a little soft raw cotton in each ear. Water going frequently into the ear injuries the eardrum.

"Do not bathe directly after a hearty meal. You may eat as soon after a bath as you feel the desire.

"Never go beyond your depth or where there is a strong undercurrent. Even the best of swimmers is gone if he is taken with a cramp.

"You may stay in the water until your finger tips begin to wrinkle, then go out immediately.

"Wet the head first, then the whole body at one plunge, otherwise chills may ensue.

"Then if you aren't healthier and stronger I don't know what will make you so."

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian
HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.

WALKER'S PATENT LOAD LIFTER.

The subscriber offers for sale the patent right to make and sell his valuable LOAD LIFTER, for farm barn use. The Lifter will raise the heaviest loads of hay or grain to any desired height in a barn. It is also useful for lifting threshers, reapers, beef animals, or any heavy load. ONE HORSE will raise 3000 lbs. with ease. The advantage of this machine is that by using it the farmer saves the wages of one man all the time, and of two part of the time. When the load is raised high the pitching is all down, and a load can be tumbled off in one-third the time it can be pitched up. In 1883 there was only one machine in use. Now it is used with the highest satisfaction by the following farmers:—

MIDLAND DISTRICT DASHES.

The Cream of Occurrences Skimmed From Contemporary Columns.

HASTINGS.

Peter Lemoir fell down the fire hole of the Isaac Butts, which was lying above the locks last Sunday evening, and received serious injuries.

Mr. Henderson of Orillia, who is acting station master in Mr. Paton's absence, appears to be perfectly at home in the business. The boys say that he can handle a lacrosse stick with rare skill also.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Mr. Nicholas Miller who had his arm broken by a fall from a waggon, lately died from his injuries on Tuesday. He was 83 years of age.

The water in the Trent has fallen rapidly during the past two weeks, and is unusually low at this time of the year. Last week the rivermen were doubtfull whether they could run their season's cut. There are two drives coming from the north.

BOBCAYGEON.

The new steamer, the "Sturgeon" is progressing, and will soon be ready for service. The steel boiler was placed in position on Tuesday.

The steamer Eva passed through on Wednesday evening with a cargo of cement and plaster for the Buckhorn locks and works. The works are said to be progressing well. Several scow loads of stone from the Pigeon Lake Quarry have also passed through, on the way to the Pension Locks.

OMEMEE.

Mr. John Sharin, of Lakefield, has been in Omemee this week waiting on his brother James, who has been seriously ill since last Saturday.

On Monday last Mr. Geo. Hastings met with a severe and painful accident. He was helping to take down a scaffold, at English's new house, when it suddenly slipped sideways carrying him with it. In striking the ground he received severe injuries on the back and hip.

COBOURG.

The Scott act party have organized, and are taking steps to have the act submitted to the electors of this county at an early date. The anti-Scotts organized last Monday night, when a fund of $1000 was raised to defeat the act. Though the hotelkeepers to a man oppose the act, yet the anti-Scott act party is headed by a large section of the most consistent temperance men in the county. The real question will be the Scott against the Crooks act. A bitter struggle is expected, and in the meantime both parties await anxiously the result of the repeal vote in Halton. The campaign will commence at once.

LINDSAY.

Fobert's bath-house is an institution that has, during the past week, been liberally patronised.

In the show-rooms of Hamilton's carriage works is a handsome delivery wagon built for Mr. John Dobson. The design of the vehicle is good and the finish excellent.

Messrs. McNeily and Walters, of Omemee and Lindsay, put in a tender for the first section of the railway from Gravenhurst to Callender. The contract amounts to over a million dollars.

Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. A serious municipal error was discovered in the town voter's list just previous to publication. Seven names had been left of, thereby disfranchising a number of estimable ladies.

BELLEVILLE.

A report from Belleville says that a stabbing affray which is almost certain to result fatally, occurred Thursday evening on the premises of Michael Kennedy, 4th con. of Tyendinaga, 15 miles from that city. There had been a logging bee during the day, and two men, named John McAuley and James Alexander, engaged in a fight, in which the former bit one of the latter's fingers. Joseph Morden, one of the bystanders, upbraided McAuley for his mode of fighting, and in response to a challenge engaged in a conflict with McAuley, who drew a knife and stabbed him sixteen times in the face, shoulders and upper part of the body, one of the wounds being in the left lung. Medical men were summoned from Desoronto, who gave it as their opinion that the victim could not survive. McAuley made his escape and up to last accounts had not been captured.

NORWOOD.

At last says the Register we are to have a watering cart—thanks to the liberality of our business men and the energy of Mr. R. Wilson, who has raised the handsome sum of $10 per week for Mr. Rorabeck, that gentleman having agreed to perform the work for the above amount. The council are talking of lighting the business portion of the town. Verily, Norwood is advancing.

Miss Lillian Ford, daughter of our esteemed townsman, S. P. Ferd, M. D., who has been attending the the Wesleyan Ladies' College, Hamilton, for some time, has, we notice by the papers of that place, besides graduating and winning many valuable prizes, had the degree of M. L. A. conferred upon her. The "John Macdonald Prize," for the best examination in Evidences of Christianity, and the "Alumnæ Prize," for essay, were won by Miss Ford.

PEMBROKE PARISH.

The fire engine bought at Midland by our reeve some weeks ago, arrived by train at Fuselon Falls last Tuesday, and soon afterwards was taken to the water side near the mill and tested with fairly satisfactory results. It cost $65.

They appear to be "making haste slowly" on the canal, as the force of men is not large, and there is no probability of the undertaking being finished this year; but remarks occasionally the Fenelon Falls Gazette, there is no need to hurry, as steamboats are not yet congregating at the foot of the outlet shrieking for access to the upper waters.

Last Thursday morning Mr. Dickson left with a party of assistants to survey the township of Bishop, which has an area of about 80,000 acres, lies on the Petawawa river, and is bounded on the north by the township of Calvin, on the east by the unsurveyed lands of the Crown, on the south by the township of McLaughlin, surveyed by Mr. Dickson, and on the west by the township of Davin. He expects to be away from home until about the beginning of October.

PORT HOPE.

The steamer Norseman made the run from Port Hope to Charlotte on Saturday last in less than five hours. This was the fastest time made this season.

The work of repairing the Baptist Church spire, which was recently destroyed by lightning is fast approaching completion.

Port Hope Central Exhibition will be held Oct. 7th and 8th next, when prizes to the amount of $2,000 will be offered.

BRIGHT ANTICIPATIONS.

(For the Examiner.)

O what all earthly troubles however great compared
To the heritage of Glory that Jesus has prepared
For those who truly love Him, now weary and oppressed,
Tempest-tossed and afflicted, sighing with life's unrest,
The persecuted suffering in silence for His sake,
All in his exaltation shall certainly partake?

What all earth's disappointments continuously that flow
Unsevered, each one freighted with heaven's weight of woe.
What all of earthly friendship compared to ties that bind
Companionship in Heaven of mind to kindred mind!
And what earth's best preferments and plaudits how e'er great
And worthy of endeavor, to honors that await
The earnest Christian toiler when vineyard work is done,
Receiving from his Master the precious words, "well done!"

And what though rude waves buffet amid unquiet seas,
Oft in the lull He feasts us with wine upon the lees,
That by the blessed foretaste of the eternal weight
Of glory, souls are girded to endurance long and great.
What all life's small vexations with all their anxious train,
Of fretful care and worry when soon we hope to gain
The sweet participation of graceful calm delight
Where shall earth's scenes of conflict vanish from our sight.
No painful recollections shall mar our pleasure there,
But only grateful praises that grace was given to bear.

Varied the lives of Christians, yet in one glorious end
All meet, where fadeless glories unceasingly transcend,
As ages roll on ages. Oh for such faith to lay
Hold of the glorious prospect as shall illume the way
With bright anticipations of glory that shall be Ours when the precious Saviour we face to face shall see,
Where every sin is banished and all that can annoy,
Oh if we realised this, the very thought were joy
Enough to make the present, however dark more bright,
Enough to make affliction of every kind more bright,
Enough to keep us gazing with glad expectant eyes
Through all life's course on glory eternal in the skies.

A CHARMING BOOK.

Achor. A sequel to the Triple E. By Mrs. S. R. Graham Clark. Boston D. Lothrop & Co. Price $1.50. Those who have read the intensely interesting volume which precedes this, will find in the story of Achor a clearing up of the mystery which enveloped her life, and a happy termination of all her troubles. The same characters which gave life and interest to The Triple E. reappear in the present pages—Independence Spinkham, with her sharp tongue and warm heart, Nina, and the "Triple E" herself, while several new and important personages take part in the incidents of the story. The aim of the author has been to show the strengthening and brightening influence of true Christianity in the world, and how earnest faith is at last rewarded. It is bound in uniform style and size with the preceding volumes of the Yessie Walton Series, of which it is the last, and is handsomely illustrated.

MORE OF "SIR CHARLES NEIVILLE."

The Detroit coachman George Newbold, who called himself "Sir Charles Neiville, Bart.," was brought before the Grand Jury at Toledo on Wednesday last on two charges, one for bigamy and the other for perjury. The result of the cases is not yet known, but the attorney for Mr. Whitney, father of the girl with whom he eloped, thinks he will be convicted on each count. As the case stands it is altogether probable that he will receive fourteen to fifteen years at Columbus.

THE COMMERCIAL OUTLOOK.

The commercial world in the United States has not changed speculatively during the past week, nor has the legitimate condition changed. It is generally healthy when free from manipulation, although still depressed by the financial cloud. The industrial world is in the same state of suspended animation as the commercial, owing to the same causes. The agricultural world is still the only bright spot and all that could be desired.

What It Has Done.

MRS. GEORGE SIMPSON, Toronto, says: "I have suffered severely with corns, and was unable to get relief from treatment of any kind until I was recommended to try Holloway's Corn Cure. After applying it for a few day's I was enabled to remove the corn, root and branch—no pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it. I can heartily recommend it to all suffering from corns."

Mighty Creditable.

The proprietor of the Peterboro' EXAMINER is to be congratulated on the improvement made in the mechanical arrangement of his paper. The EXAMINER now appears in an enlarged form, and the general get up of the paper is highly creditable. There is only one thing lacking. Politically is is on the wrong side of the fence. But notwithstanding this error, the EXAMINER is a popular newspaper and well deserves the large patronage it receives.—Port Hope Times (Con.)

Tax Collectors Lodged.

The Peterboro' EXAMINER has grown so large that by simply displaying the sheet on a flag staff it can be seen from all over the adjoining townships. In other words our bright eastern has extended its borders until it has actually grown corpulent, and now rivals the largest city weekly for size and quality of matter. If we write well of the EXAMINER every time it deserves it we should keep a standing complimentary notice perpetually in our columns.—Lindsay Post.

Chesterfield's Maxims.

Mixed Company, Learning, Pedants.—In mixed companies, whoever is admitted to make part of them, for the time at least, is supposed to be on a footing of equality with the rest; and, consequently, as there is no one particular object of awe and respect, people are apt to take a greater latitude in their behavior, and to be less on their guard; and so they may, provided it be within certain bounds, which are upon no occasion to be transgressed. But, upon these occasions, though no one is entitled to distinguished marks of respect, every one claims, and very justly, every mark of civility and good breeding. Ease is allowed, but carelessness and negligence are strictly forbidden. If a man accosts you, and talks to you ever so dully and frivolously, it is worse than rudeness, it is brutality, to show him by a manifest inattention to what he says, that you think him a fool or a blockhead, and not worth hearing. It is much more so with regard to women, who, of whatever rank they are, are entitled, in consideration of their sex, not only to an attentive but to an officious good breeding from men.

Too Ready Friends.—Be upon your guard against those who, upon every slight acquaintance, obtrude their unasked and unmerited friendship and confidence upon you; for they probably cram you with them for their own eating; but at the same time do not roughly reject them upon that general supposition. Examine further, and see if those unexpected offers flow from a warm heart and a silly head, or from a designing head and a cold heart; for knavery and folly often have the same symptoms. In the first case there is no danger in accepting them, valeant quantum valere possunt. In the latter case, it may be useful to seem to accept them, and artfully to turn the battery upon him who raised it.

There is an incontinency of friendship among young fellows, who are associated by their mutual pleasures only, which has very frequently bad consequences. A parcel of warm hearts and unexperienced heads, heated by convivial mirth and possibly a little too much wine, vow, and really mean at the time, eternal friendship to each other and indiscreetly pour out their whole souls in common, and without the slightest reserve. These confidences are as indiscreetly repealed as they are made; for new pleasures and new places soon dissolve this ill cemented connection, and then very ill uses are made of these rash confidences. Bear your part, however, in young companies; nay, excel if you can, in all the social and convivial joy and festivity that becomes youth. Trust them with your love tales, if you please, but keep your serious views secret.

Pride and Pedantry.—The costly liberality of a purse-proud man insults the distresses it sometimes relieves; he takes care to make you feel your own misfortunes, and the difference between your situation and his, both of which he insinuates to be justly merited; yours by your folly, his by his wisdom. The arrogant pedant does not communicate, but promulgates his knowledge. He does not give it to you, but he inflicts it upon you; and is (if possible) more anxious to shew you your own ignorance than his own learning. Such manners as these, not only in the particular instances which I have mentioned, but likewise in all others, shock and revolt that little pride which every man has in his heart, and obliterate in us the obligation for the favor conferred, by reminding us of the motive which produced and the manner which accompanied it.

Faithful to Death;

OR,

THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER.

"I wish I can assure you," cried Bonnie Doon, with some indignation, "that in that case you are quite mistaken. Mr. St. John is not a swell."

"It seems to me, Laurence," she added, after a short pause, "that you understand geranium cutting far better than you understand men."

Which so completely annihilated Laurence that he had not another word to say.

CHAPTER VI.

"I wish," said Eric St. John, "that you would sing to me, Bonnie Doon. I consider it very tantalising. I can hear your voice in the gloaming, and you sing very sweet, old-fashioned songs that I love, yet, when I ask you to sing to me, you will not."

"I cannot," she replied.

"Why? Tell me why?" and his voice sank to that soft, caressing tone that seemed to her sweeter than any other sound on earth. "Tell me why?"

The beautiful eyes fell, the beautiful face drooped from his; a lovely crimson flush rose, even to the roots of the golden-brown hair.

"I cannot even tell you the reason," she said. "Can you not guess it?"

"Is it," he asked, gently, "because you are shy?—just a little afraid of me?"

"Yes," she murmured; "that is it."

"You need never fear me," he whispered; "everything you do is well done in my eyes. You please no one in the world so perfectly as you please me."

He took her hand and bent over it; he was going to kiss it, but it did not please him so well as the lovely flushed face; he kissed the white brow, and with that, the first kiss that she had ever received, her heart went out to him for ever.

Eric St. John had been five weeks at the farm then, and he had fallen in love without knowing it. Insensibly the fair, simple girl had wound herself round the very tendrils of his heart. He was not a bad man; he never had the reputation of being either fast or reckless over women; indeed, women had but little share in his life.

He was engaged to marry Lady May Carleton, the orphan heiress of the late Earl of Rosetown, and he had chosen her from a world full of women, because she was well-born, wealthy, highly connected, and was the very wife for an ambitious man to choose. There had been no question of love. Love was not one of the things that he had considered as essential in life.

It was the most suitable marriage he could possibly make. His uncle, Sir Arnold Wynstay, was delighted over it; his friends all congratulated him. He would, perhaps, hardly have thought of the Lady May, but she had shown such a decided preference for him. He was flattered by it, and quite willing.

There was nothing whatever displeasing in Lady May. Had she been plain, proud, or cross, he might have hesitated, but she was none of these. She had a nice kind face. She was very sensible, very practical; there was no nonsense about anything she did or said. She was universally popular. Everyone liked Lady May; no one in particular loved her, not even the man she was going to marry. She was not what is generally called—a lovable woman.

Kind, brisk, sensible, without one dash of poetry or romance in her whole composition,—without the least touch of sentiment in her character,—Lady May was just the woman to help a man fight his way through the world. She was a woman of quick, unerring judgment,—clear, shrewd sense and great decision. She had looked quite calmly round the world of men, and the rising barrister, the heir of Grange Court, was the man she liked best. His handsome face and easy charm of manner pleased her as much as his great intellect and strong brain. She was most gracious to him when they met, and he—understood.

He made her an offer of marriage, and she accepted it. They were engaged, and discussed their marriage and their future as calmly as they discussed politics and the weather. There never had been any emotion or sentiment about the matter. Lady May was honestly fond of him. She thought him the rising man of the day. She knew that her money, her position, her great connection would all be the greatest value to him, and she was quite content. There had been no foolish love-making, nor kissing,—Lady May did not believe in such things. It would be a plain, sensible, substantial marriage. Eric, too, had been quite content.

They would have been married that year but for the fever, and Lady May had decreed now they must wait until the next year; Eric must quite recover his strength and health. She had urged him to go and visit his friends, telling him that he would be much better attended to than in lodgings, even in the best farmhouse in the world; but the doctors so strongly recommended perfect quiet and absence of all society, that he had obeyed them in preference, and had chosen the farmhouse lodging.

Again Lady May was quite content. Her lover would recover health and strength there. He must write once or twice each week to her. She was going to visit some friends in Scotland, but if he were still at Larch Hill when she returned to England, she would run down with her aunt to see him for a few hours. Most sensible arrangements, just as the marriage itself was most sensible; no nonsense, no sentiment.

What had all this to do with a girl who had dreamy, lovely, blue eyes in which slept the tremulous dawn of love? He had never dreamed of Lady May's eyes, why should he dream of these?—why did they look at him from the white clouds, the blue sky, the clear waters of the brook, from the pages of his book? Why was that exquisite face always before him? Lady May never blushed and trembled before him; Lady May was never shy; her eyes never drooped from his; her voice never trembled or faltered.

What was it waking in his heart for this girl that had surely never been there before—a simple country girl? It must be all nonsense. Very pleasant, he owned, while it lasted; there was not the least harm in it, and it would not last long.

He was to marry Lady May next year, and then he would be a kind friend to the family at Larch Hill; he would come and see them, he would send them presents; and if in the meantime a warm friendship sprung up between himself and the beautiful young daughter of the house, there was no harm in it. Men are selfish in their friendships as they are in their loves; he thought only of himself, not of her. He never said to himself that if he were kind to her, talked to her, sought her society, caressed and flattered her, she might grow fond of him, and so blight her young life; most men are incapable of looking so far ahead, the present is everything with them.

It is new light, new life, a new revelation to him, but to do him justice, he did not know that it was love; he was not wicked, he was neither careless nor reckless, he would not willingly or knowingly have injured one hair of the girl's beautiful head, yet he was spoiling and blighting her life as surely as ever life could be spoiled.

He yielded to his liking for her; he spent the greater part of his time with her; he talked to her of all that passed through his mind; the homely accent ceased to jar upon him, because her lips were so sweet. He liked to caress the waves of golden-brown hair, and he never stopped to think how dangerous for her those sweet caresses might be. He gradually, slowly, surely, absorbed the soul as the sun absorbs the dew. He had no thought of being untrue to Lady May, but this girl was so sweet, so loving, so entirely irresistible, he might as well be happy while he could.

Neither the good farmer nor his wife saw anything amiss; they were secure in one great fact that Laurence Rainton loved their fair, young daughter, and would speak in his own good time. The lodger was not of their sphere; he belonged to another world; he would have a title some day, and be a great man. It never entered their heads that there could be anything between a man like Eric St. John and their daughter, least of all hers.

When they heard the laughing, chatty voice calling "Bonnie Doon," they laughed, well pleased that he should be so kind to them and theirs. They did not know how much time the two passed together. The farmer was always out on the farm, Mrs. Vaughan was busy in the house and dairy; the birds, poultry, the garden, all fell to Ruth's lot; even if they saw "the lodger," as he was generally called, with her, it seemed most perfectly natural.

So she learned her fatal lesson well. He never used the word love; it would have been better, perhaps, if he had done so. It would have startled her into a sense of reality of things.

Instead of which she fell into the sweetest dream that ever lured a girl's senses,—the very sweetest. There was no past, no future,—it was a full, beautiful, brilliant present. The days were not long enough for her happiness, or the nights for her dreams. It was the first romantic mild love of a girl, mingled with the passionate attachment of a woman.

It is no exaggeration to say that she worshipped him, and the worship was pure and beautiful. Love so charming was never given to any man. How she grew pale, then red,—how she stood at the door, her heart beating like a bird poised on delicate wing, until a strong, kindly hand drew her in, and the man she loved so dearly said,—

"Come in, Bonnie Doon; I will not let you be so shy with me. Why are you so shy?" he would ask, trying to look into the depths of those happy eyes.

She could not tell. She only knew that it was such intense happiness to be near him that her heart ached with its weight of joy.

It was charming to see her wait upon him,—how fresh, bright, and beautiful everything was for him. Then when he had grown quite at ease with the homely little group,—when the farmer took his pipe and his jug of cider while Ruth sang,—he spent every evening with them. Every evening the fair face looked more beautiful, the sweet voice seemed to grow sweeter,—every evening she sang of "The braes of Bonnie Doon," yet no one ever tired of the sweet, sad song. When the farmer fell asleep, and Mrs. Vaughan sat knitting it seemed quite natural that Ruth should go round to see if the birds and pigeons were quite safe; and when Eric St. John offered to go with her, the simple people were flattered by his kindness.

The moon and the stars could tell,—the wind and the trees could tell of the loving words whispered there,—could tell of caresses that made the girl's heart beat with happiness. He never tired of telling her how fair she was, how good to see; but he never uttered the word "love," and the poor child did not miss it. What could it mean but love? And love is sometimes sweeter before the word is spoken than it can ever be in the after days.

CHAPTER VII.

Sweet, swift, and sad, was the course of that fatal love story, and the pity of it was that those nearest and dearest to the hopeless girl thought nothing of it—saw and understood nothing.

Both the farmer and his wife liked Eric St. John; they thought him a good man, which he was; they knew he was a rich man, all the evidences of wealth and luxury were about him. His gold watch was a wonder to view; his chain was one of the finest and most curious workmanship; he had solitaires and studs of finest gold; his dressing-case was a model of art, everything that belonged to him was the best. He had plenty of money, and there is nothing in this world of ours which commands so much respect as plenty of ready money. As the farmer expressed it—"He thought nothing of a sovereign." Then, he made such sensible presents no one could be angry with him; a black silk dress for Mrs. Vaughan, as a little offering of gratitude for her care of him; for the farmer came the books he liked best, and many other things. He never offered anything but flowers to Bonnie Doon, never even a book or a ribbon, but she wanted nothing from him. Eric had been two months at the farm now, and the August sun shone over the land; the corn, or, as the farmer said sadly, "what was left of it," stood almost ripe for the sickle; the "bearded barley" had taken heart of grace, and the "laughing" oats made a brave show. The sun shone over the fertile land. Every day Eric was growing stronger, better, but as yet he was not well enough to return home. Strange pains came to him at times, strange weakness in his head, a lapse of strength that alarmed him, and then for a few days he would be an invalid again.

"You must be careful, sir, and go slowly," the farmer would say, and Mrs. Vaughan was always anxious when he was ill. Those distracting headaches, the legacy of fever, did much harm. When they enforced rest and quiet, it was Ruth who attended him, Ruth who darkened the room, who found the softest pillows, who knelt by his side and bathed the burning, aching head with fragrant waters; it was Ruth who nursed him, and, when the pain was gone, soothed him with every sweet and loving word. He almost enjoyed a headache under these circumstances. She loved him so; she was so shy and timid yet had the courage of her love.

Mrs. Vaughan was famous for distilling sweet waters from sweet flowers, from lavender, rose, balsam, and Ruth used them with a lavish hand; then, when she laid the fine white linen, steeped in odorous waters on his brow, it seemed so natural that she should bend down and just touch the face with her beautiful trembling lips—the shyest, sweetest kiss ever offered; then he would draw her nearer to him and return it with interest, saying always,—

"What should I do without you, Bonnie Doon?"

"You will never be without me," she would answer, for she had never looked into the future, the light of the present dazzled her so.

What quiet, tranquil, happy hours they were; they knit her heart so strongly to his, nothing but death could sever it.

She was jealous, poor child, of every service that everyone else rendered him. If Mrs. Vaughan took his fruit or wine, the beautiful young face would grow perfectly pallid. He was her own by right of her great love. Who could love him as she did? Every word and look that went to another was like sharp pain to her. It was the wild, unreasoning love of a young girl, to whom all love and lovers was a novelty. She not only loved him himself, but everything belonging to him. She liked no one else to touch his books, his papers, and, because they were his, she treasured them all as though they were living.

Such a great, wonderful love, it transformed her; the very light of love shone always in her beautiful eyes, the light of love made her face so radiant that she was wonderful to see. Eric St. John delighted in her loveliness; he thought only of the present pleasure, he did not remember the future pain. He liked to make her happy; he liked to caress the golden-brown hair, to kiss the fair, young face, and see the crimson flush pass over it; he liked to hear the vibrations of passion in her low, sweet voice, and he never remembered how dangerous all these delights were. He saw that the girl loved him with a great love, and it pleased him. No one had ever loved him in that fashion; Lady May would never have sat by him in the twilight, with the sweet odors of roses falling round, than she would have thought of dying; the element of tenderness was altogether wanting in her nature. She did not know how to say tender words, so that Ruth's dainty tenderness was new and beautiful to him, and he did not think once of the future pain.

It did not seem to him dishonorable, because he said nothing of love, as though that were needed when every inflexion of his voice, every glance from his eyes was a caress, when every thought was for her, when he spent all his time with her.

The day never seemed to her to have really dawned until she had said "Good-morning" to him, and he waited for her light, springing footsteps and sweet voice as the birds wait for the rise of the golden sun.

No doubt, no shadow of care disturbed her; she was too happy to look beyond the present day. So her face grew more lovely, her voice sweeter, her heart more blithe and gay, her eyes brighter; she seemed like one transfigured by excess of happiness.

One morning she was out early in the garden; one of the finest roses grown that year was just out in bloom, pearled with dew-drops, and drooping shyly between lovely green leaves.

She gathered it to take to him—everything she saw that was fair or pleasant must be for him. When will he forget the picture; the beautiful face with the radiant bloom that comes from fresh morning air; the shining eyes; the sweet tremulous lips; the tall, shapely figure with the blue dress; the loving hands that held the beautiful flower out to him.

"It is the last from the Duchesse d'Orlean's tree," she said.

"And you have been to gather it for me, Bonnie Doon?"

"Yes," she said, and her happy eyes sought his face, "I knew you would like it."

"I will take it, and keep it always," he said,—"keep it even when the leaves are shrivelled into driest dust."

She shrank, with a little gesture of pain.

"It seems cruel to think that beautiful blooming rose will ever be shrivelled into dust!" And years afterward the words lived in his mind.

A little low cry from her lips, and he looked at her.

"What is the matter, Bonnie Doon?" he asked.

The bloom on her face paled ever so little.

"Do you see the thorn?" she asked; and looking, he saw that a long, sharp thorn had pierced the finger and remained in it.

She gave him the rose, and then quietly drew the thorn away. He will see her as she stood there until he dies,—her loving face raised to his, and the drops of crimson blood on her hand.

"Does it hurt you?" he asked, gently.

"Yes, but the pain is pleasant," she replied. "I would suffer twice as much in order to bring you such a beautiful flower!"

He did think of the words of her song,—

"My fause lover stole the rose,
But, ah, he left the thorn wi' me."

He thought of the words, but she did not. He did not apply them to himself. He was no lover of hers, neither true or false; notwithstanding that, he loved her with all his heart.

She looked up at him with a bright smile.

"I wish," she said, "that could always be our proper division. You the roses, I the thorns!"

"I wish nothing of the kind," he replied. "Roses belong by right to such as you!"

"How fond she is of me!" was his mental comment, and it did not occur to him that he was just as fond of her. So the happy days went on. The only one who saw much of what was passing was Laurence Rainton. He came less frequently now, for he never found Ruth alone. "The lodger," as he called him, was always there,—either smoking, reading, leaning over the white fence, helping Ruth with the flowers and fruit.

His heart grew sick with its jealous pain, and with the keen, unerring instinct of love, he saw that Ruth loved him,—unconsciously, he believed and admitted; how her eyes followed his every movement,—what unlimited love and admiration shone in them; how she seemed to think of, hear, see, him only. She looked at him as though he was some young god, only to be worshipped.

Laurence could not endure making a third at these interviews. He tried to console himself; after all, this stranger was "only a lodger." He did not belong to their real life; he would be gone soon, that was the most delightful and comforting part of the affair—he would be gone soon, and then everything would fall back into the old routine. Ruth would have time to talk to him, and in a few months, when all memory of the intrusive lodger had died away, he would tell her that he loved her, and ask her to be his wife. He consoled himself by thinking that, after all, it was most natural that a young girl like Ruth, who had seen nothing of life, should be dazzled by handsome aristocrats.

So he controlled the love and jealousy that were eating his heart away. Once, as he passed by one of the Larch Hill cornfields, he saw them standing side by side amongst the golden shrubs. Eric's dark face was bent over hers. Then Laurence raised a livid face to the noonday heavens.

"If he harms her," he cried, "if he injures one hair of her head, so sure as the sun shines, he shall die."

And he registered his vow in the bright blue heavens, to be brought against him when the hour came.

CHAPTER VIII.

"I love him!—I love him!" Bonnie Doon repeated, over and over again to herself. "I love him! I did not know; but how sweet it is. Why, the sun shines more brightly to-day; the flowers are fairer; the whole earth is more bright and glad; because I know to-day—I have found out to-day that I love him—I love him! If I said no other words than these until I died they would not say enough."

She had come face to face with the cherished secret of her own heart at last. She loved him. Life began and ended there—she loved him; there was nothing else. The truth came home to her in one glorious burst—in one grand revelation.

She had known a little of love, nothing of lovers; but she had read poetry and love stories. She had all the sweet vague desires of early girlhood; she had the beautiful and tender instincts of womanhood; and suddenly they had bloomed into full and perfect flowers.

Suddenly—the love had lain there dormant—something new and beautiful had crept into her life; but she had hardly known what name to give it. She did not know why his presence glorified her life—why she trembled at the sound of his voice, but one morning, as she stood in the early sunlight waiting for some birds newly bought, it came to her like a revelation. She was out in the great clover meadow, and she was not ashamed to fall down on her knees. It seemed to her as though a great light had fallen from heaven and had absorbed her whole soul. She could not get beyond those words, "I love him!—I love him!" Ah, Heaven! is there any hour in life so sweet as this? She felt dazed, intoxicated; her heart burned; every pulse beat with fresh light. She sat amongst the green clover, she watched the blue sky and the great trees, the birds on the wing, the bees and the butterflies. Was ever anyone so happy in the world before?—had any human heart ever been so full of love?—had any dream so sweet come to another?

To think that she should love him; that only a few months since he was a stranger whose name even she had not heard; now he was the life of her life, the centre of her world, everything else was bleak.

"Oh, love!" cried the girl, "how I love you. Oh, beautiful sun shine on, for to-day I have learned that which fills my heart."

She went no further in her thoughts. She never dreamed that her happiness was to die as suddenly as it had begun. She did not ask herself if he loved her. She felt quite sure of that, and in the midst of her happiness the memory of his caresses returned to her to make her happier still. Of course he loved her or why those tender words, those tender caresses?

She did not think of marriage; she did not think of the future, of any difference between them in point of rank or position. It was a girlish, glorified dream of love.

To her excited imagination it seemed that all nature rejoiced with her; the sunshine said—"You love him," the winds whispered it, every rustle of the boughs repeated the words; the trees seemed to look at her with bright, knowing eyes, the flowers smiled, everything seemed to re-echo the words—"You love him—you love him," and the guileless heart caught the words again.

"Heaven knows," she said to herself, solemnly, "I love him more than I can tell. I will give my whole life to him," and she had no thought that anything in life could take her from him—no thought.

She went home over the dew-laden grass, through the clover meadows and the garden, and the pity was that she did not fall dead there and then, with that glimpse of sunlight in her heart. Home, with new music on her lips, new light in her eyes, for she loved him, and the words seemed to run through her veins like blood. He was there in the pretty flower garden, and the music in his heart must have answered to hers, for he went to meet her with outstretched hands.

"I have missed you, Bonnie Doon; where have you been?" he cried. "You have deserted me for two whole hours."

He saw something new on her face, something that had most surely never been there before, something beautiful, tremulous, glad, yet half afraid.

"What has come to you, Bonnie Doon?" he cried, half wondering at the fair, fatal beauty. They were standing near the great oak-trees that divided the meadow from the garden—shade half green, half golden. "What has come to you?" he repeated.

She raised her face to his, and their eyes met.

How it happened neither of them knew, but the next moment she was in his arms, her happy face hidden on his breast.

"My darling," he whispered, "sweet Bonnie Doon, my beautiful love."

He was beside himself with the passion of the hour, and did not count his words.

"My beautiful love," he whispered, and raising the fair, shamed face, he kissed it; kissed the sweet eyes and the lips and the rings of golden brown hair. It was only a few minutes, and his arms never held her again, but it seemed to her that the happiness of a hundred loves was compressed in that short time. Death would have been sweet and merciful just then to Bonnie Doon.

All the pent-up tone and passion of a lifetime seemed to come to him then, and in that moment the conviction struck him. He loved her. This was love; he had never kissed Lady May; he had never even felt the least inclination to kiss her, but this lovely face, lying on his quick, beating heart, he could have kissed and kissed for ever. This was love.

Then he took the fair young face in his hands and looked at it.

"What is it, my darling?" he whispered. "What has come to you?"

"I have found something out," she replied.

His eyes seemed almost to devour her with impatience.

"You must tell me," he cried. "What is it, Bonnie Doon?"

"Let me hide my face before I tell you," she replied, and he felt the quick, passionate beating of her heart made her whole frame tremble. He hid her face by bending his own upon it.

"Tell me, my darling," he whispered, "what have you found out?"

"That I love you," she said; all the innocent love and perfect trust of her heart coming into her eyes as she spoke. He looked at her and seemed to lose himself. "I did not know," she went on in her sweet low voice, "something quite strange and beautiful has come into my life, and I have only just found out that it is love of you."

He could only clasp her more lovingly, and murmur that she was the dearest, the sweetest, and the best, that there was none like her, none so fair, none so loving. He was so profoundly touched with her innocent love, her innocent faith, that the tears came to his eyes.

"I am so happy," said the sweet voice. "I am not quite sure that it can all be real. It is like the beautiful dreams that come to people when they sleep amongst roses. Let me say it to you just once," she added, shyly—"only once. Let me say, 'Oh, my love, how I love you.'"

She laid her arms round his neck.

"Say that again, Bonnie Doon," he whispered.

"Love! my love, how I love you!" she said, and the sound of those words went down to the grave with him.

How beautiful it was,—the fresh, tender, sweet love of hers. He kissed her, and thanked her,—he called her by every sweet and beautiful name he could invent. An hour had passed, and she was still in a trance of delight. If during that hour she was more candid in admitting her love than some girls would have been, who shall blame her? It was the only real happy hour of her life.

She disengaged herself from the clasp of his arms, and tried to steady herself. She smiled as she said to him,—

"I have such a strange, dazed sensation. I feel as though the sunshine were all round me. I must go; I have all my birds and chickens to feed."

"Do not let that happy light die from your eyes," he said. "I will follow you, Bonnie Doon. I am dazed. I could not meet anyone just yet. I shall go over the hill, and come to you in the garden."

And Bonnie Doon hastened away. The song that rises clearly to her lips is no longer of the fause lover of the thorn and the rose; but as she hastens home she sings in a clear, rich voice, "I love my love, because my love loves me!"

Oh, happy morning!—beautiful life! Her heart beats when she thinks of the dark, handsome face bent on hers. And she starts at seeing a carriage drawn up before the farmhouse door,—a carriage, pair of horses, coachman, and footman. Who could it possibly be? She hastened through the farmyard, through the house, just in time to find two very astonished-looking ladies standing in the porch.

How and Where Malaria Thrives.

The health-officers of New Britain, Conn., have made an instructive report concerning the prevalence of malarial diseases in that town, and their connection with certain supposed causes. The causes of malarial and other miasmatic diseases are not identical, though they are similar, and the two classes not infrequently occur in a given locality at the same time; and the legislative measures required to prevent them all are the same. The essential conditions for the development of malaria appear to be: the presence of the malarial germ: a high temperature and dry atmosphere, and favorable conditions of the soil; and the absence of either of them will suspend or prevent the action of the malaria. We have, however, only over the third condition. "A generous rain in the vicinity has, we think, suspended its action. And yet a previous condition of moisture is essential to its manifestation. All deposits of vegetable matter, such as muck, sink-drainage, heaps of decaying vegetable matter, or even wet, spongy land, furnish the essentials for its support; but it is requisite that the soil shall have been very wet, or covered with water some portions of the year." A generous crop of grass, and perhaps of other vegetable substance has been known to prevent malaria. In 1880 nearly all the families in the neighborhood of some lots which were largely a deposit of muck had malaria. The lots were plowed, dragged, and sowed with grass-seed, and the appearance of the crop of grass and weeds was attended by a disappearance of chills and fever. Two or three other instances are mentioned in the same town in which fever-and-ague was banished by giving a similar treatment to tracks of swampy and mucky soil. Another case is specified where malaria was prevented by the drying up of the sewerage and sink-water which usually found its outlet through a system of ditches cut in muck. Preparations were making to lay tiles in the ditches and fill them up, but before this was done a heavy rain washed them out, and "caused the prevailing sickness to abate as suddenly as it had commenced." From the first, malaria, has not prevailed in those parts of the city where vegetable deposits and filth have been absent, and the health of the streets in which sewers have been laid has been remarkably good.—Popular Science.

Recreations of Men of Letters.

Mr. Trollope's methods of work and recreation closely resembled those of Sir Walter Scott, who, like Trollope, began the day's work at 5 o'clock. When the weather was bad, Lockhart tells us, it was the practice of Scott to labor all the morning, but the general rule was to be out on horseback by 1 o'clock at the latest, while, if a more distant excursion had been proposed overnight, he was really to start on it by 10; his occasional rainy days of unintermitted study forming a fund in his favor out of which he drew whenever the sun shone with special brightness. At that time the chief sport was coursing, of which Scott seems to have been very fond. Sometimes he exchanged coursing for fishing. Later in life his recreation took a form more in harmony with Mr. Freeman's tastes. "Planting and pruning trees," Sir Walter said, "I could work at from morning till night. There is a sort of self-congratulation, a little tickling self-flattery in the idea that while you are pleasing and amusing yourself you are seriously contributing to the future welfare of the country." The American historian, George Bancroft, finds equal pleasure and relief in gardening. His garden at Newport is said to contain every variety of rose worth raising, and although he keeps a gardener, he understands all about their care himself, and engages in the work whenever he feels inclined. But his chief form of recreation is horseback-riding. He is still engaged in revising the great work of his life, his history of the United States, and still begins his work at 5 o'clock. After a light breakfast he resumes his work, which he continues until 1 or 2 o'clock. At 4 he is mounted on his horse, and usually spends three hours in the saddle. Although in his 84th year, he declared that he has vigor enough to ride all day, and he attributes it entirely to the way in which he regulates his work and his recreation.

The ground of the Northeast London Cemetery was opened forty years ago by an enterprising pawnbroker who officiated as his own chaplain and buried 20,000 persons, "laid with their heads to the west, shoulder to shoulder and head to foot, piled closely, one on top of another." The subsoil having done its part, the worthy speculator turned the surface, leveled the ground, and invited building tenders. Of course, subsidence of the ground would take place and the new inhabitants receive soon very perceptible impressions of their ancestors. The vestry is said to be "fully alive to the situation," but there is no law to meet the case.

The high-school girl's brother Jim told her a new conundrum yesterday. It is this: "What is the difference between shooting a man and killing a hog?" The answer is: 'One is assaulting with intent to kill, and the other is killing with intent to salt." When she met Amy she pronounced the conundrum to her, but Amy gave it up. "Well, I'll tell you," said Mildred; "one is assaulting with intent to deprive of life, and the other is killing with intent to preserve the brine." And Amy failed to see the point.

A COVERED STREET.

The covered street at Milan, Italy, now well known as the Victor Emmanuel Gallery, is roofed with glass and completed by a large dome, round the interior of which runs a chain of gas lamps. The lighting of these lamps on a continuous circuit used to present some difficulties, and was always a source of risk, until an arrangement was made for doing the work by electricity. A miniature railway has been constructed close to the gas-burners, on which runs a little electric locomotive carrying a wick charged in spirits of wine. When it is desired to light the burners this wick is set on fire, and the locomotive started on its career. It flies round, rapidly kindling the circle, and exciting great interest among the crowds that assemble nightly to witness the performance.

Pale, Poor, Puny, & Pallid.

Considering all the ills that attack little children, it is a wonder that any of the poor little youngsters live to grow up.

There are children who are truly objects of pity. They seem almost bloodless. Their cheeks are thin and pinched; their eyes are hollow: and their skin is tightly drawn over their foreheads. There is nothing hearty about them. They do not enjoy their lives. They are suffering from the debility that leads to marasmus. Poor things!

Do a good deed for the pale, poor, puny, pallid child. Hand its mother a bottle of The Shaker Blood Syrup. Here is life for the most delicate, the most debilitated; for the child almost given up for dead. Pure blood is what the child needs, to bring it up. The little digestive apparatus will recover. The pale cheeks will fill out. The weary groan of the child will be exchanged for the merry prattle of infantile gladness. Your druggist will tell you what wonders The Shaker Blood Syrup has done for very sick children. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

A CHANCE DISCOVERY.

The discovery of the way to make the beautiful rainbow-tinted iridescent glass is said to have been, like many other inventions, quite accidental. The workmen of a Bohemian glass manufacturer, the story goes, wishing to celebrate their master's return home from a journey, kindled some Bengal lights in the annealing ovens. What pieces of glassware were in the ovens became iridescent. The same effect is now produced by a similar process. While the glass is hot, and before it is put into the annealing furnace, a vapor is passed over it, the product of a mixture of protochloride of tin, carbonate of baryta and carbonate of strontia.

Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya is the best Tonic in use, because it is the most physiological, being composed of ingredients absolutely essential to the development of the system. It speedily relieves indigestion, promoting a vigorous appetite and healthy nutrition. All cases of general debility, arising from wasting diseases such as Consumption, Scrofula, all diseases of the skin, diseases of the blood, prostration of the nervous system, caused by protracted mental exertion, anxiety, or overwork, will derive immediate benefit from it, frequently beginning with the first dose. It is a delightful cordial to take, and its use may be postracted for an indefinite period without becoming repugnant to the patient.

POLITICAL MANIA.

To show how high the spirit of party politics runs in the States it may be mentioned that a movement is on foot thoroughout Ohio to boycott Harper's Weekly by the Republicans. This movement is most notable in the Western Reserve. At New Philadelphia a large club of subscribers have discontinued it, and leading men of the town are circulating petitions promising not to purchase copies of either Harper's Weekly, Puck or the New York Times. Nearly every newsdealer in Claveland will lose money on this week's Harper's Weekly. They expected a heavy demand for it, but a large number remains unsold.

NOT A BONNET IN MEXICO.

Women of every rank go bareheaded. You meet them in the shops, at church and on the streets, either entirely without head covering or with only a light veil-like dress for their glossy hair. It is said in all seriousness that five years ago there was not one bonnet in the city of Mexico. Bonnets and hats are still infrequently seen. Their presence attracts attention rather than their absence. Women of the lower class shelter their heads with their rebozos; their wealthier sisters are content and even proud to expose their raven tresses.

Smith's wife was not a very bright woman, but she sometimes said things which were worthy of a wit. One day, after doing or saying something silly, her husband snapped out: "Well, you are a little the worst I ever saw." "Why, what's the matter now? Have I done anything wrong?" "I should say so. You don't know the difference between a horse and a donkey, I quite believe." "I didn't say you were a horse, did I?" she replied meekly, and Smith said no more.
